

After the dance

And after the dance,
Of chameleon and tortoise,
To buoyant drumming,
Of spider and monkey,
What fate awaits the mouse,
Whose teeth are sharp,
But,
Who does not bite,
Who has the tail of scorpion,
But,
Does not sting?