Attached is the email response from KBOR about the heightened cash management issue and the return to the advanced payment method. I was unable to find the email directed to Deb, but was informed by other state directors that the email correspondence below was all that was received.

I asked Mr. LoBosco when the schools would return to the advanced payment method. He stated that the change in status was put into their systems today and will be effective tomorrow. If you have an issue after tomorrow, please contact Chris Thompson at the US Department of Education 816-268-0527 or christopher.thompson@ed.gov.

Importance: High

I have some wonderful news! I just spoke with Ralph LoBosco. The US Department of Education has rescinded the July 18, 2013, and everything is back to normal in returning the state universities back to the advanced payment method. I have asked when this will be effective.

We don't anticipate a need for the call this afternoon; however, please let me know if you think differently.

Thanks again for everyone's help!

Kelly
