Female Prof Blasts Officials For Male Hold on Committees

A senior WSU faculty member has charged University administrators with ignoring responsible and professional women faculty members in making committee appointments.

The claims were contained in a memorandum from Geraldine Hammond, professor of English, to Vice President for Academic Affairs John B. Breazeale, Fairmount College Dean Paul Magelli and several other WSU administrators.

The charges carry the clear implication that women faculty members at Wichita State are being discriminated against either overtly or "unconsciously."

Constant Oversight

"There are women in many departments who constitute untapped resources for committee appointments but who are never given an opportunity to serve in any but the traditional female supportive roles, even though one of your own criteria for advancement in this institution is 'committee service,'" Dr. Hammond wrote.

"It is frustrating, disappointing, and very discouraging when enlightened administrators continue year after year to ignore responsible and professional members of their own faculties whose credentials do not warrant such oversight," she added.

Hammond charged that where

Breazeale, Magelli and others could have exerted influence and given leadership necessary to rectify injustices they have failed to do so.

"And if you are inclined to say this is just another problem you didn't need or want right now, I can only reply that it is a problem we (women) have never wanted," she wrote.

Female Membership Small

In the two-page memorandum, Hammond sighted more than a half-dozen important University committees and organizations where membership by women is small or nonexistent.

There is only one woman among 29 members of various standing committees of the Liberal Arts and Sciences Policy Committee.

On all other committees of Fairmount College there are ten

Dinner, Football Featured

WSU Hosts Parents Oct. 30

Tickets for the WSU vs. West Texas football game are still available at half price to parents of WSU students.

Tickets may be purchased for $2.50 at a special "Parents Day" window in Henry Levitt Arena.

About 8,000 parents have been invited to the annual WSU Parents Day, Oct. 30.

Events will begin at 4:30 p.m. with receptions in various locations of the CAC. During the day, parents will be able to meet and talk with deans and faculty members of the colleges their children are enrolled in.

Honor Parents

Four parents will be chosen Honor Parents; one set chosen by the football team, and another by the student body at large.

The chosen parents will be special guests of University President and Ms. Clark Ahlberg at the game and will be mentioned at a buffet dinner and during pregame ceremonies.

The dinner in the CAC Ballroom begins at 5:30 p.m.

with entertainment by the WSU Jazz Arts Ensemble.

Game time is 7:30 p.m., with half-time entertainment by WSU's Marching Band, and percussion featuring ABC-TV conductor Bobby Christian. Christian will premiere "Wichita Big Rock," an original composition.

Families, Faculty Meet

Postgame social hours by various campus organizations will be announced during both the dinner and the game.

Registration will take place on the 3rd floor of the CAC. Game and dinner tickets will be available there.

Following are reception rooms for the guests:

Few WSU Students to be Among Participants in Countdown '72

Very few WSU students are included in the more than 800 students expected to participate in a voter registration conference at Kansas State University, Manhattan, according to SGA Vice President Craig Christopher.

"It is disappointing to us that we have allocated $500 to the voter conference program, worked hard to arrange transportation and lodging at a minimum expense to the individuals, and then receive applications for less than half a busload of people to attend the affair," Christopher said.

The program offers round robin workshops in Election Law and How It Works, Reformation of the Parties and the State Convention System.

Special interests workshops are scheduled Saturday at 4 p.m., including caucuses on the American Indian, blacks and Chicanos. The minority meetings, as are all others, are open to all participants.

Discussions and speeches for the remainder of Saturday, deal with what the youth vote means to Kansas and the nation.

Political Speakers

Sunday's meetings include the Voter Registration and What Comes Next?; regional caucuses; Politics and the Media, and a meeting of college and university student body presidents.

The conference committee has obtained bi-partisan political speakers in Norbert Dreiling, chairman, Kansas Democratic Party, and Bill Falstead, chairman, Kansas Republican Party.

In the area of special interests, speakers include Walter Broadnax, Upward Bound Project; Charles Roquemore, state chairman, Kansas NAACP, and Donald Ahshapanek, professor, Haskell Institute. Minority group lecturers are Frank Battese, Pottawatomie Indian, and Joe Alfera, chief of police, Goodland, Kan.

Kansas Governor Robert B. Docking will provide the closing address.

Registrations Still Open

"The general air of disappointment concerning student response to attending the voter conference is compounded by the fact that to date, only 20 per cent of the senate body of WSU's SGA indicated they would attend," said Barbara McKinney, WSU senator and conference transportation coordinator.

Registration is still open for the conference at a cost of $5, including lodging. There will be a small additional charge for transportation, McKinney said.

Correction

Dr. James Rhatigan, WSU vice president for student affairs, has informed us by letter that a statement reported in Tuesday's Sunflower was not made by him.

The statement "really significant decisions are not made in University Senate, they are made in Morrison Hall" was apparently made by another faculty member at Monday's University Senate meeting.

Financial Aids Deadline Monday

Monday, Nov. 1, is the deadline for submitting applications for financial aid for the spring semester. Application forms may be obtained in the financial aids office, 101 Morrison.

Applications for the 1972-73 term are due Jan. 1. Students applying for the 1972-73 term must also file a family financial statement with the American College Testing Program or a parents confidential statement with the College Scholarship Service.

Types of aid available are scholarships, University and government loans and student employment.

WSU Women Students Object To Tradition of Honor Five

Women students at WSU have voiced objection to the tradition of Senior Men's Honor Five.

In a joint statement issued Thursday night, the women of Mortar Board (senior women's honorary) and the women included in "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," refused to choose five women for a similar honor charging the tradition was invalid.

Their statement read:

"The women of Mortar Board and those women included in 'Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities' wish to congratulate the five Senior Honor Men. We have decided against choosing a group of women for a similar honor because we feel it is an impossible task.

The number of outstanding senior women on this campus far exceeds the limitation of five. By choosing only five, we would not be giving recognition to all those who deserve it.

If the tradition is to be continued, we propose that in the future, a larger number of senior men and women be recognized. We question, however, the validity of such a tradition."

The women voiced their objections to University President Clark Ahlberg Thursday, requesting their statement be read along with the announcement of Senior Honor Five.

The names of the men will be announced in ceremonies Saturday night, prior to WSU's game with West Texas.

Black Literature Presents Reality, Instructor Says

By Max Evans
Sunflower Staff Writer

If you dig art for people's sake you'll like black American literature, claims Vashti Lewis.

During a discussion of black literature in the CAC Wednesday, the WSU English instructor said, "No nightingales and no larks will be found in black American literature that deals with reality."

Lewis said there are many black publications which are not well known because school curriculums offered almost no black literature before the black power movement.

The first record of black american writing is Lucy Terry's "Bars Flight" in 1749. The works of Phyllis Wheatley, first published black author, appeared in England in 1773.

"Phyllis Wheatley is not noted as a black writer because she wasn't doing her 'black thing' (depicting slavery and racism)," Lewis said. Her owners sought publication of her articles in other lands.

Lewis said some slaves were executed for having copies of "David Walker's Appeal," a book published in 1829.

Lewis also discussed dialect in black literature. "Until the 1940's most black literature was written in dialect, and I'm sorry to see that style end," she said. "But black youth today seem to find dialect too painful, and its use is fading."

Vashti Lewis

Berkeley Professor Scheduled to Talk

Dr. Joseph Tussman, professor of philosophy, University of California at Berkeley, will speak on "Reflections on Educational Reform" at 8:15 p.m. Monday, Nov. 1, in the CAC Theater.

The former director of Berkeley's Experimental College will talk about the successes and failures of that venture, and about the prospects for reform in higher education.

Open to the public free of charge.

Second Allocation Session

SGA Funds 20 Organizations

Student Senate funded 20 campus organizations Tuesday night during its second allocation session of the 1971-72 school year.

Seven organizations were granted the amount recommended by the Organizations Committee, 12 received more than recommended, and one was cut $10.

Tau Beta Sigma, honorary band society, received an additional $15 toward expenses for a marching band and baton twirling clinic.

Young Democrats received a $15 increase to help attract 1972 presidential hopefuls for speaking engagements here by augmenting their speaker fund to $250.

An $85 line item for a newsletter was transferred to the speaker fund.

Associated Women Students gained $20-$5 for an abortion information program and $15 for a venereal disease information program.

International Club received $90 extra-$20 for a Christmas

Around the World program and $70 for an international festival.

Lambda Alpha, anthropology honorary, received an additional $44 to help with magazine subscriptions.

MECHA, a Chicano group, received $135, with increases to be used for Chicano freshman orientation, Christmas Toy Drive, publicity, and fund-raising for a Chicano scholarship.

Inter-Residence Council received an additional $50 for new student recruitment.

WSU's Women's Liberation chapter gained $35 to aid establishment of a women's library.

Anthropology Club received an extra $95-$60 of it for films.

Mortar Board was given back $200 after the Organizations Committee cut that amount from the group's request for Shocker Day funds.

Debate Society gained $100 for recruitment activities not requested in their original budget.

Psi Chi, psychology honorary, received an extra $100-$50 for films and $50 for "Exponent," a collection of student research and theory.

Brennan III was cut $10 because the Senate refused to fund a newsletter for the group.

Organizations funded and their totals from the Tuesday meeting are:

Organization	Asked	Received
Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia	$300	$150
Tau Beta Sigma	$157	$ 97.50
Kappa Kappa Psi	$499.64	$166
Black Student Union	$1,662.42	$491
The Way	$230	$ 15
Young Democrats	$828	$330
Associated Women Students	$2,109	$315
International Club	$602	$295
Inter-Fraternity Council	$421	$ 86
Lamba Alpha	$415	$246
MECHA	$2,922.92	$666
Inter-Residence Council	$1,207.50	$275
Brennan III	$183.50	$ 30
Kappa Mu Psi	$540	$ 00
Women's Liberation	$610.60	$322.20
Anthropology Club	$490	$225
Mortar Board	$715	$465
Political Science Club	$550	$240
Debate Society	$300	$180
Psi Chi	$480	$240

The senate will consider additional organizations budgets at next week's meeting.

Faculty Recital To Feature Bass, Trumpet Players

Walter Myers on trumpet and Daniel Swaim on double bass will present a joint faculty recital at WSU Tuesday, Nov. 5.

Myers, chairman of the wind and percussion department, and Swaim, associate professor in string bass and theory, will appear for the WSU Faculty Artists Series at 8 p.m. in the DFAC auditorium.

Myers' performance of "Konzert D-dur" by J.F. Fasch will be backed by the WSU Faculty String Quartet.

Myers will also present "Concerto in E-Flat Major" by Vivaldi and "Suite" by William Latham.

Swaim's portion of the program will include "Elegia in Re" by Bottesini, "Sonata in G Minor" by Eccles and "Bassoon Concerto in B Flat Major, K. 191" by Mozart.

The concert is open to the public free of charge, and will be broadcast over KMWU-FM, WSU's public broadcast network radio station.

Privilege Not Enough

The lack of enthusiasm of WSU students for the Countdown '72 voter conference is discouraging.

Program coordinators at Wichita State have worked to arrange low cost transportation and lodging for those who would like to attend the voter registration workshop. SGA even allocated $500 to help defray costs to the individuals who attend.

All this effort has produced less than half a busload of people willing to attend the affair.

The sorry aspect of this situation is that young people are only cheating themselves. They have been lulled into a false sense of security.

It's easy for an 18 - 20-year - old to convince himself that simply because his age group has been given the vote, politicians will immediately begin structuring their platforms to suit the young voter.

Not so. Politicians are smart enough to follow statistics and surveys. The 18-year-olds may have the right to vote but if they are not registered they cannot vote. Why should a candidate direct his campaign and political goals toward a group of people who are too apathetic to fulfill the minimal criterion for voter qualification?

In the past, college students and people in this approximate age bracket have been made into pawns for the politicians, be they Spiro Agnew or Abbie Hoffmans. They have been the whipping boys for every unimaginative politician in the country. They have served as cannon fodder for the left wing radicals and the Vietnamese generals.

It's time for the youth of this country to wake-up and realize what has happened to them. They've got the right to vote but if they don't use it or at least made sure they have the ability to use it they may as well forget about their pet causes.

If the youth don't register and vote, the politicos will be reconfirmed in their long held contention that young people have been causing trouble for trouble's sake--and that disorder and unrest have been the end and not the means.

Why not? If young people have the right to vote and don't bother, this could well seem true.

By participating in the Countdown '72 conference and learning how to get people registered, young people can make a valuable contribution to our political system.

Political timing is of the utmost importance, and those in power have already proved they have it. Those young people who seek to make changes can obtain this timing by participating in the Countdown '72 program. It is important to have a large block of registered 18-20 year-old voters before the next election.

Council of Churches Resolves

U.S. Should Leave UN - Vice Versa

St. Louis (AP)—The American Council of Churches called Wednesday for the United States to withdraw from the United Nations and for President Nixon to cancel his forthcoming visit to Red China.

Delegates to the council's annual meeting also demanded that the United Nations Headquarters be removed from this country.

The council, representing 11 denominations with a membership of 750,000 denounced the UN's "immoral and discriminatory action" in expelling Nationalist China.

"The history of nationalist China has been that of a peaceful, freedom-loving and industrious nation which has permitted religious freedom," said a resolution adopted by about 100 delegates to the council's 30th annual meeting.

In contrast the resolution said, "Red China has enslaved millions of her citizens, destroyed churches, martyred Christians, murdered 30 to 60 millions of her own people, raped Tibet, ruthlessly invaded India and has continually denounced the United States and other freedom-loving nations."

"We know of nothing Mao Tse Tung has ever said or done that gives the slightest hope that Red China's membership in the United Nations will contribute anything toward world peace," the council delegates said.

'White House Murder Case' Not Subtle, Has Some Charm

"The White House Murder Case" is a less than subtle form of war protest. As such, it reduces a very serious subject to Saturday night entertainment.

Author Jules Feiffer displays all the hues of his mordant sense of humor in this short two-act play. It is, in fact, filled with such Feifferisms as "The people should know about the peacemaking potential of nerve gas."

The story involves a battlefield in Brazil where American soldiers have accidentally released nerve gas onto themselves instead of the enemy. Two soldiers, played by Dan Brewer and Brian Mahoney, are slowly—and literally-disintegrating as the play progresses. Alternating with the battlefield scenes are a White House cabinet meeting, during which the President's wife is murdered.

The purpose of the cabinet meeting is to determine what to tell the people about the nerve gas. Mrs. Hale's (the president's wife-murder has very little to do with all this, but without it, the cleverly subtle implications of the title, "The White House Murder Case," would not be cleverly subtle.

The greatest fault of this production is the play itself. It puts an awkward weight on both cast and audience to retain suspense through long scene changes.

But the production has its merits. Most of these are in the acting, some of which is very funny. One of the best moments goes to Brian Mahoney when he (as Captain Weems) visualizes all the soldiers in the world throwing down their arms and linking together hand-in-hand in one gigantic daisy-chain.

Charles Armantrout, as President Hale, has excellent facial expressions, and a few good lines.

As a whole, however, the White House scenes are old business. Inhuman people accuse each other of inhumanity, etc.

The battlefield scenes between the dying soldiers are the best part of the show. Though a bit over-Freudian, the two men are touchingly morbid, and, at times, very funny.

You might enjoy it. "The White House Murder Case," may be seen tonight and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Pit Theater.

First Hand Experience

Vets Should Share Insights

Tuesday's Sunflower carried a story describing the lack of participation in veterans organizations on campus. Only eight vets showed up to vote for officers and committee members at Sunday's VOC meeting.

Ex-GIs apparently don't want to get involved in anything that might slow down their education. As one veteran put it, "I'm just here to let Uncle Sam get me in and get me out. I don't want to get involved, it's not my thing."

A lot of the veterans look upon their hitch in the service as so much time wasted.

When today's serviceman leaves the armed forces and returns to school he is equipped with more than a good supply of military clothing and a GI bill to help finance his education. Modern veterans possess the largest available pool of knowledge about the war in Vietnam and the result of our involvement there.

These ex-GIs have a valuable contribution to make to the rest of us who don't know what it is like to really go to war.

Is the government of South Vietnam really as corrupt as the liberals say it is?

Is the National Liberation Front the ruthless bunch of thugs our right wing contingent claims it is?

What about drugs, war crimes and Bob Hope?

There are questions that can only be answered by one who has been there. We've already heard all the rantings and raving of the two disparate factions concerned about the military. It is high time we heard from the voice of experience.

The best way for a veteran to say what he feels is to become active in one of the veterans organizations. But simply joining is not enough. The membership of these groups should strive to make their voices heard above the roar of those who are speaking from emotion rather than experience.

Dean Questions Quote in Tuesday Sunflower Issue

Editor:

I note that in the article concerning Monday's University Senate meeting I was reported as saying that "really significant decisions are not made in University Senate, they are made in Morrison Hall."

I recall a statement to that effect but it was made by a faculty member and not by me. I am sure that others in attendance will verify this fact.

Professor Perel doesn't really need any help from me but I hope that the general student body does not conclude that Mr. Perel is unsympathetic to students. His arguments are directed toward this particular governance model.

Panelists Discuss Social Security, Taxes

Income and social security taxes in the United States came under attack Wednesday at WSU in a panel discussion on the political rights of women.

"Our tax laws are based on old ideas about what a man and woman are supposed to be," said Marilyn Welles, chairperson of the Wichita Chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW).

She cited inequities in the Social Security (SS) system in that if a man works and pays SS taxes for ten quarters, his wife automatically receives his benefits if he dies.

If a wife, on the other hand, pays SS taxes for ten quarters and dies, the husband may receive her benefits only if he is able to prove the wife provided half his income.

The income tax, Welles said, is based on the assumption that a working woman's income is "merely a luxury."

Dorothy Wood, coordinator of the Political Caucus of Wichita

Women, told the audience she had been "bounced out of my job as an editorial writer" for the Wichita Eagle upon becoming coordinator of the group.

Their justification for the move was her involvement in the group would damage the creditability of the paper, if she continued to function, Wood said.

"If we look at the national political structure of this country, we might wonder why women support this government," Wood said. The revolutionary war sprang up because of "taxation without representation." The same system exists for women today, she contended.

WSU's political science department came under attack by Nancy Harper, coowner of Harper's Wichita Journal, for failing to teach anything about women in political science.

She also attacked the state labor laws which said a woman shall not be capable of work, and therefore not eligible for unemployment benefits, "two months prior and one month following the birth of a child."

"I took off one week for the birth of my last child," Harper said.

Discrimination against women in wages was discussed by Dr. Kathleen Camin, associate professor of economics. "For equal years of schooling, on the average, women earn only 60 per cent as much as men," she said.

Few Students Support Football Here, Campus Survey Discloses

WSU students do not support their football team. At least that is what students in Business Administration 370, quantitative research methods, have concluded after an extensive survey.

Random sampling of 300 students, including 75 from each class, indicates lack of team support is most prevalent among scholarly, married, working, freshmen, and female students.

On a 40-point scale, students with a 1.5 to 1.99 grade point average rated 37 points. Students with a 2.0 to 2.49, and those with a 3.0 to 3.49 GPA averaged 35 points. 3.0 to 3.45 GPA holders averaged 28 points, and 3.5 to 4.0 group netted 17.

Married students averaged 27 points while unmarrieds averaged 33 points. Males approximated 34 points while the females scored 27.

Unemployed Shockers averaged 34 points on the 40-point scale. Those who worked one to 20 hours per week were rated 31, as the students working 21 to 30 hours, and 31 to 39 hours averaged scores of 30 and 25 respectively. WSU students who work 40 or more hours a week averaged 24 points.

Seniors sported the most class spirit, averaging 34 points. Sophomores rated second with 33 points. Juniors averaged 30 points while freshmen scored 26 points in the spirit classification.

The questionnaire used in the survey consisted of 18 questions. The first six categorized students according to class, sex, GPA, marital status, and other background data. The remaining questions dealt with the number of home games attended this year, participation in organized cheers at the games, attendance at pep rallies and other related questions concerning WSU football spirit.

Anti-War Coalition Disband, Lack of Participation Blamed

Peace Action Coalition, WSU anti-war group, disbanded Monday and has been removed from SGA's list of campus organizations.

Richard Thompson, UC sophomore, a member of the group's steering committee, said the decision to disband was reached when he learned that all but one member of the committee has resigned.

"I'm tired of apologizing for people not doing their job," Thompson said Wednesday after SGA removed the group from its organization list.

Thompson said lack of participation and dedication among the group's leaders led to its demise. At the group's last scheduled meeting, only Thompson was present.

The group had between 15 and 20 members, and no operating funds. No application for funds had been made to SGA, Thompson said.

No group participation is now expected in the Nov. 6 anti-war demonstrations and fall offensive.

Thompson said a new organization, Peace Coordination Committee is expected to be established here. PCC would be similar to the organization at Friends University, he said.

"PCC will provide draft counseling, and other direct services, and will carry on anti-war efforts in a more practical way," Thompson said.

Flamenco Group to Perform Here

A special feature of the annual high school Spanish contest at WSU Saturday is the appearance of a flamenco troop from San Antonio, Tex.

Flamenco guitarist El Curro and his troop of three flamenco dancers, "Los Flamencos de San Antonio," will appear at 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 30, in DFAC auditorium.

The group is a special feature for the second, third and fourth year high school Spanish students who will be at WSU to participate in the seventh annual "Concurso de capacitacion para estudiantes de espanol," sponsored by the WSU romance languages department.

More than 750 students are expected to attend.

Registration for the event will begin at 7:45 a.m. in the CAC, with the contests scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m.

hockey Insights

By Gary Owen
Sunflower Sports Editor

"I do it for the fun of playing," is the way senior Janet Pew gains her participation in four WSU intercollegiate sports.

The graceful physical education major was captain for the WSU hockey team which recently completed a very successful season. Janet is also a spiker on the volleyball team, plays forward and center on the basketball team and was a second baseman for the Shocker baseball team.

The 5-foot-10 coed got her start several years ago when participating in a class taught by Coach Yvonne Slingerland. Coach Slingerland saw her was impressed enough to ask her to join the field hockey team. Pew has been a mainstay for the Shockers ever since.

The leading Shocker scorer this season, Pew was very pleased with the team. "We all worked together real hard all this year and consequently we are up with our best season since I have been here."

Janet Pew

The lithe spiker is very optimistic about the upcoming volleyball season. "We have basically the same team we had last year," Pew explained. "So we hope to have a real good year."

Brennan Hall is currently selling Gold Fever doormats to raise funds for the Football '70 Memorial Fund. The mats will be on sale at all home games and at the residence halls.

The mats are made of 100 per cent polyester with a non slip cellulose backing. They are gold and feature the WuShock and Gold Fever motto in black.

There are two mat sizes available. The 1 1/2' by 2' mat sells for $3. The larger mat is 2' by 3' and sells for $10.

Lincoln, Neb. (AP)—The freshman football game between Nebraska and Wichita State Friday afternoon will be followed by what sponsors are billing hopefully as "the world's largest pep rally."

The rally in the East Stadium, starting at 4 p.m., is sponsored by Corn Cobs and Tassles, student pep organizations.

ABC-TV is expected to film the rally as part of its coverage of the Nebraska-Colorado game Saturday.

Shockers Return After 3 Games To Face West Texas at Cessna

Wichita State returns home Saturday to face Missouri Valley foe West Texas State in the annual Parents Day game at Cessna Stadium.

West Texas holds a 4-3 edge in the series including a 43-0 shellacking of the Shockers last year.

The Buffaloes have had their problems this season under first year coach Gene Mayfield. They currently sport a one win-five loss record with their only victory coming at the expense of Lamar Tech. Two Buff losses were to Valley foes Memphis State and Tulsa.

The West Texas offense runs out of the Wishbone T and features the league's second leading rusher Billy Pritchett. Pritchett runs out of the tailback spot where his 9.8 speed is put to good use in turning the corner on pitchouts from quarterback Ron Leach. Pritchett's size also presents a problem at 6-foot-3, 236 pounds.

The Buffaloes possess one of the real rarities in modern-day football in senior Bill McKinney. The 230-pound ex-frogman will go both ways, starting at the left guard on offense and switching to the middle linebacker spot for the defense.

The Buff kicking game is one of their strong points as punter Merle Kilpatrick is booming the ball at a 40.9 average. With WSU's Bob Renner punting for a 40.5 average, the game could be decided by the foot of one of these kickers.

There will be no great changes for the Shockers according to Head Coach Bob Seaman. "We are just going to have to do what we have been doing much better. It will be nice to be home for a change."

Coach Seaman plans to use seven wide receivers in an effort to solve the passing problem. "We have seven receivers of equal ability and we are just going to see who is having the good game," Seaman explained.

Tackle Ron Novoset and linebacker Lino Venerucci have been suffering from injuries but are expected to see action.

Kick-off time is 7:30 p.m.

Revenge at Echo Hills? Harriers to Chase Cats

Wichita will again host the annual Kansas Track and Field Federation meet Saturday, Oct. 30.

The four-mile cross country championship will feature four divisions, including a 40 and over masters run. Other divisions include a special race for unattached entries, a 30 to 39 masters and the university-college division.

Competition is scheduled at Echo Hills Country Club.

Wichita State will be featured in the university-college division as they try to avenge one of their two losses this year. Kansas State, who defeated the Shockers earlier this year at Manhattan, will be the target of the Shock assault.

NAIA power Fort Hays will also contend in the university division as will defending national junior college champ Butler County. Six other schools have entered teams in the meet.

Herm Wilson, Shocker head coach, announced that all his runners are healthy and will be entered. The meet marks the first time in three weeks all ten members have been able to run together.

The first event, featuring WSU and K-State track stars running unattached over a two-mile course, will start at 9:45 a.m. The masters will follow at 10 a.m. with the university-college run at 10:30 a.m.

Injury-Plagued Freshmen Looking For Initial Victory

Coach Dave Deitzel is expecting trouble when his WSU freshmen tackle the Nebraska University frosh at Lincoln today.

"It's a typical Nebraska team," Deitzel said as he sat at

Successful End For Tennis Team

Wichita State's women's tennis team ended their season with a 4-2 record by winning on the courts of Southwestern at Winfield, 5-1 Monday.

The team held a 3-1 lead after the singles matches. Pam Lamborn, Shirley Sloan and Jeri Schall won their matches with the only defeat going to Virginia Smith.

Wichita State went on to win both doubles matches. Sloan and Lamborn won the first match 6-0, 6-1. Schall and Smith wound up the meet by sweeping in straight sets 6-3, 6-0.

Schall and Streiff were 0-1, making the team 22-15.

The season record for singles play is as follows: Sloan, 4-2; Lamborn, 4-2; Schall, 4-2; Smith, 3-2; Clawson, 0-1; Streiff, 0-1.

In doubles, Sloan and Lamborn went 2-4 and Schall and Smith were undefeated with a 5-0 record.

his drawing board shuffling his already battered lineup. "They are big and strong and in beating Missouri last Friday 32-23 looked real good. They'll play a 5-2 defense and play it straight with nothing fancy. It's a big game for us since we're 0-4."

Bill Bowen, normally a quarterback, will make his first start at wingback this season to complement the established backfield of Jim Keller, Bill Trammel and David Glover.

Fullback Glover and tailback Trammel are again expected to carry the Shocker offense.

Defensively, end Greg Atkins and the linebacking trio of Pat Hanley, Ed Collins and Ken LeBlanc will attempt to turn back the potent Cornhusker offense.

Injuries again have stung the already crippled team. Defensive end Dave Ringer, linebacker Lonnie Burnett and tackle Charlie Wright sustained injuries in the Shock's loss to Kansas State last Friday.

Ringer, whose foot was broken, and Burnett, who broke his left arm, are lost for the season, while Wright's participation is doubtful for this week after receiving a concussion.

The game will be broadcast on KMW-FM starting at 1:50 p.m. with the kickoff at 2 p.m.

MoValley Defensive Award To Dvorak

Sophomore defensive tackle Rick Dvorak was named Missouri Valley Defensive Player of the Week Tuesday for his outstanding performance against Louisville.

The 6-foot-4, 200-pounder came up with 17 unassisted tackles and 5 assists during Saturday's game. Dvorak was also credited with a blocked pass and causing a fumble.

Howard Stevens, the leading ground gainer for the Cardinals, met the Shocker tackle three times on one on one situations and came up with a net total yardage of zero for those encounters. Dvorak also utilized his quickness to make an unassisted tackle on the other side of the line.

Dvorak was "very surprised" to hear of his selection and felt it was "a real honor."

Linebacker Lino Venerucci was given the same honor earlier this season.

Don Gilley was named "Offensive Player of the Week" by the Shocker Club. Although Gilley's rushing statistics were not impressive, his hustling and blocking earned him the reward.

Ski Week

WSU's CAC Travel Committee has designated Nov. 1 through 5 as Ski Week.

During Ski Week, a booth staffed by the committee will be set up to distribute brochures and resolve questions for skiing enthusiasts. The booth will be adjacent to the CAC candy counter. Two ski trips are being planned during the Christmas break. They include the annual trip to Aspen, Col., set for Jan. 7-15, and a new trip is being planned to Jackson Hole, Wyo., Jan. 29.

Skiing films are scheduled during Ski Week, with the exact time to be announced later.

Badminton Singles

Entry deadline for badminton singles is Monday, Nov. 1, with the starting date set for Monday, Nov. 8 at Henrion gym.

Intramural competition is open to any interested WSU men.

Contestants will be responsible for checking the bulletin board at the Intramural Office for scheduled matches.

Mickel Wins Race

Dr. Howard Mickel, assistant professor of religion, captured first in the One-Mile Walk Race at the WSU track Oct. 21.

Dr. Mickel's winning time for the walk was 8:05.2. Pat Blanchard, Kappa Sigma, took second and third went to Beta Theta Pi's Kevin Brown.

Intramural Point Totals

After the first four events of the WSU intramural season, Beta Theta Pi leads in points for the All-Sports Trophy.

The Beta's are first with 631 and Brennan is second with 446 total points. Other totals include Kappa Sigma, 343; Fairmount 275; Sigma Phi Epsilon, 179; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 171; Phi Delta Theta, 158; Sigma Chi, 135; Delta Upsilon, 117; and Faculty, 11.

Bowling Tourney

WSU's keggers travel to Lawrence Sunday for another in a series of Kansas-Oklahoma League tournaments.

The men's team, currently in first place, will include Ron Penner, Dave Goodpasture, Clifford Utermohlem, Dan Fake and Wendell Burns.

Bowling for the women, who are now ranked third, will be Judy Crandall, Pam McDaniel, Cindy Sawyer and Jean Waliczek. Alternates for the women will be Cee Laird and Vicki Nyquist.

Coach Waliczek is optimistic about the outcome of Sunday's tournament, "I believe both our men's and women's teams will come away with top honors," he said.
