WSU given go ahead for doctoral programs

By JAY W. WATSON
Staff Writer

Wichita State University has finally been accredited at the doctoral level.

This status, granted by the North Central Association, represents the attainment of a significant long-time goal, said Don Christenson, assistant vice president.

WSU is now fully approved by the North Central to conduct doctoral programs.

In addition to the doctoral accreditation, WSU also retained its regular accreditation as a University, which must undergo review every 10 years.

"WSU's last regular accreditation review was in 1966," said Christenson, "and since we were up for review anyway, it was fortunate that the doctoral accreditation process was done simultaneously. It saved us from preparing two separate study reports."

WSU initially applied for doctoral accreditation on probationary basis in 1970. This probationary status was granted, allowing WSU to resume a doctoral program in logopedics which was temporarily closed in the mid 1960s, as well as start new programs in aeronautical engineering and chemistry.

"This has been a long-term project. We've been working toward doctoral accreditation for some time," said Christenson.

According to Christenson, the process for attaining full doctoral-granting authority started over two years ago.

"The first thing we had to do was prepare a self-study report to be sent to the members of the accreditation team."

To write such a report, six task-forces involving 51 people were established in early fall 1975. The entire process was coordinated by John Breazeale, vice president for academic affairs.

The task-forces analyzed all major areas of the University, its strengths and problems, before producing a 110-page report, plus a second volume of over 150 pages of detailed data.

The first-draft of the report was completed in the summer of 1976, but it wasn't until December 1976 that the final version was submitted to North Central Association.

WSU's self-study report has since been cited by the North Central as an example of a successful self-study.

"We were the only school listed in their bibliography, and North Central accredits universities in a 17-state region," Christenson said.

After the self-study report was submitted, the two remaining steps were an accreditation visit and review.

The visit consisted of a special team of nine educators from other universities who visited the WSU campus for three days in March 1977. The members of this team "fanned out, and went in all directions," said Christenson. The team members interviewed people throughout the University from students and instructors to personnel.

"We had absolutely no control over any phase of their investigations," he said.

The final step was when Presi-

Disputed job goes to Jones but some conflicts continue

By JUDY MOULOS and KATE McLEMORE
Staff Writers

After two weeks of controversy, Kathy Jones was unanimously approved as the new secretary to the Student Government Association at the Wednesday evening Student Senate meeting.

The decision came after Jones and Le Zachary, who also applied for the position, were given a battery of tests Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Dispute over the job originated two weeks ago when SGA Treasurer Inman Boyd objected to the fact that the applicants had taken two different typing tests.

Jones was originally selected for the position on the recommendation of Hannes Zacharias, SGA president. But last week, the Senate voted to reconsider the appointment, so both applicants could be retested for the position.

In the four tests administered this week, Jones fared better than Zachary in all areas.

In the typing test, Jones netted 35 words per minute while Zachary typed six words per minute.

A secretarial aptitude test was another factor in the decision. Jones again scored much higher than Zachary.

The office personnel and the executive committee interviews made up the remaining criteria with Jones being the preferred candidate.

An additional point of dispute arose at the Wednesday night meeting over the fact that Boyd had not been included in the executive committee's decision making.

Boyd said Zacharias had orally misinformed him about the time the meeting was to take place.

Boyd said Zacharias had told him the committee would meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday when in reality it met at 6 p.m.

Zacharias said he had written a memo to Boyd informing him of the committee meeting and had placed it in Boyd's box on Monday. Boyd said he did not get that memo until Wednesday evening.

"I put it in his box," Zacharias said, "and I don't know why he didn't get it before tonight."

Protest set over book store buy

By GARY FREED
News Editor

Students and faculty will stage a demonstration at 2:30 p.m. today on the steps of Morrison Hall to protest Wichita State University's plan of turning the land occupied by the Pied Piper Bookstore into a parking lot.

The Save the Bookstore Committee is sponsoring the demonstration and, according to Dorothy Billings, assistant professor of anthropology, the demonstration is to let WSU administrators know that students and faculty members want the bookstore to remain.

"We want to show our concern and make sure something is done to stop the destruction of a bookstore, which is run by a man dedicated to books," Billings said. "It's obvious the administrators don't care about books or they wouldn't have taken so lightly the bookstore."

Billings said many persons are upset about the loss of the bookstore and The Grinder Man because there are no other stores or shops which are part of the University community.

"What do we have?" Billings asked. "We have no restaurants, except the Grinder. We have three semeteries, two gas stations, a gravestone store and three churches."

"We're prisoners of the CAC monopoly," she said, "and the CAC is not run well. The food is so expensive and the quality is decreasing. There are complaints consistently."

Billings said she is hoping University administrators will come to the demonstration and give their points of view on removal of the bookstore. A personal invitation to the demonstration has been sent to George Platt, director of planning, by Billings.

"We haven't heard from them (the administrators)," Billings said. "Perhaps our points of view are small and if they present theirs, perhaps we will agree with them."

"The administration has so many factors to consider in making plans for the University community they sometimes overlook facts that are very important to people here now. They're looking to people 50 years from now."

Billings said she would like to know what alternatives the administration has considered in solving the University's parking problems. She said such alternatives could include a shuttle bus system, high-rise parking lots, establishing a clearing house so faculty and students could make arrangements for car pools and special bus service on Hillside and 17th Streets.

Questions raised about purchases

Jack Whitesell, owner of the bookstore, said he would like to keep his business in operation and said he would do so if a building is available which does not leak.

Joining Billingson the Save the Bookstore Committee are Jim Erickson, associate professor of English; Gary Greenberg, assistant professor of psychology, and Greg Benjamin, LA senior.

Another point of controversy in the land purchase is the University's contention that The Grinder Man, 1745 N. Fairmount, was planning to sell its business, so the University bought the land where the bookstore is located.

In Monday's issue of The Sunflower, George Platt, WSU's director of planning, was quoted as saying, "When we heard that The Grinder Man wanted to sell, we went ahead and purchased the lot that the bookstore is on, too."

But according to Paul Doyon, co-owner of The Grinder Man, Platt's statement was untrue and the business is being forced to relocate.

"We had no plans of selling," Doyon told The Sunflower. He said he and his partner, Robert Moss, had planned to move to a bigger and better location after their lease on the building expired in two and one-half years.

Doyon said The Grinder Man received $5,000 from the landowner, Ed Trask, for relocation expenses. Doyon said he considered taking legal action to prevent the forced relocation but his attorney advised him the case would be lost in court because of the city's right of eminent domain.

The two businesses, The Grinder Man and The Pied Piper, are supposed to be out of their buildings by Nov. 1, but Doyon is hoping the University will grant him a month extension until a new facility is ready.

Platt said nothing will be done with the buildings until spring.

The funds for purchasing the two properties came from sale of a bond issuance of $1,750,000 issued by the Wichita Public Buildings Commission. Only part of that amount was used to purchase the two properties.

The Wichita Public Buildings Commission, according to Elton Parsons of the city's administration office, is an agency created by state statute, which can purchase property for governmental agencies. Parsons said the commission has the right of eminent domain but none of the property was taken in that manner. He said all property was acquired through negotiations.

The titles to the properties purchased with money from the bond issuance remains in the name of the commission, according to Parsons, as security on the loan. The bonded debt is paid off by a 1.5 mill levy assessed by the city for the University.

Platt said he did not know how many parking spaces The Grinder Man and Pied Piper Bookstore lots would provide, but said part of the property would be used for the satellite receiver station which will be used by KMUW. Patricia Cahill, KMUW's general manager, said, however, KMUW is scheduled to move to the Gentry Shop's old location west of KMUW and the satellite receiver station will be installed south of the Gentry Shop, not south of KMUW's present location.

WSU called 'vital institution'

dent Clark Ahlberg and Breazeale met with a review committee in Chicago in late July of this year. The committee, which makes no explanatory comments, simply sent WSU a letter the third week in August informing it that as a University it was qualified to develop any doctoral program.

The accreditation team said WSU is a vital institution in a state of transition as it seeks to fulfill its potential as an urban university. The team also said the student body is enthusiastic about WSU and its programs, the faculty is effective and dedicated, and the administration is capable and works well with faculty and students.

Christenson agrees with the accreditation team's assessment that overall, the University and its programs are sound.

"I'm convinced that sometimes we lose track of how good a job we're doing," he said.

Being a doctoral granting institution has a very important symbolic value, according to Christenson.

"There aren't a lot of immediate results — it's sort of a benchmark in the long-term development of a university. We are now a comprehensive university."

Christenson said WSU plans to proceed on a cautious and careful time-table in instituting new doctoral programs. He said there would be no more than three new programs in the next five years.

Not only are doctoral programs very expensive, but a step-by-step bureaucratic process must be gone through. A doctoral program must be approved by the dean of graduate school, the graduate council and ultimately the State Board of Regents.

Whatever new programs are started, Christenson believes they should relate as much as possible to Wichita's own environment.

"Our doctoral programs should be responsible to our urban mission," he said.

Nursing course to begin

A new format in continuing education for nurses will be initiated at Wichita State University this semester.

Neuroanatomy and Physiology—a concentrated month-long course designed especially for registered nurses and licensed practical nurses—will be offered from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays Oct. 3-26. The course carries one hour of academic credit.

"We've designed a concentrated course especially for registered nurses and licensed practical nurses in a specific area," said Richard A. Sugerman, assistant professor of biology and instructor for the course.

Enrollment in the course will be limited to 35 students so that each student can be assured of individual help. Sugerman said.

"The course will cover the basics of neuroanatomy and physiology in ways that will be most applicable to those practicing in the nursing profession and at the same time allow RN's and LPN's the opportunity to earn continuing education credits now required by the state of Kansas," he said.

NEW YORK—Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy said Thursday he was optimistic that the Geneva Mideast Peace Conference could reconvene before the end of the year.

Fahmy made the comment after meeting with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, who returned to New York from Washington to continue meetings with Arab and other foreign ministers attending the General Assembly.

ST. LOUIS—Men and women alike are weary of the women's liberation movement, according to Washington Post reporter Sally Quinn.

"Men are getting bored to distraction with the women's thing," Quinn said. "And women are a little tired, too, of the backlash the movement has created."

IN KANSAS

MANHATTAN—Gov. Robert Bennett said Thursday he has no choice but to renew his proposal to the legislature next year for funding a new medium-security prison.

Bennett told a meeting of business, professional and academic people that his proposal to the 1978 legislature will be more wide-ranging than the plan turned down last year.

TOPEKA—A special Kansas legislative committee voted Thursday to recommend a constitutional amendment that would allow the legislature to treat the taxation of inventories of merchants, livestock men and manufacturers differently for tax purposes.

Under the existing wording of the state Constitution, such inventories are to be treated uniformly and equally along with most other types of property for tax purposes.

IN WICHITA

WICHITA—Bishop David Maloney urged Wichita citizens Thursday to work to revoke a "gay rights" ordinance and vowed that the Catholic Diocese of Wichita would not abide by the new statute.

"The ordinance violates our people's deepest religious convictions and sensibilities, and is in conflict with our moral principles," he said in a prepared statement.

Lost items carefully handled

By LARRY THOMPSON

Lt. Garnet Parsons of Wichita State University's security office has a little of everything in his lost and found department.

"If students ever had some of it, I've had a little of it," he said. Books and keys are the items most frequently turned in. Class rings, watches, calculators, cameras and bicycles are common. Unusual items like a tuxedo and an Orphan Annie doll recently turned in also make up his collection.

Items turned in are registered at Security by the description of the object and the name of the person who found it. If an item is not claimed within six months, the finder may claim it. Many things not claimed by that time are sold. Lt. Parsons will barter with interested buyers on the price of most items, although more valuable items like bicycles and calculators are sold by sealed bid.

Items such as clothing and eyeglasses that have no resale value are given to charitable organizations, and unclaimed books are sold at the CAC Bookstore. Proceeds from items sold go to the W.O. Long Memorial Scholarship Fund. Long was the security officer who started the lost and found program.

To reclaim a lost item, a student must first identify it. Items such as keys or notebooks are easily returned as they are of little value to anyone but the owner. However Lt. Parsons requires positive identification of valuable objects.

"I have to use common sense and be downright contrary sometimes," he said.

Many items in the lost and found have been stolen and recovered. Because of this, Lt. Parsons stresses a program offered by Security which allows students to register valuables at Beauregard Ltd. in the CAC.

With this program, the student lists his name and the identifying features of the object on a card that is filed with Security. Then if the item is lost or stolen and turns up in the lost and found, it can easily be returned.

SEC investigating ITT's Role in Chile

By JACK ANDERSON
with Joe Spear

WASHINGTON—Five years ago, we broke a startling story about the secret shenanigans of the Central Intelligence Agency and the International Telephone and Telegraph company in Chile. We reported that the CIA and ITT had worked together to block the late Chilean President Salvador Allende from taking office.

Both the CIA and ITT denied our story. It took a Senate investigation to get the facts out. But ex-CIA director Richard Helms and ITT boss Harold Geneen allegedly withheld facts from the Senate.

Now we've learned that a grand jury has recommended multiple-count indictments against Helms and Geneen. This has produced rumors that an angry Helms has threatened to bring down others, including former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, if he is indicted.

The rumors became so persistent that Kissinger confronted Helms privately. The former CIA chief said he had no intention of embarrassing Kissinger.

Helms feels he merely carried out orders. He was supposed to protect secret intelligence operations. This was the reason, he explained, that he didn't tell the Senate everything he knew.

The Securities and Exchange Commission, meanwhile, is conducting its own secret investigation into ITT's role in Chile. SEC investigators have already interviewed Geneen. And just last week, the SEC investigators questioned Edward Korry, the former U.S. ambassador to Chile.

According to sources close to the investigation, Korry gave details of ITT's misconduct in Chile. He also provided the investigators with a list of witnesses who can offer more information. The charges involve alleged fraud and perjury.

Restless Republicans: The Democrats are taking a battering in Washington. Bert Lance has lost the fight for his political life. House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill has been linked to the Korean payoff man, Tongsun Park. Other Democratic congressmen have been accused of accepting cash from the Koreans. And President Carter is slipping in the polls.

All this has brought new hope to the Republicans. Both Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan, according to their friends, are interested in a rematch in 1980. Both men are in excellent health and appear younger than their ages. But Ford will be 66 and Reagan will be 69 in 1980.

So some of the younger Republican leaders are also stirring. In Texas, both ex-Treasury Secretary

John Connally and ex-CIA director George Bush have presidential ambitions.

Bush has frankly discussed his intentions with Ford. Bush has also received some early advice from Ford's campaign manager, James Baker. Meanwhile, Connally is putting together a campaign organization.

Three Republican Senators—Howard Baker of Tennessee, Robert Dole of Kansas and Charles Percy of Illinois—have been bitten by the presidential bug. And at least two governors—Robert Ray of Iowa and Jim Thompson of Illinois—also have their eyes on the White House.

Most of the prospects plan to campaign actively in the 1978 congressional campaign. They remember it was Richard Nixon's stump work that won the right friends and influenced the right politicians. He later cashed in their political IOU's to gain the Republican nomination.

Spotless Shepherd: The White House, believe it or not, has run a security check on a dog.

He's a sturdy German shepherd named "Turkey." But he's no ordinary dog. He carries an identification card on his collar—complete with picture.

Turkey, it seems, helps to patrol the White House grounds. Like all White House personnel, he underwent an intensive FBI background check. The FBI made sure he had nothing in his pedigree indicating mental or emotional instability.

The FBI's investigation of Turkey's past was so extensive, according to a Secret Service spokesman, that the dog's pawprint is now recorded in FBI files.

Watch on Waste: The federal government wants tourists to be comfortable when they visit Washington. So the Park Service provides handy restrooms for their convenience. Last month the Park Service equipped these restrooms with seven toilet-paper holders. This, no doubt, is in the public interest. But we've now what they cost the taxpayers: $575 for the seven holders. That comes to $82 each.

— Some local governments are coming up with novel ideas on how to spend federal money designed to relieve unemployment. Local officials in Ventura County, Calif., for example, have developed a unique plan that will consume $385,000 and put 100 people on the payroll. They will conduct a census. But they'll be counting dogs instead of people.

Bible Study: The awesome responsibilities of the presidency haven't disrupted Jimmy Carter's religious studies. The president has told visitors that he has read the entire Bible twice before, and is now reading the Holy Scriptures for the third time. He and First Lady Rosalynn Carter, he says, are each reading alternate chapters of a Spanish-language Bible.

Reader demands stats be decoded

Editor:

For the last week I have found the sports section of your newspaper rather confusing. Maybe after all these years, I don't understand football as well as I thought. I hope you can help me.

Your paper dated Friday, the 23rd, listed 4 conference wins and 5 losses by schools in the MVC. I assumed this to be a typographical error. Yet behold, this week (Wed., the 28th) I find 5 wins and 7 losses. Now, am I to assume that some MVC team is taking on two teams at the same time—and winning? If so, please inform us as to when this team is coming to WSU and why they haven't been rated in the NCAA top 20.

Quentin Moser
Graduate Student

P.S. Howard Cosell might also be interested in hearing about this mysterious team.

Indiana State and Southern Illinois are competing in the Missouri Valley Conference football race for the first time this year. Because schedules are made up so far in advance, these two schools were unable to meet this fall and it was necessary to designate one of their non-conference games as a conference contest. This gives both schools the proper number of conference games needed to officially compete for the championship.

Indiana State lost its designated game against Arkansas State. Southern Illinois lost to McNeese State in its designated game. These two games will count in the standings as a contest between Illinois State and Southern Illinois. Yet since both teams lost, two more losses than wins will be recorded in the conference standings this year.

Center offers variety of services

By RAMONA KEE

The main objective of the various group programs offered by the Counseling Center is, according to Cindy Simpson, group program counselor, to give a sense of "growing emotionally."

Simpson said that the Counseling Center gives individual counseling as well as group counseling concerning personal problems and crisis times. The Center also gives consultation outside of the University on topics such as drug abuse and mental health.

Some of the group programs are aimed at women in particular. One workshop, Women Alone, will concentrate on special concerns of the single, divorced or widowed woman. It will meet from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Oct. 22 at the Counseling House, 1818 N. Yale. Another workshop, Women in Transition, is aimed at dealing with the changes that society has caused in the attitudes of women. The workshop is designed to help women "explore their personal, social and educational concerns in a small group." Although the meetings have already started, Women in Transition will be offered again next semester.

For Couples Only is a weekend workshop that will provide an opportunity for couples to examine their relationships. The group will study marriage roles, conflicts, straightforward communication and affection. The workshop will be held from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., Nov. 4, and from 9:30 a.m. to 10 p.m., Nov. 5.

Survival skills for handicapped persons will be discussed at an eight session group program. Handicapped persons will be able to share common problems related to physical and mental handicaps. These sessions will be from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., Oct. 7.

Interpersonal communication skills is another subject that will be stressed in a four-session workshop. These workshops will include listening skills, sending and receiving information, and communication under stress. The group will meet from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Oct. 20 and 27, and Nov. 10 and 17.

Other group programs include Career Development and Life Planning, Self-Exploration for Personal Growth and Assertiveness Training. All of these programs meet at the Counseling House and are offered free to students, faculty and staff.

Ring day sales are zero

Wednesday was ring day at the CAC Bookstore but according to Debbie Tharp, clerk at the jewelry store counter, no rings were sold.

A representative from Josten Co., a distributor of school class rings, was on hand to offer a 5 percent discount to students wishing to put a $15 deposit on class rings.

Tharp says she sells about five rings a month, mostly to seniors. She said she tries to discourage freshmen from buying class rings because many change their majors or transfer to other schools before graduating.

The average cost of a class ring is $100 for a 14 carat gold ring. But the bookstore still offers silver rings for $75.

Interpreter needed

Applications are being taken for an interpreter for students with impaired hearing and the application deadline is Oct. 3.

The person appointed to the position is expected to attend classes with students, to interpret lectures and class discussions and to help with impaired hearing students in taking tests.

According to Jo Gardenhire, director of programs for handicapped students, the applicants must have a thorough knowledge of American sign language and must be able to relate to both the hearing-impaired student and members of the University community.

The job takes approximately six hours per week and pays $2.75 per hour.

Resumes may be sent to Gardenhire at the Learning Resources Center in Room 114 of McKinley Hall.

Senate moves on to new business

"I keep regular office hours and I check my box every day" Boyd replied, "and it wasn't there until today."

Outside the meeting room, Boyd said there has been a lot of conflict in personal relations between himself and Zacharias, and himself and vice-president Eric Davis. Boyd said relations within the office have been strained for quite some time and on several occasions James Rhatigan, dean of students and Senate advisor, has had to step in to mediate disputes.

Boyd stated why he believes the problem exists:

"The reason we have problems is that I am the first independent executive officer ever elected," he said.

"I ran against everybody there. Who do you talk to when you didn't run with anybody?"

After Jones was unanimously approved by the Senate for the position, Boyd congratulated Jones and shook her hand. He expressed concern that Jones might have some animosity toward him.

Jones addressed the meeting:

"I don't know what to say. It is so long and drawn out," she said, "I feel that Inman is just fine what he's saying. I don't want to take this job if there's going to be any more controversy. I want everyone to agree I'm the person for it and I am qualified for it."

The Senate applauded Jones and when she went over to talk to Davis, he patted her confidently on the posterior.

In other Senate business, Penny Jones was selected to fill a Senate seat of Business representative. John Conners was voted to represent the College of Fine Arts, John Meyer was selected ASK Legislative Assemblyman and Andrew Davis was approved as Proportional representative.

Funds were allocated to student organizations and the Senate voted to reject Athletic Director Ted Bredehoff's student seating arrangements for students who attend WSU basketball games at Henry Levitt Arena.

ROTC enrollment jumps

By DEBBIE EVANGELISTI

The department of Military Science at Wichita State University has an enrollment increase of 65 percent from the Fall 1976 semester. The enrollment is the largest since physical education or ROTC ceased to be mandatory at WSU.

Capt. Ken Owen, associate professor of military science, attributes the increased enrollment to more awareness of the part leadership and management training can play in a successful career.

"I really think students enroll in ROTC because of the leadership and management value," he said. "Our business is leadership and management, thus we offer guidance in these two areas."

The ROTC program has approximately 200 students, 140 of whom are freshmen. Forty of the students are women. Owen said the freshman class always has the most students enrolled at WSU and this is the reason for the higher number of freshman students enrolled in ROTC.

"Students have a misconception about our program," said Owen. "Not only do we want people with a military career in mind, but also for the Reserve Units and the civilian-minded individual. Whether the student goes into the military or not, the program is still beneficial."

Freshmen and sophomores begin their ROTC program by enrolling in 100 and 200 level military courses for college credit.

"A student is under no obligation to stay in the course through the semester as with any other course at WSU," said Owen.

When they near their junior years, ROTC students apply for the advanced-level program. A physical fitness requirement, Army examination and satisfactory progress towards a degree are mandatory.

After four active years in ROTC, students receive a second lieutenant commission.

Shockers set to battle Hurricane's hurricane

The Missouri Valley Conference race continues for Wichita State University and begins for Tulsa at 2:30 tomorrow in Tulsa's Skelly Stadium. The Shockers enter the game with a conference 1-1 mark, while it will be the first MVC tilt for the Hurricane.

TU head coach John Cooper will be forced to go with reserve quarterback Bill Blankenship, due to the injury of starter Dave Rader. Leading the conference in passing and total offense, Rader has a shoulder injury that may sideline him for the year.

Cooper's first venture into head coaching is not going well. His squad has a 1-3 mark, with their only win coming against Northeast Louisiana 37-35. The Hurricane has been mauled by Southwest Louisiana, 48-21, Oklahoma State, 34-17 and last week, Arkansas 37-3.

The Tulsa offense is cranked up by running back Rickey Watts, second in Valley rushing charts, averaging over 79 yards a game and 5.2 yards a carry.

Watts backfield mate, Jim Favors, also ranks high in Valley rushing, averaging nearly four yards a tote.

Blankenship, averaging only 39.2 yards passing, will be throwing mainly to All-Conference tight end Marcus Hatley. Hatley has grabbed 15 passes for 213 yards. He is running third in Valley receiving behind WSU's Bryan in the conference in passing defense, scoring defense and total defense. They are next to last in rushing defense, ahead of only Drake.

This shows a severe turn around from 1976, when Tulsa led the conference in every defensive category.

However, TU does have the best punter in the Valley in Eddie Hare, averaging 41.7 yards a boot.

The Shockers will be going for their second straight win over Tulsa. Last year on regional television, WSU put on one of its finest performances ever, to beat the bowl-bound Hurricane 30-13.

Hanning, who has 17 catches for 233 yards and Drake's Paul Proffitt, who has 18 catches for 23 yards.

Cooper is still trying to rebuild his offensive line which is anchored by All-Conference center Bob Mogenicki.

Defensively, TU has had its problems. The Hurricane rank last

Volleyballers take two wins

After falling behind 0-7 in the first game of a best-of-three match, Wichita State University's women's volleyball team rallied to defeat Emporia State College Wednesday night at Henry Levitt Arena.

The Shockers then knocked off Northwestern Oklahoma State University in two games.

The two teams will also square off this weekend as part of the ten-team Shocker Invitational tournament which gets underway at 5 p.m. today in Henry Levitt Arena.

Taking the initial serve of the contest, Emporia ran off a string of seven consecutive points before the Shockers earned a service. WSU then tallied four points to get back in the running.

With the score knotted at 10-10, both squads fell victim to errors that kept either from scoring. The teams then moved to an 11-11 deadlock for several plays before the Shockers pulled out a 15-13 victory.

A weak WSU offense gave Emporia a 15-6 win in the second game. However, the Shockers took advantage of Emporia's errors and utilized key spikes to take a 15-5 third game, giving them the victory.

In a highly uncontested match, the Shockers' second team put away an outclassed Oklahoma team 15-3, 15-7. Although WSU was not pressed in the first game, the second contest saw both teams put on a display of awkward ball-handling before the Shockers took the match. The Oklahoma team also fell to Emporia in two games in the final match of the evening.

"It took a lot of confidence and mental strength to come back from being down 0-7," said coach Sharon Rauh. "Overall, they didn't play that well. They only used about one-fourth of their skill, but they came back when they had to. When you get behind that much, you get panicky and you're likely to make mistakes."

WSU was without the services of starting spiker Kim Strathe who sustained an ankle injury in last weekend's Central Missouri State

Women setting up sports weekend

Three of Wichita State University's women's athletic teams take to the road today for various events. The tennis team is in Des Moines to compete in the Drake Invitational, which begins today, while the cross country team journeys to Stillwater, Okla., for the Oklahoma State Jamboree. The golfers begin competition today in the Region 6 Championships at Minneapolis.

In its second outing of the season, the cross country team is expected to have shaken off their nervousness, according to coach Dan Myers.

"I think we will be better time-wise," Myers said. "The girls have made some definite personal improvements."

One of the Shocker runners, Pat Keary, has been experiencing knee problems, but WSU has an additional prospect in that of Denise Harbert who did not compete in the Shocker Gold Classic two weeks ago. The top runner in the Classic for WSU was Tammi Gilpin who finished eighth.

The tennis team will be competing against a strong team from the University of Wisconsin at Madison, along with the University of Tulsa, Southwest Missouri State and Drake.

The squad is coming off of last Monday's disappointing loss to Oral Roberts University.

Even though they battled some of the nation's top teams, the five members of the WSU golf squad will be attempting to overcome their poor outing at last week's Suzi Berning Classic at Oklahoma City.

tournament won by the Shockers. She is expected to see limited action in the WSU tournament.

The tourney will begin with the University of Tulsa taking on Central State University (Oklahoma) on court one. On court two, Oklahoma State University will battle Oral Roberts University. Following the opening games, WSU will take on Bethel College at 6:15 on court one, while the University of Missouri at Kansas City battles Northwestern Oklahoma State.

The 7:30 matchups will be Southwest Baptist (Missouri) against CSU and Graceland against ORU. The final contests of the evening will see WSU taking on Tulsa, while OSU goes against NWOS.

Saturday's action will begin at 8:30 a.m. with games running throughout the day. The play-off round begins at 4 p.m. with the championship and third place games slated for 5:30 p.m.

"I think we will be one of the top two or three teams," said Rauh. "We have offensive strength, and the girls are really up."

WSU tennis sports international roster

An international flavor dominates this year's Wichita State University tennis team. Four of coach Dr. Stan Kardatzke's top seven players are from foreign countries.

The squad will begin its fall season today at 2 p.m. on the WSU courts against Oklahoma State.

Senior Rex Coad, who was redshirted last year because of an injury, is back for his fourth year on the Shocker squad. Kardatzke is counting on him to provide leadership and experience to the team. Coad is currently ranked either first or second in Kansas in the men's open division.

Last year's number one player, Mark McMahon, also returns for his sophomore year. A native of Adelaide, Australia, McMahon is one of the top junior players in Australia. McMahon had several near wins over All-Americans last year according to Kardatzke.

The National Junior College champion, Alex Marshall will be competing for the Shockers this year. A native of South Africa, Marshall transferred to WSU from Central Texas Junior College. Marshall's roommate from junior college, William Nichols, is also on the Shocker squad.

Another Australian, Myron Pushyk, is expected to challenge for a spot. Pushyk was Australia's fourth ranked junior player in 1976.

"We have eight players who have won international tournaments," Kardatzke said. "Five of our top seven players could play number and the others could play for any teams in the country."

Repeat of a sellout. Save up to 28% on Sansui.

G-3000 am/fm stereo receiver. The newest Sansui. 26 watts RMS per channel, 8 ohms, 20 to 20kHz, with no more than 0.15% total harmonic distortion. Two meters, muting, mic-mixing, simulated walnut case, and much more. A winner!

Model SC-1110 cassette deck

We sold out of these fine cassette decks the first time we offered them, but now they're back in stock! 64dB S/N ratio with Dolby!

AU-4900 integrated amplifier. What a great bargain! A full 35 watts RMS per channel, into 8 ohms, from 20 to 20kHz, with no more than 0.15% total harmonic distortion! Super sound, full features, and a $50 savings!

Save up to 46% on RTR speakers.

Model 240D A very special column speaker. An 8" woofer and a 10" woofer working together to eliminate peaks and dips in the bass — and to give you as much bass as a 15" woofer. One 3 1/4" tweeter provides definition, while two side-firing 2 1/2" tweeters provide dispersion and ambience. Truly astonishing sound...a truly astonishing price, too!

~~$640 a pair~~ $345 a pair

Model 8W Finished in genuine oiled walnut veneer, these 2-way bookshelf speakers look as good as they sound. A newly redesigned woofer gives strong, powerful bass. Sparkling, clear mids and highs, too. Come and listen. You'll be amazed at the big speaker sound.

~~$200 a pair~~ $125 a pair

Save 64% on super Stanton.

~~$55<sup>00</sup>~~ $19<sup>95</sup>
