Relocating

Piper to move, Grinder looking

By JUDY MOULOS
Staff Writer

Jack Whitesell, proprietor of the Pied Piper Book Store has found a home for his books and two of his cats but Paul Doyon, co-owner of the Grinder Man, is still looking for a place to move.

Whitesell said he has found a location at 3829 East 13th in a commercial shopping center that formerly housed a beauty parlor. It is a block east of the Cedars Lounge in the same group of buildings in which the Flicker Lounge is located.

The move will be a piecemeal process, Whitesell said, and he has already begun to do some tentative packing. He said he anticipates being out of his location at 1749 N. Fairmount within the next few weeks and said there are a team of workers who have offered to help him.

"There will be a free cola for the virtuous or something of that nature," he said.

Buildings now occupied by the Pied Piper and the Grinder Man must be vacated by Dec. 1. Wichita State University bought the property on which the business are located. Bonds used finance the purchases prohibit commercial business operation.

Whitesell said most of the cats that have made their homes at his Fairmount Street location will have to go and anyone who wants one can have one.

"I have to take two of them. I am morally obligated," he said. "The rest are interlopers. Some have tentative homes. Some do not."

Whitesell said that the overhead at the new location is higher than what he is now paying.

"It's my maximum but reasonable," he said and explained he never has been able to build up much of a surplus profit in his business.

"It's always a hop, skip and jump. You get surplus and waste it buying some bad books."

Before the bookstore on Fairmount becomes only a passing memory, Whitesell said he is going to have what he described as a pre-flight sale.

"I'm going to have a what's left sale," he said. "Everything that I don't want to move will be 10 cents. There will be many worthy books and many actually worth 10 cents. All paperbacks and all the books I have multiple copies of or have accumulated by accident."

Whitesell said he has not set the date for the sale but it should be sometime after Nov. 15.

Doyon said he is negotiating for a building in which to relocate The Grinder Man and is certain it will not be around the University area. He said he should know within the next day or two if he has a place to move. If a deal cannot be made on the building now under consideration, Doyon said he will have to lay off the 10 persons he employs at the Fairmount address. He said he will try to get an extension until the first of the year so employees will not be out of work before the holidays.

Spring pre-registration schedules available Wed.

Pre-registration for spring semester will begin Nov. 16 and run through Dec. 2. Copies of the schedule of courses will be available Wednesday under The Sunflower's distribution boxes. Evening and Saturday students will receive schedules through the mail.

Students need to see their advisors and arrange a tentative schedule and can obtain registration packets at their college offices.

Registration times are:

Graduates — any date listed.

WSU students camp out for basketball tickets

Students hoping to get good Shocker basketball seats for their fraternities, friends, or just for themselves have been camping out in the foyer of the Henry Levitt Arena ticket office since 8 p.m. Thursday.

Doug Stahr, a business administration senior, was the first Shocker fan to start the four day vigil for tickets.

"I'm not representing any special group, I'm an independent," Stahr said. "I called Chief (Milton) Myers (University Security) for permission to camp on university property, checked it out with Bredehoft (Athletic Director) and moved in."

Students representing Beta Theta Pi had been waiting in shifts since Thursday night to buy bloc tickets for 36 of its members.

John Lorange and Craig Lanham, both sophomores in engineering, have been awaiting ticket sales since Thursday night. "We're not representing any group," Lorange said. "Just ourselves."

Tickets for the fall semester, spring semester, or both can be purchased at student prices with a paid fees receipt. A student will not be allowed to buy more than six tickets. Student guest tickets will also go on sale tomorrow. A guest ticket can be purchased for every student ticket bought.

Bloc tickets can be bought if the members purchase the tickets at the same time and have a current paid fees receipt.

Full-time students can purchase season tickets for $33.75. Cost for part-time students is $37.50 and $41.25 for guest tickets.

Settlement reached on building dispute

Final details on a settlement between attorneys for the state and Hahner, Foreman & Harness, Inc., general contractor of the Life Sciences Building, has been reached, according to Roger Lowe, business manager for Wichita State University.

Notice of a tentative settlement was announced Friday, but Sunday Lowe said a final settlement had been made. However, he said he was not at liberty to disclose details of the final settlement until they were announced by the state attorney general's office.

Negotiations between the attorney general's office and Darrell Kellogg, attorney for the contracting firm, have been going on because of construction problems that were discovered in the Life Sciences Building shortly after the building was completed. Falling facing brick due to improper mortar mix has been the main defect in the building.

DELTA leadership study will result in bias-free tests

A study of leadership and decision-making styles at Wichita State University will result in a battery of bias-free administrative aptitude tests.

Project DELTA, a program to develop leadership training opportunities for women, has received a grant of $146,770 from the Women's Educational Action Program of the Office of Education for 1977-78. DELTA is an acronym for Design for Equity, Leadership, Training, Attitudes.

The program, now in its second year at Wichita State University, is designed to study the educational needs of women seeking professional and leadership role models and aspirations.

The program also includes a series of workshops and seminars designed for administrators in higher education.

"Participants in DELTA workshops have been trapped to perform leadership roles as well as in developing leadership and decision-making opportunities," says Carol Konek, director of the project.

"As a result of the work Project DELTA has done with both men and women on the WSU campus, we have designed a battery of tests which use neutral situations — those common to both men and women," Konek said. "Until recently such tests have been designed with the assumption that the person taking the test was male."

The tests are for use in self-assessment for those interested in administrative careers in higher education. As a result of the first year's program there is now a set of pilot tests which will help an individual identify leadership style, decision-making strategies and potential for administrative careers.

During the second year, the program will extend beyond the WSU campus to include 15 institutions in Iowa, Nebraska and Missouri, and 15 colleges and universities in Kansas. Participants in the four-state area will have workshop experiences corresponding to those for WSU participants during the first year of the project.

Project DELTA is one of the few projects funded nationally to study women's roles in higher education. Results of the work at WSU will be the basis for a leadership training workshop planned for Federal Region VII, which includes Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska, next summer.

According to Konek, WSU was chosen for the project because it is an institution with a positive commitment toward equity for women in education and is showing progress in that direction.

"Since 49 percent of the students at WSU are female and certainly they are the fastest rising segment of the student population it is important that we study how best to serve women in higher education," she said.

This Week

Monday

Women's Inc. is holding an open house from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in room 210, CAC for the opening of the Women's Center. Everyone is invited. Information on campus and community resources and peer counseling is available. Call Linda Smith at 689-3078 or 689-3117 for more information.

The WSU Chess Club will meet from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. in room 254, CAC. Bring chess sets.

Tuesday

Philosophy Forum will meet at noon in the CAC East Ballroom. Gerald Paske, chairperson of the philosophy department will speak on "Pornography and Student Rights." There will be time for discussion and debate after the speech.

Isabel Aretz, composer and author, will speak at 3 p.m. in room 226, Life Sciences.

Collegium Musicum will present an evening of baroque chamber music at 7:30 p.m. in the Ulrich Museum of Art. The performance is free and open to the public.

American Heart Association will sponsor a Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) class for people interested in learning the life saving technique. The class will be from 7 10 p.m. at the Heart Association Office, 2100 E. Douglas. Call 265-4238 for more information.

The Students' International Meditation Society will present an introductory lecture on the Transcendental Meditation program at noon in room 313, CAC and at 7:30 p.m. in room 205, CAC. The lecture is free and open to the public. For more information call 264-2042.

"Obscenity and the Fine Arts: The Human Experience" is a forum free to the public at 7:30 p.m. at the Broadview Hotel. It is sponsored by "Peoples' Perspectives on Obscenity," a Kansas committee for the Humanities Project.

College debate tourney to start Nov. 19 at WSU

The 22nd Annual Mel Moorhouse Invitational College Forensics Tournament will be held Nov. 19 to 21 at Wichita State University.

The tournament will be hosted by the Speech Communication Department and the WSU Debate Society.

Last year 48 colleges and universities from Kansas, Colorado, Utah, Montana, California, South Dakota, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas, Missouri, Minnesota, Illinois and Alabama attended the tournament. More than 110 debate teams competed in junior and senior debate divisions last year.

The topic for debate this year is:

"Resolved that U.S. law enforcement agencies should be given significantly greater freedom in the investigation and/or prosecution of felony crime."

In addition to debate, four other individual events will take place in persuasive speaking, oral interpretation, extemporaneous speaking and individual debate.

Preliminary rounds for individual events will be held Nov. 19 with debate rounds beginning the same day and continuing through Sunday. Elimination rounds will be held Nov. 21.

John F. Schunk, director of forensics at WSU, is director of the tournament.

Practice rowboat wins prize

A mechanical boat-rowing device designed by Wichita State University students which allows an oarsman to exercise on land and measure his rowing output simultaneously has won the second place award of $750 in the 1977 Student Engineering Design Competition.

The design was prepared by William E. Decker, a senior engineering student at WSU, and Steve Hurd and Craig Bradley, both May 1977 graduates. Their instructor was Dr. J.A. Alic, associate professor of mechanical engineering.

Sponsored by the Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation, the Student Engineering Design Competition annually grants awards to both graduate and undergraduate students in structural and mechanical engineering. The foundation granted $23,800 in awards to 67 students of engineering and technology at 26 universities and colleges in 1977.

OTTAWA — Once a symbol of law and order in the Wild West, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police has come under sharp fire for alleged excesses in its more recent role as Canada's defender against subversion.

Recent disclosures link the RCMP to a growing list of break-ins against leftists and French separatist groups in the early 1970s.

MOSCOW — Soviet officials seem unsure whether to continue attacking independent-minded "Eurocommunists" or to placate them in hopes of maintaining Communist unity.

Eurocommunism developed in the past two years as Communist parties in France, Spain, Italy and other West European countries declared independence from Moscow.

TEL AVIV — Israel freed Greek Catholic Archbishop Hilarion Capudji from prison and deported him Sunday following a plea by Pope Paul VI for the release of the convicted weapons smuggler.

The 55-year-old archbishop was put on a plane from Ramleh Prison near Tel Aviv, where he had served almost three years of a 12-year sentence for running weapons across the Lebanese border to Palestinian guerrillas in Israel.

ACROSS

PHOENIX — Plumber James Robison and contractor Max Dunlap were convicted Sunday of first-degree murder and conspiracy in the bomb-slaying of investigative reporter Don Bolles.

Bolles was fatally injured June 2, 1976, when a homemade bomb exploded beneath his car as he backed from a parking space at the Clarendon House Hotel. Bolles survived for 11 days, and lost both arms and a leg before dying.

TOCCOA — At least 37 persons, most of them students and their families asleep at a small Bible college, died early Sunday when an earthen dam burst and sent a 30-foot wall of water smashing through the college campus.

The breakup of the dam at about 1:30 a.m. sent tons of water over 186-foot-high Toccoa Falls onto the lower campus of Toccoa Falls Bible College, where some 250 people lived in dormitories, houses and mobile homes at the foot of the falls.

NEW YORK — According to Margaret Baker, a psychologist who teaches at Chestnut Hill College in Philadelphia, children whose parents both work and who spend part of each day with babysitters can grow up just as well adjusted as children whose mothers stay home all day.

"Research shows that even the best meaning adult can only spend a maximum of six hours a day in meaningful interaction with children," Baker told a seminar on two-career families Sunday. "The mother who doesn't work spends a lot of time with extra activities, such as volunteer work and tennis, and often doesn't feel the pressing need to spend time with her child."

Tripodal sculptor Rosati in residence here this week

Sculptor James Rosati, creator of Wichita's Tripodal, the environmental sculpture at Century II, will be in residence at Wichita State University this week.

Rosati will work with WSU students and faculty in small groups during his stay, according to Donald K. Schule, WSU associate professor of studio arts and sculpture.

Today through Thursday, Rosati will meet with advanced sculpture students and faculty members in the sculpture area in Henrion Annex from 10 a.m. to noon. He will critique students' sculptures and conduct informal discussion.

In the afternoon, Rosati will meet with a group of Schule's students who have been assigned a project which includes the selection of an appropriate site and the design for a public sculpture. Rosati will visit the student-selected sites and discuss and evaluate the student designs.

Tuesday from 4 to 6 p.m., Rosati will conduct an informal question and answer session in the art history lecture room, room 210 McKnight. The session will be open to interested persons.

The Rosati residency is sponsored by the Price R. and Flora A. Reid Foundation.

Rosati, who has been a member of the Yale University faculty since 1963, divides his time between his Third Avenue studio in New York City and New Haven.

Originally trained as a violinist, he was playing with the Pittsburgh String Symphony at 19. Rosati attended the Leonardo da Vinci Academy in New York for a time. His first full-time sculpting experience was with the Pittsburgh local program for the arts under the sponsorship of the WPA.

During the 1950's, Rosati's work was exhibited widely in the United States and abroad. Until the early 1960's, however, most of his works were either in stone or modeled in plaster or wax and cast in bronze. He was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1964.

"We've got a feeling you're gonna like us."

Motion picture studios annually release their big crop of movies just before Christmas. Avid flick fans, basically an impatient lot, have been beating down the doors at the M&P offices, demanding a sneak preview of the new shows to be released next month. We are slaves to our public. What follows, then, is a listing and brief synopsis (albiet partial) of those upcoming films.

Walking Tall, Dancing Small— Buford Pusser, Sammy Davis, Jr.

Story of an aging Vaudeville song-and-dance man (Davis), who teams up with a small town Southern sheriff (Pusser) to combat corruption and racial prejudice wherever they may find it.

Lots of action as the sheriff beats people to the ground with a large stick so that the hooper can practice his "I Got Rhythm" dance routine on their heads.

In a surprise ending, the dancer pulls the sheriff out of his patrol car, takes away his stick and promises to give him, "one whack for every year you honkies oppressed us." Davis tells Pusser he figures that to be about 300 years.

As the credits roll, Pusser is short 187 years of fulfilling Davis' wishes. Whap! Whap! Make that 185 years.

If This Is Wednesday, This Must Be Acid — Burgess Meridith, Jackie Gleason, E. Howard Hunt, Fred McMurray, Ellen Corby, Chief Dan George, Scatman Crothers.

A care facility for the aged is livened up by the zany antics of Chief One Toke (Dan George) who introduces the oldsters to the wonderful world of drugs. As the plot progresses, everyone gets into the act, buying and using illicit substances. Although the movie is basically a comedy, some poignant dialogue does occur. In one scene, Laetria (E. Howard Hunt) says to Jacuzzi (Fred McMurray), "Can you dig the Depression? I went through that whole trip, Dad!" Jacuzzi allows as how he can "relate" to that.

OOOGA: The Killer Airhorn —

Dan Blocker, Zazu Pitts, Jill Ireland, Armando Reeke and David Soul as "Bucky."

Oooga, the friendly airhorn goes berserk after his wife, Hooter (Jill Ireland) is stolen by an auto parts theft ring. Oooga kills 57 mechanics by blasting their brains out of their collective noses before being befriended by Bucky, a down-on-his-luck used-car salesman. Bucky and Oooga set out to find Hooter. They don't.

Semi-Soft — Jimmy Stewart, Stuart Granger, Farley Granger, Nick Danger, Burt Reynolds, Dinah Shore, Divine and introducing Mazola Martine as "Wool," and Olivia Newton-John as "Lungs."

The story of a culinary scientist, Bert Stein (Divine) and his two wacky lab assistants, Poot (Dinah Shore) and Bink (Farley Granger), who attempt to develop a form of oleo-margarine that will not become solid when refrigerated. It's a crazy scene when, at the lab's annual Christmas party, the gang covers Lungs with polyunsaturated corn oil and attempts to pick a lock with her head. Wool is disturbed.

Annie Get Your Gum — Charo, Xavier Cugat, Desi Arnaz, Fernando Llamas, Carmen Miranda and the Hollywood High Pep Club.

A farcical, lighthearted, nostalgic WW II musical about a gaggle of girl Marines who re-capture islands in the Pacific theater after "our boys" have bungled the job.

Charo, as Sgt. Annie, is especially memorable in this, her film debut, when she "coochie-chooies" the Japanese commander during a striking rendition of the "Reconnaissance Rhumba." The troops (Hollywood High Pep Club) join Sgt. Annie for the Busby Berkleystyle finale, "Let's Dump the Japs in the Drink."

Where the Bombs Are — Connie Francis, David Carridine, David Cassidy, Florence Henderson, Ida Lupino, Farah Fawcett-Majors, Gig Young and Stare, the Bugle-Mouthed Bass.

Hollywood once again returns to those devil-may-care days of the big-budget musical with this silly, caper-filled show based on the situation in Northern Ireland.

A group of Catholic high school kids and a group of kids from a Protestant high school decide, simultaneously, to pop off for a holiday on the beach. Little does each denomination know what's in store for them. Before they even leave Belfast, half the Protestant kids are laid up in the hospital because of fragmentation bombs some local pranksters planted in their hot rods. Enroute to the beach, the two groups collide, have a minor battle, decide it's all fruitless, and plan a jointly-produced variety show to entertain their parents, stop the bombing, and raise money for their pals' hospital bills. Show tunes include: "Some Explosive Evening," "Can't Take My Sights Off of You," "It's a Grand Night for Sniping," "The Sadder, But Wiser Amputee," and "No More Nanette."

Letters

Computer error

Editor:

Last Friday's story on computerized on-line bibliographic search services now being offered at the Wichita Public Library does a disservice to students and faculty at Wichita State University in that it does not point out several important considerations. In the first place, the (WSU) Library offered such services as early as 1974. Since then, service has expanded and now extends to nearly one hundred bibliographic data bases. Last year alone, the University Library conducted over 500 searches for students and faculty.

Most important, however, is the fact that the cost is lower. According to The Sunflower article, the Public Library expects to charge between $15 and $30 for an average search. The University Library charges much less. The average charge to members of the University community is about $7.50.

There is yet another important consideration. These data bases do not, as the story states, "tell a researcher almost everything he or she needs to know about anything." They are complex tools that, in most cases, can serve a purpose, but it takes a great deal of experience and sophistication to use them well. At the University Library each searcher is a subject specialist librarian who has earned or is working toward a graduate degree in a particular discipline and who also has special training in searching the data bases. The subject specialist librarian is familiar with all types of sources in a field and can recommend the best strategy. Sometimes a computer search is recommended, sometimes not. If a search is undertaken, knowledge of the field is important. The librarian must know the technical language because success and failure often depends on selecting the correct terms.

Ignorance apparent?

Editor:

Pardon me, but your ignorance is showing! I refer to The Sunflower editorial, "Will Goblins Be in Our Water?"

Fluoride is an accumulative poison (why do greenhouses have to use unfluoridated water?) Fluoride probably is a carcinogen, and several cities can attest to the fact that fluoride can corrode plumbing, given a certain chemical makeup of the natural water.

The bichemist who discovered streptomycin, Dr. Albert Schatz, makes an interesting comment on medical politics in Cancer News Journal, Vol. 10, No. 6: "Ever since U.S. dentistry 'created' fluoridation, it has been forced to defend it in the face of increasing world-wide opposition from many responsible dentists, physicians, physiologists, biochemists and others. As a result, the reputation of U.S. dentistry has become irrevocably bound to the fate of fluoridation. The stage has now been reached where the rejection of fluoridation will irreparably discredit the American Dental Association, the National Institute of Dental Research in the U.S. Public Health Service, and many other agencies which have stubbornly supported fluoridation."

It is no crime to admit an error; many well-intentioned people laughed at Semmelweis when he said dirty hands spread childbed fever, at Galileo, at Pasteur, ad infinitum. Jacques Catier reported in 1534 that a St. Lawrence River Indian had shown him how to cure scurvy with Vitamin C. Yet, medical figures in Europe called this a "witch-doctor" cure. Two hundred sixty years later, the British Navy became known as "Limeys" because they carried limes aboard ship to prevent scurvy.

Please do your own thinking! Don't swallow the PAP handed down by the bureaucratic Establishment, of which the U.S. Public Health Service is the head. Remember the swine flue vaccine!

Did you know that Dr. Feingold says hyperactive children must not have fluoridated water? Do you know that the Journal of the American Society for Preventive Dentistry cautions that .5 mg. daily for children birth to age three may be "at the very borderline of tolerable limit" (Apr. 5, 197, p. 5)?

It's your body—you should know what is being prescribed (it is a prescription drug) for you by a few Doctors on the Board of Health. Fluoride can be obtained in tablet or liquid form for those who wish it.

Students at K. U. are reading and investigating. I challenge you to study for yourselves. For starters, read The Fluoridation Question — Panacea or Poison by Anne-Lish Gotsche, and Fluoridation and Truth Decay by Gladys Caldwell and Phillip E. Zanfagna, M.D.

Let's have freedom of choice in this matter!

Jardine gets a new lab look

The third floor of Jardine Hall is getting a face lift this fall and part of the floor will be used for new foreign language laboratories, according to Doug Yanney, director of the Foreign Languages and Linguistics Laboratories at Wichita State University.

The new foreign language laboratories will occupy the west half of the third floor, with the Romance Language and German departmental offices covering the east side.

The foreign language labs are presently on the second floor of Jardine Hall and have been operating in the two-room space for the past 15 years.

The new labs will offer a 48-position library lab for independent study and a 10-position special-study laboratory for both audio and visual language related materials.

The new laboratories are scheduled to be ready for use at the beginning of spring semester.

How to convince Mom and Dad to buy you a pre-paid Trailways ticket home

Check boxes, clip out, mail to parents.

Dear Mom and Dad,

Things are swell here at college except, of course, the food, which is so bad that I'm down to 91 lbs. living on salted water sending samples to the biology lab hoping you'll buy me a prepaid Trailways ticket home to get a decent meal.

I sure could go for some of Mom's good ol' apple pie Riz de Veau à la Financière blood transfusions Trailways tickets paid for at your local station and picked up at mine.

Dad, next time we get together, I want to tell you about my part-time job how I suddenly realized what a truly wise and magnanimous fellow you are where I left your car last New Year's Eve thanks for making this trip possible with a prepaid Trailways ticket.

I also need some advice on a personal matter my backhand where one can hire decent servants these days how to separate you from a few bucks for a prepaid Trailways ticket.

Got to sign off now and go to class to pieces drop three or four courses to the Trailways station to see if anyone sent me a prepaid ticket to get out of here for the weekend.

Love,

P.S. Just go to the Trailways station and pay for my ticket, tell them who it's for and where I am. I pick the ticket up here when I go to catch the bus.

There is a $5 service charge for prepaid tickets. The user will be notified by the nearest Trailways terminal when the ticket is ready. Prepaid round-trip tickets are good for one year from the date of purchase. Prepaid one-way tickets are good for 90 days from the date of purchase.

WSU cross country team finishes fourth in MVC

By MIKE CUENCA

Wichita State University's cross country team traveled to Canyon, Tex., Saturday to compete in the Missouri Valley Conference cross country championships and finished a disappointing fourth in the team standings.

The meet was won by the host team, West Texas State, which placed all five of its scoring runners in the top 12 finishers to total 28 points. Second and third places went to Southern Illinois University and Drake University with 62 and 67 points, respectively.

WSU scored 100 points on the way to its most disappointing finish since 1971. Before this meet, the Shockers had five straight MVC championships before finishing second last year behind SIU.

"West Texas just wasn't to be denied," WSU coach Herm Wilson said after the meet. "They ran an excellent race and they knew the course. They were great."

Shocker captain Terry Glenn missed his chance to win an MVC individual championship, falling back in the race with an aggravated hip pointer and finishing 13th.

Kendall Smith was the Shockers' highest finisher with a sixth place

KAKE to feature women athletes

By KATHY IVY

On tomorrow night's 6:30 p.m. edition of Second Tuesday, KAKE-TV's monthly news-magazine presentation, reporter Mark Chamberlin takes a look at the lonely world of women's athletics, featuring the lonesome Wichita State University women's volleyball team.

The footage was shot during a Shocker practice last week which found the WSU home season laid to rest and only two road trips shy of the year's conclusion. It is labeled "Women's Athletics: No Fireworks...No Fans."

Chamberlin examines the reasons behind the sparse crowds at the Shocker games and explains that the women will play, even though they don't hear the crowds playing their song. The beauty of the piece lies within a segment of slow motion footage coupled with a solemn, moody piece of music.

Although most of the team members were satisfied with the idea of the piece, it was enough to draw an inquiry from one.

"Why can't we just get coverage from the sports guys?" she asked.

KAKE's weekend sportscaster, Mike Kennedy, responded that "there just isn't enough time to mention everything." Kennedy went on to say that the thin coating of fans results in their conclusion that people are simply not interested in the infant women's athletics.

The show will shed light to viewers who may otherwise not be conscious of female athletes.

Course conditions devastating to Shocker cross country team finish. He was more than a minute behind West Texas' Joseph Kemei, who set a five mile course-record with clocking 24:08.06. "Several factors went against us," Wilson said. "The most devastating factor being the condition of the course. It had to be the most uneven, hazardous course that I've seen in my 11 years here.

"When we arrived in Canyon and saw the course, I knew we were in trouble. Terry's hip hadn't been giving him much trouble and we thought he would be alright for the race, but the course just aggravated his hip," Wilson said.

Early in the race, the course took another victim, as Shocker Brent Coffman stepped in a hole and finished 43rd.

"Brent was running with Kendall and he looked strong," Wilson said. "But near the three-quarter mile mark he found that hole."

The meet finishes the regular season for the Shockers and
