KMUW Plans Controversial New Program

Plans for a new program designed to provide the students (and faculty) of WSU with a free voice on controversial issues are being completed at KMUW, in conjunction with the Campus Activities Center Programs Board.

John Shiner, KMUW news director, has announced that he has presented plans for the student participation program to Dean James Rhatigan, and has received Dean Rhatigan's approval and suggestions for final arrangements. Plans include having a public address system at a location near the CAC where interested persons may have the opportunity to express their views concerning issues of student interest, as well as those of a controversial nature. Prepared statements will be encouraged.

Moral issues, sex, Viet Nam, Civil Rights, WSU problems, and many other controversial topics will be just some of the issues under discussion in the new program.

An announcement will soon be made indicating the program time and the location of the public address system.

Shiner has expressed hope that this type of program will become a regular part of the KMUW programming, if enough interest is shown, in order to give the students and faculty an opportunity to discuss many provocative topics.

WSU Coed Awarded '65 Gore Scholarship

Bobbe Jo Hannan, WSU sophomore, has been selected to receive the 1965 Gore Scholarship at Wichita State.

The announcement was made by Henry Malone, scholarship counselor at WSU, with the authorization of Theodore Gore, co-donor of the stipend.

Miss Hannan, a runner-up in the 1965 competition, will receive the scholarship for $1,250 per year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Hannan, 3101 Dupont, Topeka, Kan.

A 1965 graduate of Highland Park High School, the recipient has been active in debate, serving terms as president and secretary-treasurer of the National Forensic League and also as a member of the Kansas State Debate Team.

She won eight debate trophies and was selected "Outstanding Debater of 1964-65" while in high school. Miss Hannan was a member of the Student Congress Board of her high school, was active in Pep Council, H-Club, and Episcopal Young Churchmen.

She had an A grade average throughout her high school career and was ranked third academically in her senior class of 330.

During her freshman year at WSU, she won first place in a debate tournament at Nebraska State College, Kearney, Neb., and she placed second, third and fourth at three other debate competitions at Kansas State, Ottawa University, and Oklahoma University respectively.

Miss Hannan is active in the WSU Student Government Association, is a board member of the Associated Women Students, and is a member of Delta Delta Delta social sorority.

The 1966 Gore scholarship winner is Donna Roths, Towanda, Kan.

SGA Voting Goes Well First Day

Voters in the SGA elections used up the first 600 constitutional referendum ballots by 10:30 a.m. Thursday morning.

Election Commissioner Keith Thompson said, "They all seem to be taking one."

"I don't know if they are voting, but everyone is picking up a ballot," Thompson added.

More Ballots were run off by the commissioner who was pleased that the ballots were being used so readily.

Voting will continue Friday from 8:50 a.m. in Area 3 of the CAC. Ballots will be counted after the election and the results will be posted outside Area 3.

WSU TO ALTER STUDENT ID CARDS

By CLIFF TARPY, Editor-in-Chief

The student number system at WSU will be simplified starting this fall, as the University switches from issuing a new number each time the need arises, in favor of utilizing the student's permanent social security number.

EVERY STUDENT WHO DOES NOT HAVE A SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER SHOULD MAKE APPLICATION NOW FOR A NUMBER.

The student who pre-enrolls during the period May 5-19 for next fall MUST present his social security number and students enrolling in the fall must have a social security number before he will be given enrollment materials.

Starting in the fall, the student ID card will consist of a permanent jiffold size plastic picture ID-card bearing the student's picture and social security number.

Students will be charged one dollar. The fee will be collected and pictures taken during pre-enrollment to enable the student to receive his ID-card at enrollment this September.

This card will be the only student identification card issued to the student for the rest of his enrollment at WSU. The card need not be purchased each semester as has been done in the past.

The new WSU ID-Card becomes valid each semester when presented along with a Certificate of Registration properly stamped

AWS Opens New Posts

Applications are now available for open positions on Associated Women's Students Council in Student Services in Morrison Hall.

Deadline for applying is April 22 at 4 p.m. The applications should also be turned into Student Services. To be eligible, a coed must be a full-time student with a 2.00 grade point average.

The general council posts will be selected April 25, by the present members.

showing that the student has registered and paid fees.

The Certificate of Registration will be issued for each subsequent registration.

A plastic container in which to store the permanent ID-Card and the Certificate of Registration for the current semester will be given to each student.

The holder contains two compartments, one for the student ID-Card and one for the current Certificate of Registration. The two halves fold over into one billfold size pack.

Each student who pre-enrolls must have his picture taken and must have his social security number.

For those students who do not have their social security number, the following forms are available at the Registrar's Office, Jardine Hall:

(1) The form on which a student may make application for a social security number.

(2) The form on which a student may report a change of name.

(3) The form on which a student who has lost his social security card may apply for a duplicate card.

CYR To Elect New Officers For Next Year

Annual election of officers for WSU Collegiate Young Republicans will be held 2 p.m. Sunday in Rm. 124, Political Science.

"Plans are being formulated for this summer's State Primary elections. Primary candidates yearly solicit support from energetic college students," said Young Republican Roger Turner.

"This, of course, gives the CYR the opportunity for practical application for our own political patterns of thought. The fundamentals of politics are applied over and over again during a primary campaign thus enlightening the apprentice to the thickness of politics," said Turner.

Stoll To Be Pep Head; Cheerleaders Named

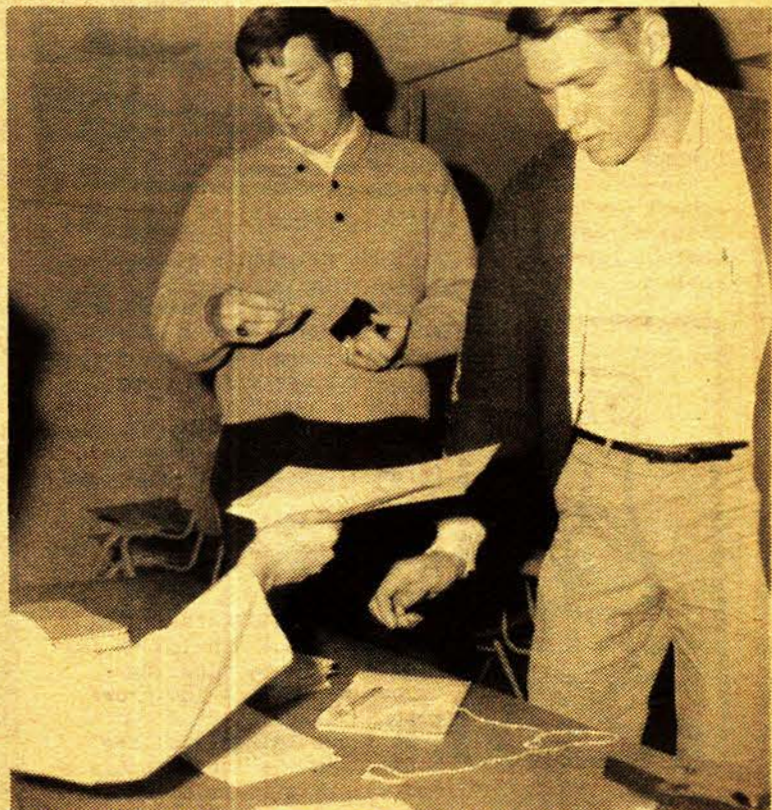

The cheerleaders for 1966-67 are Pat Allen, Cindy Bowers, Sandy Hamm, Leanna Ingalls, Luann Leach, and Carol Mohrbacher.

Selected as alternates who will also cheer during the football season were Phyllis Hollander and Nicki Wolf. Both groups were selected by Pep Council April 6.

Over 90 Students Attend First Meeting Of WSU Honors Society

Over 90 students attended the first meeting of the WSU Honors Society April 11.

The Society is now officially established with a constitution approved by SGA and Society members.

Dr. William Nelson, Honor Coordinator, opened the meeting with the historical aspect of the Honors Program, its past activities and the general goals the Society could adopt. He suggested that the Society could act as a "central nervous system" for the whole honors program and perform services beneficial to the campus community, as well as to the individuals of the society.

Mr. George Stevens, counselor, then conducted a session to establish specific goals for the Society as well as to help the Honors students become acquainted with each other. Among the numerous suggestions were a desire for more Honors courses, more controversial speakers, "Egghead Week"-type lectures, and more social functions sponsored by the Honors Program.

The next meeting of the Honors Society will be May 10 in the CAC East Ballroom at 7:30 p.m. Election of officers will be held. Any eligible member may volunteer to run for an officer and should turn in his name and desired officer to Dr. Nelson, 201 Fiske Hall or put it in the designated box in the Honors office, 305 Fiske Hall.

A list of candidates will be posted and kept up to date on the Honor's Bulletin board. Deadline for filing is April 29.

Students who join at the May 10 meeting may still vote, but may not run for officer.

WSU Engineers Hold Open House

There will be a student at each display to give a brief talk, and he will be glad to answer any questions.

The Engineering Banquet will be held Saturday evening following Open House at the East Armory. Tickets for the banquet are $2.25 per person.

Former Dean of the School of Engineering, Mr. Kenneth Razak, will be the guest speaker.

Several awards will also be presented by the best displays.

Hotel Broadview
Wichita, Kansas

Major Lanz was Commander-in-Chief of the Cuban Air Force before and shortly after Castro came to power. Recognizing that he and his country had been betrayed into Communists' hands, he quickly renounced Castro as a Communist agent via newspapers, radio and TV.

Major Lanz levels several accusations at the U.S. State Department, and reveals the names of so-called Cuban refugees now in this country whom he believes to be little better than Communist "plants" now being infiltrated into refugee Cuban groups in order to neutralize all potential armed offenses."

Major Lanz' gripping description of his last days on Cuban soil are matched in seriousness by his reports of leftist persecutions and attempts on his life since he came to America. It is a shocking, startling message that every American needs to take to heart.

Tongue In Chic

Latest College Slang Told By Mlle. Board

By JOY-LYN UPDIKE
Staff Writer

In January the College Board members were sent questionnaires to fill out on break and slang. Here are some of the slang terms from all parts of the country. Some of it's old, some new, but it eventually rolls around to the mid-west.

Although Merseyside slang such as fab, mod, gear, and luv are by no means dead, many of the board members favor making up their own personal slang expressions. These they trace back to conversations where, for lack of a proper work, a substitute came into being.

The duration of words like gleeb, nark, zoom and gonk is questionable but they are original and being used now. So are rhyming two-word expressions such as wierdy-beardy, AC/DC, and artsy-craftsy, or non-rhyming alliterations like grade grubbers, Cathy Coeds, green giants and flaming ferns.

Phrased slang gives you "out of your tree" and "Are you putting me on?" These are pretty well known all over the country. There are some deviations such as "out of your gourd" or "off the wall," also understood in most regions.

"Blowing your cool" was only around the major schools for a few months before being picked up throughout the country. At American University in Washington, D.C. it became "shooting your cool" and at Ohio State it's "cooling your lilies." At Boston University it became "blow your mind" and at Temple University in Pennsylvania it's "losing your couth."

Differences in definition can occur within the same state. Take the word "trip." At the University of California at Berkeley it means being on drugs (taking a trip). At Stanford, a trip is your "hang-up," your particular thing at the moment. At San Jose State it may mean either of the above, depending on the tone of voice.

Or Punt. At Wellesley to "punt" is to not do anything, or goof off. At Simmons to "punt" is to ask to be excused from, or to improvise in an emergency.

One unique bit of slang is the use of the erudite euphemism in place of the popular, more understandable expression, such as "take an inauditory injection" for "stick it in your ear," and a plain old good night kiss becomes "a pyrotechic emotional need."

Next there's the negative slang or the switch on the positive. When asked, "Did I wake you?", the negative slang reply is "No, I was only sleeping," or "Did you have spaghetti for dinner?", "No, I had spaghetti for dinner." Descending to an even lower level of sarcasm, you say "he's a real winner" meaning "he's really a loser," or "that's real nice" when it's really awful. Probably the most confusing negative slang is "that's close," which translated means that you have just said something very unlikely, but the statement has been accepted.

Another thing is the form of film, television and famous book slang in classifying people or objects within this framework. At Ithica College, for example, shoes are Mary Poppinses, a loser is a Bobby Baker, and an un-cool person is a Charlie Brown.

Maxwell Smart's "Would you believe..." has caught on almost everywhere and quotes from Bogart films are very in: "Here's looking at you, kid" and "If you ever need me, whistle."

At Wellesley if you suffer from bad breath you have "zoo breath" or suffer from "cage mouth." At Bennett College, N.Y., "throwing a zoo" is throwing party. You're "bent out of shape" instead of being upset at San Diego State. At Radford having a "funnel mouth" means that you talk too much, and at Antioch it's "How's your bod" for "How are you?"

ISSUE INFORMATION INTERPRETATION

How To Get Out The Vote? Get Out Of Class!

That's right. The Sunflower is attempting to leave students no possible way to excuse themselves from their responsibility of voting today in SGA elections.

The last excuse left is, "Well, I have classes straight through today and then I go straight to work."

This might be one of the better excuses but at least one remedy is plausible: instructors can let students out early during morning classes, thereby giving working students the opportunity to cast their votes.

Of course, there is the chance of some fastidious administrator tacking an extra ten minutes onto the final class period scheduled for this semester in order to make up for this lost class time. However, the instructors should be willing to take this gamble - it might be fun to watch the administration try such a trick.

And, for those instructors who are concerned with being fair and democratic to everyone, why not let the class vote on whether to recess class early, or stay the full hour?

Instructors, you can't lose: If the students vote to stay the full hour, you can delude yourself into believing that your lectures REALLY CAN hold a non-captive audience. (Also, by gaining that extra ten minutes, you will then be able to S-T-R-E-T-C-H your coffee break without suffering the necessity of chewing Juicy Fruit in front of your next hour class.) On the other hand, if your students vote to recess the class early, you can make yourselves believe that the students ARE NOT going to go straight to the CAC to plop down and vegetate, but REALLY ARE going to vote in student elections and that apathy is dying at last.

How about it, instructors, will you cooperate?

Will This Happen At WSU?

Editor's Note: The University of Michigan has for several months been the focus of national interest because of the high increase in student activity. Although not to the same degree, Michigan is now experiencing conditions similar to those at the University of California at Berkeley: sharp criticism of the U.S. position in Viet Nam, loud cries for greater student freedom, and increasing demands for student representation in administrative decision making (including a demand for power for students to select the university president). In light of this fervor for power and freedom for the students, the following excerpts from an editorial in the student newspaper, The Michigan Daily, are pertinent to WSU students at this time, the last day of SGA elections.

It was the same old story retold again last week - just as dull, overworked, and non-stimulating as ever. The topic of the story was student apathy.

The University is known throughout the country as an "active" campus, a leader in student participation and reform, and a campus famous for

Species Of Typical Illini Professors Appropriate To Teachers Here

Three weeks ago, The Sunflower printed a "Scientific" categorization of students taken from Larry Beaupre's article in The Daily Illini. Since then, Larry came up with a classification for professors.

Recognizing the need for students to identify their instructors, The Sunflower reprints Larry Beaupre's article, "Prof Watching."

THE LEGEND - He can't find enough seats to put all the students in who want to take his course because they've heard so much about him. Unfortunately, when exams are passed back, The Legend becomes A Myth.

THE DRUNK - Like his student counterpart, The Drunk also cuts a great many classes or arrives with the DTs. But unlike the student, he doesn't flunk out; he's got tenure.

THE CRUSADER - Again, there is a student counterpart for this professor. But the difference is that The Crusader is just a little more obnoxious because he really believes that, as an intellectual, he knows everything - everything about Viet Nam or civil rights or politics, even though his field is mathematics or classics.

THE PROFESSIONAL PROFESSOR - Is so totally wound up in his selected field that he is completely unaware of events going on in the world around him. He is at the opposite extreme of The Crusader. He still remembers when he got in a fist fight with a colleague over the subject of the names of the flowers in Nebachadnezzar's hanging gardens.

THE RESEARCH - Isn't really as predominate as the Berkeleyites would like to think, but he does exist - back in the stacks of the library and in those swarms of beakers and glass tubings in the mysterious science laboratories. He forgets that he was originally hired to TEACH students.

THE SWEETIE - By all outward appearances, he's one heck of a good guy. Students really think they've got a fine intellectual and cultural association with him. For once, a professor appears to be just "one of the guys." But then he invites you up to his apartment for a beer and you find he's just a bit too handy - with his hands.

THE MOVER - Uses his Ph.D. and M.S. to get a date with a student. Distinguished from The Sweetie only in that he's after female students.

THE GRAD ASSISTANT - Apologizes the first day of school to his class because he's afraid they'll realize he's just a year or two removed from them and completely inexperienced. Ironically - and he does not believe it himself - he generally turns out to be an excellent teacher.

its leadership and wide support of the student activist movement. Yet only 15 per cent less than 5000 students - of the student body took the time or the interest to vote in the Student Government Council elections last week, hardly a sign of "activity."

At the same time, students are demanding a more direct and meaningful voice in the important decisions and policy-making roles of the University. They have asked for a voice in the selection of a new University president, and the Regents have broken with the past and allowed a student role in the presidential selection process.

In authorizing students, through SGC and Graduate Student Council, to set up an advisory committee on the same level with faculty and alumni advisory committees, the Regents have gone farther than any of the nation's major universities in allowing the students a voice in presidential selection.

Students are also demanding increased representation in the committee structure of the University, especially in the area of academic reform. Many committees already have students sitting on them.

The election records show, however, that student participation at the polls has not increased in proportion to student demands for increased participation in decision-making.

Increased authority demands increased interest and responsibility, and students cannot rightly expect a larger voice without accepting the corresponding responsibility.

If the whole student body, and not just a vocal minority, is really serious in its demands, the first, simplest, and most direct way to prove its interest would be to vote. SGC is theoretically the representative voice of the students, but it cannot be a strong voice, or a representative voice, if it does not have in reality the support it claims in theory.

The Readers Speak Sunflower Blasted For Support Of Candidates

To the Editor:

In regard to your article endorsing certain candidates for SGA offices, we feel that it is not the place of the Sunflower staff to "recommend" certain candidates. If the Sunflower had a competitor on campus, selection would be expected, but since it is the sole newspaper, we feel that the qualifications of ALL the candidates should have been listed and the voters, scarce as they are, should be allowed to choose who they feel is best qualified.

If the Sunflower felt these candidates were more qualified than the others, why were we not informed of these qualifications. Instead we were blindly told who to vote for with no reasoning behind it.

The area that seemed to be most slack was Proportional Representative. We were informed of 4 candidates, whereas there are 24 candidates running; we are sure that more than 4 candidates are qualified for this position. The office seems to be one of the most difficult to be elected to since there are so many candidates and very few openings.

What we are trying to say is we feel that it is unfair to give a select group of candidates an extra boost in their campaign, while others were not even represented. All candidates should have been listed and all their qualifications given.

It is not only the "place" but the obligation of every newspaper to present its readers not only the news, but also to utilize the right of comment and criticism involving issues of importance to its readers.

The theory that those newspapers who have no "competitors" (whether they be large metropolitan dailies or smaller, campus publications) should thereby be denied their right of fair comment and criticism is absurd and goes directly against the grain of the traditions of American journalism.

The vast majority of American colleges and universities have but one student newspaper. If those papers who have no "competitors" were prevented from exercising their editorial privilege in campus affairs, they would become little more than public relations blurb sheets. Also, if both "competitors" happened to endorse the same candidates, what would the non-recommended candidates do then? Demand a third "competitor" in hopes of getting the nod from someone?

True, The Sunflower should have explained more fully the reasons for their endorsements for some candidates, but that is not the important point. What is being overlooked is that the front page article was not a news story, but a statement of opinion. We made no pretenses of being the final word on any of the issues.

The Sunflower is not the only vehicle of guidance in this election. It is ultimately up to the candidates themselves to present their qualifications to the voters. The motivation behind the Student-Faculty Court decision to postpone the election was to allow the candidates more time to present their qualifications to the students.

The front page article was the result of only one interpretation of qualifications.

May we remind you that the first paragraph of the article stated "The Sunflower urges all students to vote for those candidates that THEY deem most qualified..." In this way, we made very clear that what we most desired was not blind acceptance of one opinion, but for the students to judge for themselves the students they thought most qualified.

Students Enroll In '66 Seminar, Will Receive Four Hours Credit

A special, six-week European Seminar that includes visits to both West and East Germany and seven European countries, has been announced by the Wichita State University Division of Continuing Education.

This will be the 8th year that WSU has sponsored a European Seminar.

Students participating in the seminar may enroll for four hours of college credit. Dr. David Herman, of the WSU psychology department, will serve as tour director.

The 1966 seminar will depart from New York, June 16, for London. Participants will spend approximately a week in Great Britain. Sightseeing, lectures, visits to Cambridge and Oxford, and a special visit to the Houses of Parliament are scheduled for the seminar.

The group will depart for the Netherlands June 24, where they will spend two days in Amsterdam.

A highlight of the scheduled seminar will include a four-day visit to Berlin. Seminar participants will meet East Berlin students and will visit the United States Information Service in Berlin for a political briefing, followed by a visit to the Free University.

Participants will celebrate July 4th in Prague, Czechoslovakia, following several days of lectures and sightseeing in and around Prague. Traveling by railroad, the tour will progress to Vienna, Austria. Italy will receive the longest visit by the seminar members, who will visit Venice, Florence, Rome, Milan, and will travel to Geneva, Switzerland, July 21.

To complete the tour, the seminar will extend to Paris, France, July 23, and the members will depart for the United States July 28.

According to Mrs. Helen Crockett, director of Continuing Education, the fee for the seminar will be approximately $1,350, including meals, housing, and transportation costs.

Registrations are still being accepted at the office of Continuing Education at WSU.

Students already registered to participate in WSU's 1966 European Seminar are: Carol Eaton, Charles Eby, Louise Harrell, Debbie Herman, Ralph Jimenez, Paulette Lightner, Jean Miles, Deanell Reece, Mary Lou Starkweather, Anne Tait, and Nancy West.

Spanish Department Sets Mexico Seminar

The WSU Spanish Department will offer a summer program to be conducted in Puebla, Mexico, for undergraduate or graduate credit.

Henry Malone, director of scholarships and assistant professor of English, will direct the seminar, according to Dr. Eugene Savaino, head of the WSU Spanish department.

A minimum of 20 people must sign up by May 15 or the program will be cancelled.

The six-week session, the first of its kind to be offered to WSU students, will run from June 27 to Aug. 6. Participants may earn six hours of credit by living in private homes, having special tutors, taking courses in Mexican literature, advanced conversation and Spanish civilization.

Another special feature will give two students two hours daily with a townsman who will show them the city and its special attractions.

The fee for the seminar will be $265 and it will include the WSU fees, room, meals and a fee that will cover excursions in and around Puebla. The fee, however, does not include transportation to and from Mexico. This part of the trip will be left to the participant.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the Department of Spanish at WSU.

KC Performing Arts Drop Ticket Prices

Special student-faculty ticket prices have been announced by the Performing Arts Foundation of Kansas City for the matinee performance, May 29, of its second annual production, "A Celebration of Henry Purcell," in the Kansas City Music Hall.

Thomson, composer of "Four Saints in Three Acts" and "The Mother of Us All," both in collaboration with Gertrude Stein, is the recently announced recipient of the Gold Medal from the National Institute of Letters for 1966.

The second part of the Celebration will be "The Faerie Queen," a ballet expressing the conflict and decision of woman between love and duty. The ballet was commissioned by the Foundation especially for Dame Margot Fonteyn.

America's first major production of Purcell's one act opera in English, "Dido and Aeneas," will complete the program. The modern edition of this work edited by Margaret Laurie and Thurston Dart will be directed by Ellis Rabb.

Shocker Baseball Team Hosts Small Schools Before Arkansas

Coach Verlyn Anderson's baseball team will have two small-college opponents this weekend before traveling to Fayetteville, Ark., to take on the University of Arkansas in a doubleheader next Saturday.

The Shockers will travel to Ft. Hayes today and will host Friends University in a doubleheader tomorrow. Wichita is sporting a 3-3 win-loss slate going into these games.

Anderson has been "very pleased with the progress of the infield" after a shaky start. "This is due primarily to the players being more settled now," he said.

The infield has shown Bob McCalla at first, Mike Whitt at second, Don Cantwell and Jack Fisher at shortstop and Tom Hall or Jerry Daniels at third with Barry Greenfield catching.

Cantwell and pitcher Rich Gaddie, both sophomores, are leading the club in hitting with identical .400 marks. McCalla and junior first baseman Ron Tyler are next with .333 batting averages.

"I've been disappointed with our hitting overall," Anderson said, "particularly during the Phillips Tournament. We could use some decent weather to get our hitting eyes sharp again."

The coach had praise for right-hander Ken Dean's pitching. Dean, named to the All-Missouri Valley second team last year, has a 2-1 record, including a one-hitter. Thus far he has 25 strikeouts in 21 innings and a 0.43 earned run average. The pitching staff has allowed 1.33 earned runs per game.

Larry Zambo, a junior hurler, injured his wrist in a football scrimmage the morning before he was scheduled to appear against Nebraska and probably won't see action for several weeks.

BACK TO WORK — Wichita State's football team resumes spring practices after a week of Easter vacation. Head coach George Karras given instructions to the offensive line in one of the afternoon workouts.
