$2.5 Million Increase Sought For 1973 Fiscal Year Budget

WSU President Clark D. Ahlberg has submitted to the Kansas Board of Regents a $11.9 million operating budget for fiscal 1973, an increase of $2.5 million over the 1971-72 budget.

If approved by the regents and the state legislature, the additional funds will be used for salary increases for University employes and faculty, additional faculty, new programs and numerous capital improvements.

WSU, with the five other state colleges and universities, submitted budget requests to the regents Friday, June 25. Requests for 1973 from the six schools totaled $200 million.

Almost one half WSU's requested increase, $1.4 million, will be used to increase salaries of present University employes and to hire 30 new faculty members and 30 new classified employes.

Dr. Ahlberg requested 12 per cent salary increases for teaching personnel, 11.6 per cent increases for student employes, and 8.9 per cent pay hikes for employes under civil service classification.

Included in the 1973 requests are $78,256 and $30,000 for expansion of two new WSU programs, minority studies and administration of justice, respectively. Dr. Ahlberg also requested a $42,016 increase in the Center for Urban Studies' budget.

WSU's Summer Session, College of Health Related Professions and physical plant operations requests total $844,046 for improvement of their programs.

The University also requested $1.3 million for building improvements. Under this heading are the remodeling of McKinley Hall and the Math-Physics building. The capital improvements line item request calls for construction of three new tennis courts, replacement of heating and air conditioning systems in Morrison Hall and conversion of Grace Wilke Hall for academic use.

WSU's 1973 budget request represents a 26.1 per cent increase from this year's $9.4 million budget. WSU is anticipating a 180-student increase in the fall of 1972.

The budget requests will be screened by the regents at their July 16 meeting, before being sent to the state budget division.

Newspapers Win Court Decision

WASHINGTON AP--The Supreme Court on a six to three vote Wednesday permitted the New York Times and the Washington Post to publish stories based on the secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam war.

The majority opinion said the government had not met the burden of showing justification for a restraint. Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Harry A. Blackmun and John M. Harlan dissented.

CAC Has Financial Trouble, Students Must Pay More

The Kansas Board of Regents, at their Friday, June 25, meeting, authorized WSU to impose a new student fee assessment in addition to the present campus privilege fee.

The new flat fee will tax each student a total of $2.25 for one to eight hours; $2.50 for nine to 17 hours, and $2.75 for 18 or more credit hours.

Additional funds generated by the new fee will be used to aid the financially troubled CAC, which operates strictly on student funds, according to Dr. Clark D. Ahlberg, WSU President.

When asked to compare the CAC increase in fees with the Cassna Stadium fee increase, Dr. Ahlberg explained that the comparison was not a good analogy.

Dr. Ahlberg noted that the students voted on whether or not they "wanted to incur the debt of the stadium." In the case of the CAC, the debt already exists, therefore, it was within the province of SGA to approve an increase.

Dr. Ahlberg also noted that the fee increase has come about through inflation and rising living costs. The WSU President stated that the new CAC building addition, completed in 1969, was also a contributing factor in the increased cost of operation.

He noted that because of expanded building space, maintenance costs were increased and food service facilities nearly doubled, while "the market for these services has remained relatively stable," thus increasing the cost per capita of operations of the building.

The increase in fees is effective for the 1971 fall semester.

Classes to Meet, Offices to Close Monday, July 5

All classes and workshops will meet as scheduled Monday, July 5, according to Dr. Gordon Terwilliger, director of summer school.

The Campus Post Office will be closed all day July 5. General University offices will be closed except for such personnel who are deemed essential for the conducting of classes and workshops.

Orientation '71

Frosh Influx Begins Monday

Orientation '71, a period of registration and familiarization with college life for new students, will swing into action Monday, July 5, and continue through July 19 at WSU.

Approximately 1,500 new freshmen are expected to visit the campus for one of the 24-hour sessions during the two-week period.

While at WSU the students will complete registration for the fall semester (except for fee payment), talk with faculty in their major field of interest and participate in several small group sessions with a student leader.

In addition to University faculty and staff, the program is operated by a 17-member staff of students who have been participating in intensive training sessions since mid-May.

During the training sessions the student leaders were instructed in group dynamics, learning how to put the groups at ease and create an atmosphere of informality and relaxation.

An Unconventional View

Cost of the session is $5 per student or $7 for those who wish to spend the night in a campus dormitory. Included in the fee are the costs of a University catalog, fall class schedule and a personal plan and record book.

Students who have decided on an academic major should attend the session specified for their academic field.

In the afternoon students will complete registration for the fall semester and take a campus life tour, "an unconventional view of student activities and the Wichita State campus."

Each session begins at 5 p.m. and continues through 5 p.m. the next day. Following registration for the session at 6 p.m. in Morrison Hall, all students will meet in the CAC Shocker Lounge for a welcome, introductions and an overview of the program. Following the general session participants will be divided into groups of 10 to 15 students for discussions and socializing.

Student Advisors

The following morning students will meet with Dr.

WSU Theater's 'Blithe Spirit' To Haunt Wilner Auditorium

"Blithe Spirit," often considered Noel Coward's best play, is WSU's Summer Theater's presentation next week.

The fourth production in the summer series, "Blithe Spirit," is scheduled Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 8, 9 and 10 in Wilner Auditorium. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

The play revolves around Charles Condime, his second wife, Ruth, and the ghost of his first wife, Elvira, who was conjured up from the outer world during a seance. Her presence creates many problems especially since only Charles can see her.

Miss Audrey Needles, assistant professor of speech and director of the play, commented on the challenges "Blithe Spirit"

Walter Friesen, dean of University College, and plan their fall schedules with the help of their student leader.

Transfer and former students will participate in an abbreviated program of orientation July 19-23.

To attend orientation, a student must be admitted to WSU and have his high school transcript and his ACT scores on file at the University.

A reservation with the required fee must be received by the Orientation '71 office at least three days before the session which the student plans to attend.

presents. "It is extremely important that the actors are positioned on stage so that it seems that Elvira is not present even though the audience can see her. There is also a technical problem in dealing with supernatural effects."

Craig Turner plays the part of Charles Condime. Virginia Kent is Condime's second wife, Ruth, and Kathy Snodgrass portrays Elvira, the first wife who is returned from the dead.

Since the play is English, the actors will speak with English accents which will add heightened quality to the production, Miss Needles explained.

Tickets are $1 for WSU students and faculty and $1.50 for the general public.

Terrific Variety to be Seen In WSU's Homosexual Play

By Elliott Eblevins
Sunflower Reviewer

"The Boys in the Band," the third show of the WSU Summer Theater season, is the most difficult of the six plays being presented this summer.

Though there are many faults in the production, it works anyway.

The play is about a birthday party given for Harold, an aging homosexual, and attended by an incredible group of his friends, enemies, and "sisters." Steve Walker, as Michael, is the host for the party, and his cutting tongue and Judy Garland songs keep the evening active.

Dave Willis gives an especially good performance as the quiet Donald, Michael's friend and companion.

The action begins when Michael's friend, Allen, a very straight lawyer, invites himself to the party. Craig Turner, as Allen, shows a great depth of emotion as he begins to realize the situation around him.

Scott Weldin does a good job as Emory, an effeminate homosexual who has some of the best lines in the play. He almost, but not quite, succeeds in making Emory's agonizing telephone call to his only "real love" pathetic.

Harold is played by Ron Wilson, certainly the best casting in the play. He calls himself a "pock-marked Jew" and proves that he is Michael's equal at playing the "Virginia Woolf" game.

The two level set, designed by Wilson, is a strong addition to the play.

The pacing seems very slow at times, but the play as a whole goes very fast. A line gets dropped every now and then, and some of the swishing isn't quite what one might hope for, but the boys in the cast make "The Boys in the Band" a terrific variety show even if it isn't a musical.

"The Boys in the Band" will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 2, 3 and 4 at 8 p.m. in Wilner Auditorium.

FLOOR SHOW—The boys break up a fight between the gay Emory and Allen the straight lawyer while Harold and his cowboy "birthday present" converse in the doorway in "The Boys in the Band."

Newspapers Win Court Battle

The decision affirmed the judgment of the federal appeals court here allowing the Post to publish, and reversed the judgment of the federal appeals court in New York that had prevented the Times from printing material to which the government objected.

In addition to the short, unsigned majority opinion there were six concurring opinions and three dissents filed.

Six for the Newspapers

Voting for the newspapers and against the government, which had argued that unfettered publication could damage the nation's security, were Justices Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., Potter Stewart, Byron R. White, and Thurgood Marshall.

All nine justices wrote separate opinions.

Chief Justice Burger announced the judgment from the bench to a crowded courtroom. The Court distributed a series of other rulings and then recessed until Oct. 4.

William R. Glendon, attorney for the Post, said after hearing the decision that he felt it would have the future effect of discouraging the government from seeking to restrain newspaper publications.

"In the future there will be a case called U.S. versus the Washington Post and we hope everybody would have read it," Glendon said with reference to legal studies which will be published.

The majority opinion cited three Supreme Court rulings. One in 1963 involving obscenity, said any system of prior restraints of expression bears "a heavy presumption against its constitutional validity."

The second, a 1931 ruling declining to suppress an anti-Semitic newspaper in Minneapolis, was along the same lines.

The third ruling was one earlier in this term in which the court permitted pamphleteers to operate near the home and a church of a realtor they accused of racial "blockbusting." In that opinion, written by Burger, the court said the government "carries a heavy burden of showing justification for the enforcement" of a restraint of free speech.

Justice Black, the senior member of the court, lashed his colleagues for last week's 5 to 4 vote barring the newspapers from publishing some material while the high court considered the case.

"In my view," the 85-year-old Black wrote, "it is unfortunate that some of my brethren are apparently willing to hold that publication of news may sometimes be enjoined. Such a holding would make a shambles of the First Amendment."

Black added: "The guarding of military and diplomatic secrets at the expense of informed representative government provides no real security for our Republic."

The government urged the court to set a standard to prevent newspapers from printing articles that pose "grave and irreparable harm" to the United States.

Credit/no-credit Deadline July 6

Tuesday, July 6 is the deadline for putting summer session classes on the credit/no-credit grading system. It is also the last day classes may be dropped with a non-penalty grade of WD (withdrawn).

To drop a class or put a class on the credit/no-credit system, students should contact the office of their academic dean.

Grades for classes on the credit/no-credit system will be entered on a student's transcript as "credit for grades A, B and C and "no credit" for grades D or F.

Classes dropped by July 6 will be graded by the instructor. A WD indicates the class was dropped without penalty, and the hours recorded as WD are not included in the GPA. A WF is a penalty grade. The hours recorded as WF are included in the GPA with no credit points for those hours. Any class dropped after July 6 will be recorded as WF.

Joining the band for its rendition of George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess" will be Dr. George Gibson, baritone, assistant professor of voice and Sharon Reed, soprano, applied instructor in voice.

Draft Renewal Stymied

WASHINGTON AP--The Nation's draft ground to a halt Wednesday at midnight for the first time since 1948 as efforts to rush out a two-year extension bogged down in Congress.

House-Senate conferees failed at a morning session to break a standoff over the Senate's recommendation for a U.S. pullout from the Indochina war in nine months.

With Congress closing down Thursday for the July 4th weekend, final action on the draft was not expected before next week.

Here are some questions about what happens now:

Q. If you turn 18 do you still have to register?

A. Yes.

Q. If you have been ordered to report for a preinduction physical should you report?

A. No. You will receive another letter informing you of the delay and when and if an extension is approved you will then be told when to report.

Q. If you have received your preinduction physical, will you get results?

A. Yes. The Selective Service System will continue to process reports on physical exams.

Q. If you have been examined, passed and told to report for induction should you report?

A. No. Again, you will be informed of the delay.

Registration Procedures Change; Drops and Adds May be Costly

Students who fail to read the fall 1971 WSU schedule of courses may find themselves victims of great sorrow come September.

Those who read the schedule will find substantial changes in course distribution and procedures for registration, fee payment and schedule changes.

Included in the schedule is a "Statement of Student Responsibility" (page 13). The statement asserts that "...the student is finally responsible for his own registration..." and that neither the deans' offices nor advisors are responsible for errors or improper assumptions on the part of a student.

Course Offerings

Course offerings for 1971 have been redistributed so that lower division courses will be available throughout the day. It should now be possible for students to make suitable schedules within general time periods, such as mornings, afternoons and evenings.

Registration

Registration for students who pre-registered in April will be completed by mail. All new students (freshmen and transfers) and all former students not enrolled in spring, 1971, should complete enrollment, except for fee payment, during July orientation.

Evening students not registered by mail or during July will register Aug. 26 and 27. Day students not registered by mail or during July will register Aug. 27. Students unable to attend these sessions may attend the make-up session Saturday, Aug. 28, from 9 to 11 a.m.

Fee Payment

Students who pre-registered in April are encouraged to pay fees by mail when they return their completed registration forms or on Aug. 25 at Henry Levitt Arena according to the fee payment schedule in the schedule of courses. Students who register in July will also pay fees on Aug. 25. Non pre-registered students, both day and evening, will pay fees as part of registration. The new CAC fee will be included in the fall fee charges. (See related story page 1)

Schedule Changes

Students registering by mail who wish to change their schedule by dropping a course must indicate such drops when returning their enrollment-by-mail forms.

Students registering by mail who wish to add courses must go to Henry Levitt Arena on Aug. 26. No other schedule changes will be allowed before Aug. 31

There is no provision for schedule changes for July registrants during the August enrollment. They may initiate schedule changes in the office of their dean on Aug. 31

No fee refunds for partial withdrawal (dropping a course) will be made after registration has been completed on Aug. 28. Any drop-add transaction after Aug. 28 will require payment of a $5 penalty fee.

Students who have questions concerning the new procedures should consult the schedule of courses of their academic dean.
