Bennett asks $30M for WSU-

Gov. Robert Bennett has recommended to the Kansas legislature a total of $30.3 million for Wichita State University for fiscal year 1976 beginning July 1, 1975.

Included in the figure is approximately $4 million in capital improvement funds, a 15 per cent increase for operating expenses to offset inflation and more than $1 million for faculty salary increases.

Money for improvement of student employee salaries to meet new minimum wage requirements was also recommended, plus salary increases for civil service employees.

The total WSU operating budget, excluding capital improvements, totals $26.35 million, a small increase from the current $23.09 million budget.

Bennett's recommendations reflect a cut of about $1/2 million from the amount requested by the university.

There were few surprises in Bennett's budget message, as he recommended increased funding for all public colleges and universities in Kansas.

As expected, the governor recommended a 10 per cent increase in faculty salaries, the same amount recommended by the Board of Regents.

Bennett also recommended funds for three new positions, one each in the Physicians Assistant program, Health Sciences program and Women's intercollegiate athletics.

The last recommendation, if approved, will provide funds for a 50 per cent increase in the number of participants the university can accommodate in its program.

In the overall budget, funding for 17 new faculty positions was recommended because of enrollment increases. Also included were 7.6 classified positions.

A total of $100,000 was recommended to help the library maintain its current level of acquisitions of books and periodicals in the face of rising book prices.

Among the program improvements not recommended by Bennett, was a $136,000 request to update the computing facilities at WSU. The university had wanted to purchase more compatible, current generation computing equipment and to institute an interactive terminal communications system throughout the campus.

with $4.6M for capital improvements

Gov. Robert Bennett recommended WSU receive appropriations totaling $4,675,202 during fiscal year 1976 for capital improvements in his budget message yesterday.

One item, a request of $125,000 for movable equipment funds for the Engineering Lab Building, was cut from the total request of $4,800,202 made by WSU.

The governor's budget included a total of $2,415,000 for the new Liberal Arts Building: $1.8 million to be provided in fiscal year 1976 and another $615,000 for fiscal year 1977. This will permit contracts to be awarded for the building. Bids on the 6-story structure were accepted by the Board of Regents Wednesday.

The budget recommends $2 million for the College of Health Related Professions (CHRP) building. Construction of the building is scheduled to begin in 1976.

Bennett also requested the $2,222,219 be earmarked for the project in fiscal year 1977 and $1.3 million in fiscal year 1978, which would complete the financing of construction.

The budget also provides $679,000 for the installation of additional chilling power in the power plant to provide for the CHRP building.

A total of $116,200 was requested to begin the planning for the remodeling of Jardine Hall. The governor also recommended another $80,000 for preliminary planning for a physical education complex. The complex, which would replace Henrion, also includes facilities for ROTC, Student Services and an indoor pool.

Rogers announces for Commission race

By LINN HOLLINGSWORTH
Reporter

Dr. George Rogers, chairman of the Dept. of Minority Studies at WSU, announced his candidacy for the Wichita City Commission Thursday.

Rogers stressed the importance of "total community development" and suggested "citizen input" into government was most important to that development.

"That's what community government is all about," he said. "Getting every citizen to make an input and then city government having the expertise to put those needs into some logical plan and implementing it."

Rogers commended the present commission for being "responsive to the needs of the citizens and cited the "pocket of prosperity" articles appearing nationally as indicative of the suitability of Wichita's government to its citizens.

"But that does not mean that everything is smooth and OK," he said. "It just means we need to go with what we have and make adjustments where we have to."

Rogers, whose educational background is in administration, suggested the city commission has not paid enough attention to the "business and economic community" in seeking solutions to problems.

"I don't think government can solve all the problems," he said. "Many things revolve around and are spinoffs of business."

He recommended the $12.3 million in community development funds be used on "problems peculiar to all citizens of the community," such as sewage, drainage, and beautification.

Koerner resignation rejected

Chairman Jon Koerner's offer to resign was rejected by five of the nine members in attendance at a meeting of the Ad Hoc Committee on Athletics Wednesday.

Koerner's resignation offer was in response to allegations from Athletic Director Ted Bredehoft and others that he is "anti-athletic", and the committee's questionnaire displayed bias.

Possibly as a result of hubbub generated by these allegations, committee members in attendance were outnumbered by spectators for the first time.

Regarding the questionnaire, committee member Les Hackworth, LA Soph. said, "The main goal was to get student response to the athletic program; I can't say it was a scientific survey, but I've never seen anything like it before at WSU in terms of really attempting to test student opinion."

The committee agreed a quote from Robert Byrd, titled "The Sports Obsession," on the first page of the survey was prejudicial, but defended inclusion of statistics on the athletics program.

"The reason we included the information was not bias; we wanted students to have something to base their conclusions on," said Jan Hinde, CHRP Jr.

Committee members said primary sources for the information in the questionnaire were Bredehoft and Roger Lowe, vice president for business affairs.

The committee decided to talk to coaches and athletes in the coming months to supplement this information.

"I know from my own experience that they sometimes try to hush things up over there," said Rich Jantz, the tennis coach.

Committee members present refused to be classified as "pro" or "anti" athletics.

"I was a cheerleader for three years, and I loved it; I don't consider myself pro or anti-athletic," said Hinde.

"I'm neutral; my main reason for joining the committee was to see where the money goes," said Chuck Lewis, LA Sr.

"I personally support the $80,000 campus privilege fee allocation to athletics," said Hackworth. "My main concern is that students have a say in how the athletic department is run as a result of their contributions," he said.

"It's become increasingly clear in the course of our meetings that you can't classify people in terms of "pro" or "anti athletics," Koerner said.

"I've repeatedly said that I'm not anti-athletics; my concern is to see whether the student CPF allocation is justified in relation to the other programs funded by this money," Koerner explained.

Committee members agreed that Koerner had acted without bias in his role as chairman.

Koerner said that at next week's meeting the results of the survey should be available for consideration.

Rogers...

Also, he added, some of the money should go to "upgrade the opportunities and services for disadvantaged citizens throughout the community."

He cited senior citizens as being a group needing more than just "lip service" from city government.

Rogers said he had been thinking about running for several months and decided to announce after consulting acquaintances and other supporters.

CIA playthings

An "assassination catalogue" sounds like something from the imagination of James Bond's creator, the late Ian Fleming.

But no imagination was needed for a Drug Enforcement Administration official to see the catalogue displays for devices to conceal explosives in such places as a telephone handset or cigarette pack.

The devices were available from an Alexandria, Va. electronics firm.

The catalogue was revealed when Lowell Weicker, R.-Conn., introduced legislation in the Senate to create a committee to oversee U.S. intelligence and law enforcement agencies.

"I think it is an amazing commentary on these times that equipment which can have no legal purpose can be displayed before federal law enforcement officers," Weicker said.

Exploding cigars may have enlivened "Three Stooges" movies, but they aren't needed by law enforcement officials.

Back on track

The Ad Hoc Committee on Athletics untracked yesterday and decided to question the coaches and athletes about how sports programs are operated.

Hopefully the committee will question the coaches thoroughly enough to make the investigation worthwhile.

By questioning the coaches directly, the committee will be able to dig out the problems that coaches have operating within their budgets. Questioning the athletes is necessary to learn the problems of being a student athlete.

Jon Koerner remains the chairman, after asking for and receiving the tacit consent of the rest of the committee.

Let's hope now that everyone can brush off hard feelings and proceed with the committee's stated objectives: the level of student funding of athletics, the implications of Title IX on women's athletics and the relationship between students and the athletic department.

No human factors?

Editor:

Thank you for your fine article on construction on campus. I was especially interested in the new Liberal Arts building. I have often wondered what the justifications are for lots of things that happen at WSU and one of the questions I find myself continually asking is: why did they make this building like this? I noted with alarm, but not surprise, that there are few windows in the new Liberal Arts building. Those that are present appear to light stairways, and perhaps decorative totem poles. What about the human beings? As I understand it, there are to be both faculty and students working in that building. I would find it very interesting to read an article in the Sunflower which elucidates the justifications for the new building, with special reference to the human factors so important to the Liberal Arts tradition.

Dirty trophies

Editor:

During registration, I was working at the Henry Levitt Arena on the concourse.

While viewing the trophy cases; I thought how disgraceful they were—disgraceful to the trophies, to the athletes who earned them, the Athletic Department and Wichita State University. The dirt and grime in the cases looked like they hadn't been cleaned for years.

With Henry Levitt Arena being publicly attended so often, it's a shame the showcases have to be in such filthy condition.

Four axe plays?

Whether anyone is aware of it or not, WSU head basketball coach Harry Miller's four year contract will end at the close of the current basketball season.

The big question is whether Ted Bredehoft (Athletic Director) will renew Miller's contract or will WSU once again play the game of musical coaches?

If Bredehoft's actions of playing shuffleboard with the rest of his personnel indicates anything—Miller's chances of staying in Shocker Country are not very good.

There shouldn't be any reason (other than Bredehoft) why Miller's contract shouldn't be renewed. Thus far Harry Miller has posted a 43-48 won-loss record at WSU and currently ranks in the top twenty active winning coaches on the major college level.

It has been very unfortunate for Harry Miller that the last few seasons have not gone well. Last year his team lacked height and control of the boards. Then this year's problems happened one after another.

First Miller lost his Brazilian player before the season started for personal reasons. Then his key starter, Cal Bruton, hurts his ankle and is forced to sit out three or four games. During this time, another player quit the team for personal reasons and two more players scare Harry even more when one almost breaks a finger and another player gets a small touch of the flu.

Since then, Bruton has been playing with a cast on his leg and recently he has been struck with the flu which has kept his shooting under par. Then, yet another player has quit the team for personal reasons.

If this isn't enough to give a coach headaches, I really don't know what will. It's really hard telling how many more disasters will strike Harry before the season is over.

If Ted Bredehoft and Company have a negative view toward Harry Miller I strongly suggest that Bredehoft re-evaluate the facts of the present and previous seasons. Miller has already begun laying the foundations toward a winning and championship season(s) and he does have the potential to do it at WSU, however to do this he needs his contract renewed. Just give him a chance—he can do it!

Pre-school promotes child's independence

"Promoting independence by having things available and letting the children make the choices" is how Director Claire Chestnut describes the WSU pre-school program, located in the University United Methodist Church at 21st. and Yale.

Pre-school services are available to all WSU students on a priority basis. First priority is given students attending day classes. Night students who need additional study time during the day receive second priority. When space in the school permits, children from the community whose parents are not students are also enrolled.

The school is open from 8:30a.m. - 3:30p.m. for children ages 3-6 with a two hour-two day per week minimum enrollment. The school offers eight learning activities, which include pre-reading, pre-math, music, physical activities, creative art, stories, dramatic play and blocks.

The 40 children currently enrolled are instructed by three full-time teachers assisted by WSU students in the work study program.

The cost of enrollment is $1 per hour.

Interested students should contact Student Services in room 101, Morrison Hall.

Group education program offers discussion of 'fun'

The WSU Counseling Center group education programs, including a variety of new opportunities this semester, will begin early in February.

Nancy Gulancik, an employee of the counseling center, said the new groups offered will include, "Body Awareness," "Child Management," "Fun," "Group Leadership," "Readjustment," and "Veterans."

Groups similar to those offered last semester to be repeated include "Assertiveness Training," "Birth Control," "Counseling,"

"Marital Counseling," "Transactional Analysis and Gestalt," "Weight Reduction" and "Women in Transition." A weekend "Interpersonal Relations" lab also will be offered Feb. 7-9 for persons who want to "grow in their capacity for creative and satisfying relationships," Gulancik said.

Brochures describing the groups and application forms can be obtained at the booth in the CAC Friday and Monday and at the Counseling Center, 109 Morrison. Gulancik said the counseling center will move to room 125 in McKinley hall in a week.

Backlog ties up civil rights board

Case backlog is the greatest problem currently facing the Kansas Commission on Civil Rights, according to Commission investigator Bill Minner.

Minner, the first speaker in the Contemporary Issues series, told students in the CAC lounge Wednesday that, "if a person filed a complaint with the Commission today it would take anywhere from ten to eighteen months to get acted upon."

The case backlog problem was aggravated last summer, Minner explained, when the Kansas legislature authorized the Commission to investigate cases alleging discrimination against women and physically handicapped persons.

"They authorized us to handle the cases, but they did not authorize us any additional funds," he remarked.

As a result, Minner said, people seeking help from the seven man Wichita staff sometimes become discouraged and lose interest in pursuing their complaint.

"After becoming aware of the tremendous backlog some don't even report," he added.

The Wichita branch of the Commission deals primarily with complaints against employers and the majority of cases involve racial minorities, Minner said.

A person wishing to file a complaint is first interviewed by one of the Commission staff, he said. Afterwards, an investigator makes an inquiry into the specifics of the alleged discrimination.

The complaint is referred to an attorney when legal assistance is needed, Minner said.

There is no charge to file a complaint, he stated, but he conceded pursuing a case could require a considerable amount of time.

Shockers fall 74-63

By JACQUELYN KNAPP
Sports Writer

In what looked like back-alley basketball, Tulsa's Golden Hurricanes wreaked havoc upon Wichita State in the closing minutes last night to defeat the Shockers 74-63.

The Shockers carried a small lead throughout most of the first half, despite the absence of Neil Strom because of illness. With less than a minute remaining, however, the Shockers faltered and fell behind 38-35 at the half.

The two teams traded baskets (and turnovers) throughout much of the second half, until the Shockers fell behind again by three, 66-63, with less than two minutes left.

Tulsa then reeled off the last five baskets to claim their first conference victory.

Bob Elmore was the game's leading scorer, with 20 points. Bob Gray contributed 18 and Mike Edgar, also stricken with the flu, scored a career high of 16 points.

Doug Yoder played an exceptional defensive game against Tulsa's Ken "Grasshopper" Smith, holding him to a first half score of only 8. Smith finished with 16, second to Tulsa's high man Zack Jones with 18 points.

Calvin Bruton, who received a cut above his right eyelid from Jones in the second half, was scoreless for the night.

Wichita State falls to a 6-8 overall record and a 2-2 conference mark.

Tracksters open indoors today

Wichita State's tracksters open their 1975 indoor track season today in a triangular meet with Missouri and Arkansas at Columbia, Missouri.

The Shockers took second in the meet last year to a powerful Missouri team, despite winning five events on the track compared to three for the Tigers.

"Last year we didn't win a single field event," Coach Herm Wilson said. "This year should be different. If we can score well in the field events we should be right in there for the team title."

Feature events should be the mile, the pole vault, the 880 yard run and the broad jump, according to Wilson.

In the mile, WSU All-American Randy Smith will battle Missouri's Tim McMullen and Arkansas' Randy Melacon. McMullen is the brother of All-American Charlie McMullen, who won the event last year, and Melacon took second in 1974.

In the pole vault, Rick McKain and Ed Grandon of WSU will have to beat defending champion Jim Borcheding of MU.

Shocker Veryl Crawford, a freshman who has already gone 23 feet-five inches indoors, will leap against Missouri's John Gentry and Larry Gray who went one-two last year.

In the 880, Jim Parker will be trying a new event against Niall O'Shaughnessy, defending champ from Arkansas via Ireland, and MU's Bill Daily, who finished second last year. Freshman Shocker Pat Hambrough will join Parker in that chase for the tape.

The meet begins at 7 p.m. at Hearn Field House.

Chess tournament

The Morphy Memorial Scholarship Chess Tournament will be held Saturday, Jan. 25 in the CAC.

The winner of the tournament, sponsored by the WSU Chess Club, will receive a $50 scholarship. Awards of Merit will be presented to the top two finishers.

The first three finishers will qualify as WSU Chess Team members and will represent WSU at the Inter-Collegiate Regional Chess Championship Feb. 7-8 at Fort Hays.

The tournament is open to all full-time WSU students.

Registration is Jan. 25, 9:00-9:30 a.m., room 305 in the CAC. There is a $3 registration fee.

The system of pairings (Swiss or Round Robin) and the number of rounds will be determined by a vote of the players at registration.

Contestants supply their own sets, boards and clocks.

Positions open

Three positions are open on the Ad Hoc Committee on Athletics. Apply at the SGA Office.

Campus briefs

Career seminars begin Monday

The first in a series of three career development seminars sponsored by the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics will be held next Monday in the Marcus Continuing Education Center at Wichita State University.

The series of seminars, planned for graduate engineers and other professionals who are concerned about their future or about the progress of their careers, will be held on a monthly basis during January, February and March.

The first session, which will concentrate on the professional organizations of the various professions, will be at 7 p.m. Monday, Jan. 27, in the Marcus Center located adjacent to the WSU Shocker Club on 21st Street.

The program will include a panel discussion on the professional organization and how they can assist the professional in career development.

Although the seminars are sponsored by AIAA, they are not necessarily geared exclusively to the professional engineer, but could be useful to any professional concerned about career development.

All three sessions are open to the public free of charge.

For further information contact Dr. William Wentz in the aeronautical engineering department

Radio opera starts

"Boris Godunov," the original conception by Modest Mussorgsky, will be presented by Texaco-Metropolitan Opera on Saturday, Jan. 25, starting at 1 p.m. on KMWU-FM.

Several different versions of Mussorgsky's operatic masterpiece "Boris Godunov" have appeared since he first completed the work in 1874.

After its premier, Mussorgsky made changes to please the directors of the St. Petersburg opera house where it was first performed.

When the work was revived in 1904 it was presented in a third version, prepared by Rimsky-Korsakov. Then in 1908 Rimsky revised his original version to comply more with the original Mussorgsky score for this production.

Project TOGETHER

Enrollment for Spring semester is now underway in Project TOGETHER. Students interested in membership should make inquiries at the Project office, 131 McKinley Hall.

CAC Rec. tourney

Tournaments to determine WSU's top men and women billiard and table tennis players will be held Saturday, Jan. 25, in the recreation area, lower level, CAC.

The entry deadline for billiards is 9:30 a.m. Saturday, with competition beginning at 10 a.m.

The deadline for table tennis is 10:30 a.m. Saturday. The tournament begins at 11:00 a.m.

There will be separate divisions for men and women in both tournaments.

Entry fee is $1.25 for each category. Entry blanks are available in the recreation area of the CAC.

For more information, contact Bonnie or Vickie at 689-3479.

Your first job may be your last.

It has happened that way often in the past. Many of the college graduates who join us decide to build satisfying lifetime careers in our organization.

Why this decision?

- Perhaps because of the relative stability of Pratt & Whitney Aircraft over the years. This has resulted from a talent for providing continually more powerful engines for the majority of commercial aircraft operated by airlines of the free-world.
- Perhaps a significant factor has been the planned diversification into non-aircraft fields. For example, we have developed jet engines that now provide power for utilities, high-speed trains, marine vessels, chemical complexes and other applications.
- Perhaps the emphasis on new products with exceptional growth potential. Fuel cell powerplants that do not pollute the atmosphere and are far more efficient in producing energy from scarce fuel typify this aspect.
- Perhaps an important plus has been a competitive salary structure and increasingly more important assignments that lead to attractive futures in management.

- Perhaps most important, for many, has been the challenge of working at the frontiers of the art in virtually every technical and scientific field. Certainly, ability is tested to the utmost in improving powerplants that can lift their own weight plus additional thousands of pounds of plane, passengers and cargo. This ability is tested, too, in the development of new and better ways to utilize the world's energy resources.

We have attractive career opportunities for engineers, scientists and graduates in a variety of other specialties such as accounting and business administration. So see your College Placement Office for our descriptive brochure, requirements and interview dates.
