Red Cross In Campaign

Munroe, Fidler Are Campus Heads

"Every student a member of Red Cross in 1946," is the goal of the Red Cross committee, according to Al Munroe and Bob Fidler, co-chairmen of the student committee for the drive. The drive, which has continued throughout the week will close tomorrow.

Membership cards may be purchased at the Red Cross booth, which will be open today and tomorrow in the rotunda of the Administration building. A Red Cross pin will be presented to each contributor to be worn as a certificate of membership, continued Mr. Munroe.

The booth is being operated by representatives of each social organization. The organizations are also handling the drive within their groups by means of pledges from each member.

Faculty members will contribute through Grace Wilkie, dean of women.

The committee expressed confidence in the success of the drive in the campus because of the large amount of appreciation which students, especially returned veterans, have for the work of the Red Cross.

Student committee members are: Helen Souders, Alpha Tau Sigma; Edith Palmer, Sorosis; Pat Blume, Phi Kappa Phi; Betty Bethel, Phi Kappa Psi; Jeneva Brewer, Delta Omega; Jerry Brown, Rectangle; Dorothy Stinnett, ISA; Paul Walker and Bob Tyler, Univets. Representatives of the Phi Kappa Psi and Alpha Gamma Alpha Alumni Associations are also aiding the committee.

Neal Potts Chosen New Cheerleader

New yells for the Wichita U.-Oklahoma A. & M. game were taught to students at a recent pep pep in the auditorium. It was announced that the members of the cheerleaders would present a stunt during the half time of the game. Neal Potts made his first appearance as a W. U. cheerleader at the pep. He was chosen to take the place of Delbert Phillips, former cheerleader, who is no longer in school. Other cheerleaders are Maxae Wells, Marilyn Berry, Charlene Parrott, Barbara Mitchell, Bob Verstake, John Cooper and Tiny Severson.

19 States Send Students to W.U.

Students representing 19 states and South America swell the enrollment of the University of Wichita this semester.

From California to New York, rollees come to study at University of Wichita.

Their reasons for selecting the university were varied, but the most common answer was that given by Jorge F. Roach, Santiago Estro, from Buenos Aires, Argentina.

"I came to Wichita University because I wanted to specialize in business administration, and the courses which I wanted were offered here," he said.

Mr. Roach was born in Peru, and lived in Argentina, Mexico, Brazil, Uruguay and the United States. He came to the U. S. after adjusting from the American school in Buenos Aires and attending Purdue University a short time before enlisting in the U. S. army, which he served 37 months. He became a naturalized citizen of this country as a result of that service.

Students are enrolled at the University who have come from the following states: Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, New Jersey, Colorado, Missouri, California, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Texas, Wyoming, New York, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Actual flying instruction will be started this week in the Pilot Training course, according to Dr. Lawrence Albright, professor of physics.

CAST OF "CLAUDIA"

Pictured above are some of the cast members of the three-act comedy "Claudia," to be presented March 7, 8, 9, in the University auditorium, under the direction of George D. Wilner. Left to right they are, back row: Anita Faye Lallement, Betty Jean Henderson, Fred Higginson; front row: Bethinis Jones, Bud Gould, and Beverly Butcher.

"Claudia" Is March 7, 8, 9

Experienced Cast To Appear

Members of the cast of the three-act comedy, "Claudia," to be presented on the evenings of March 7, 8, 9, in the University auditorium, have had previous acting experience which promises to enhance the presentation, according to Prof. George D. Wilner, director of the play.

Beverly Butcher, who plays the leading role in Claudia, attended the Great Bend High School, where she was active in dramatics. She had leading roles in "Pride and Prejudice" and "My Cousin From Sweden." During her first year of college at Lindenwood University she had the leading role in "The Fighting Littles."

Bud Gould, one of the three veterans in the cast, plays the part of David Naughton, graduated from this University in 1940, and is now back on the campus taking radio work. He was released from the army in December, 1945. While at the University he had leading roles in "Her Master's Voice," "Ten Nights in a Barroom" and "Stagedoor." He has also had the experience of working in productions of the Little Theater of Wichita.

Fred Higginson, served with the 82nd Airborne Division as a surgical technician in England, Normandy, Holland, Belgium, and Germany. He plays the role of Jerry Seymore in the comedy. Higginson graduated from the University in 1942 and was a member of the University Players and appeared in the University presentations "The Tempest," "This Thing Called Love," "George and Margaret," and "Our Town."

Bob Gerber, who had three years service in the army, partly in Europe, plays the role of Fritz. Prior to his induction he was a student of Northwestern State College in (Continued on page 2)

Add 17 Acres To W.U. Campus

Seventeen acres, extending from the present campus line to Crestview street north of the sorority houses, has been added to the campus, according to John Gaddis, superintendent of the building and grounds department.

Some of the space will be utilized by the 60 h. p. four-foot-throat wind tunnel. This tunnel, which is used by the aviation department for student instruction, is to be moved from the fourth floor of the Science building.

The new and larger tunnel, which is to be used for aeronautical research, will also be constructed on this new addition to the University grounds.

Phyllis Aldridge, University freshman, who was injured seriously in a two-car collision last weekend, is reported to be improving and may receive visitors. She is at St. Francis hospital.

Enrollment Up To 1720

Late Classes Being Planned

Present enrollment in the University, 1,720 students, which represents an increase of 75 in the past week, is more than twice the number of students enrolled at this time last year, according to Laura M. Cross, assistant registrar.

There are 706 veterans on the campus, and approximately one-third more men than women. The number of non-resident students is greater than usual this year.

Another increase in enrollment is expected with the beginning of the special classes March 18.

Courses for the special late classes, which start March 18, have not yet been scheduled, due to a shortage of class rooms, free hours, available teachers and books, according to Dr. L. Hekhuis, dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

The special courses are five-hour classes and cannot be easily scheduled. Some may be held at night, in order to take care of the situation.

Eileen Cearney Chosen Queen

Eileen Cearney, freshman, was crowned the 1946 "Wheaties Sweetie" by Keith Oliver, captain of the basketball team, at the half of the Oklahoma A. M. - Wichita U. basketball game.

Miss Cearney is a Sorosis pledge and active in campus organizations. She was chosen by members of the basketball team.

Wheaties pep club, attired in their yellow sweaters and black skirts, marched in formation at the half making the letters W. U.

New Students Pay Yearbook Balance

Veterans and second semester students must pay an extra $1.50 in order to receive a Parnassus according to Reba Holloway, editor of the Parnassus yearbook. The remainder of the $3 Parnassus fee is covered by the second semester tuition.

"Because there has been considerable misunderstanding about payments, the booth in the Commons Lounge will remain open until next Wednesday," Miss Holloway said.

Faculty pictures and the few remaining group pictures will be taken soon, Miss Holloway said. Also snapshots may still be turned in at the booth in the Commons.

Notices of available jobs for men will be posted on the bulletin board by the Liberal Arts office rather than on the bulletin board in the Administration building rotunda in the future, according to Willa Raymond, secretary of the College of Liberal Arts.

Eight Attend I.R. Conference

Eight University students will attend the International Relations Conference to be held at Emporia, Kans., tomorrow and Saturday.

Those attending are Fern Merrifield, Leona Sowards, Jo Rutherford, Mary Jane Venning, Mary Lou Hobson, Vernon McGuire, Al Munro, and Bill Knightly.

Miss Sowards will read a paper on the Allied occupation of Germany and Mr. McGuire will participate in a discussion on the United Nations Organization.

Accompanying them will be Dr. Hugo Wall, head of the political science department, and Gene Setzer. The group will leave by car early Friday morning.

Univets Continue Drive For Members

Continuing the drive for membership, a meeting for all veterans of the University was held in the auditorium today by the Univets.

Memberships were solicited by officers of the organization. Results of the membership drive are not as yet available. Plans to end the present drive with a stag party were discussed by the members.

Announcement of the first social event to be held March 18 was made by Gene Setzer, president of the organization.

"College Life Does Not Pay" Says Senior After Physical Exam

(Editor's note: Name of writer withheld by request of next of kin.)
Being of sound mind and not so firm body I hereby make this confession.

College life does not pay. Four years ago, when I entered the University, I was as healthy as the next freshman. On my physical examination, I showed that I had control over all of my senses. Last week when I took my physical examination this is what I learned:

My legs which were grade "A" as a freshman are now down to grade "C." Whereas four years ago I could see perfectly, I can now see only through the right eye. I can only hear loud sounds through my left ear. It's a little unhandy to have to sit in class and turn to the left to hear, then turn quickly to the right in order to be able to read anything that might happen to be written on the board.

It's hard to hobble to class on my grade "C's" in only the five minutes allowed. But professors do not sympathize.

My nerves are shot and it becomes increasingly difficult to concentrate on tests all because of four grinding years of college life.

In addition to other physical ailments, I learned at the examination that I have skin fungus, and only through a miracle did I avoid coming down with a case of smallpox.

Am I really to blame when I cut my classes? I'm a wreck.

Debaters Win High Ratings

Individual honors were won by debaters of the University in the three events in which they were entered at the Nebraska Invitational Debate and Speech Conference, held at Lincoln last week-end. Two hundred students, representing 34 universities from eight states, were entered in the contest.

Besides participating in the debates on "Free Trade" each of the teams including Vernon McGuire, Herbert James, Pitsy Walker, and June Cale were entered in discussions on the topic of "Foreign Economic Policy." McGuire was also entered in the radio newscasting event.

Instead of choosing winners, four classifications were awarded including fair, good, excellent, and superior.

McGuire, Walker and Cale were rated excellent.

James was rated superior in the discussion, and was selected to serve on the resolutions committee which drew up resolutions for parliamentary discussion at the conference.

McGuire placed first in the radio newscasting event, and was the only student to receive a superior rating, in which 14 schools were represented.

Cale, James, and McGuire received an excellent rating in the debates in which they participated.

Don Williams and Shirley Ferguson, speech instructors, accompanied the teams to the conference.

The next tournament scheduled for the debaters will be the Missouri Valley Debate Tournament at Austin, Tex., on March 28.

Brig To Accommodate Varsity Book Store

Remodeling the Brig for occupancy by the University book store will be completed this Spring, according to John Gaddis, superintendent of building and grounds department.

Extensive additions and alterations will provide an added stock room. New entrances and repartitioning, and a complete redecoration will take place.

The Brig, the white frame building east of Science hall, will also house the women's division of the Independent Students Association.

COALITIONS?

Coalitions! Webster defines the word as "uniting into a body or mass" but at the University of Wichita the words take on added meaning.

To form a coalition, two or more social organizations band together into one unit and adopt a party name and policy. Before each election a party nominating committee, whose roster consists of a member of each social organization represented by the party, meets and determines their "best material" for the forthcoming election.

At the meeting of the regular all-school nominating committee the name of the favored candidate from each party is submitted by party members.

Instead of representing a social organization the candidates represent a political party. The unaffiliated students on the campus are considered as possible candidates by the Independent Students Association and in this way they too are represented.

Now for the added meaning that the word takes on at the University. First of all it means a more exciting and extensive campaign and thus a more successful vote.

In the last election, before the termination of the coalitions, out of the 1,200 enrolled students on the campus, 790 voted in comparison to the 329 out of 1,500 that voted in the election held this January under the non-coalition system. Rather speaks for itself.

In the second place it's a chance for the future leaders — after all they keep telling college students that they will be the leaders — to develop responsibility toward and knowledge of regular national and state elections. The present University system is a far cry from the system employed in off-campus politics.

Whether the plan looks "good" on paper or not, it has proved its worth not only in more successful elections, but also in a more representative student government. In the present system of voting a small social organization "doesn't stand a chance." But in the coalition system the small organization has the same vote in the party nomination meeting as a larger one, and if their candidate is nominated then he or she has the full support of the entire party in the election.

Coalitions were dissolved in the spring of 1942, not because of failure, but because the fraternities were forced to disband. However, the fraternities are reorganizing this spring and the campus question is "Will coalitions return?"

There appears to be very little to be said against the parties, but nothing more than talk is being accomplished in the path of reorganizing them.

Oklahoma. Gerber was also active in high school dramatics.

Bethinis Jones, portraying the role of Claudia's mother, Mrs. Brown, comes from Liberal High School. This role is her first dramatic experience on the campus.

Anita Faye Lallement, playing the great opera singer, Madame Daruschka, is remembered for her part as Ruth Conway in the University production of "Return Engagement" presented last semester. She has appeared in the following plays: "New Moon," "Naughty Marietta," "MacBeth," and "Eternal Seasons."

June Cale will play the sister-in-law, Julia Naughton. She had supporting roles in "Return Engagement," and "Christmas Holiday." She is also a member of the debate squad.

Betty Henderson plays the part of Bertha. She has had experience in stage production and settings and has many times portrayed character roles.

More Health Exams Set For March 13

Health entrance examinations for this semester will again be given on Wednesday morning, March 13.

Completion of all examinations at the earliest possible date is urged by health service personnel, reports Dr. C. C. McDonald, professor and head of the botany and bacteriology department. Students are asked to assume the individual responsibility for completing their own records.

Those who do not have the results of the tests taken on February 20, should do so in room 117 of the Science building.

"The entrance medical examinations that have been completed to date show a decided increase in percentage of positive tuberculin reactions over any previous semester here at the University. The University has cooperated for several years with the American Student Health Association in tuberculosis case finding and in the past has been in a low percentage group of the United States," said Dr. McDonald.

University Buys Three More Planes

Three new planes including an F6F Hellcat, a carrier fighter with a 2,000 h. p. radial engine, and a P36 equipped with an Allison engine, have been added to the four planes already owned by the aeronautics.

Professors and students in the engineering school attended a recent "mixer," and inspected the new equipment. They met in the University Auditorium and were shown several films on aviation subjects.

To make room for the new laboratories of the Foundation for Industrial Research, on the fourth floor of the Science building, collections of fossil, well cuttings, rocks, cores, and minerals which belong to the geology department, have been moved to second floor. Much material for student research has been thrown away because of lack of room, reports Walter Ver Wiebe, professor and head of the geology department.

Kappa Delta Pi, national education fraternity, will meet at 7:30 p. m. tonight at the I. S. A. house. Barbara Gill will have charge of the games for the evening. A visit through the Institute of Logopedics and a talk by Mrs. Virgil Barritt, supervisor of the institute, will constitute the activities, announces Bob Peters, program chairman.

Typed on a Wednesday

By Pete Greenback

The following is the introductory address given by Miss Dagmar Whiff, teacher of the first grade, to her beginning class of six-year olds in the fall of 1930. (The location of this school is withheld because Miss Whiff is wanted at present in four different states on bigamy and bootlegging, and it would only bring more shame upon the little community where she formerly taught.)

Although I had, at that time, some difficulty with her diction, as was a refugee from Weehawken, N. J., the old dueling ground where Burr fatally wounded Hamilton, I copied her address in shorthand.

The annually-repeated welcome given by dear Dagmar, was entitled

"I welcome each lad, I welcome each lass, I welcome you all To the first grade class."

This was often uttered in a weird chant, and accompanied by tutored classroom assistant who responded mechanically in a tribal two-step which had been handed down by the last remaining descendant of the Weehawken savages. Adjusting her wig and tee Miss Whiff began: "Kiddies—" and then pausing to regain her footing while she affectionately braided the sandy hair of a small boy in front row seat, continued, "you have all come from your homes to indirectly join millions of other children throughout the nation in search for the great American privilege of free education, leaving your loved ones and willing to face the future unafraid." We all waved American flags vigorously and, while singing the third stanza of National Anthem, shed a tear for the folks at home.

Taking an eraser from the blackboard and carefully drying a smoothing her damp and wrinkled cheek, the teacher proceeded, "I Miss Dagmar Whiff, granddaughter of Baldwin Eustace Whiff, who is, at present, trying to persuade Congress to halt the practice Negro slavery in the South, and I am your teacher spelled t-e-a-c-h-e-r a word with which you will become more familiar in the fifth grade meaning one who teaches.

"And even though you will appear today and tomorrow the same to your parents, in the not-too-far-distant future, due to the fluence of this great institution of learning, they will be saying about you the same thing that was said by my beloved sister concerning her husband who had just previously started taking vitamin pills, 'Quant mutatus ab illo!' meaning, 'How changed from what he once was!'"

"So today, my dears," she again paused to return to their normal position her threadbare hose, which had worked their way down over her bony knees, and cautiously tossing a lighted cigarette butt out her open window, finished her statement, "this has been your first day in school. Return home now with the glad tidings of your new environment, and I shall see you all in the morning."

We clapped and stomped, and threw our hats into the air, and with the confetti and the torn pages of our arithmetic books had settled on the desks and floor, we stood in solemn unison, gave three cheers for our alma mater, hurriedly rendered all twelve verses of our school song in three-part harmony, then marched out of the classroom in open squad column, eagerly awaiting the new horizons which were approaching and, to be sure, facing the future unafraid.

Change of semester at Colorado U. brought forth lotsa visitors to our campus: Lee Wilson, Marjean Sparling, Jean Donnelly, Maggie Adams, Margaret Walling, Betty Shell, Margaret Rienets, and Bob Dickinsen.

Spring weather seemed to be a good excuse for lots of picnics last week. Seen at Goddard Lake were Betty Kirchner, Tommy Wells, Deacon Taylor, Birdie Schnitzler, Gig Gard, Marilyn Gwinn, "Gooch" McCauley, T. J. Curry, Ginny Ware, Teddy Hill, Bill Burks, and Jackie Purnell.

Just what the doctor ordered is what Shirley Holloway, Bill Cannon, Marge Thompson, Tommy Lahey, Janet Israel, Bill Bachman, Elinor Margraves, and Duane Hamilton will tell you about their picnic.

Hear Pat Hinshaw is going to K. U. this week-end to see Anderson Chandler and attend the big Delta Tau formal. According to Betty Desher, Meredith Noble, Bill Geist, and Elbie McNeil, who spent last week-end in Lawrence, she should have a knocked-out time.

Change of semester at Colorado U. brought lots of visitors to the campus. Lee Wilson, Marjean Sparling, Jean Donnelly, Maggie Adams, Margaret Walling, Margaret Ann Rienets, Betty Shell and Bob Dickenson are seen around, and Joyce Wedel and Pat Roth, K. State coeds, visited friends.

Who would ever think that a little wilted snake could cause such a commotion in the Commons. The joint really jumped when the reptile was found nestling among the coke glasses on the table.

They danced at the frat dance: Joyce Morgan and Tiny Stevenson, Bobbie Brosius and Wayne Upton, Zella Dustin and Paul Bohrer, Eileen Cerney and Les Hatfield, Marge Purnell and Jack Green.

Sorosis announces the pledging of Mary T. Armstrong and Christine Christy. Kappa Rho has pledged LaTisha Wegley and Pat Baker.

Chocolates were passed Wednesday at the Delta Omega house by Rosemary Clifton, who has a beautiful diamond from Keith Joslyn.

Wedding bells rang for Eleanor Beth Myers and Wallie Marsh who were married Friday night at the First Presbyterian Church. Eleanor Beth was a Pi Kap and Wallie was a Phi Sig.

Do gentlemen prefer blondes? They must, because Eileen Cearney looked mighty purty Tuesday night when she was crowned "Wheaties Sweetie."

Look-alikes-or-don't-you-think-so: Charles Ball and Bing Crosby, Don Smith and Danny Kaye, Jenny Kohlen and Ilona Massey, Dr. Onsgard and Sidney Greenstreet, Dean McQuillen and Alan Ladd, and Eddie Masters and Johnny Masters.

Mrs. Roy W. Elliott departed for Washington, D. C. aboard an airliner Monday, to attend the wedding of her niece. Mr. Elliott has announced that he is open for dinner invitations at any time, and will come at a moment's notice.

Energetic and enthusiastic Neal Potts, latest addition to the cheer-leading squad, should add plenty of vim, vigor, and vitality to future games.

Logopedics To Have Citizenship School

A citizenship school and workshop, sponsored by the Junior League of Wichita, enabling students of the Institute of Logopedics to receive training designed to promote self-sufficiency in the business world, will be set up according to Dr. Martin F. Palmer, head of the Institute of Logopedics.

The school will train spastics, aphasiacs, the deaf and hard-of-hearing and the speech handicapped.

The Junior League of Wichita has set aside funds totaling $10,200. According to Mrs. Alan Phares, president of the Junior League, $6,000 of this will be spent for equipment and $4,200 will be used for salaries and supplies.

The school will be located at 1749 Fairmount, just south and adjoining the institute. Junior League members will work as volunteers in instructional phases of the program. The school will be equipped to train 60 persons a week, which in turn will provide volunteer jobs for about 50 rehabilitation assistants a week.

Because of the difficulty in locating a suitable therapist instructor and because of work being done on the building at 1749 Fairmount, Dr. Palmer said the school would not open until summer or early fall.

Initiation of Aesculapius pledges will be held at the Innes Tea Room, at 6:15 o'clock this evening, announces Jeneva Brewer, president of the club. A meeting for the new actives is scheduled for third hour today in room 119, Administration building.

Erection of a new Fine Arts building on the campus will be considered by the Board of Regents of the University when they meet tomorrow evening in the Administration Building, according to Roy W. Elliott, comptroller.

Dr. Lloyd McKinley, head of the chemistry department, will appear as the first speaker on the new lecture series of the Plymouth Congregational Church. He has chosen for his topic "The Atomic Age and Its Significance For Peace."

Alma Eikerman, associate professor of art in design and jewelry, spoke about the Red Cross Hospital Service in Italy, at a meeting of the Daughters of American Revolution. Miss Eikerman was stationed in France and Italy, doing Red Cross work.

Harold Decker, head of the voice department, was in Detroit February 13 to 18, at a joint meeting of National Association of Schools of Music, National Teachers Association of Singing, and Music Teachers National Association.

Colorful Classroom Characteristics Enlivens Student View Of Professor

Whether recipients of apple-polishing smiles or persons to be avoided by class-cutters, the University faculty members carry on. In the attempt to jar student intellect, many professors have developed mannerisms, which type them as surely as a movie scenario.

By the following oft repeated characteristics, one might recognize the professor described without reading the name.

Dr. J. R. Ashton, associate professor of Spanish, gets hot under the collar, dashes madly to the window flings it up (the room temperature may read sub-zero), hears a shivering co-ed's moan, and reluctantly lowers the window, with an expression of chivalry on his face. When he hears a stupid translation, he mutters "a-chi-wa-wa." What "a-ch-wa-wa" means is anyone's guess, but with the Ashton inflection, it expresses contempt. At the ringing of the bell, a shade is drawn on Mr. Ashton's window door — prohibiting late comers from entrance. But he always reverts when a cautious co-ed peers in with an imploring look.

Dr. Forest L. Whan, head of the speech department, gets that down to earth quality in his voice and calls some famous personage "a great guy."

Dr. Hugo Wall, head of the political science department, tilts his chair backwards precariously, and with it poised on a single leg, he laughs a "Falstaff" laugh.

Dr. Walter A. Ver Wiebe, head of the geology department, in his slow and gentle voice, suggests, "Do you suppose those dinosaurs were out looking for their breakfast and spied that flying reptile? They probably were, not that anyone cares."

Clayton B. Staples, head of the art department, grins mischievously while he calls the roll. "Will sorority girls please refrain from answering 'present' for their missing sisters?" he asks.

Dr. L. Hekhuis, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, paces the floor as he lectures, much as an athletic coach might. He "endeavors to irritate you" to the point of stimulation "that we may move on" to the next topic at hand.

Dr. Earle R. Davis, head of the English department, leans his elbows on his pulpit, and has "man-to-man" talks with his class. "Mah-velous" and "remahkable" are used to describe what especially appeals to him.

Jacquetta Downing, head of the French department, shouts "bon bon!" meaning "that translation was pretty good, carry on!"

Dr. Henry Onsgard, professor of history, pronounces a word of profundity with his great bass voice, then eyes the class carefully before proceeding.

Dr. Robert Mood, professor of English, draws his lectures in his southern accent and livens the 50 minutes with his "damn Yankee jokes." Students long to send him a recording of Phil Harris' "That's What I Like About The South." Others consider giving him "Marching Through Georgia."

Veterans and newly enrolled students need only keep tuned for the above mannerisms to recognize any aforementioned faculty member.

The Medical Assistants, a club consisting of all the medical assistants in Wichita, made a recent visit to the Institute of Logopedics. Mrs. W. L. Barritt, administrative secretary, conducted them on a tour of the institute and explained its functions to them.

New student observers at the Institute of Logopedics for the second semester are: La Wanda Foulston, Geraldine Noeller, Velma Rippetar, Harold Coleman.

Nancy Nimineh of Manroevia, Liberia, spoke about her country at the recent Y. W. C. A. general meeting, reports Betty Desher, president of the organization. Miss Nimineh has been in the United States 22 months and is now taking a nurses training course at Friends University.

Creighton U. Friday Foe Shockers Lose Aggie Game 35-24

In the last game of this season, the Shocker basketball team will go into action against Creighton University at 8:15 tomorrow night in Henrion gym.

Early this season the W. U. squad defeated Creighton at Omaha by a narrow margin of 33 to 32, and the return engagement promises to be interesting, according to Coach Mel Binford.

In one of the most exciting contests of the season the Shockers lost to the Oklahoma Aggies Tuesday night, 35 to 24.

Leading for three quarters of the game, and showing excellent form against a bigger team, the local boys held the heavy end of the 13 to 11 score at the half.

During the last quarter, the extreme height of the Aggies began to show against the smaller W. U. team. The Aggies moved the score from 20 to 17 in favor of the Shockers to the final read of 35 to 24.

Near the end of the game the fans enlivened the atmosphere with a protesting demonstration over the referee's decisions on fouls.

With six minutes to play, the fourth foul was called on Kurland, Oklahoma's tall center. However, after conference, officials decided it was Park, Oklahoma guard, who had committed the foul.

In another minute or two, Oliver, Wichita center, was called on a foul, at which fans protested again, insisting it was Kurland who had fouled. Referees called the strike on Bennett, Oklahoma forward, to fans' unavailing protest.

Teams Enter Rifle Match

Targets are being marked this month by teams from the military department for both the Hearst rifle match and the army contest, according to Captain Earnest R. Mylke, professor of military science and tactics.

Both matches, which are regional and national, include all the R. O. T. C. units in the United States.

The five-man team: Roland L. Allen, Dale Allen, Edward Wingate, William Thompson, and Dale Fair, representing the University of Wichita in the Hearst match, are firing 10 rounds each at a target from the four positions: prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing. The targets are then certified and sent to the Seventh Service Command, at Omaha, Nebr.

Winners for this command are determined and a team cup is awarded for first place, and a plaque for second. Individual members of the successful team are awarded medals.

The targets are then sent to the national command, where winners for the United States are determined.

The University of Wichita won second place in the Seventh Service Command in the Hearst match last year.

A team of 15 men from the R. O.

Targets are fired in the same manner as in the Hearst competition with the exception that the highest ten scores in each position are counted, and the top ten per cent in the region submit an additional set of targets for the national.

Prizes in the army tourney are similar to those awarded in the Hearst.

Track Meet Here May 17, 18

University of Wichita will once again be host at the state high school track meet which will be held here on May 17 and 18, according to Coach Charles A. Bidwell, instructor of men's physical education.

Before the war this event was held here annually. By elimination the best high school track teams in the state will compete at this meet.

Latest scores on the intramural basketball teams are as follows:

Candy Is The Perfect Gift Everytime!

Whenever you're at a loss for what to give someone . . . stop at the better stores . . . BUSHONG'S CANDIES are sure to be delightfully received.

"AT ALL LEADING STORES"

BUSHONG CANDY COMPANY

THIS IS THE FIRST OF A SERIES OF EDUCATIONAL FEATURES DESIGNED TO AID HOMEMAKERS IN DESIGNING MODERN, EFFICIENT KITCHENS

how's this one for SIZE? says Reddy Kilowatt

"No, of course you don't wear a modern all-electric kitchen. But you need to know its size (and shape) before you can make a start at the job of modernizing and putting in step-saving, convenient, clean ALL-ELECTRIC appliances.

"If you're planning to build, well you can just pick the size that fits your pocketbook and shape it to your heart's desire. If you're buying, you need to look for the right size and shape. If you're remodeling . . . well, maybe you'd like to knock out a wall and make your kitchen larger.

"In any event . . . size is important. But why not make the whole task easier? Just fill out the coupon below and you'll find that Reddy has a simple way to help you get the right size and the right kind of an all-electric kitchen."
