Dick Haughton and his orchestra will furnish music tonight for the grand opening of the University's new $60,000 fountain room.

The opening will be from 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m., according to Vincent Gott, president of the Student Council.

Refreshments, furnished by firms patronized by the University cafeteria, will be given free to all persons attending.

Harold Kemper, chairman of the Student Council publicity committee, said that the name of the fountain room would be announced during the evening. Ten dollars has been offered by the Student Council for the student submitting the name selected.

Nearly $300 has been received in donations from downtown firms and individuals. This money will be used to pay for the ferns and plants decorating the room, the band, and other opening expenses.

Olson To Represent Campus UNESCO

Representing Wichita University UNESCO at a meeting of the Kansas Intercollegiate UNESCO public relations committee, Bob Olson will go to Pittsburg State Teacher's College Saturday.

Forum Picture, Hamlet, 'Overwhelming Success'

Lawrence Oliver's movie version of "Hamlet," shown at the Sandra Theater, Monday for University students and teachers, was an overwhelming success, according to Les Rosen, president of Student Forum.

"Six hundred persons were turned away. The first 640 persons in line were admitted. The Student Forum Board is sorry that all couldn't be accommodated, and we hope that in the future the situation will be taken care of," Rosen said.

Darrell Presnell, manager of the Sandra, said that the group of University students viewing "Hamlet" was one of the quietest for a college crowd he had ever seen.

Several persons attending were asked their opinion on "Hamlet!"

Jess Taylor, junior, "I don't mind buying an activity ticket for something like this. I think everyone should see it because it gets you out of the rut of American films, which follow a kind of pattern."

Mary Ann Unrah, junior, "Hamlet" was far superior to American films. I admired most Olivier's ability to quote Elizabethian English and make it seem natural.

Jack Gossett, sophomore, "Putting 'Hamlet' on the screen makes it easier for people to understand

Shakespeare's work. It is entertaining instead of a collection of memorized quotations. Nothing of the same type has been done in America, so you can't exactly compare it with American movies.

Abby Troup, freshman, "I hope Olivier makes more Shakespearean movies, it was superbly directed. The average person, could understand it."

The Student Forum paid $640 to bring Hamlet to the University students. Students were admitted by activity tickets.

University Departments Are Changed

New School Status Will Go Into Effect In New Fiscal Year

The status of the music and engineering departments at the University has been advanced to that of schools as a result of recent action by the Board of Regents in accordance with a recommendation from Dr. W. M. Jardine, president.

The new status of the departments will be in effect at the beginning of the new fiscal year, July 1, and will necessitate the appointment of directors to head the schools.

"Establishment of the schools, the first since the municipalization of the University, will give greater prestige and will enable the school heads to work directly with the president instead of through the deans of the respective colleges," Dr. Jardine said.

Two departments will be formed under the School of Engineering; department of aeronautical engineering and the department of industrial engineering. Beginning the next fall term a bachelor of science degree may be conferred upon graduating students. Kenneth Razak is now the head of the department of engineering.

The new status will enable the School of Music to further expand its program into the various related fields, thus creating heads of departments such as piano and violin.

The school will offer work leading to bachelor of music, bachelor of music education, master of music in performance, and master of music in music education degrees. The music department at present is headed by Walter Duerksen.

"The departments have grown up and it is only logical that they be given the recognition due them for their excellent work," Dr. Jardine added.

"The change of the status to that of School of Music will add greatly to the prestige both in and out of the state and will enable the music school to offer a curriculum consistent with the needs of this part of the country," Duerksen said.

Local Profs Hold Meeting

University professors discussed the number of hours carried in a teaching load, in and outside of the classroom, at the meeting of the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors, according to Dr. Eugene Savaiano, chapter president.

All present at the meeting at 7:30 p.m. last Wednesday, in the Commons Lounge will be asked to participate in the discussion, which will be based on an article, "A Teacher's Service Load", in the last issue of the A. A. U. P. Journal.

Dr. H. C. Mahan, program chairman, led the discussion.

Topics to be discussed include the number of semester hours carried in a teaching load, hours spent in conference with students, hours spent in correcting papers, hours spent in preparation of courses, time devoted to committee work, and time devoted to community activities in which the University is represented.

THREE SENIORS who will play their last home game for the Shockers Saturday, against Drake are, left to right, Joe Kraefels, guard; Jim Nebergall, guard; and Bud Weaver, forward.

Two Music Recitals Scheduled This Week

The Music department will present two recitals the coming week, Howard Halgedahl, bassoonist, and Beatrice Sanford Pease, violinist, in a joint faculty recital, Mar. 1, at 8 p.m.; and Bonnie Paisley, soprano, and Blye Hinshaw, pianist, in a senior recital, Feb. 28, at 8 p.m.

Halgedahl received the bachelor of music degree at the University of Arizona, and music masters degree from the Eastman School of Music.

He is a member of the Wichita Symphony Orchestra and appeared as soloist last fall.

Mrs. Pease received the bachelor of music degree from the University of Wichita and is a member of the Wichita Symphony Orchestra and the Wichita String Quartet.

Halgedahl will play the "Suite for Bassoon" by Bach and the "Sonata for Bassoon, Opus 168" by Saint-Saens. "The Sonata in C Minor" by Grieg will be presented by Mrs. Pease.

Miss Paisley and Miss Hinshaw will each present two groups of selections. Miss Hinshaw will begin the recital with "Beethoven's Sonata, Opus 10, No. 3." She will also play "The Girl with the Flaxen Hair" and "The Submerged Cathedral" by Debussy, and "Intermezzo" by Brahms.

Miss Paisley will sing "Selige Nacht," "Waldseligkeit," "Hat dich die Liebe berührt," by Marx and "Naples," "Capri," "Stresa," by Watts. She will close the program with Poulenc's "Air Romantique," "Air Champetre," "Air Grave," "Air Vif," and "Depuis le jour from 'Louise'" by Charpentier.

Traveling Art Exhibit Shown in Morrison

The art department is sponsoring a Traveling Art Exhibit in the life art room of Morrison Hall. These exhibits are open to all students, according to Charles Nolan.

The first group of paintings displayed this week feature the works of Patricia Ferdom and illustrate Indian dress and dances. The paintings are done with opaque water colors.

Prices are placed on each picture for benefit of interested buyers.

The second group of paintings displayed were painted in 1898 by E. H. Denby. They are done in one color illustrating landscapes, church interiors, and famous buildings throughout the world.

These collections are sent to the art department from studios in New York to display the complete works of one artist. The collection is then sent to one school, which displays the paintings for two weeks and they in turn send the collection to another school.

From Mar. 1 to 15, the art department will show another display featuring "The Protestant Revolution" series, prepared by the editors of Life magazine.

Pyramid Victims Show One's Born A Minute

"Hey buddy, come here. Want to make about $4,000 real quick and easy?"

"Sure," said the unsuspecting victim, "but how?"

"Well, me and my buddies are making up a Pyramid club and if you'll join, in twelve days, you will have $4,096."

Twelve days later the would-be Rockefeller waited anxiously for the meeting that would bring him his fortune.

The bushel baskets for holding the money were lined up in the dining room. A scoop shovel had been borrowed from the neighbor in case the "green folding stuff" got too deep and he had rented an adding machine to make sure that he got his full $4,096.

9 p.m. rolled around and as yet no money. 10 p.m. and still no currency of the realm. At 11 the phone rang!

"Hello, hello," he exclaimed. "What? No, this isn't Smith's residence." Oh well, there was still time.

At 12, a car drove up in the drive-way. He ran to the door! It was only two friends returning from a show. They had dropped around to see how many thousands the enterprising genius had received.

At 3 a.m., he went to bed, completely disheartened and embarrassed that he was the latest addition to the Pyramid "sucker list."

Ralph Hinman, chief of the better business Bureau of the Wichita Chamber of Commerce said that "the completion of one club would

Noted Author of Novel Writes of Fairmount

Shouting "fiddlesticks" instead of "damn" in play productions, sneaking out occasionally to drink cherry phosphate while the rest of the school languished in prayer session, and suffering under a no-smoking ban, marked the life of an adventurous student at old Fairmount, according to Carl Glick, noted author.

Glick devotes an entire chapter of his forthcoming book "I'm a Busybody", to describing his experiences as an instructor in drama at Fairmount shortly before World War One.

At the time of his arrival, Glick writes, Fairmount consisted of three buildings, the Administration Building, a dormitory, and a library. The campus was surrounded on three sides by cornfields, he says.

His first duty as a drama teacher was to clean up a bit for the opening of school. It was customary, Glick was told, for the faculty members all to chip in and help.

The innumerable prayer meetings and the deep religious atmosphere which prevailed on the campus seem to have annoyed Glick. He writes that the refusal of Friend's University to meet "sinful" Fairmount in football amused him greatly.

Glick recounts that he was constantly in trouble with the school authorities. Hauled before the Dean of Women for familiarity with students, he explained that an excess of cherry phosphate had caused him to slap some students "in a friendly way."

Once Glick and eight students drank a bottle of Angelica Wine and somebody snitched. He writes that he was then forced to explain that "as an Episcopalian" he could drink.

Professors Have Hey-day With 'Follies' Performance

By Jack Chegwidien

Professors' pet-peeves, mock walkouts, and carnivals featuring teachers as freaks were just a few of the laugh-provoking antics witnessed Friday evening at the "Faculty Follies."

The teachers were first seen seated around a table having morning coffee. Dr. Earle Davis was playing the slot machine, the other teachers were slipping into their house slippers, their shoes on the table. They were discussing current affairs and problem students.

Between the first and second scenes Dr. Donald O. Cowgill, dressed in cap and gown, presented a take-off on "Let the Punishment Fit the Crime." Teachers names were substituted in the new version of the song.

Robert E. Baird and Dr. C. G. Stuckisch appeared as barkers of a carnival, featuring the professors as freaks. Dr. Clair A. Hannum and Dr. H. A. Shumway appeared in a Siamese twin dance. H. H. Barker appeared as the two-headed monster, John J. Snodgrass as the tattooed man, and Henry K. Sears as Jo Jo, the dog.

Dr. N. H. Pronko and Dr. Eugene Savaiano, with illuminated noses, performed in a skit called "Hit the Bottle." Several musical selections were given by striking bottles and other paraphernalia.

"Inside Clem's Club," one of the best skits in the entire show, featured the singing of Isabelle P. French and the piano playing of Dr. Davis.

The finale featured the entire cast as a carnival band, the teachers using nothing except kindergarten instruments.

What Do You Think?

If you were to ask University of Wichita students which subjects they liked least, the majority would probably say either a language or a math course.

Recently, an American university announced that most of their senior students who dropped out of college during their last year, did so because they could not pass the required language courses.

Assuming that most students failed language and math courses because they did not know how to study them, Wayne University has started three - week, non-credit courses to teach study techniques in these fields.

Although no survey has been made at this university, many professors agree that the greatest percentage of failures are probably in the mathematics and language fields.

In an effort to help students who have trouble in these subjects, the SUNFLOWER has checked with several school authorities about starting a study-efficiency course similar to Wayne University's.

Dean L. Hekhuis said that a reading-efficiency program had been offered at one time on a campus-wide, volunteer basis here. Those who attended the course increased their reading speed considerably but the students who needed the course most, failed to enroll in it.

We feel that a program such as the one at Wayne University would be profitable to our own students if given proper publicity, made truly helpful, and offered at reasonably convenient times.

What do you think? The SUNFLOWER invites letters to the editor, from both students and faculty, on the subject.

Kemper Reveals Sources of His Famous Cartoons

By Harold Kemper

In response to many unspoken queries, it has been decided that the reading public could be profitably informed on the subject of "How a Cartoonist Gets His Ideas". It is a common misconception that these ideas are merely quaint incongruities created by normal, cheerfully-alert artists, but that's not true.

In order that the public may not suffer because of any false notions on this most univital subject, certain striking examples must be presented.

These days it is considered facious to picture the cartoonist as a normal, adjusted member of a creative society, when everything points at such an obviously opposite answer. It should be apparent that anybody who so brazenly submits such questionably unintelligent material week after week is really nothing more than a cleverly trained cretin of doubtful ambitions.

The Sunflower cartoonist, for instance, never had an original idea in his life. There's a little guy called Max who lives in Twinklefinger's studio and does all the "brain" work for him.

Max isn't particularly bright either, but the point is that the joker who signs the cartoons is only a front man and is in no way responsible for the cute little ideas.

Max, who is 97 years old and only twenty inches tall, spends most of his time copying, from old cartoon books, pictures and ideas and eating them.

When a general subject is chosen for the next week's cartoon, Max is tied to the drawing table and jabbed with a compass until he remembers related ideas and puts them down on paper.

This sometimes takes hours, but the satisfaction is worth it.

No cartoon idea is ever used in a college paper unless it utilizes either sports, society, or sex. On some campuses, the social barriers are being broken down and totally disregarded. On other campuses, the transient nature of sports and the increasing normality of athletes are eliminating that type of cartoon, too. What, then, is there left to cling to?

Insofar as creating college cartoons is concerned, certain thoughts have to always be kept in mind.

1. Teachers with heads are more easily caricatured than are those without heads.

2. One should make at least one pretty girl in every cartoon. They can get the point across to college students so much more easily.

3. Certain obvious traits are to be expected in cartoons of athletes and fraternity men. In instances where the athletes are also fraternity men, certain judicious restraints must be observed.

4. At no time must any school tradition or event usually meriting reverence be treated with anything like respect.

5. The obviously high standard of practice and deportment of the students (especially the coke room sitters) must be truly pictured and revered at all times.

6. The cartoons must be hilariously funny and seriously significant at all times.

Only one other thought in closing: never call a cartoonist an artist; the artists resent it and the cartoonist doesn't understand it.

Babbling Babes Blame 'B's' While Blubbering Bitters Blues

By Joe Ludiker

If some morning, when you are walking across the campus to class, the student walking alongside of you suddenly begins saying over and over, rubber baby buggy bumpers, rubber baby buggy bumpers, please do not become alarmed.

This person is not a fugitive from Alcoholics Anonymous, nor is he a candidate for the nut-factory. He is merely a bewildered student on his way to Speech 221.

The classwork for this course is fairly simple. It consists of reading aloud bits of poetry, such as "Leaves of Grass," or "Ode to a Grecian Urn," for the intelligencia. Low brows like the journalism students read bits of literature as "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," "The Saga of Yukon Jake," and, "I'll Come Home and Have the Hives With You."

The hard part of the course is the home work, which consists of a series of exercises designed to strengthen the lips and tongue. The first exercise is for the lips. Close your lips. With them tightly closed, open your jaws until the lips are forced apart. This makes a very strange noise. It sounds like someone pulling a bathroom plunger off a tile floor, or a cow jerking her back leg out of a mud-puddle.

It is not advisable to do this little exercise unless you have first explained it to the people around you. People who do not know you are studying will send for the wagon.

If you have mastered the two exercises, and have not been placed in an institution, you can go on to the hardest part of the home work. Say the following with the tongue in the front of your mouth. Betty Bota bought some butter, but said she this butter's bitter. If I put it in my batter, it will make my batter bitter. So Betty Bota bought some butter, better than the bitter butter, and it made her bitter batter better. Or you can try this one. A box of biscuits, a box of mixed biscuits, a biscuit mixer.

Vox Discipuli!

Students' Conduct At 'Hamlet' Movie Flayed by Reader

Dear Editor:

Once again it has been brought forcibly to the attention of the student body that certain of their fellow students and teachers are pitifully lacking in some of the basic attributes of decency.

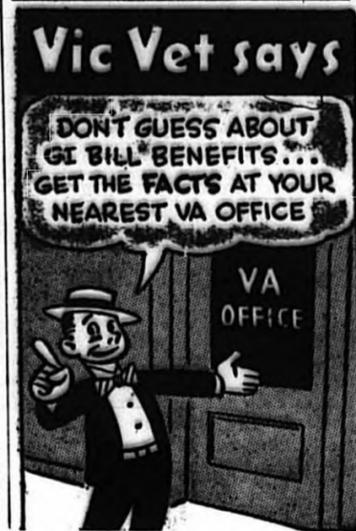

Last Monday evening at the special student showing of the movie "Hamlet", these rules of conduct were so crudely flaunted as score after score of infantilistic barbarians barged into the waiting line, thus preventing many of the earlier comers from seeing the show.

This is only a more outward example of the same type of behavior existant on the campus, wherein certain misguided morons, feeling possessed of special dispensation, crowd their unwarranted beings into positions for which they hold no priority.

Unfortunately, the crime rests not upon these boorish louts alone, but it also sheds its shameful light on their spineless "friends" who permit such scurrilous behavior.

This reader bears the hope, but doubts the fruition of that hope, that those victimizers, faculty and students alike, will feel some compunction for their most uncivilized miscarriages of decency and do at least some better in the future.

HAROLD KEMPER.

Whistle Poll of W.U. Women Brings Interesting Results

By Mike Miller

Did you ever wonder what a woman thinks of when you whistle at her?

Outwardly, she probably maintains an air of complete indifference, but what is going on in her mind?

Does she resent your whistling? Does it give her a feeling of inner satisfaction? Why doesn't she turn around? Does she think it ungentlemanly for you to whistle?

To answer these questions, the editor assigned your roving reporter the task of taking a whistle poll of campus women to find why sometimes they turn around and why sometimes they won't.

The first "interview" was with Carlene Sturghes as she was passing the journalism room. The reporter gave three whistles, and with no response, went to her to find out why she would not turn.

"Pardon me Carlene," the reporter said, "but the Sunflower is "Not on the campus," she said, "but anywhere else, I would say yes."

"Do you always turn around?" "Only when it's some one I'm sure I know."

The last woman to be polled was Joanne Durant. The reporter whistled four times and not once did she even start to glance around.

When asked if she ever turned around, she said, "No I never do. I don't know if I know the boy or not."

"Do you think it's ungentlemanly to whistle or unlady-like to turn when whistled at," the reporter asked.

"Yes," she said, "I think it is." "Is there ever a temptation to turn around when a man does whistle?"

"No there isn't because if the boy knows you he will probably come up and talk to you anyhow."

After an afternoon's hard work the reporter started toward the news room, when he noticed a campus beauty diligently studying some text book. It said "Forever Amber."

"I wonder," he thought, "what course that is."

Thinking that he would give this one last whistle strictly for his own amusement, he tried to whistle. Nothing happened. Again he tried, still with no result. In desperation he gave up.

"I guess," he said, "I'm all puckered out!"

taking a poll on whether women turn around when men whistle at them. Don't you ever turn around when a man whistles at you?"

"Sometimes I turn around when boys whistle, but I didn't know you were whistling at me. It's embarrassing to turn around and find the boys whistling at some one else."

The next subject for the poll was Lee Stanley. The reporter is still wondering whether she or Paul Gardiner, who was walking with her, turned around first.

"Do you always turn around when a boy whistles at you?" asked the reporter.

"Not always," said Miss Stanley, "but I thought it was some one I knew."

"Do you think it unlady-like to turn around when a boy whistles at you?"

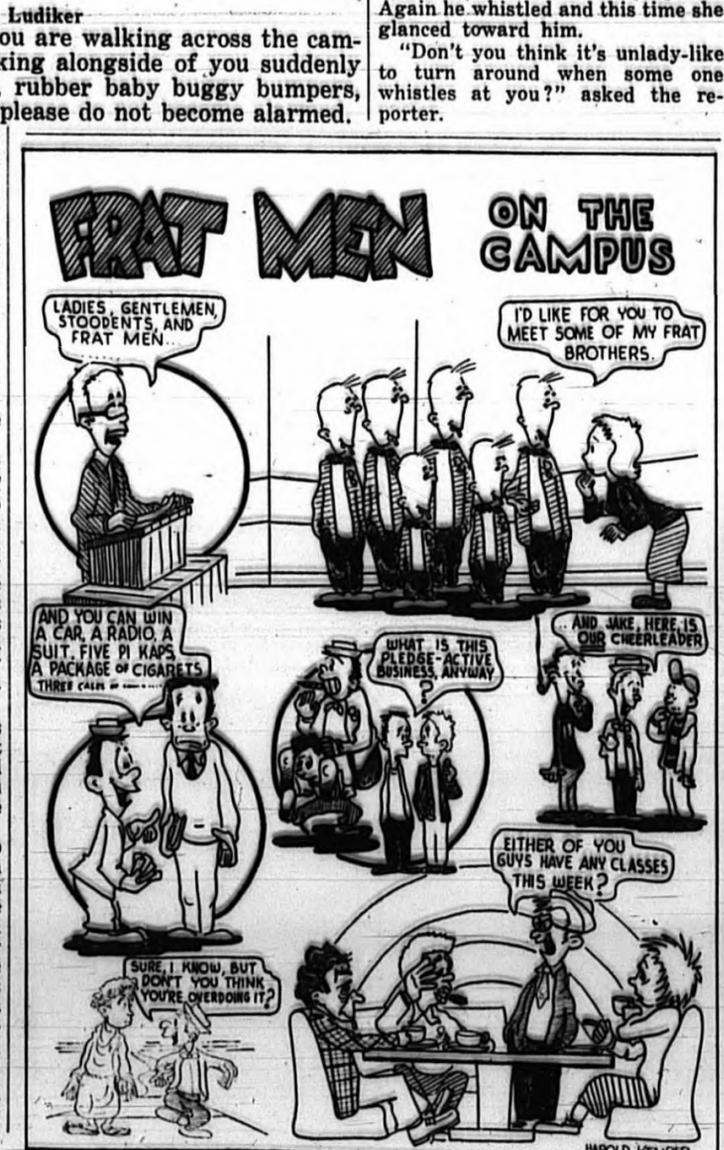

"No," she said. "Do you think it's ungentlemanly for men to whistle at women?"

"No," she said, "because it helps a girl's morale to be whistled at."

The reporter then noticed Patti Olson leaving the commons. He whistled, but with no response. Again he whistled and this time she glanced toward him.

"Don't you think it's unlady-like to turn around when some one whistles at you?" asked the reporter.

Ellen Anderson To Star At Newman Benefit In Catholic Club Rooms

Ellen Anderson, Liberal Arts sophomore, will be featured in the Newman club benefit Saturday, Feb. 26, at 7:30 p. m., in the Blessed Sacrament Hall, according to Joe Cooper, president of the Newman club.

Miss Anderson will give two readings, "The Belle of Carrot Corners," and "Wanted to be an Actress." She will do one of her comedy dances between the readings.

Currently Miss Anderson is starred in the floor show with Billy Jackson and orchestra. During the war she played in army camps throughout the state in Red Cross shows. The recent oil mens convention held at the Lassen Hotel was entertained by her down to earth comedy. Miss Anderson has been booked at several night clubs including the Blue Moon and Rock Castle. She has also given her show for the Crestview Country club.

Miss Brown will return to give an acrobatic dance, and Miss Cevily and Miss Patricia Osler will present their arrangement of "Mighty Like a Rose."

THE entire school is anxiously awaiting the formal opening, tonight at 7:30 p. m., of the "???" room, the ultra-modern fountain room in the Commons. Local radio stations KAKE and KANS will broadcast the ceremony, and many of the Wichita merchants have donated their services as well as refreshments for the occasion.

Sensational part of the whole celebration is that not one cent of tax money has been spent to finance the $60,000 project.

BILL FEIN says "Who built the stronger pyramids, the Egyptians or the University students?" ... only time will tell, but ... Ralph S. Hinman, manager of the Better Business Bureau, says that by the time the first ten members of a "pyramid club" are paid off, there would have to be more members than there are people in the world ... solution: Rocket ships to Mars, we'll make a fortune. The only way to beat the mathematics of the endless chain, according to Hinman, is to start your own, and let the other fellow pay you.

SCOOP OF THE WEEK—Kitty Anne Curry is in need of sleep. At least she was when she went to sleep in the Library and had to be let out of the building by a janitor at 11:30 p. m. last week. But that isn't all, when she proceeded to her car, borrowed from Paul H. Meitzner, even it was gone ... and they say professors are absent minded.

Psychologists Meet In Discussion Group

Psychologists from the University, the V.A. Hospital, the Wichita Guidance Center, and the Halstead Clinic, have formed an informal discussion group which they call "Colloquium," to discuss phases of psychology. The club meets every third week in room 427 Administration Building at 7 p. m.

Announcement of the engagements of three University co-eds was made this week.

Phyllis Eileen Schmedeman's engagement to Jimlee R. Kemper has been announced by Miss Schmedeman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Schmedeman of Herington, Kansas. Kemper is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Kemper of this city. The couple, both students here will be wed in late spring.

Announcement was made Sunday of the engagement of Betty Jean Garnand, daughter of Mrs. H. B. Rogers, to William R. Mendell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Mendell, also of this city. The wedding will take place in June.

Miss Garnand is a senior in Home Economics, a member of the Independent Students' Association. Mendell was graduated from the University of Wichita and is now sports publicity director for the University.

Colleen Carolyn Aldrich, former Alpha Tau Sigma member, will be wed to William James Quinlisk, university student, at 3 p. m. March 5, in the Plymouth Congregational Church. The double ring ceremony will be read by Dr. J. Henry Hornung.

Scholarships Are Offered

Valuable assistantships, fellowships, and scholarships are available to University women. Notices are posted regularly on the Dean of Women's bulletin board, Dean Wilkie said, while pointing out that applications for most of these scholarships are due by April.

Syracuse University is offering 20 to 30, $800-1,000 graduate assistantships for women preparing to be counselors, deans of women, social directors, and heads of residence halls. The work is connected with high schools, teachers' colleges, colleges, and universities.

Indiana University offers a similar opportunity for personnel administration. A residence hall assistantship requires four semesters of residence and each assistant is placed in charge of a small dormitory.

Awards are available from art to zoology by Mills College. Radcliffe College offers a ten-month management training program for administrative positions in personnel departments.

Librarian scholarships, industrial fellowships, psychological service and teaching assistantships, and literature concerning other professions are posted on the bulletin board.

Literature on professional opportunities in Girl Scouting, Y. W. C. A., advertising, and telephone service can also be found in Dean Wilkie's office in the Administration Building.

The Snake Pit? Council Is Amused By Names Received For New Fountain

The Student Council may not have the most exciting job in the world but at times it seems the most amusing. The council members had several laughs during their meeting to pick the name of the new fountain room.

One entry is "The Greasy Spoon." Another is "The Passion Pit," and still another is "The Jardiniere." The name that got the biggest laugh from the council members is "Gott's Little Acre," submitted in honor of the Student Council president.

"Hekhuis' Delemma," "Will Bill's Bar," and "The Faculty's Folly" were submitted in honor of the University faculty.

Many names have been submitted for their appropriateness regarding the location of the fountain in the basement of the Commons. Some of these are "The Gutter Room," "Submarine Room," "Down-Under Inn," "The Snack Pit," "The Cellar," and "The Sink."

Adding a bit of school loyalty to the list, some of the entries are "The WU-WU Room," "The Shock Shack," "The Shockerop Room," and "The Varsity Room."

Referring to the food to be served in the room, the following names were submitted: "Feed Bin," "Hamburger Heaven," and "The Sugar Bowl."

Which name won? Wait and see folks, wait and see!

School Honoring W. H. Isely To Be Erected Near University

Honoring W. H. Isely, one of the founders and first dean of Fairmount College, forerunner of the University of Wichita, ground breaking ceremonies for a new 17-room grade school bearing his name were held recently at Poplar and Eighteenth.

Miss Alice Isley, 1627 North Holyoke, twin sister of the educator and for many years librarian of the University's library, broke the ice laden ground along with her brother, Bliss Isley, 1617 North Vassar, a 1906 Fairmount graduate and presently associated with the Wichita Chamber of Commerce.

Also present at the brief ceremony held during the winter's heaviest sleet storm were Howard Darling, another Fairmount graduate and member of the University of Wichita Alumni Association; S. G. Nease, Isley's first sergeant when he served as an army lieutenant in the first war; and Mrs. F. B. Isely, Austin, Tex., a relative and one of the college's first students.

Paul Kitch, board of education president, Wayne Romine, president of the Northeast civic association, Superintendent Wade C. Fowler, and board of education and school officials also attended.

Isely was principal of Fairmount Institute before founding the Congregational college at which he held professorships in history and economics.

He also was a member of the city council, a director of the Chamber of Commerce, and superintendent of the Fairmount Sunday School.

The new elementary school being constructed at a cost of $400,000 will serve a growing part of the city where school facilities have been crowded since early in World War II.

'Marriage as Career' Is Popular Subject

"Marriage as a Career," the most popular discussion during AWS Career Conference Week, shows the trend of our campus co-eds. At least 50 to 100 girls attended each meeting, while the highest attendance at a meeting was over 200.

The reporters for the conference were furnished by Miss Ricketts, from her shorthand class. Dr. Jardine also sent a letter of congratulation upon the success of the conference.

Next year a Career Conference is planned on a larger scale.

Jobs!

Competition Tough In Several Fields According to V. A.

"Record-breaking college enrollments since the end of the war will, in the next few years, result in increased competition for professional and administrative jobs," a Bureau of Labor Statistics report, prepared for Veterans Administration, revealed.

The report suggests that veterans enter courses of education or training "as closely related as possible to their interests and capacities."

A veteran seeking advice and guidance from the V.A. "should be made aware of the competition which he is likely to meet in many fields. He will be well-advised to consider more of the less-glamorous fields, and to take courses which will enable him to qualify for more than one type of job."

Employment requirements for many jobs are likely to be raised, the report said, because of the unprecedented number of college graduates entering the market.

Annual Music Festival Draws Fifty Schools

"Approximately 4,000 high school students will invade the University April 1-2 to attend the annual District Music Festival," according to Walter Duerksen, chairman of the music department.

"There will be no classes for University students Friday, Apr. 1, but Saturday classes on Apr. 2 will be held as usual," he said.

Fifty high schools will be represented at the festival. Music organizations and soloists will perform for criticism ratings by judges brought from surrounding states.

Interesting!

Crowd Jams Door As Students Stop To Watch Dancing

The girl gave up and took the long way 'round; she couldn't get through the crowd jamming the door. Evidently Modern Dance Workshop was in progress.

You could almost see her mind clicking out the words, "I never can get through to the other side of the gym. Every Thursday afternoon from 2 to 4 that door is blocked by men. Why the big interest in modern dance?"

That girl may soon find out for herself, and so may many other students. Winifred Engdahl Robinson, dance instructor, and Gea Stark, president of the Workshop, have announced that the Dance Workshop will present its annual spring dance program in April.

Students who have had some training and experience in modern dance may audition in the Women's Gym on Thursday, March 17, at 2 p. m., or by appointment with Mrs. Robinson. The dances, either solo or small group numbers, will be judged on originality and suitability of material. Audition winners will dance in the spring program.

The auditions are principally for those students who work or have classes during the time Dance Workshop meets.

The April program will combine performances of modern, folk and square dances.

Demonstration of studies, techniques, and student dance composition in modern dance will fill the first half of the program. Explanations will accompany the dances in order to aid the audience in the understanding of this art form.

The second half of the program will be devoted to European folk dancing and American Western square dancing. "Bright and festive costumes will depict the various nationalities," Mrs. Robinson said.

Including members of the Workshop and students from modern dance and folk and square dance classes, over 60 people will participate in the program.

The all-dance program will be presented in the men's gym.

College Educated Forester Demanded In Nation's Timber

From FUTURE Magazine

One-third of America is forest land. Today 250,000 people draw their livelihood from the timberlands; 125,000 more work the woods in basic logging and lumbering.

Guarding their domain are 6,000 foresters, upon whose work depends the future of our woodlands.

So secluded is the scene of his labor that the forester and his work are rarely appreciated. The forester is no hulking primate whose high art is diamond-hitching.

A forester is a college-trained engineer of the wildlands, with a welter of skills in photogrammetry, silviculture, forest management, forest extension, administration, personnel management, public relations, logging, and what have you.

He can use a typewriter as well as an ax and is at home behind a desk or in a watch tower.

Twenty-five years ago practically all foresters were federally employed, but now over half are employed by private industry. As we increase the productivity of our timberlands there will be demand for several thousand new foresters.

Foresters are still working to prove their worth to the timber products industry and until they succeed, competition among foresters in this field will remain keen.

Opportunities are varied and center in private industry, which controls 3-5 of all salable timber and 4-5 of all timberland.

In private industry the finest opportunities are in pulp and paper branches. These can raise pulpwood crops in rotations of 25 to 50 years, enabling a quicker return on forest investment than can other forest industries.

A largely undeveloped field of opportunity lies in public-service corporation timberlands. Many railroads, water companies, mining companies, etc., own extensive tracts which they are just beginning to develop through forestry.

Geographically, the greatest demand for foresters is in the Pacific Northwest, which possesses 35 per cent of all our timber, and in the South and Southeast.

Before the inception of their profession in 1900, foresters had to go to Europe for formal training. Nearly 1,000 foresters were graduated in 1948, and a similar number will graduate this year.

Most of them will find employment, but not at the same administrative level open to their predecessors and more of them will be doing actual woods work rather than directing management policies. The war importance of the forests made possible very rapid promotion through the ranks.

Forestry's rise to professional status evolved a fairly fixed set of entrance requirements. The forester's native talent is marked by a genuine liking for the outdoors, a love for things natural, a desire to match one's self against the moods of nature. Adaptability is most important.

The forester's formal training is a four-year college course in one of 22 accredited institutions, two years of which are devoted to technical forestry work. Additional schooling is necessary for positions in education and research. Pre-professional work is most helpful and is usually obtained in guide positions, logging, surveying, replanting, etc.

The forester's income compares favorably with that of all allied professions. For the beginner just out of college, public employment, particularly Federal, offers the largest income.

It is almost invariably true that in a short time the professionally-trained forester in dustry will out-earn his colleague in public employment. The Federal pay scale is as follows:

	Per Year
Tech. Assistant...	$2,300-3,640
Dist. Ranger ....	2,980-4,300
Staff Tech. ....	2,980-5,180
Adm. Assistant...	2,980-4,300
Ass't Supervisor..	3,640-5,180
Supervisor .....	4,300-6,020

Most of the larger companies have definite promotion plans. Many have pension systems and offer vacations with pay at the professional and executive levels.

Industrial forestry also has the advantage of variety and continual contact with business operations. Highest salaries of all are in the Pacific Northwest.

Play 'Taming of the Shrew' Being Rehearsed by Cast

Shakespeare's comedy "The Taming of the Shrew", the fifteenth in the University Theatre's series of Shakespearean plays is now in rehearsal and will be staged by the University Players March 10, 11, and 12, Prof. Wilner, director of the play said.

One of the most popular of all Shakespearean plays, it has been staged professionally many times recently including a successful run on the New York theatre circuit last year.

Katharine, the shrew, to be played by Helen Christy, is a beautiful girl with a violent and un-governed temper, spoiled by her father's weak indulgence and the favor shown her younger sister, Bianca, to be played by Char-iana Taylor.

The opening of the play finds Katharine, the stong, and mis-tress-minded without a husband, while her younger sister is to be married.

Petruchio, a rich young gentleman of Verona, to be played by Robert Minser, hears of Kate and knows that she is the girl for him. He knows of Kate's uncontrollable temper, but it only makes him fonder of her when he comes to propose to her.

"The Taming of the Shrew" will be presented on the University stage March 10, 11, 12. Tickets will be sold at the box-office on play nights only.

Science Fellowships Open to Graduates

Four graduate fellowships in chemistry, petroleum geology, bacteriology, and aeronautical engineering, will be awarded by the Foundation for Industrial Research for the 1949-1950 academic year.

Each fellowship will carry a stipend of $1,000 in addition to tuition and fees, and will lead to the masters degree.

The Foundation first established two fellowships in 1947. Three were awarded last year.

No restrictions are placed on fellowships except that the masters thesis must deal with problems of this area.

The fellowships are open to graduates of all accredited colleges. Students can obtain complete details from Dr. Hugo Wall, chairman of the Committee on Scholarships and Student Aid.

Publications Board Available To Hear Students Complaints

Has your name ever been misspelled in the Sunflower? Have you ever honestly felt that your organization had been slighted in favor of another?

Have you any constructive criticism for the policy of the paper?

Existing almost unknown on the University campus is a group of students and faculty which, as one of its duties, will represent a student against the paper or year-book in any complaint, as long as it is sincere.

This group is known as the Board of Student Publications, which is composed of a student member from each of the four classes and of, at present, four members of the faculty, one of whom acts as chairman.

The Board acts as an intermediary between the student body and the various student publications. For example, if "Mary Blank" thinks her sorority, in a number of editions, has been overlooked in the society news, then a word to the Board will probably have it corrected by the next issue. The future activities of her sorority will be published, if publishable.

If a student should want information about profits of any publication, he would ask the Board. Any questions concerning bids for work on the publications would be directed to the Board.

This awarding of bids submitted for work on the yearbook takes up a great part of the Board's time, because no two bids are offered in the same terms; each of them must be carefully examined before the final choice is made.

Election of editors for the various publications, care of the public audit, and the determining of salaries and commissions for the different editors are other phases of the Board's activity.

Present student members of the Board are Peggy Arnett, freshman representative, Bob Ames, sophomore representative, Al Littleton, junior representative, and Bob Gould, senior representative.

Faculty members include chairman Robert W. Frazer, associate professor of History; George Phillips, assistant professor of journalism; Max Milbourn, associate professor and acting head of the department of journalism; and Neil Duncan, comptroller.

Anniversary For I. S. A.

The Independent Students Association celebrated their 10th anniversary at a dance in the Commons Feb. 5, according to John Ballinger, president.

In 1936 seven independents formed a group called "The Barbs." "The Barbs" held bi-monthly meetings to discuss the problems of the independent students on the campus. Lewis Crum was elected the first president in 1938.

The group became a member of the National Independent Students Association in January, 1939. The purpose of I.S.A. is to further social and cultural opportunities and athletic competition among the independent students on the campus.

I.S.A. moved into their present home in the south room of the Brig in March 1941. One-half of the room is occupied by the I.S.A. Book Exchange.

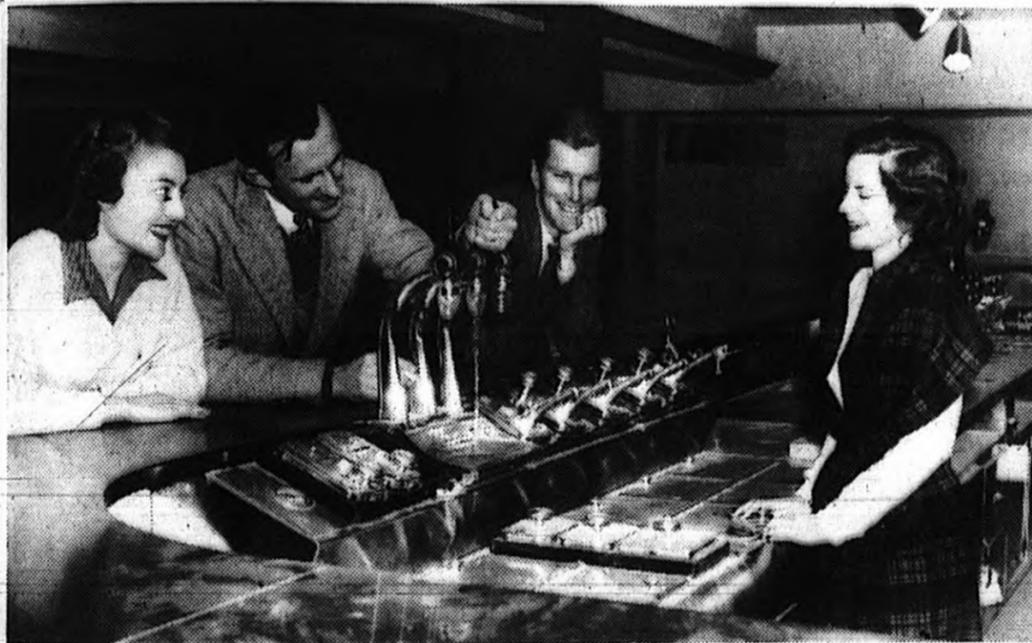

The black and yellow I.S.A. pin forms an arrow which represents the self-reliance and independence, characteristics of the American Indian and the I.S.A. organization. The seven link chain represents the planks in the national scopes and aims.

Miss Marie Graham, Mrs. Lillie Zimmerman, H. A. Shumway, and Robert Ryan, are sponsors of the organization. Mrs. Dorothy Gardner sponsors of the women's group and Raymond Peterson is sponsor of the men's group.

I.S.A. is the youngest social society on the campus and has grown to be one of the largest.

Art Group To Be Here

An exhibition of new visual aids for instruction will headline the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Kansas State Art Teachers Association which will be held on the University campus, Saturday, April 23.

"Plans are now just in the formulative state," Robert W. Cooke, associate professor of art, said. "But, the showing of visual aids and a tour through the National Decorative Art Exhibit will definitely be on the program," he added.

Cooke, who is acting as convention chairman, said that an exhibit of student art work will be held at that time. Visiting teachers will be shown the work in the Gallery in Morrison Hall.

"The teachers will be divided into their own instruction levels, elementary, high school, or college, for sectioned meetings," he said.

An added feature of the convention for the visitors will be a trip to the Wichita Art Museum to see the reproductions of historical far Eastern tapestries which will be on display there.

The convention, which will last throughout the day, is expected to attract more than 100 teachers from different schools over the state.

"All of the phases of the convention, which is being sponsored by the art department for the first time, will be open to the local student body," Cooke concluded.

Indian Club Grows As 21 Tribes Join

The Arrowhead Club organized less than one year ago now has more than 150 members representing 21 Indian tribes," said Dr. Ross Taylor, advisor for the club.

The club was started in Planeview last year when it was found that descendants of the Indian tribes were losing their knowledge of tribal culture.

Since its beginning the club has developed another branch which meets in the Community Club of the Wichita Art Association.

The club represents all of the plains tribes and the five civilized tribes.

The club has developed a long range program for the study of the tribal arts, including Indian painting, singing and dancing.

Earning Power of Graduates Is Shown by College Reports

An average doctor earns as much in one day as the average teacher does in five, after each has been out of college 30 years, according to a survey conducted by Notre Dame.

Several of our leading universities have become interested in what its graduates were doing and have endeavored to find out the salaries graduates of each five years' standing were receiving.

Notre Dame tabulated its results and they coincide closely with summaries reported by other universities. Several thousand Notre Dame alumni responded to questionnaires sent to them and the results were tabulated in five classifications, Medicine, General Business, Law, Engineering and Science, and Teaching.

In all fields the highest income is attained approximately 30 years after graduation, with the exception of the legal field, in which the peak is reached after 40 years of practice.

The income declines in the other fields 30 years after graduation and is reflected most sharply in engineering and science.

For the first ten years after graduation general business is the most profitable venture. But after that, medicine and law have the highest income over the longest period of years.

Present-day educators say that financial gain should not be the only outlook of college students. Contentment and self-satisfaction will be the most important things to look for in prospective jobs.

At the present time there are 2,500,000 students in American colleges and universities. School experts predict that the college enrollment will be 4,000,000 by 1960, this means the U. S. will have 15,000,000 college-trained people in 1960. There will not be 15,000,000 executive jobs!

In the light of this, college graduates will have to consider the sort of living in a world of their friends and community rather than the material compensation that has often been associated with college degrees.

Good! Thanner, Williams Translate Letters As Public Service

Translation of letters from German-speaking countries is the work of Joseph Thanner and W. O. Williams, assistants in the German department. They handle from five to ten letters a week, which usually come from Germany or Holland.

Most of the letters are written in thanks for relief packages which have been sent from this country and display the privation and need of the "average" family in Germany.

The translation department gives this service to individuals and organizations throughout Kansas.

Churches that ask their help most frequently are the Methodist and Congregational, Thanner says. Letters of urgent importance are given special consideration.

Thanner, whose home is near Munich, Germany is a Senior, majoring in history. After two and a half years at the University of Munich he came to the United States, last August as an exchange student under the UNESCO plan.

During the civil war, 2,400 military engagements were considered important enough to be identified by name.

Fred Garlick Chosen As Cadet Commander Of Local ROTC Unit

Fred S. Garlick, Jr., has been appointed cadet colonel and commanding officer of the R.O.T.C. unit here, according to Colonel Donald T. Beeler, professor of military science and tactics.

R.O.T.C. cadets are organized into units corresponding to regular army organization and commanded by student officers. The entire unit, called a regiment, is divided into an air squadron and an infantry battalion, each of which consists of two companies. Companies are divided into platoons and squads.

Lieutenant Colonel Thomas Allen will command the air squadron and Lieutenant Colonel Jack Robertson the battalion. Four cadet captains have been appointed company commanders. They are Ray Morrison, company A; Edward Young, B; Harry Smith, C; and Donald Hawkins, D.

On the regimental staff will be Lieutenant Colonel S. Elder Jones, executive officer; Major John Farmer, personnel officer; Captain William C. ## Little Used Religious Books Delight Hutchinson Minister

Although religious subjects are often taboo in today's classrooms, the library's collection of little used religious books found one appreciative reader recently when Robert Bond, minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Hutchinson, took a week off from his duties to do some research work, according to John Spellman, assistant librarian.

"The man practically trembled with delight," Spellman said, upon discovering two rare religious biographies here that he had been unable to find in other local libraries. He was amazed that a school the size of the University of Wichita should have such a good, basic collection of holy works, "and," Spellman quipped, "in such good condition."

"As a matter of fact," Spellman continued, "few places outside of the Library of Congress maintain the variety of books stocked by the University for the convenience of the students and the public. The library extends every courtesy to all readers, and we were delighted to have been of service to the Hutchinson minister."

"Even with three of the library staff at half mast, figuratively speaking, due to the bad cold season, and despite the fact that the demand for books is continuing at an all time high, the library finds the time to maintain its tradition of friendly service to all comers," Spellman said. To prove his point the assistant librarian pointed to the displays that the library is featuring during Valentine Week.

The displays consisted of a girls vocational exhibit—and a section on the prevention and cure of heart diseases.

Chatter Chatter! Sociology Teacher Says Students Talk More Freely Here

"University of Wichita students seem to talk more freely than the students I taught at Iowa State College," Carl E. Ortmeier, instructor in the sociology department said.

Ortmeier joined the faculty in January of this year. He is one of the few members of the faculty who was an enlisted man in the army. He is now doing research work here on his Ph.D. in race relations.

"I enjoy working with the sociology department very much," Ortmeier said, "and I hope to get better acquainted with racial relations in Wichita, and here on the campus."

Egyptians of the time of Ptolemies were so violently opposed to red hair that they burned a red haired maiden once a year.

Chemistry Head Speaks Of "Chromium Plating" At Meeting Tuesday

"There are two main categories of chromium plating—the decorative and the industrial," said Dr. Lloyd McKinley in his speech titled "Chromium Plating" at the meeting of the American Society for Metals held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 626 N. Broadway, Tuesday, Feb. 15, at 6:30 p.m.

"The decorative chromium plating is used for tableware, toasters, jewelry and other articles. The industrial or hard chromium is found in cutting-tools, and other surfaces that are exposed to excessive wear such as airplane and automobile parts," explained Dr. McKinley.

Dr. McKinley has been head of the chemistry department since 1927. He received his Ph. D. degree in chemistry from the State University of Iowa.

From 1945-1947 he supervised the Beech project on "The Electrodeposition of Chromium to Tolerances."

He is an active member of the American Chemistry Society and has written several articles in the field of chemistry.

Vets See K. L. Lewis On Dropping Courses

Veterans dropping courses should return all books for that course, to the University Guidance Bureau, according to K. L. Lewis, Veterans Training Officer.

Any person completing a term, is entitled to all books, but those quitting in the middle of a semester must contact the Bureau so the office can make a decision regarding their books.

All veterans in doubt about dropping courses, should contact Mr. Lewis.

Ah Nature! University Offers Counselor Training For Youth Groups

Did you ever have a longing to track animals or to go hiking? There is one course offered on the campus that does these things and many more.

Last week, while most students were engaged in dull school routine, the camp leadership class took to the fields.

Equipped with a tin cup, a knife, and a bandana, they set out on an expedition.

One group trailed rabbits for one half mile down Seventeenth Street while another squad cut across the campus toward Twenty-first Street, bringing back frozen tracks of several different kinds of animals.

Two of the students, Helen Coltrane and Jeanne Bolan, made a rabbit trap which they plan to set soon.

The purpose of the course is to train camp counselors for youth groups.

In the future the campers plan to have cookouts and hikes. Each student will also have a nature and craft project, such as the study of a bird or the making of a child's toy.

These future 14 camp leaders are trained by Gladys M. Taggart, head of department of physical education for women.

University UNESCO Council In Second Year of Operation

"The University UNESCO Council, sponsored by Dr. Hugo Wall, is now in the second year of operation," said Mary Ann Unruh, Campus UNESCO president, yesterday, when asked about the success of the UNESCO Council.

The council completed three main projects last year and is working on a number for the coming year.

The University of Munich was adopted as a sister university for the purpose of helping students in Germany get on their feet.

For the students of this University, UNESCO sponsored a drive for the necessary articles for school such as books, pencils and paper. They sent through WSSF over 700 pounds of articles.

The Food Drive raised food and money for the people in Germany. The "Mock Grocery Store," a project sponsored by UNESCO was used to sell grocery articles to the students of this University and the money and the article would be sent to Munich.

The third project of the UNESCO Council was the Student Exchange program by which a student from this University was sent to Munich and one of their students was sent here with all expenses paid for one year. Our exchange student from Munich last year was Josef Thanner who is studying Philology.

For this year UNESCO has planned a Cultural Exchange program with the same university. Munich sent us an art exhibit consisting of etchings, water colors, oils done by their art students. In exchange we are sending them phonograph records of our band, orchestra and choral groups.

Their second project is a Literature Exchange. The University of Wichita Writers' Club are compiling a pamphlet which gives the information the students would need if they should come to the University of Wichita on the Student Exchange program.

Graduates Get Jobs Through Club Effort

Five mid-year graduates of the University's accounting department have taken jobs with Wichita firms as a result of 200 letters written by the campus accounting club last November, according to William F. Crum, department head.

Students who have accepted accounting positions with the local firms are Dale Silcott, 1537 Fairmount; Wendell Evens, 1555 N. Sedgwick; Kenneth Rupe, 3219 Oakland; Rupert Jackson, 3961 East Bruce; and Richard Curry, 530 N. Volutsia.

A brief biography of each graduate and a summary of the University's accounting curriculum were the contents of the letters.

Information concerning the summer graduates of the accounting department will be sent some time in April Mr. Crum said.

Missouri Valley Conference Claims Two of Nation's Best

The Missouri Valley, which boasts two of the nation's three top teams, is the lowest scoring section in the nation, according to the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

The East, which doesn't have a single team in the "first ten," leads the rest of the nation in scoring, with an average of 114 points per game.

The Valley also has the strictest officiating and is next to the top in free throw accuracy. The South and Southwest are the most lenient in foul calling but are the most accurate at free throws.

The strict foul calling in the Missouri Valley has brought an average of 40 personals per game. The boys from the South and Southwest have converted 63 per cent of their free shots.

The major college scoring average so far this year is 108 and one-half points per game. This pace may top all previous college seasons.

Art Lennie, for the past year and a half industrial consultant for the Foundation for Industrial Research, left Wichita early this week for Middletown, Ohio, where he has accepted a position in the advertising department of Armco Steel Corp., in charge of technical publicity.

Lennie's resignation was made to Dr. Waldo B. Burnett early this month.

Kentucky, St. Louis, Carolina Are Leading Cage Contenders

Throughout the nation, 120 college basketball coaches were asked to rank the nation's cage teams most likely to cop national honors when March and tournament time rolls around.

On the basis of six points for each first choice, five for second, four for third, three for fourth, two for fifth, and one for sixth, here's how the top ten will finish, according to the men who teach 'em. They are in order as follows: Kentucky, St. Louis, North Carolina State, Holy Cross, Oklahoma A. & M., Notre Dame, Baylor, Oklahoma University, Michigan, and L. I. U.

Kentucky Wildcats from down in the Bluegrass Country, 1948 N. C. C. A. titleholders and Olympic try-out finalists, are heading for their sixth consecutive Southeastern Conference Championship and another mythical national title with only overconfidence looming as a major obstacle.

The Kentucky cage attack is still paced by last year's three super sharpshooters: Alex Groza, Ralph Beard, and Wallace (Wah Wah) Jones. Coach Adolph Rupp has more on hand where they come from to supply any needed assistance.

A few hundred miles west. St. Louis University's Eddie Hicky centers his offense around lanky Ed Macauley, tabbed by many experts as the best college basketball player since Oklahoma A. & M.'s Bob Kurland. The 6-foot 8-inch pivotman, Easy Ed, led the Billikens to last year's National Invitation Crown. He is one of the few very tall men who doesn't look awkward on the court.

Deep in the heart of the Southland, Coach Everett Case is driving his North Carolina State Wolfpack toward another Southern Conference title and a tournament bid. Still keying North Carolina's attack is Dick Dickey, a flashy, bullet fast 6-foot 1-inch forward from Alexandria, Ind. The Wolfpack won 29 games and lost only three last season.

Holy Cross, N. C. A. A. Champions two years ago and N. C. A. A. consolation winners last season, sport a new look only in the head coach's seat. But Holy Cross rides high that peak led by great veterans George Kaftan, Bob Cousy, and Dermott O'Connell.

Along with the top collegiate cage teams in the red hot race for national honors comes the five top-notch cagers: Ed Macauley, St. Louis; Alex Groza, Kentucky;

W. U. Parking Ticket Situation Is Perplexing at the Least 26

By Peggy Arnett

The woman in line ahead of me asked the cashier at the window if she was in the right place to pay her parking fine. She was.

The cashier told her that the parking fines had been very lenient because of the bad weather, but that didn't make her any happier about her ticket.

After she paid him, and he started to reach for my parking ticket, he drew back when I asked him where the money collected from parking fines went. He didn't know a thing about anything. "Why don't you go see Mr. Duncan, two offices down?" I did.

When I asked Mr. Duncan how many parking tickets had been issued, he told me that they had all been paid but one. I asked him again how many tickets had been given out and how many had been paid. Mr. Duncan didn't know. I asked him if he didn't keep a record of parking fines and he told me that the building and grounds department took care of that.

"All we do is, if they want to pay their money, we take it and if they don't, we phone in to the deans to get their numbers and their class cards are taken away from them.

We merely handle the money and the deans take care of everything else according to the laws set down."

He suggested that I go see the building and grounds department and then he called Dean Hekhuis.

We went to Hekhuis' office and Mr. Duncan told him that I was going to write a story about the parking situation, and before he could say anything else, Dean Hekhuis said, "Parking regulations on the campus are designed to facilitate traffic for all students and faculty, and alone through cooperation can this be secured.

"If each individual shared in this responsibility, there would be no need for any tickets. The ticket serves as a reminder that someone has encroached upon the privileges of all. No ticket need be issued when each of us recognizes that it is designed for the common good."

Mr. Duncan told him that I wanted to know where the money went

George Kaftan, Holy Cross; Ralph Beard, Kentucky; Kevin O'Shea, Notre Dame.

The second All-Star collegiate quintet are: Wallace (Wah Wah) Jones, Kentucky; Vern Gardner, Utah; Dick Dickey, North Carolina State; Dwight Eddleman, Illinois; Tony Lavelli, Yale.

That's the way the top collegiate teams and players stand as basketball, the great equalizer among major college sports marches past the half-way mark and into the home stretch of the 1948-49 campaign.

Students Register For Campus Parking

In order to cut down the expense of investigating the license numbers of parking violators, the University of Idaho has inaugurated a system of car and license registration compulsory to all students who wish to park their cars on the university campus during the year.

The regulation adopted by the Academic Council reads as follows: "Each student will be responsible for recording the make and license number of his or her car on the registration card at the beginning of each semester."

"If at any time during the semester, a student sells his car, acquires a new one, or secures a new license, the data must be filed in the Office of Student Affairs."

that was collected. Hekhuis said that the money collected did not even take care of the expense of handling the fines.

He pointed out the amount of work it takes to send a man around every day to see how many cars are parked wrong, and then to check the car's ownership.

License tag listings have to be obtained from the County Treasurer and if the fines aren't paid, there is a great deal of office work involved in finding the law breaker's class numbers.

After I left Hekhuis' office, Mr. Duncan followed me into the hall and asked me what I was going to write in regard to where the money went. He assured me that, "The cost of handling amounts to a great deal more than the fines collected."

Mr. Duncan also went into great detail about sending someone around looking for parking violators and the terrific amount of expense involved. If a policeman had to do this the school would have to pay him for his time.

As it is, a man employed by the building and grounds offices has to do this while he could very easily be doing something else.

The expense of placing traffic signs over the campus also is tremendous.

It occurs to me that we students should be very grateful for all the expense and effort that is expended to keep us in parking tickets.

Roosevelt College Strictly 'Non Pro!'

A non-commercial, intercollegiate sports program, designed to eliminate all aspects of commercialism and to insure protection for the players in case of injury, has been adopted by Roosevelt College, Chicago, Ill.

As accepted by the faculty council the policy stipulates that athletic competition be permitted in minor sports excluding the major sports of football, basketball, baseball, and track.

According to the new program members of the teams will be chosen from intramural participants on basis of merit and must have one semester's attendance before competing.

No coaches or managers are to be hired for any team, but will be appointed from student and faculty volunteers.

Time, Patience and Hard Work Needed To Build all Teams

By Bob Olson

With all the talk about the possibility of the national intercollegiate baseball finals being held in Wichita in June, some people have remembered that we have a baseball team right here.

This year, for the second time, the Shockers will field a team. Last year in its first season the Shocker nine played eight games, winning four and losing four. This year the team will enter official Missouri Valley competition.

It will take time to build a good team, as in any other sport, but the Shockers have the material. Some of the men will have a late start however, since none of the gridgers can go out till spring football practice is over.

A lot of people were surprised when the Shocker cage squad almost upset the Aggies Saturday, including some of the men on the team. That near-win will look good on the record books, since the Aggies as the nation's number three team is expected to be in the N. C. A. A. regionals at Madison Square Garden in March.

As Ken Gunning said a few days ago, we have plenty of good material—it just takes time and hard work to build a winning team. We witnessed this with Jim Trimble and his football squad.

There is one important thing that the Shocker cage squad lacks—strong student support. When it comes to school spirit this school is near the bottom of the ladder.

The only school in the Missouri Valley Conference with less spirit is Drake. Those students who went to Des Moines last October to see the Drake and Shocker football squads clash, realized that other schools must think the same of us when they're in Wichita.

ISA Women Take Volleyball Tourney

With four wins and no losses, the Independent Students Association copped the girl's intramural volleyball league. Pi Kaps were second with three wins and one loss.

Intramural basketball practices began Monday and will continue through March 4. According to Jeanne Bolan, general sports manager, a player must have two general practices and two team practices to participate in the tournament. Practices are held from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. in the women's gym.

Ping pong and badminton tournaments began Monday with some 20 players participating.

Michigan U. Proposes To Enlarge Stadium

The University of Michigan is considering proposals to increase the size of its stadium at Ann Arbor. The stadium now seats 85,938. One of the proposals provides for the addition of a complete upper deck. This would boost the capacity to 125,000 and make the Michigan stadium the largest in the country.

Shockers May Play Host To Leading Teams In National Intercollegiate Baseball Tourney

The University of Wichita may be host to the country's top four college baseball teams for the finals of the national intercollegiate baseball tournament June 22-26, according to Jim Trimble, athletic director.

Trimble was host to Frank McCormick, athletic director of the University of Minnesota and chairman of the N. C. A. A. baseball committee, last week.

McCormick was in Wichita conferring with University athletic officials and local publicists on the possibility of holding the national intercollegiate finals in Wichita this year.

He said the N. C. A. A. is underwriting the tournament for 10,000 dollars and that Wichita is one of the most likely sites because of its central location, acquaintance with tournament baseball, and superior baseball facilities.

If Wichita is the site picked by the N. C. A. A., the University will be host school, and Trimble will have charge of arrangements. Trimble said at a press luncheon last week that the tournament will be a definite boost forward for the University since it will be nationally publicized. It will bring major league scouts, top baseball names, newsmen and hundreds of spectators to Wichita.

Another tentative site for the tournament is Winston-Salem, N. C., but McCormick admitted that he favored the Wichita set-up for tournament baseball.

Last year the finals, between Yale and Southern California, were played-off at Kalamazoo, Michigan. Under this year's plan, however, the tournament will consist of four teams playing double elimination baseball.

One team will be from the east coast, one from the west coast, one from the South and one from the Midwest. The Midwest team will be chosen from a playoff between the Missouri Valley and the Southwest section. According to McCormick the strongest contenders for the Midwest post are Oklahoma University, Oklahoma A. and M. and Texas University.

Women's AAU Cage Meet Is March 3-5

The Women's Missouri Valley A. A. U. basketball tournament will be played Mar. 3-5 at Kansas City, Kans.

Ten teams have been entered to date, and players will participate from Kansas City and St. Joseph, Mo., and Lawrence, Topeka, and Manhattan, Kans.

Winner of the tournament will be eligible to play in the national tournament at St. Joseph, Mo., Mar. 20 to 25.

Pennsylvania's first stone bridge was built in 1697. It's first suspension bridge was built in 1801.

Outstanding Cagers 'Shun' Academics For Industrial Squads

Are the Shocker sports officials missing the boat in their attempt to secure out-of-state talent in preference to the local variety?

This was the question raised by an article in a local paper recently.

Attention was called particularly to the number of outstanding basketball performers who have or could have attended school here but are instead playing ball for industrial outfits in and around Wichita.

Two players who perform for nearby teams and who have their entire college eligibility left were cited as examples. Either of these two would, the article said, be of great help to any college.

Several former Shocker cage stars were named. All of these men are now playing in the local Naismith league and have a varying amount of eligibility left.

The answer was offered that perhaps these cagers have no desire to attend college and that a coach attempting to sign them up would be wasting his time.

There are more Indians in North America at the present time than when Columbus discovered the new world.

Cagers Drop 39-37 Battle

The Shockers almost upset the powerful Oklahoma Aggies Saturday night, but when the Forum buzzer sounded A & M had won its seventh consecutive conference basketball game, 39 to 37. It was a close, furious battle all the way. Aggie coach Hank Iba said that the Shockers were one of the toughest teams his boys had met all season. He also said that Rex Mc-

Murray was one of the best rebound and defensive men he had seen all year.

McMurray led the Shocker attack with 10 points, all coming in the first half. Lanky Bob Harris paced the victors with 11. During the second half, the Aggies never led by more than four points.

Tom Jaquet iced the game with a set up goal on an in-bounds play with 1:30 remaining. Jim Neber-Jaquet added a free throw for good gall hit a long one for Wichita but measure to end the scoring.

It was Oklahoma A & M's twenty-third straight victory in Missouri Valley play over a two-year period.

Unbeaten! Small School Five Has Best Record Of College Cagers

By Jack Campbell
Hamline University of Minnesota, with an enrollment less than the University of Wichita, has a basketball team which is now the only unbeaten major college team in the nation. In a game last week, Hamline's Pipers demonstrated their remarkable ability. Playing one of their traditional Minnesota College Conference rivals, St. John's University, the Piper's flashed to a 95 to 48 victory, on the Johnnie's home floor.

However, it's not the size of the score, but the way Hamline got its baskets that makes the team look unbeatable. Fifty-one times Piper players took aim and shot for the hoop, and 35 of those shots swished through for field goals.

Hamline scored on nearly seven of every ten shots. With that kind of percentage, a team doesn't have to work very hard to turn a contest into a rout.

In addition, Coach Joe Hutton's three top scorers played just half the game. But in their total time of 60 minutes, they scored 55 points.

Forward Hal Haskins dropped in 25 points in 25 minutes, center Vern Mikkelsen got 18 in 15 minutes, and guard Joey Hutton, son of the coach, scored 12 in 20 minutes.

Webster B's Take Lead

As the final whistle blew Sunday afternoon, the Webster B cage quintet rolled up a 35 to 19 victory over the Cowpokes, last years Intramural League title holders.

Webster B was sparked by Klein with 13 points and Cather who rolled in 12 counters. The Cowpokes were stopped from the field for they barely managed to scratch up four goals during the entire game.

This win gave the Webster B five a undisputed first place in the Intramural League race. They have rolled to 11 consecutive victories, but have dropped to third place. The Cowpokes were also unbeaten

West Virginia Cager Scores 503 Points in Eighteen Games

One of the sensations of the college basketball season has been George King of Morris Harvey College in Charleston, West Virginia. A dead-eye when it comes to putting the basketball through the hoop, King may very well end up as the leading college scorer in the nation.

In his first 18 games this season, King scored 503 points, an average of 28 per game, and has been the nation's number one scorer for five consecutive weeks. Once, he scored 40 points, another time 42 points. Morris Harvey plays some competent opposition — teams like Washington and Lee, Dayton, Kentucky Wesleyan, Ohio University, and West Virginia Wesleyan are all strong southeastern clubs.

King is rather small as basketball stars range today. A 20-year-old-junior, he is six feet tall and weighs 170 pounds. This is his third season with Morris Harvey, a co-educational college with an enrollment less than the University of Wichita.

Last season, when the school won 12 and lost 12, King scored 442 points for a 19-point average.

He's an exceptional set shot artist, has a good hook shot from under the basket, and exhibits terrific speed on the fast break.

Morris Harvey coach Eddie King calls the youngster a "coach's dream." And Eddie King believes that George King could be a star on any team in the country.

SHOCKERS MEET DRAKE IN FINAL HOME GAME

Shocker Cagers Will Finish Season Against Bulldogs

The Shockers wind up their 1948-1949 basketball season with a pair of games this week, facing the Drake Bulldogs Saturday night in the Forum, and going against Oklahoma A&M in a return engagement, March 2, at Stillwater.

Both teams defeated the Shockers in games earlier this season, Drake by a 57 to 47 score, and the Aggies in the 39-37 set-to a week ago.

Coach Jack McClelland's Bulldogs, currently flirting with a .500 per cent won-lost over all record, are fourth in the Valley race. They have won three and lost five in conference play.

Drake's offense is built around 6-foot 9-inch John Pritchard who has scored 226 points thus far this season. John Rennie ranks second in scoring with 174.

The Saturday night game will begin at 8:30 p. m. and will be preceded by a preliminary game starting at 6:30.

Hank Iba, Aggie Coach, remarked that he was "darn scared" about the outcome of the first Shocker game, can be expected to have his conference leading Aggies out to win convincingly in Stillwater.

Starting for the Aggies will probably be Bob Harris, who scored 11 points in the game here, at center; Vern Yates, held to five points by Rex McMurray, and Tom Jaquet at forwards; and Joe Bradley and T. J. Parks at guards.

Graduates' Children Are Survey Topic

The University of Wichita has cooperated with the Population Reference Bureau of Washington, D. C. in their study of the number of children born to college graduates.

Each year the Bureau sends out questionnaires to graduates of the 25-year and 10-year classes to find out the number of children born to graduates of these classes.

This year the questionnaires were sent to the graduates of the classes of 1924 and 1939. Results of the survey will be sent to the bureau in Washington soon. The material is used by the bureau in connection with studies on population.

Table Tennis Sharks Prepare For Tourney

With the annual Intramural ping-pong tournament just around the corner, the masters of the slice, chop, and slam have begun sharpening their best shots for its opening.

According to Dale Henry, Intramural director, the exact dates of the tourney are not definite as yet, but will be announced as soon as possible.

Tournament entrants will come from the various organizations on the campus, Henry said. Each group will designate a certain number of participants, either by a tournament of their own or by current rankings in the organization.

Webster "Stretch" Cather, last year's champion, will be back again this year to defend his title, and is reported to be in top shape. Phi Sigs Bob Mailert and Darrel Kinkead, and Gammas Bus Weiland and Harlan Seeber are among Cather's top challengers.

Badminton Is Gaining National Popularity

Badminton—a game that was born in India centuries ago finally will come of age this week when it crowns its first world champion.

Badminton, enjoying current popularity in women's gym classes, is the game that is sometimes described as tennis with a tall net and a "bird." The "bird" is a cork with feathers and is to badminton what a tennis ball is to tennis.

The United States, Denmark, and Malaya will battle it out for the world's championship. The U. S. is rated the outsider and Malaya is the favorite.

The competition started Tuesday at Glasgow, Scotland, when the United States opposed Malaya. The results were not known at press-time. The winner moves down to Preston, England, to play the Danes for the championship tomorrow and Saturday. They play the best of nine matches.

Golfers Will Confer With Gunning Friday About Coming Season

All men interested in joining the University golf team are requested to meet with Coach Ken Gunning in the Men's Physical Education office Friday at 10 a. m., according to Al Littleton, captain of this year's squad. Practice will get under way as soon as the weather clears.

Coach Gunning has three returning lettermen ready to go. This group, headed by Littleton, 1948 State and City amateur champion, includes Joe Minjares and Jack Douglas.

The Shockers will participate in matches with the other schools in the Missouri Valley Conference and will invade the Big Seven for games with Kansas University, Kansas State College, and Nebraska University on the road. The University linksmen will participate in the annual Missouri Valley Golf Championships to be held at Oklahoma A. and M. College, Stillwater, Okla., in May.

Joining the squad will provide plenty of practice as well as a chance to play on all of the best courses in town, according to Gunning. Expert advice will be supplied by Coach Gunning and several local professionals.

South Dakota has an Indian population of 26,500, that lives on nine reservations.

Copeland Is Elected Campus Group Head

University Players, campus dramatic group, elected Bob Copeland, senior speech and drama major, president for the ensuing year, at a dinner meeting Wednesday at 5:30 p. m. in the Commons Lounge.

Other officers elected were Jim Fry, vice president; Helen Christy, secretary; and Kathryn Slawson, treasurer. Committee members will be appointed by Copeland some time this week.

Gene Spangler, charter member of the University chapter of National Collegiate Players, explained the organization of the group and gave details for becoming members. It was announced that Doug Conrod, Ted Noel, Charla Taylor, and Bobbie Campbell were eligible for initiation into NCP.

"Students who are new on the campus or who are interested in drama are invited to join this group," Copeland said. "The organization provides not only actors but backstage workers for campus productions," he said.

Bills Coach Gives Team Good Advice

Great coaches have great ideas, at least as far as the nation's two top college cage mentors are concerned.

Coach Eddie Hickey of St. Louis University was lecturing his boys on sportsmanship prior to the Shocker contest. Hickey said, "When we have a comfortable lead and are moving the ball down the floor, stop the game if you notice an opponent is injured. On the other hand, if it's a close game, remember you have a perfect right to go in to score if you can." One of the players asked, "What do you consider a comfortable lead, coach?"

The smiling Hickey replied, "Oh about 25 or 30 points."

Meanwhile, the University of Kentucky coach, Adolph Rupp teaches a course in advanced basketball. It is said that he has never awarded a mark lower than an "A." Rupp himself indicates this is true, because he says, "What kind of a professor gives failing grades? It just proves that he didn't teach his students anything."

The football helmet was introduced to the United States in 1899.

'Americanism' Theme Of Library Display

"Out Of Many, One" is not a slogan to be practiced in the United States just one week out of each year, according to the Brotherhood Week display being featured by the University library this week.

The display's advice would seem to be, "Practice what we preach this week all year."

R.O.T.C. Rifle Team Seventh in Match

"The University's R.O.T.C. rifle team finished firing a national postal match this week," according to Captain Jess Taylor.

"Pershing Rifle teams in colleges throughout the nation are competing," Taylor said.

National results will not be announced until all teams have tabulated their scores.

On the local team, Taylor had the high score with 188; Dick Johnston was second with 184; Gerald McCarty followed with 181; John Ensley, 176; George Stables, 160.

The team ranked seventh in the 1948 match.

Sgt. Charles Ryburn of the R.O.T.C. staff coaches the team.

Trimble Signs Four Chicago Gridders to Freshman Squad

Athletic Director Jim Trimble last week disclosed the names of four former Chicago high school football players who have either enrolled or plan to enroll here in time to compete on the freshman grid squad next season.

Three of the four players started classes at the beginning of the second semester. The fourth returned to Chicago to work during the next few months but has promised to enroll next September.

Eddie Trubick, a 170-pound full-back who, according to Trimble, can run, pass and kick equally well; Bill Klobucher, 165-pound halfback; and Bob Anderson, a six-foot three-inch, tackle who weighs about 200 pounds, are the three gridgers already enrolled in school.

John Brannigan, a 230-pound tackle will return next fall.

Klobucher is also an important acquisition for coach Ab Bidwell's track squad. He won championships in both the high and low hurdles in the Chicago high school meet last fall.

"All four of the boys were sought by a number of other colleges, and we are very glad to have them decide to come here," Trimble said.

Trimble contacted the four on a trip to Chicago with Earl Hamilton, regular quarterback on the Shocker squad last season.

These four, with a number of other high school athletes who enrolled here for the second semester, give promise of being of help to the Shocker varsity after their year of competition on the freshman squad.

Four outstanding local high school players who have started classes here are Dale Steen and Ted Brier of East, and Keith Casner and Gene Thorpe of North.

Basketball Playday For Local Women Will Be Saturday

A basketball playday for women, sponsored by the Wichita official rating board and the University, will be held in the women and men's gyms Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Teams from Friends University, Sacred Heart Junior College, East High, North High, Planeview, Cathedral, Mount Carmel, and Sacred Heart College, have been invited to participate in basketball, ping pong and shuffleboard games, as guests of the University.

The examining committee of the rating board will rate referees and umpires during the basketball games.

The committee consists of Jean McLean, former University student now teaching at L'Ouverture School; Vivian Dunlevy, teacher at Sacred Heart Academy; June Morrell, East High School teacher; and Edith Mary Martin, teacher at Horace Mann School.

Each of the committee members holds a national rating.

SPRING GRID PRACTICE STARTS NEXT WEEK

Coach Plans Grid Practice

Spring practice for the Shocker football team will begin Mar. 7, head football coach Jim Trimble announced this week.

After releasing the Shockers 1949 schedule Trimble said, "Next year we will have the strongest small college schedule in the nation."

When asked which would be the roughest game for the team next year Trimble said, "From the schedule, our only breather will be on Sept. 17, which is an open date."

The Shockers' only tentative open date is on Oct. 22, which is open for a home game.

Trimble especially put out a call for new men. Those wishing to go out for the squad should report to Trimble's office on Mar. 1, 2, or 3. Equipment will also be issued on those days.

Four intra-squad games are planned for the spring session. They will be held on Mar. 19 and Mar. 26, Apr. 2 and Apr. 9. The squad will be cut following the Apr. 9 game. Players will then be dismissed except for those needing additional practice. Men participating in spring sports will also be dismissed.

The Shockers may play new rivals on the 1949 schedule, the University of Houston on Oct. 1, and will entertain Detroit University in Veterans Field on Thanksgiving Day.

Coach Trimble also released a tentative 1950 schedule, in which the Shockers will invade both the Big Nine and the Big Seven conferences. Present plans pit the Shockers against the University of Indiana in the season opener on Sept. 23, and Kansas State of the Big Seven will invade Veterans Field on Thanksgiving Day.

Twenty-three lettermen and 29 freshmen will take the spring workout.

Returning lettermen include Har-

Mat Tourney Begins Soon

The 1949 intramural wrestling tournament will get under way in the men's gym Monday, according to Dale Henry, intramural director.

Matches will continue through the week in the afternoons. The meet is open to the public.

The all-time records for the tourney are incomplete, but Men of Webster, has snared the team title the last two years, taking five first places in last year's meet.

The Websters placed Horace Toews first in the 121-pound class; Warren Ashmore first in the 135-pound class; Wendell Rice first in the 155-pound class; Dale Tull first in the 165-pound class; and Kenneth Hedrick first in the 175-pound class.

The other three weights were divided between the Alpha Gams, Phi Sigs, and Cowpokes.

Regulations governing this year's meet areas follows:

1. Four entrants are allowed for each organization in each weight.
2. Ten approved workouts must be recorded for each entrant before he is eligible.
3. A doctor's check on each participant heart condition must be reported.
4. Regulation wrestling gear must be worn for the safety of participants.
5. Kansas High School Athletic Association rules will govern all matches.

Forms to be Ready In Rotunda Monday

Senior biography forms will be available at the desk in the rotunda of the Administration building Monday, and may be completed by the time of ordering announcements, according to Lester Rosen.

Commencement announcements and cards may be ordered Monday, Feb. 28, through Thursday, Mar. 10, also in the rotunda. The booth will be open from 8 a.m. until noon daily, Elbie McNeil, president of senior class, announced.

Announcements and cards will be made up only as ordered and must be placed by the deadline date of Mar. 10.

Students who have not returned their class photo proofs to the Math Borniger studio should do so immediately or the Parnassus staff will select the photo to appear in the yearbook.

Valley Picks Grid All-Star

The 1948 Shockers football squad had 11 men honored by the coaches selections for the All-Missouri Valley 'Conference' Team.

Though none of the Shockers made the first team, four were named to the second team, two to the backfield and two to the line.

Ray "Scooterbug" Morrison and Art Hodges received the backfield posts. Morrison was put in the backfield slot, and Hodges at fullback. John Agee and Mike Knopick were picked for the line, Agee at tackle, and Knopick at end.

Only Agee and Hodges are seniors, and will graduate this spring. Morrison is a junior, and Knopick a sophomore.

Shockers gaining honorable mention were: Walt Knocke, end; Don Sharpsteen, tackle; Bob Schreiner, guard; Jack Swager, center; and Earl Hamilton, Anton Houlik, and Jimmy Nutter, backs.

This is the first year the Missouri Valley coaches have selected the conference all-star team. They will select similar teams in basketball and baseball, Artie Eilers, Missouri Valley Commissioner, said.

The valley champs, the Oklahoma Aggies, dominated the selections.

Average Education Cost Greatly Increased from '34

Did you know that last year each student cost the University $61 more than did each student back in 1934?

In 1934, the average cost of each student was $219 while in 1948, the cost per student had gone up the scale to $280.

Besides that, in 1948, almost three times as many students attended school here as did in 1934. The total enrollment in '34 was 1,269; while the number of students had grown by 1948 to 3,593.

And each of you pay a greater share of your cost to the University in tuition and fees than did students 14 years ago.

In 1934, the student's share was 36 per cent, but today 55 per cent of the income of the University is derived from student tuition and fees.

The taxpayers shared only about one-half as much of the financial load in 1948 as they did in 1934. The taxpayers' portion was 63 per cent in 1934. In 1948 they paid only 34 per cent of the cost of each student.

The income from other sources was 11 times greater in 1948 than it was in 1934. It increased from one per cent to 11 per cent.

Unlike other comparisons listed here, the University's portion of the property tax spread increased very little during the 14 years. 1934 compared to 1948 was 5.1 per cent to 5.2 per cent.

University First in State To Install IBM System

"Name, please!" said the registrar's clerk. The student obliged, whereupon an envelope was thrust into his hand. And therewith began his first contact with the University's "IBM" registration procedure.

During the remainder of the afternoon various personalities politely snatched his envelope, and shoved it back to him. Over and over he heard the letters, "IBM," and began to wonder, What is IBM?

Had he covered the campus, prying facts and opinions from students and faculty, he would have learned that the services of International Business Machines were engaged for this year to speedily furnish the registrar, counselors, deans, and parents of students with information concerning students' performance for the preceding semester.

According to Dr. Worth A. Fletcher, registrar, class cards are catalogued, alphabetized, and filed; class lists are made; credit points are totalled after grades are recorded, and report cards are addressed—all by machinery, and with greater accuracy and labor-saving speed than would be possible otherwise.

The University of Wichita is the first school in Kansas to use IBM. This school, about one-fourth the size of most schools using IBM, is able to use this system only because it is available for rental without high-cost installation on the campus.

The University rents the service from the Wichita Service Bureau of IBM at 210 S. Market.

"We hope to expand the services next year to include statistical reports, such as the number of students in each class, the number of married students, and the number of veterans in school here," Dr. Fletcher said.

And how does IBM rate on the campus?

A few disgruntled collegiates resent having their names altered because of certain idiosyncracies of the machines. Others can't help wondering if dad would have dragged them out of school before second semester if IBM hadn't supplied him in advance of registration with information as regards certain "down."

However, most students have small complaint against IBM. At enrollment time each student has about ten fewer cards to fill out than formerly.

However, among the faculty opinions range from "Very efficient" to "Quite annoying," the former being in the majority among those interviewed.

Those "pro" cited not only the dispatch with which returns on grades were furnished after the first semester, but also the advantages IBM offers them as

Those against the innovation of the mechanical marvel declare that they like to receive a class roll on the first day, or at least the first week of a semester, which they do not get under IBM.

Perhaps the $3,000 a year rental fee on IBM has something to do with their attitude toward the new system.

At any rate, the fate of IBM rests in the balance, since the present contract is only for this year.

Though the final decision rests with the Board of Regents, student opinion may help decide, is IBM good, or is it bad?
