City Will Give Art Institution To University

Museum And Collections May Be Placed Under Direction Of Art Head

Plans for the University to assume operation of the Wichita Art Museum on Jan. 1, 1952, were placed on the agenda of the Wichita city commission for adoption next week, according to an announcement received through the office of Pres. Harry F. Corbin.

The museum is now under the operation of the municipal park board.

The decision for the University to operate the museum was reached at a meeting of the park board Monday, after negotiations between the city, park board, and the University. The plans were presented to the city commission Tuesday morning.

President Corbin said the University was "honored" in having the museum placed under its control, and revealed there were tentative plans to secure a person recognized in the field of art to operate the museum and head the art department of the University.

Long range plans call for the erection of a fine arts building on the campus, which would house the present collection and future additions, as well as the fine arts department of the School of Music.

It was pointed out that the present museum building may become too small for the collection, which would be moved to the fine arts building to be erected on the campus.

The museum has been operated by the park board since 1941. The building was constructed to qualify for the bequest of Mrs. Louise C. Murdock, who died in 1915. Mrs. Murdock's bequest provided funds to purchase works done by contemporary artists, with the stipulation that the city would provide housing for the collection.

At present the collection includes the Roland P. Murdock Collection, prints by L. S. and Ida Naftzger, and works by other artists.

Emory Cox, director of the park board, said during the meeting it was agreed that operation of the museum was more of an educational function than one of the park board.

PR Meet Gives UW Top Rating

Sponsorship and execution of the Public Affairs Conference conducted here recently gave the University of Wichita first place rating in the public relations division among publicly supported institutions. This award was given the University at a four-day meeting of the American College Public Relations Association and the American Alumni Council at Lincoln, Nebr., recently.

The award was given the University on the basis of an exhibit prepared and submitted by Lester Rosen, University public relations director.

"Our Campus Is Your Campus," a University student promotion viewbook was awarded honorable mention. Iowa State College took first place in that category.

Public relations directors and alumni secretaries from North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Oklahoma, Missouri, and Kansas attended the convention at the Cornhusker Hotel.

AF ROTC Hears Talk On Jets

Second Lt. Ira Porter, of the Wichita Air Force Base, discussed landings and take-offs during a two-day briefing on jet operations to the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps cadets at the University last week.

Lieutenant Porter

Maj. Herbert Hartman, professor of air science and tactics, pointed out that Lieutenant Porter can provide first-hand supplementary material for the course in jet aircraft familiarization as part of the liaison program, between the Air Force and the ROTC. He added that Lieutenant Porter is scheduled to make additional talks to cadets early next year.

Prior to his assignment to the Wichita air base, Lieutenant Porter was an instructor in both jet and conventional aircraft at Williams AFB, Arizona.

Cancer Society To Make Awards

Awards by the American Cancer Society for research in fields dealing with cancer were announced recently, according to information received by Dr. Hazel Branch, head of the zoology department, and member of the awards committee.

Six awards will be made on a competitive basis for either predoctorate or post-doctorate students, with three awards in each group of $500, $300, and $100.

Full details and application blanks may be obtained by writing to the Kansas Division, American Cancer Society, 824 Tyler Street, Topeka, Kans.

Winners will read their papers at a meeting of the Society in April, Miss Branch said. Hal Bingham, a graduate of the University last June, placed last year in the contest.

Ad Salesmen Needed Now

Harold Enns, Parnassus business manager, issued a call this week for University students interested in selling advertising for the Parnassus.

Both Enns and Ralph Vautravers, assistant business manager, pointed out that it would be an opportunity for students to earn money.

Enns stated that any men or women students, regardless of their department or school, may apply to him, Vautravers, or Paul F. Gerhard, assistant professor of journalism, in the Communications Building.

Valine To Appear As Guest Artist

Elna Claire Valine, violin student in the School of Music, will appear as guest artist at a concert with the Wichita Symphony. The concert, conducted by Prof. James P. Robertson, head of the orchestral department and director of the University Symphony, will be presented in the University Auditorium, Monday, Dec. 17, at 8:30 p.m.

The violinist won the honor of appearing as guest artist with the symphony in the Naftzger Young Artists auditions which were held Saturday, Dec. 1, at Wichita High School East. She will play "Violin Concerto in D Major," by

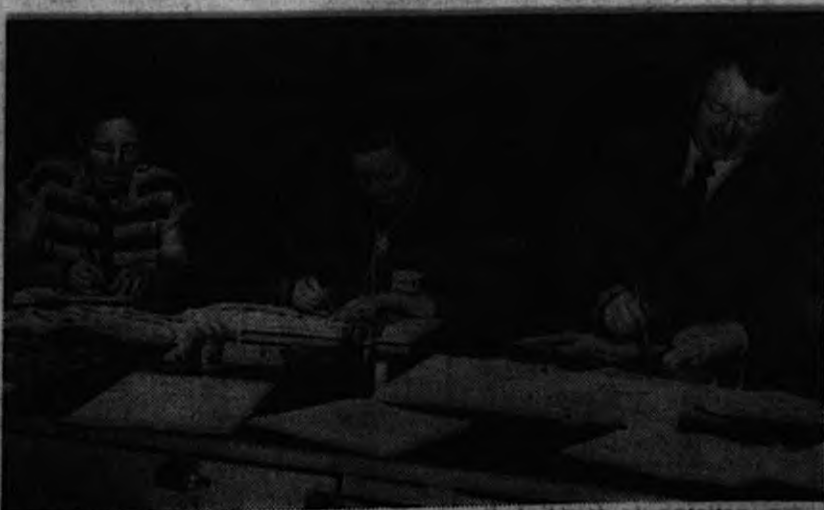

Miss Valine

Tschalkowsky, James Caesar, associate professor of violin, said.

Miss Valine, 21, a senior from Hutchinson, is the leader in the second violin section of the Wichita Symphony. She has second chair in the University Symphony and is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, national music sorority.

Artists

WRA Adopts Point System

A point system for the awarding of the women's intramural sweepstake trophy was adopted by the Women's Recreation Association Board last week.

Under the new system WRA members can earn points for their organization by participation in intramural sports.

In team sports the winners of first place earn 30 points for their organization, second place counts 20 points, and third place receives 15 points. The winner of a forfeit game earns only 10 points.

Scoring for individual sports is the same with the exception of forfeit games which earn only five points for the winner.

Each WRA member earns two points for her organization if she plays in 60 per cent of the games her team is scheduled to play. She may also earn two points for her organization if she enters and plays in a tournament until defeated. She cannot forfeit a match and earn points.

The board also chose an official WRA blazer at the meeting. This year all WRA members are eligible to buy and wear the navy blue jacket with red trimming.

Kerr Directs Xmas Concert

The University Concert Band, directed by James L. Kerr, associate professor of bands and woodwinds, will present a program of Christmas music in the University Auditorium Tuesday, Dec. 18, at 8:30 p.m.

"Paraphrase On Silent Night," a special arrangement by Russell S. Howland, will be played by the group. Also included on the program will be "Sleigh Ride" and "A Christmas Festival" by Anderson.

A special number, "Stars and Stripes Forever," will feature eight piccolos. "The three Trumpeters" by Agostini will be played by Dwight Beckham, Don Corbett, and Robert Webster.

Federal Agency Gives $741,000

Action Awaits Formal Approval By Regents

University officials expressed elation this week upon learning that the Federal Housing and Home Financing Agency had approved a request for a $741,000 loan to build two men's and women's residence halls on the campus.

The loan must be formally accepted by the Board of Regents. This action probably will be taken at the January meeting.

Miss Grace Wilkie, dean of women, said: "This is the culmination of a long-time dream. It will mean much for students as well as for the University."

The need for private residences around the campus will continue even after the residence halls are constructed, she pointed out. However, she explained that dormitories on the campus set the standards of collegiate housing.

"A residence plan interweaves educational effort and wholesome housing arrangements," Miss Wilkie said.

Pres. Harry F. Corbin said that construction of campus housing will offer the University an opportunity to assume the proper responsibility toward out-of-town enrollees. Nearly half of the University's day-time students are from out of Wichita.

Construction of the two facilities probably will not begin until late spring or early summer, President Corbin said. An application for steel needed in construction has been made but the allocation probably will not be made before the second quarter of 1952.

Architect's plans for the men's dormitory to be located on Seventeenth Street facing Yale have been completed by Forsblom and Parks. Women's residence hall plans will be completed within a few days by Thomas and Harris. The men's hall will accommodate 132 students while the women's facility will house 121 students.

An eating facility will be located in the women's residence hall and both men and women will board there. It was learned by The Sunflower that board and room rates will be approximately $80 per month with possible variation.

Construction bids will probably be asked by the University sometime in January.

Parents Learn Child's Play In Course; Unique Class Offered For First Time

Nine adults for the past two months have been engaged at the University in mere child's play, but to these people, the matter has been serious business, to say the least. These persons, eight women and one man, have been taking a two-hour night course once a week in arts and crafts for parents at Morrison Hall.

Prof. Robert W. Cooke, acting head of the art department and instructor in the night sessions, explained that the purpose of the course, an experimental one, was to instruct parents how to make arts and crafts enjoyable to children from six to 12 years old. It is the first course of this kind offered in Kansas, he said.

Included in the 12 projects were potato printing, textile decorations, weaving, paper designs, and work with beads, tin cans and wood.

In potato printing, the parents drew and carved designs upon potatoes. When the potatoes were dipped in color, the students were able to transfer the designs to tissue paper which will be used in gift wrapping.

The parents' own designs were used in textile decorations. A brush was used to stencil the designs on napkins, tablecloths and tea towels, Professor Cooke said.

Decorations for belts, and head arm bands were made of beads. During one of the night sessions, hand bags, pot holders, and purses were woven on small cardboard looms.

Halloween masks were cut from paper sacks and construction paper. Out of tin cans, cookie cutters, flower watering jugs, and bowls were made.

From all parts of Wichita, the parents came to the class, leaving their children with baby sitters or husbands. When questioned about the course at one of the last sessions, Ed Dorsett of 1705 Harvard, the only man in the class, declared:

"The course is more entertaining than going to a movie." His wife added that she and her husband were enjoying doing the projects at home with their two older sons, age 5 and 8.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 29...THE HYENA

Hysteria reigned from the moment he heard the details of those quick-trick cigarette mildness tests. First he giggled . . . then he guffawed . . . wound-up rolling in the aisle! He knew that the "single sniff" test or the "one puff" test didn't prove anything! Millions of smokers have reached the same conclusion — there's just one test that really proves cigarette flavor and mildness!

It's the sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke — on a pack-after-pack, day-after-day basis. No snap judgments! Once you've enjoyed Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why . . .

ROTC Shelters UW

Few things have been done around this University which will mean so much to students as the new bus shelter on the corner of Seventeenth and Hillside erected by the ROTC fraternities—Scabbard and Blade, Pershing Rifles, and Arnold Air Society.

In the past, bus shelters have always been on the platform of one of the campus coalitions. Whether the coalition supporting the shelters lost the election or just forgot about it after they won was never established. Bus shelters never materialized until three active organizations got together and let their actions speak for them.

Actually, the shelter will benefit others than just students. Because of its location it will serve a community all year instead of only students for nine months.

It can easily be said that the ROTC organizations have done their good deed for the year and years to come.

Remedy Needed...

At the Wichita-Creighton basketball game last Wednesday night, several students were forced to stand for part of the game and yet there were a good number of vacant seats available.

It is granted that there will always be a seating problem at the Forum. The place just isn't big enough to accommodate a real crowd.

A story in The Sunflower of Nov. 29, revealed that no one except students would be admitted to the student section until 7:40 p.m. Then wives or husbands of students would be admitted. Furthermore, the story states that no one else would be admitted until after 7:50.

Now some observers report that non-students were sitting in the student section before 7:30. To make matters worse, the seats mentioned above remained vacant thruout the game.

It would seem practical that if they will allow non-students to sit in the student section after a certain time why not let students sit in non-student sections after a certain time.

Getting back once more to the situation which exists at the Forum, every effort should be made to utilize every available seat.

The next home game will be Jan. 5, which is during the Christmas vacation so a critical situation will probably not occur again until a later game.

This should give the parties concerned with making the seating plans at the Forum enough time to make necessary adjustments.

Critic Calls 'The Miser' Entertaining, Rapidly-Moving Melodramatic Production

By Ann Earp

"The Miser," presented last week by the University Theatre, was a refreshingly different and hilarious piece of nonsense.

Altho the works of Moliere can be tedious when performed by amateurs, the University troupe, led by Donald Dill in the title role, gave an entertaining performance that had many highlights and few flaws. The amount of comic action and clowning injected into the drama kept the play moving rapidly down to the rather melodramatic finish. The audience swallowed the rest of the play whole but when the play wound up with everyone turning out to be someone's brother, sister, or mother-in-law, the laughter of the audience suggested that they were not as glibly as the author and actors would have liked to believe. Perhaps the author should be blamed for the stale ending, but better and less melodramatic action would have helped.

Donald Dill was for once not Donald Dill, but lost himself in his role much to the enjoyment of the audience. While Dill's performance was his best to date, the ever-ascending pitch of his voice was annoying after the first half hour.

Rosalyn Newport and Barbara Dolson, who played the two young maidens, were convincing and effective. Both women added a great deal to the scenery, but neither projected their voices quite enough and Miss Dolson hurried thru her lines as if the miser were right at her heels.

Ross Purcell was very foppish, very much the wag, and very entertaining in the role of the miser's son. Equally delightful was the performance of Steve Elmore who played the young hero. His fine acting fluttered the ladies' hearts.

Memory Blacks Out
Veteran performer Morris Reichley extricated himself deftly from a difficult situation at Saturday's performance. Reichley, who had the unfortunate luck to have his memory black-out during a scene, saved the day with clever ad libbing. Mrs. Mary Jane Woodard, playing a lady marriage broker, brought her excellent talents to the farce. Clever delivery of lines aided her in stealing a scene or two from the overpowering Dill.

Scene Stealer
The bourbon-nosed magistrate as played by Fred Langan was a scene stealer, but some of his clever clowning slipped past the audience. James Stearns was very un-fatherish looking in the part of the father, but also very aristocratic and genteel. Arthur Junod was an oafish, stupid, and utterly comical coachman and

KMUW To Air Nine Additional Radio Programs

Two radio programs will be added to the program schedule of KMUW, University FM station, this week and several others are tentatively scheduled for the coming weeks.

"This Is Iran," a 15-minute interview show, will feature All Mohit, graduate student from Tehran, Iran, who will be interviewed by Bill Gemar, program director. The program will be broadcast at 2:15 p. m., Friday.

"Animal, Vegetable, or Mineral," based on the parlor game of the same name, will make its initial appearance Thursday with a panel of four members participating. They are Merrill Baker, assistant professor of speech; Donald Dill, Liberal Arts freshman and president of University Players; Mrs. Marian Allen Miller, senior student in political science; and Gene Herriott, sports director of KMUW.

Gemar will be master of ceremonies of the program, Morris Reichley its producer.

Other programs scheduled to begin some time in December are a series of tape-recorded broadcasts released by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, of which station KMUW is a member. The programs are: "British Broadcasting Company World Theatre," "Music for the Connoisseur," and "Army Band Concerts."

Also scheduled are a series of Shakespearean dramas to be presented in cooperation with the University English and drama departments.

Collegiate Bridge Tourney Opens

Like to play bridge? Interested in entering a national tournament?

If you are interested, you can leave your name with Mrs. Ruth Price in the Commons, some time during this week. The tournament is the National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament, with final rounds to be played in Chicago late in April, 1952.

According to information received by Russell Watson, student Council member in charge of arrangements for the tournament at the University, all colleges competing in the meet play a set of hands on the campus, then scores are mailed to the national committee, and the 16 highest-ranking pairs are invited to the finals in Chicago, which are played off face-to-face.

To meet eligibility requirements, students must be regularly enrolled, at the time of play-offs and finals, carrying not less than 12 hours, and meet the school eligibility requirements for similar activities.

For complete information, about the tournament, interested students may contact Watson.

Lost And Found Department Lists Stock: Pens To Shorts

By Bill Stinchcomb

Have you lost anything this year? If so, Mrs. Ruth G. Price, manager of the lost and found department in the Commons Building, suggests you pay her a visit.

Coats, mittens, scarfs, both ladies' and men's, pencils, pens, shoes, gym suits, and musical instruments have been turned in to the Alpha Phi Omega-sponsored lost and found room. Here is an example of the quantity of cook. Only a freshman this year, he shows signs of talent.

The servants were the one part of the drama that didn't ring true. They looked more like something that would have been found in Frankenstein's castle. Such ghoulish individuals were a mite overdone even for this outlandish farce.

The brief scene in which Chandler Bethel was present on the stage as the miser's agent gave little opportunity to observe his acting ability, but he seemed entirely adequate in the role.

The costumes which were designed by James Stearns were richly colored and had the exquisiteness of 17th century dress with the exception of the rags worn by the miser. The scenery suitably suggested the faded elegance of a fine mansion.

All in all, the play held interest, proved clever and entertaining, and introduced a group of new young actors to the University stage.

Cliff's Column

By Clifford Kraus
Sunflower Editor-in-Chief

If there are any students at this University who haven't become excited over our basketball team, we certainly feel sorry for them.

We make this bold statement because we feel that Coach Ralph Miller's style of basketball as played by the Shockers could easily "raise the dead."

Just how potent our Shockers are was amplified last Saturday night when Kansas University set a new team scoring record with 84 points. In view of the 93 and 100 points scored by Wichita on successive nights, we can say the Jayhawkers made a noble effort.

Along with the subject of basketball we would like to throw in a few words about pep.

Generally speaking, the enthusiasm was plenty high both Tuesday and Wednesday night. But unfortunately, the student body can't take too much credit for the enthusiasm. A good portion of it was being generated by downtowners.

Now this isn't intended as a blast at the cheerleaders. Neither do we intend to place the blame on the students.

What we'd really like to see is some new yells. For some reason or other, these "whisper yells" just don't seem to make sense when it's noise that is desired.

Listening in the Purdue-Marquette game Monday night, we heard one yell in particular that should go over well here. The yell was simple. It merely consisted of a chant, "Go, go, go," accompanied by some vigorous clapping.

Recognizing the fact that there were probably more students at the Purdue game than total spectators at the Forum, this yell would at least generate as much pep as the one "Shocker" yell, half of which is whispered.

If you read the story in one of the downtown dailies the other morning concerning seats in the Forum, you probably acquired a funny feeling. For according to the story, it sounded as if all the seats, except those used by officials, band, press, and radio, were going to be placed on sale.

A telephone call to Norvall Neve, athletic director, assured us that this wasn't the case. So if you were worried—relax. Just make an effort to get to the next home game, Jan. 5, we're certain there'll be a seat for you.

The Barber Shop

After years of standing precariously on treacherous mud at Hillside and Seventeenth, students can now heave a sigh of relief as they stand in the shelter recently constructed by three Reserve Officers Training Corps groups.

No more mud encrusted shoes, and fewer sniffles, thanks to ROTC. With a coat or two of paint and a bench to sit on it would be just like home, almost.

Seen Monday: Donald Dill, arm in sling, staring morosely at a poster on "The Miser." He played the lead in the farce which ran for three nights last weekend.

Every year they come out later and later. Last year, after Thanksgiving, this year they may be ready when we return from Christmas vacation. That is if nothing else goes wrong. Student Council tries, but those Student Directories seem to have the group buffaloed.

The modesty of Ralph Miller, Shocker basketball coach, is refreshing. Even after the two surprising, record breaking games, he still thinks we are a long way from Valley domination. Maybe not this year, Ralph, but soon.

This may not work now, but why not clean out the fish pond on the Island, come spring? When it was in operation, it was a nice addition to the scenery, but it looks a little seedy now with the piled up trash in it. Students would probably abstain from throwing anything except other students in, if it were in use.

Campus Young Women's Christian Association members and their dates started night classes with Christmas carols while they decorated the large tree in the rotunda Tuesday night. Nobody has dropped a plumb-line for measure but it is supposed to be 15 feet high.

New Curriculum Adopted At Davis

A College of Letters and Science, with four-year curricula leading to the Bachelor of Arts degree, has been established on the Davis campus of the University of California, according to announcement by C. B. Hutchison, vice-president of the University and dean of the College of Agriculture.

Designed especially for high school and junior college graduates who desire a general education in liberal arts subjects, the college will offer, beginning this year, five complete majors. These are in botany, chemistry, English, history, and zoology. Two other departments, mathematics and physics, can give at least three years of a major. The fourth year in these two fields and other majors in the social sciences, humanities, and arts will be added as soon as possible.

The continued development of the College of Letters and Science thru the addition of social sciences, arts, and humanities will round out provisions for a general liberal arts program on this campus. "In no way will they de-emphasize the College of Agriculture," said Dean Hutchison. "On the contrary, they will furnish electives that will broaden the educational experiences of students in agriculture, home economics, and veterinary medicine," he concluded.

Razak To Talk Before UW IAS

Kenneth Razak, director of the school of engineering and dean of the College of Business Administration and Industry addressed the Wichita section of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences at their December meeting yesterday, in the University Cafeteria at 6:30 p.m.

Subject of Dean Razak's address was "Aeronautical Research at the University of Wichita." Dean Razak explained the results of the low-speed flight program, conducted in the University Wind Tunnel.

Following the dinner and the address by Dean Razak, the group was conducted on a tour of the Wind Tunnel.

Vocational Guidance Offered Foreign Program In Student Counseling Center Set For Sunday

The functions of the new Student Counseling Center under the direction of Jackson O. Powell, dean of the College of Education, were announced this week. The Center, housed in Room 105, Administration Building, will offer services to students in the area of vocational guidance, personal problem counseling, and the improvement of study methods, said Dean Powell.

The new Center will serve in addition to the present faculty counselor system. Dean Powell emphasized that students will continue to have individual faculty counselors.

If the student feels the need for help in making a decision regarding his choice of vocation, he will find the Center ready to be of assistance. The Center can provide him with various facts to help in making the decision as well as provide him with recent information regarding possibilities in various vocations. Recent literature lists describe some 40,000 different job titles in various areas, said Dean Powell. The Center will welcome inquiries from students who have job choice problems and will be happy to arrange for individual conferences with any student.

The services of the Student Counseling Center are to be strictly voluntary so far as the student is concerned, said Dean Powell. There is no fee for any of the regular services of the Center. Students interested should inquire at Room 105, Administration Building, Dean Powell stated.

6 GOP Students Attend Convention

Six members of the University Collegiate Young Republicans represented the University at the state Young Republican convention in McPherson Saturday.

The Wichita delegation included Don Reed, a senior in the College of Business Administration and president of the local group, Dorothy Dudley, Ted Poulson, Keith Leshner, Charles Stark, and Jack Moore.

Problems of the convention will be discussed Wednesday at the regular meeting of the campus GOP in Room 109, Business Administration Building, at 8 p.m. Stephen W. Worth, professor of political science, will lead the discussion.

Members will also report progress of membership drives and organization on the University campus. The group is working with the downtown young Republicans on plans for the coming election, as part of the fulfillment of their theme, "What Makes Kansas Tick?"

Students of four language departments, Latin, German, French, and Spanish, will participate in the second annual National Foreign Language Week program Sunday, Dec. 16, at 3 p.m., in the Commons Lounge.

Miss Jacquetta Downing, professor and head of the French Department, is national chairman of the National Foreign Language Week.

First on the program will be a welcome by students of each department, with the Lord's Prayer in Latin following. Professor Downing said. Three French songs will be sung by Doris Stapleton, Beverly Dale, Loy Hollar, and Drexel Cochran.

Spanish songs by Enrique Aguilera with Norma Berger as accompanist will follow a scripture reading in German by Don Hoffman.

Donald Dill and Rosalyn Newport will portray characters in the French play, "Les Etrennes."

After songs by the students of the German department, a Spanish play, "La Corbata Roja," will be presented. Haven Krueger, Sharne Winters, Lois Jane Black, Johnell Yost, Dan Tevis, Eric Eckler, and Karl Berg will take part in the play.

The students of the French department will then present a "ceremony for Christmas," with Earl Pyle as Master of Ceremony. Others taking part will be Lucy Bennett, Verda Mahaney, Gale Crepps, Susan Austin, JoAnne Friend, Alice Martin, Jimmy Fox, and Sharon Tarrant.

The program will close with the audience participating in the singing of "Adeste Fideles."

Reservations for the program may be made with the office personnel of one of the language departments, Professor Downing said.

Seniors Name Committee Heads

Kendall King is the chairman of senior activities, including Sneak Day. King was named at a meeting of the senior class officers on November 29.

Chairmen for the other senior committees named at the meeting, are Della Bates, announcements; Nancy Lehman, senior gift, and Mary Fran Sullivan, publicity.

Volunteers to assist the committee leaders will be asked at a general meeting of the senior class in January, Miss Sullivan said.

Information about the meeting will be announced later by Bill Holland, senior class president.

Organ Students Serve Churches

Four University students in the School of Music are organists for churches in Wichita and one is an assistant organist-choirmaster.

According to Mrs. Thelma Coombs, instructor in organ, three of these positions are in Wichita. Edla Rickard, senior, is organist at Hillside Christian Church and Lucetta Crum and Richard Howell, sophomores, are organists at Woodland Methodist and Grace Presbyterian Churches, respectively.

George Russell, senior, holds the position of assistant organist-choirmaster at St. James Episcopal Church. Fred Wolfe, junior, is organist at the First Christian Church in El Dorado.

Mrs. Coombs explained that junior and senior organ students take their lessons on the three manual Moller organ at St. Paul's Methodist Church where she is organist. This organ has been used by the students for eight years.

Senior recitals by the organ students are presented in St. Paul's Methodist Church, according to Mrs. Coombs.

Carols Scheduled For Next Week

Students will hear Christmas carols as they go to and from classes, starting Monday, Dec. 17, and continuing through Friday, Dec. 21. The music, played by students of Mrs. Thelma Coombs, instructor in organ, will be carried over the campus from the Administration Building by a public address system.

Mrs. Coombs explained that organ music, sponsored by the Student Council, will begin at 7:45 each morning. After 8 a.m. the music will be played at the 10 minute break between classes.

A 15-minute program of Christmas music will also be presented by organ students over KMWU, University radio station, daily from Monday through Friday, the week before the Christmas holiday starts.

Fine arts students who will participate in the broadcasts are Edla Rickard, and George Russell, seniors; Lucetta Crum, and Richard Howell, sophomores; and Raymond Shelley, a post-graduate student.

Choir To Appear In Xmas Events

The A Capella Choir, directed by Harold A. Decker, professor and head of the department of choral music, will make three appearances at Christmas events during the coming week.

On Dec. 14, the choir will sing for the Sales Executives Club party at the Hotel Lassen, according to Professor Decker.

The choir will give a program at the University Club party Saturday evening in the Twentieth Century Club. The group will also sing for the Manufacturers' Union party at the Broadview Hotel on Dec. 18.

Cowgill Directs New Census Publication

Published recently by the Community Planning Council is the booklet, "Wichita Street Index of Census Tracts," prepared under the direction of Dr. Donald O. Cowgill, professor and head of the sociology department.

Dr. Cowgill said the booklet is designed to aid in research related to the census tract plan used in taking the 1950 Wichita census. This plan was developed by Dr. Cowgill and later adopted by the Bureau of the Census.

Shockers Hit Western Circuit

Nine-Day Trip Starts Saturday

Loop Play Opens With St. Louis University

A fast-breaking, sharp-shooting, 12-man University of Wichita basketball squad will take on the role of invaders during the next nine days as they begin one of the longest road trips ever taken by a Shocker varsity cage team.

The Munies, well-rested after last week's two wins over Baylor and Creighton, will begin their globe-trotting tour this Saturday night with a Missouri Valley Conference game against St. Louis University. Following the Billikin game, Ralph Miller's century mark scorers will take to the air lanes Monday morning on a journey to Albuquerque, New Mexico, for a clash with the New Mexico University Lobos of the Border Conference.

Next Tuesday night the Shockers meet Arizona University in Tucson, and then head for California for games with San Diego State on Dec. 19 and 20; the San Diego Naval Training Station on Dec. 21; and a concluding game with George Pepperdine of Los Angeles on Dec. 22.

Scheduled times for departure and return of the Munies during the trip were released earlier this week by assistant basketball coach Dick Miller. According to Mr. Miller, the squad will leave for St. Louis by train tomorrow night at 7:45 p. m., and immediately following the game with Ed Hickey's Bills, return to Wichita on Sunday afternoon at 12:45.

Broadcast Bills Tilt

Monday morning, Wichita basketballers will leave the Municipal airport for Albuquerque; and continue by air to San Diego and Los Angeles. The Shockers are scheduled to return home on Monday Dec. 24 at 3:30 a. m.

Radio station KWBB with Don Wells reporting, will carry the Wichita-St. Louis Game from St. Louis beginning at 8:20 p. m. Central Standard Time. No arrangements have been made by Wichita stations to broadcast other games of the Shockers' western trip.

In St. Louis University, the Shockers will be meeting a Conference foe which during early season polls was rated among the top ten teams in the country. The Bills have eight returning lettermen including five of its six top scorers for 1950.

Only Captain Ed Scott who scored 311 points in 28 games is gone from the roster; but teammate regulars Ray Sonnenberg, who scored 241 points in 28 games last season, Ray Steiner, who also tallied 241 in 28 games; Bob Koch, 215 in 28 games; Fred Kovar, 210 in 28 games; and Lou McKenna with 122 in 28 games; all seniors, will be back this season.

The St. Louis-Wichita series, which first began in 1936, now stands at 12 victories for the Hickeymen, and one win for the Shockers. The last time the Kansas beat the Missourians was in 1936, when they took a close game by the score of 32-31. Since then, the Bills have taken the Munies 11 straight times.

Wichita's Millermen will next invade New Mexico University at Albuquerque. This will be the first of a new series between the Shockers and the Lobos, who last season finished fourth in the Border Conference with a record of nine wins and seven losses in league play with such rivals as Arizona University, New Mexico A and M, Texas Tech, and Hardin Simmons.

Arizona University, which won 24 games and lost six last season, will be the Munies' next stop. The Wildcats topped the Border Conference last season with 15 wins and one defeat, and will have 17 lettermen back.

In 1950-51, they gained upset victories over highly favored teams from Long Island University and City College of New York, and were entered in the National Invitation Tournament and NCAA finals for last season.

San Diego State College will have five lettermen returning from last season's squad. The tallest of these is six-foot four inch Dave McKay. The Aztecs are not overladen with height, having only one other player, Gerry Briggs, (6-6) taller than McKay. The George Ziegenfuss coached team has thus far this season lost games to the University of Southern California, 72-44; and to Southwestern Missouri State, 76-61.

100 Point Total Tallied By Shockers In Creighton Game

Setting an all time scoring record for the second successive night, the Shockers shocked the Creighton Bluejays, 100-63, at the Forum last Wednesday night.

After Ken Schlup had tied the record score of 93 points, Cleo Littleton shattered the old mark set in the Baylor game the night before with a long fielder, making it 95-59. Fifty-eight seconds later Charley Gill provided the 100th point just before the gun sounded.

A starting five consisting of Mervin Carman, Johnny Friedersdorf, Paul Scheer, Gary Thompson, and Cleo Littleton held a first period lead of 18-16. Creighton tied it up early in the second at 18 all.

Charley Gill and Ken Schlup went in as new guards, and with the help of veteran Friedersdorf, collected eight goals in three minutes. The full court press used by the Shockers baffled the Bluejays, and at halftime Wichita led, 49-30.

The third quarter ended, 71-46. The score read 85-49 midway in the fourth period, but Hank Hemingway, Littleton, and Friedersdorf brought it up to 91-57. Then came the final minutes' scoring spree which added nine points to the Shockers' total and six more for Creighton.

Coach Ralph Miller used 15 players and it was little Charley Gill who gained the admiration of the fans. Gill was all over the floor, intercepting passes, feeding others, and scoring.

Littleton was high point man with 27, just one point short of the all time Shocker record held by Elmer Vaughn, set against Washburn in 1947.

Schlup hit 10 of 16 for 21 points to be second to Littleton in scoring. Friedersdorf was close behind with 20 points.

Statistics show that Wichita made 41 field goals, averaging over a goal a minute to set a new single game record. They hit 42 of 99 attempts at the basket for 42.1 percentage. Creighton made 26 per cent of their 55 attempts.

Radio station KWBB will broadcast a game between Valley member Oklahoma A and M, and USC beginning at 9:30 Tuesday night.

TWO REASONS for the high point totals chalked up by Shocker cagers so far are Charley Gill, left, and Cleo Littleton, right. Littleton has averaged 20 points per game and Gill's sensational floor work has set up many Wichita scores. Both played on Coach Ralph Miller's state championship team at East last year.

the scoring system is based on the possible maximum score of 2,000 points. Each member of the five-man team fires 40 shots, worth a maximum of 10 points per shot. Individual scores are then added together.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Entries for intramural basketball will be due in the intramural office by Jan. 7, the first day after Christmas vacation.

Charley Gill, diminutive Shocker basketballer, will be interviewed by sports director Jack Campbell of Station KFBT tonight at 9:45.

University radio station KMUV is planning to broadcast all Shocker home games this year.

Former Neighborhood Team Members Now Playing For University Shockers

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles to be written on the outstanding Shocker basketball players of the week as picked in The Sunflower poll of Wichita sportswriters and sportscasters. Writers asked were: Bob Donaldson, Beacon; Pete Lightner, Bill Hodge and Henry Jacobs, Eagle; and sportscasters polled were Jack Campbell, KFBT; Bill Young and Jack Munley, KAKE; Don Wells, KWBB; Dave Wilson, KANS; Gene Herriot, KMUV; and Hal O'Halloran, KPH.

By Ralph Vautravers

"Everytime I get my hands on the ball, Charley Gill gets in the way and I have to give it to him," Cleo Littleton remarked about his team-mate. "We grew up in the same neighborhood and always played on the same team. We each know what the other is doing and there seems to be a connection between us," Gill added when the boys were asked how they played so well together.

When head basketball coach Ralph Miller left East High to join forces with the University, he brought along his Mutt and Jeff combination in Gill and Littleton, a pair of all-stars from his championship high school team of last season.

It is not the fact that Littleton is so tall, he is 6-3, but that Gill is so short, a mere five feet, five inches, that makes this pair stand out among the present basketball giants.

Tuesday, against Baylor, Littleton hooked in 21 points, and the next night against Creighton, the freshman sensation hit 27 points, just one short of the all time Shocker record.

Gill didn't start either game, but when he came in things really started popping. Re-entering the Baylor game in the fourth quarter, he hit four straight buckets, and then after the game was over, he added two more points to the record with free shots.

Wednesday night the starting five was having trouble with the Creighton Bluejays. The Shockers led 18-16 at the quarter and then the Jays tied the score. Coach Miller sent in Gill and Ken Schlup as new guards and the razzle dazzle started. In only three minutes the Shockers picked up 16 points. Creighton seldom got the ball past mid-court for several minutes as Gill stole the ball time and again. He also scored the final basket to make the score read 100.

Grammar School Team Mates
Both boys were shooting the ball at Dunbar School when they were ten years old. They played on the same grade team, but when they got in high school Gill didn't go out for the sport until he was a senior.

"I thought the competition would be pretty tough with my being so small, but they talked me into trying out for the team," he said. "The greatest thrill of my basketball career was when I made the all-state team last season," he added.

Littleton says his greatest thrill came when he was a junior in high school and he won a regular berth on the team. His best scoring effort was against Arkansas City last year when he scored 42 points.

"I've always liked to watch Johnny Friedersdorf go under the basket, make a pretty jack-knife and score. I tried to copy some of his shooting my senior year," the slender forward said. "I also studied 'Easy' Ed McCauley of St. Louis University, and I've tried to copy my hook shot from him."

Gill says he never tires of a running type of basketball game. If you took away the running and used a deliberate style of ball, it wouldn't be much fun for Gill. He does not care much for the clowning pro basketball team, but like Littleton, he would like to play pro ball after his college days.

Respect Coach
Both boys think Paul Scheer has the best basketball eye on the team, and that Gary Thompson is a fine ball handler. They like all the fellows on the squad, but they have the greatest respect for their coach, Ralph Miller.

"We enjoy playing for Ralph Miller. He was All-American at K. U. and he really knows his stuff," Littleton declares. "If it were not for Ralph Miller, I wouldn't be playing ball here," Gill concluded.

Newly Appointed German Professor Says UW Campus Is 'Most Spacious'

By RALPH VAUTRAVERS

"The University of Wichita has one of the most spacious campuses I have ever seen. Students here have much more room and freedom than do students at the University of Munich, where the buildings are close together and quarters are cramped."

This comment was made by Heinrich Helmbold, a former research professor at the Aviation Research Institute at Munich, Germany. Professor Helmbold, a German authority on aerodynamics, will join the staff of the University School of Engineering next month, according to Kenneth Razak, acting dean of the College of Business Administration.

He was graduated from the Technical University of Hanover, and also studied at Goettingen. Since then he has been conducting research in aerodynamics.

Professor Helmbold taught mathematics and physics in secondary schools after the war when the Allied authorities forbade Germans to engage in scientific research. During that time he also carried on a research in Biblical literature and theology, two fields which have interested him since he began studying Greek and Hebrew at school.

Professor Helmbold plans to visit other aviation research centers in this country before assuming his duties here.

daughters 7 and 8 years old are Brownie leaders in the Girl Scouts.

"The course has been very beneficial to me in my work with the troop," Mrs. F. C. Wendroth of 3807 E. English pointed out.

Mrs. Jean Mitchell of 3630 East English, who has a girl 7 and a boy 5 said that she has more patience with her children when they try to make things, since taking the course.

"I now realize just what they are capable of doing and therefore do not expect too much," she said.

Mrs. J. O. Kocher, 6434 East Morris, prepared in advance as her son is only two years old. But years ago, when training cub scouts, she realized her need for arts and crafts training.

Do these students want to have a similar course next semester? All the parents gave an enthusiastic "yes" to the question. They liked the course and they want and desire similar courses, which as Professor Cooke said, "are productive to an unusual child and parents relationship as the two are engaged in learning together."

Educator Explains Athletic Problem

Nothing is wrong with intercollegiate athletics which a release from the pressure of winning at any cost, will not cure, declares President Stewart H. Smith of Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va. Experience over the years has demonstrated the value of wholesome intercollegiate athletics to the athlete and the educational program, he adds.

The educator went on to say: "It is not surprising to learn that a few college athletes have been affected by the lowered moral tone of our nation. During the past year we have learned to our regret that a few college athletes have become involved in game-fixing and cheating scandals." Dr. Smith said that while he does not condone the actions of these athletes he believes that they have been "the victims of a vicious system." He continued "Intercollegiate sports are probably no sicker than many other parts of American life. We are caught in the post-war 'something for nothing; what's in it for me?' philosophy."
