Whan Resigns Speech Post

Joins K-State Faculty As Speech Professor

Dr. F. L. Whan, former head of the University's speech department, resigned his position Tuesday, Jan. 27, Pres. Harry F. Corbin announced early last week.

Dr. Whan's resignation became effective immediately. He has joined the faculty of Kansas State College as professor of speech and director of radio and television training for the second semester, which is now underway.

Jack Campbell, announcer at radio station KFBI, temporarily is teaching Dr. Whan's classes for the second semester.

Dr. Whan joined the University faculty in 1938, and had been head of the department of speech since 1940.

In 1941 he published his first book, "How to Debate," which was approved for use in Kansas high schools the same year. Later he joined 40 other members of the Speech Association of America in writing a history and criticism of the American public address. Later, his guide to rules of order was published as an Iowa State College extension circular.

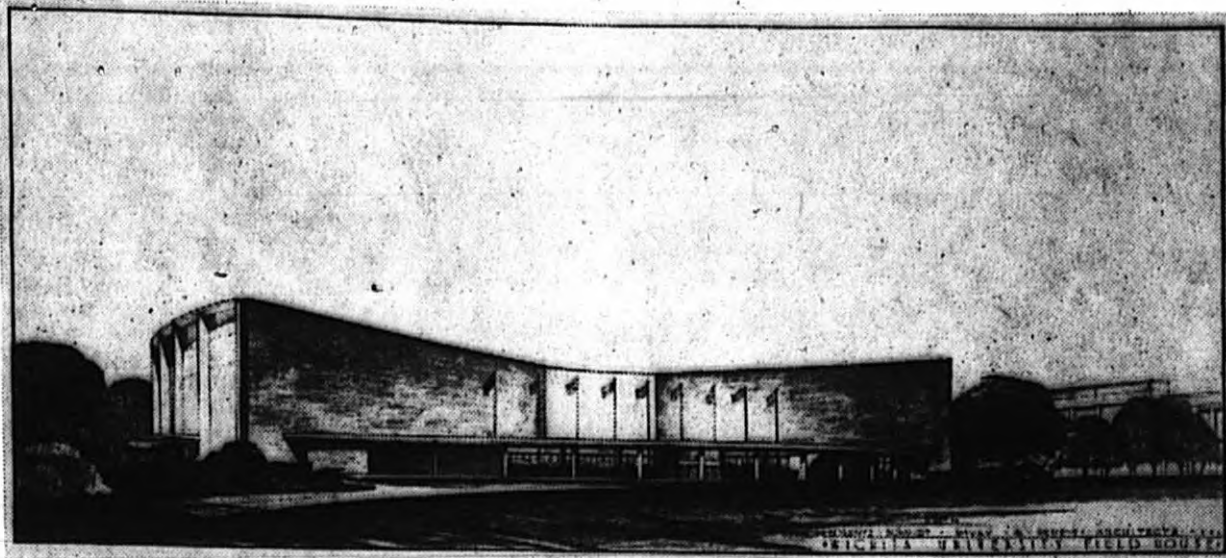

Dr. Whan has served on many key administrative committees at the University from 1940 to 1952, including chairmanship of the stadium committee and of a committee for obtaining an FM broadcasting station for the University in 1948.

For his work in radio and television audience research publications and many opinion research studies, Dr. Whan has received recognition in Who's Who in America, Biographical Encyclopedia of the World, Who's Who in American Education, Who's Who in Commerce and Industry, Who's Who in Market Research, and the International Who's Who in Opinion Research.

Proposed University Fieldhouse

HERE IS A view of the proposed fieldhouse for the University, as drawn by the architect. The structure would be located immediately to the west of Veterans' Field, and will seat approximately 10,000 persons. See story on this page for further information.

WU Fieldhouse Plan Favored, Corbin States

Regents Study Facility; Would Build Structure West Of Vets' Field

Proposed construction of a fieldhouse and community center on the University campus, west of Veterans' Field, is meeting with favorable public reaction, according to Pres. Harry F. Corbin.

A Board of Regents study of the facility is nearing completion, President Corbin indicated, and a definite move may be taken soon by the University to secure necessary legislation for the regents to act on the proposal.

If the structure is built, it would bolster education facilities on the campus. Architects' plans include nearly a dozen physical education classrooms, including handball and badminton courts. Adequate quarters for athletic offices would also be included.

Several faculty recommendations for the proposed facility will be taken into consideration, President Corbin said.

Would Seat 10,000

The sports arena would have a seating capacity of 10,000 persons, providing ample space for the University's inter-collegiate basketball program.

Design of the building in an hourglass shape would permit its transformation into a large theater with a seating capacity of approximately 5,000.

When the facility is not being used for University functions, it would be made available to the Wichita community for either commercial or non-commercial functions, President Corbin pointed out.

Lorentz Schmidt, McVay and Peddie, architects, developing preliminary plans for the structure, will bring in a consultant who helped design Radio City Music Hall in New York City, if the University decides to proceed.

Acoustical engineers will also be consulted by the architects in developing final plans.

Plan Parking Space

Ample parking space for 2,000 automobiles will be provided near the proposed structure.

In order to proceed with plans for the fieldhouse and auditorium, the regents must ask the Kansas (Continued on Page 7)

All good things must someday come to an end. That is a fundamental law that everyone must someday learn. A man's greatest happiness and pleasure must ultimately end and in its stead some form of pain and bitterness usually follows. As it is in this case it comes in the lighter form of nostalgia and memories.

"Buck" Harris sold Shocker Inn last week-end as most WUers already know. A sophomore in liberal arts, Bob Lucky, bought him out. "Buck" with his wife, Patsy, had been running the Shocker since September of 1952.

Harris attended the University of Kansas for three years prior to his coming to the University from which he graduated in 1941. At Kansas University he studied chemical engineering. During his year here he studied business administration.

Harris received his commission in the ROTC here in 1941 and served in the 2nd Infantry for two and a half years as an airborne ski trooper.

He then transferred to the Air Force where he served till January of 1946 as a night fighter pilot. Harris has studied practically every phase of flying and other subjects that pertain to the aviation field.

"Buck" volunteered to return to active duty as a jet night fighter pilot. His destination: Korea. He will do a bit of brushing up prior to his leaving the states at San Antonio.

"It has been a hell of a lot of fun running the Shocker," said "Buck" Harris. "There hasn't been one student that I haven't liked," he added.

I had always wanted to run a restaurant, but I hadn't had any experience when I opened the Shocker, "Buck" continued. It's been swell. I've enjoyed it and being around the students and helping them when I could, he explained.

Help them he has. Students have received advice on their romantic inclinations when they needed it; "Buck" has helped them find jobs or given them jobs at the Shocker when he could; and he has helped students by loaning them money when they were broke.

The poop sheet that "Buck" Harris has written each day for his menu will be continued. As long as possible "Buck" will send it in to Lucky for "publication" in the Shocker's menu even after he reaches Korea.

SUE STRANGE, of Epsilon Kappa Rho, was named the 1953 Parnassus Queen at the annual dance last Friday. The dance was held at the Mambo Club; Denny Beckner's orchestra played.

Parnassus Queen

Royalty Named Since 1924

This year's Parnassus Queen, Sue Strange, Epsilon Kappa Rho, was the twenty-ninth crowned. She was crowned Friday night at the 1953 Parnassus Dance.

Crowning of the queen dates back several years in the history of the University yearbook, the Parnassus. It began in 1924, twenty-two years after its first publication.

For the first two years the queens were chosen on the basis of their popularity and were known as "The Most Popular Co-Ed." Pan-Hellenic changed the procedure in 1926 when they set up a rule allowing each sorority to enter a representative in the contest.

The rule stipulated that the sorority selling the most yearbooks would have the right to publish the picture of their representative in the yearbook as "Parnassus Girl." Cecil B. DeMille was asked to and presented with a silver bracelet.

Pledges receiving active pins were Ione Hayter, Nedra Baker, Shirley Coombs, Carolyn Grimm, Marilyn Arp, Miss McGrew, Lila Selfridge, Janet Leichhardt, Shirley Addison, and Sue Strange.

choose two beauty-queens in 1927 to replace the Parnassus Girl. The girls were chosen for first and second place out of a group of 12 contestants.

The Parnassus of 1928 carried pictures of two beauty queens. One was "Queen of the Freshman Class," and the other was "Queen of the Senior Class." The Parnassus Queen of 1939 was chosen by three movie stars, Bing Crosby, Tyrone Power, and Frederick March.

In recent years the queen has been chosen by three local judges who are chosen by the Parnassus staff and crowned by the bandleader at the Parnassus dance.

PR HEAD NAMED MAN OF YEAR

Lester Rosen, director of public relations at the University of Wichita, was named Wichita Advertising Man of the Year in 1950 by the Wichita Advertising Club.

Newest Organization On Campus Is Kappa Phi Methodist Group

The newest organization on the University campus is Kappa Phi, national Methodist women's club.

The University chapter was organized and formed by members of the Kappa Phi Alumni Association in Wichita and a few interested students. Several teas and meetings were held during the past summer to promote and form plans for the new club.

The goal was reached in December, with 35 names signed to the petition. The petition was approved by the national council and the club is now serving a five months probation period, during which time a representative from national headquarters will come to review the activities of the new chapter.

Kappa Phi started at the University of Kansas in 1916, and it now has 33 chapters plus the one on probation here. The chapters are named alphabetically with Greek letters in order of installation.

Each meeting of the sorority is symbolized by the lighted candle and the singing of the national Kappa Phi song. An educational or religious program of interest is planned for each meeting. Services of the club include: Christmas projects, local church projects, and many other useful services. In December the group sang Christmas carols at two of the Wichita homes for the aged.

A Need Relieved

Construction crews are busy on the University campus, as they progress with the completion of two dormitories and the engineering building.

Until recently, however, there had been little progress in one field. That was the provision of facilities for home basketball games. On campus, there was only the limited space of Henrion Gym; downtown, the aged Forum. The latter has been jammed for almost every Shocker home game this season, and since the place was booked for almost every night, two games were moved to Hutchinson.

A ray of light shone on the scene when the University placed before the people of Wichita the plans for the proposed fieldhouse and community center. The result was their general approval, and steps have been taken to bring closer the day when construction will begin.

The proposed field house is something needed badly by the University and the city as well. It will provide a place for basketball—high school as well as college—not now available. And it will have adequate seating capacity, something the Forum has not.

With adequate facilities and central location, the University might become the site of Ark Valley, state high school tournaments, or the proposed Missouri Valley tournament.

The proposed fieldhouse would also be available for other uses. For example, activities, commencement, various show productions and other programs requiring an auditorium could also be held there. At present, the city has no modern place for such events.

Completion of the new fieldhouse would relieve a real need of both the community and the University. Although the relief may not be immediately around the corner eventual completion of the fieldhouse should solve the problem permanently.

Starting Time Again . . .

It's the start of another semester—for some new and all old students. Some will graduate at the end of this term.

Regardless of whoever you are, the first week of the semester is the beginning of a lot of trials and difficulties for most of students. Many are facing a load of semester assignments and projects. And each professor and instructor expects you to do above all.

From the experience of campus life, many of you may feel regret when finals come—as usual, you study all night long before examinations. So don't let this happen to you this semester. So why don't you tie up your belt and prepare for the next four months.

Let's make plans today—right now—not to get on the short end of the term.

To unstring the bow will not heal the wound.

Lack Of Funds Doesn't Deter Students At Northwestern U.

Any high school graduate who wants to go to college but lacks the funds may now do so almost entirely on his own. All it will take—provided the student meets entrance requirements—is ambition, perseverance, and some office skills of the type which can be acquired in high school.

This is possible through a work-study program announced by Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., under which qualified undergraduate students are given an opportunity to earn nearly all their expenses by working part-time in regular office jobs on the university campus.

To students who qualify for this program, full tuition will be allowed in the form of scholarships, plus salaries for office work. They go to classes from eight to 12 hours a week and will work 18 to 19 hours weekly in the offices.

Rates of pay depend upon the student's clerical skill and the type of work he is doing. Jobs will be clerical and secretarial positions in the academic and business offices and Deering library, heretofore manned by non-academic personnel.

"The student who goes through Northwestern on this plan," said Harry L. Wells, vice-president and business manager, "will graduate with the equivalent of two years' actual commercial experience, as well as his bachelor's degree. He can give Northwestern University as reference for job experience acceptable in the commercial world."

The student can still graduate from Northwestern in four years, in spite of his slightly slowed academic program (the usual classroom schedule being 15 hours a week), because he will be attending the summer sessions as well. Students who participate in the work-study plan must do so on a 12-month basis, to assure stability of personnel in the university offices.

The working student will be given three weeks' vacation a year, the same as fulltime employees of the University. Housing for these working students will be available on the campus, if their homes are outside possible commuting distance. They may enroll in any of the undergraduate schools of the University except the Technological Institute, which has a cooperative work program of its own.

5 Simple Rules Tell Various Ways To Provoke Profs

A columnist for the Plainsman, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, has started what he calls the "I Hate Professors" club and invites all interested parties to join.

The rules are quite simple and you need only follow "the ones adaptable to your special talents." Here are a few of the more salient ones:

Be late to all classes at least half the time. When entering a classroom late, glare at the professor and insinuate that he started the class 10 minutes early.

Talk to one or more of your classmates in a whisper just loud enough for the instructor to hear you, but not loud enough for him to understand the words.

Fifteen minutes before the end of the class hour, begin to stack your books neatly, put on your coat and look expectantly toward the door. Keep an eye one your watch throughout the entire period and the other eye looking out the window. If a window isn't handy, stare at the ceiling from time to time.

Laugh at everything even remotely amusing, except your instructor's witticisms.

If you must ask a question, be sure that it is completely off the subject or one that the professor cannot answer.

By Chin-Ok Kim

Ernest Hemingway's "The Old Man and the Sea" can be sculptured as much in the heart of our time as that of any other, perhaps for Hemingway readers as a prototype of the coming new shape of literature.

Not only that, Hemingway is magnificently successful in his epic short story, a tale of simplicity, quietude, fierce attachment to life, triumph even with defeat, and moral victory over destitution.

Hemingway compels the reader to follow readily, in breathless suspense, line by line and act by act his subject Santiago until the reader is convinced—even if only half—that the old man was beaten, not by the sharks, nor a marlin, but by the hostile sea.

In the old man, the reader may wonder with justification, if Hemingway has found the answer to "For Whom the Bell Tolls." The ancient Santiago, stumbling out of his boat, climbs a hill carrying the mast over his hollow shoulder like the cross that Christ bore.

Indeed, he is a hero of tragedy. Though he does not die, the old man is the one who lasts to the end of human strength. "They beat me . . . they beat me," the fisherman confesses to his teen-age friend. In his humiliation, Hemingway's hero triumphs.

As one of the few top-notch writers of the Twentieth Century, Hemingway has shown great skill in letting a simple fisherman challenge the ocean of trouble, test human power, and ultimately build up the idea that life is worthwhile.

Every line of Santiago's monologue projects the reader's imagination into tomorrow, when "I will show him (the marlin) what a man can do and what a man can endure."

As for style and diction, the book is original, and straight-cut in simpleness and dignity.

Prof Claims More Classes Cut

Professor of Education Claude Kelly at North Texas State college, claims that this generation of students cuts more classes than its predecessors. He says this is mostly because colleges have relaxed the rules.

Natural Reservoir Under City Assures Future Water Supply

Wichitans of future generations are assured of a bountiful supply of water thanks to a unique natural reservoir from which the city draws its supply, said Dr. W. A. Ver Wiebe, head of the University geology department.

The reservoir, which is probably unduplicated, was formed during the Ice Age. This underground lake which stretches from Lindsborg to Wichita, a distance of 70 miles, has an average width of 30 miles and attains a maximum of 300 feet.

An ice dam diverting the flow of streams of northeastern Kansas, caused the formation of this natural storage tank. The dam converged the streams from their smaller channels into a large one, from which they cut into the surrounding rock formation.

Process Took 300,000 Years
The cutting process that took 300,000 years actually was made easier because of a thick body of salt in the formation. An equal length of time was taken to fill the cut with sand, gravel, and sediment. This type of fill, Dr. Ver Wiebe explained, made a natural storage place for water.

The reservoir was filled with rain water which has fallen during the last half million years, although only 20 per cent of this total amount found its way to this natural reservoir.

The entire project has taken nature over one million years to complete, however, rainfall is still trickling through the soil to the lake.

Ten Miles of Water

Forty cubic miles of material fill the gash, of which ten cubic miles, or ten trillion gallons, is water.

Because of the high salt content in the water beneath Wichita, the city has placed their wells near Halstead where the content is lower.

The words of the old song go, "Nobody Knows The Trouble I Seen." This is especially true of the editor of a paper in his first week on the job.

He wanders into his small cubby-hole—referred to by some as an office—with a lost feeling. The office appears different than usual since the desk has been cleared of all the papers and other accumulated junk that usually reposes on it.

He sits down and looks around in a bewildered manner, then picks up his pencil and begins writing down a list of the things he wants to discuss with the staff and the reporters. After a three-hour of racking his brain he has written

For the first time in the history of the Reserve Officer Training Corps at the University two relatives of the same rank and same name are commanding similar positions.

Dan Foley and Mike Foley, first cousins, are commanding two rifle companies in the ROTC program this semester. Both Foleys are Cadet Captains completing their senior years of military science.

Although family relationships in the armed forces are no rare occurrences, having relatives in similar command positions is unusual.

Arnold Air Donates $640 To Polio Fund

The Walter H. Beech Squadron of Arnold Air Society gave $640 to the local March of Dimes campaign this year. The money was collected during their annual "help night" held Tuesday, Jan. 29.

The Beech Squadron, one of the first campus organizations to have "help night" instead of the older "hell night" for initiation, equipped their pledges with brooms and buckets and sent them to downtown Wichita to solicit donations for the polio fund. The Pledge Class was under the supervision of Cadet Major Roger D. Wilkinson, an Arnold Air Society active member.

Last year, the AFROTC honor society pledges collected more than 250 dollars with the same idea and as a result won the "Good Neighbor Award of the Week" from Radio Station KANS.

College graduates who successfully complete the ten-week course will be commissioned as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps

New officers are also afforded the opportunity to attend specialist schools for additional training.

Interested men, either married or single, should contact the nearest Marine Corps Recruiting or Reserve Office for an interview.

IF YOU CAN WIN

THESE WINGS YOU CAN EARN OVER $5,000 A YEAR AFTER GRADUATION

Important facts about the opportunities for YOU as a Commissioned Officer—Pilot or Aircraft Observer—in the United States Air Force

Must I be a college graduate to be a Pilot?

No. But you must have completed a minimum of 60 semester hours or 90 quarter hours toward a degree. In addition, under the new Aviation Cadet Pilot training program, you must be between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition—with high requirements for eyes, ears, heart and teeth.

How long before I get my commission?

60 calendar weeks. You will receive the finest aviation training in the world—training that not only equips you to fly modern military aircraft but prepares you for executive and administrative work as well. At the completion of your training, you will have acquired a commission as a 2nd Lieutenant and won the coveted silver wings of the United States Air Force.

Where do I take my training?

Pre-flight training will be at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. Primary, basic and advanced training will be taken at any one of the many Air Force bases located throughout the South and Southwest.

What happens if I flunk the training course?

Every effort is made to help students whose progress is unsatisfactory. You can expect extra instructions and whatever individual attention you may require. However, if you fail to complete the course as an Aviation Cadet, you will be required to serve a two-year enlistment to fulfill the minimum requirement under Selective Service laws.

What pay do I get as an Aviation Cadet? And after?

As an Aviation Cadet you draw $109.20 a month pay. In addition, you get summer and winter uniforms, flight clothes, equipment, food, housing, medical and dental care and insurance . . . all free. After you are commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant you will be earning $5,300.00 a year—with unlimited opportunities for advancement.

Are all Aviation Cadets trained to be Pilots?

No. You can choose between becoming a Pilot or an Aircraft Observer. Men who choose the latter will become commissioned officers in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation, or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

Do Aircraft Observers get flying training, too?

Yes. Aircraft Observer Cadets receive approximately 200 hours of "in the air" instruction. The primary phase of Aircraft Observer training is the same for all branches (navigation, bombardment, etc.). The basic and advanced phase of training varies, depending on the specific course you wish to pursue.

What kind of ships will I fly?

You will fly jets. The Pilot Cadet takes his first instructions in a light, civilian-type plane of approximately 100 horsepower, then graduates to the 600 horsepower T-6 "Texan" before receiving transition training in jets. You then advance gradually until you are flying such famous first-line aircraft as F-86 Sabre, F-49 Scorpion, B-47 Stratojet, B-50 Superfortress. Observer Cadets take flight instructions in the C-47 Dakota, the T-29 Convair, and the TB-Superfortress before advancing to first-line aircraft such as the F-89 Scorpion, B-47 Stratojet or TB-50 Superfortress.

Will my commission be in the Regular Air Force or Reserve?

Aviation Cadet graduates, both Pilots and Aircraft Observers get Reserve commissions as 2nd Lieutenants. Some outstanding graduates in both programs will be offered Regular commissions.

How long must I remain in Service?

After graduation as an Aviation Cadet, you are tendered an indefinite appointment in the United States Air Force Reserve and are called to active duty with the United States Air Force for a period of three years.

What recreation and leisure time will I have as a Cadet?

Discipline will be rigid—especially for the first few weeks. However, it is not all work. You'll find swimming pools, handball courts, movies and other forms of recreation on the post. After your first 4 months, your commandant may allow you to apply for overnight passes.

Where will I be stationed when I get my commission?

You may be stationed anywhere in the world . . . Hawaii, Far East, Europe, Puerto Rico, elsewhere. During your tour of duty, you will be in close touch with the latest developments in new flying techniques. You will continue to build up your flying experience and later, should have no difficulty securing a CAA commercial pilot rating.

Your future is assured if you can qualify! Here's what to do:

- 1 Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
- 2 If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination at government expense.
- 3 Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
- 4 If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Joliet Juco Transfer Proves Valuable Aid To Shocker Squad

A transfer from Joliet, Ill., Junior College, Don Laketa has already shown himself as a promising basketball prospect for the Shockers.

Laketa, who plans on being a coach after graduation, has already appeared in several important contests for the Shockers. He has filled in for the regulars who have seen only limited action because of illness and injuries, and has aided Merv Carman with the post job.

His past sports accomplishments date back to his home town of LaMonte, Ill., where Laketa lettered four years in basketball and three in football in high school. The next two years while at Joliet Junior College, he lettered in the same sports.

In one game, Laketa scored 32 points against Dodge City Junior College and racked up 31 points in several other cage games. He came out of junior college competition with an average of 22 points a game.

Coach Ralph Miller has made use of Laketa's six-foot-six-inch height and talents at the forward and center slot. The Education junior's long arms have contributed to several tip-ins while playing in reserve roles.

WU Adds Two To Grid Staff

Jack Mitchell, Shocker head football coach, has named two assistant coaches to complete his staff. Latest addition is the appointment of Dick Monroe, former Kansas University football player.

Monroe is a graduate of Madill, Okla., high school.

In 1947 and 1948 he was named second team all Big Seven center for Kansas and was also a member of the 1949 Orange bowl team. He graduated in 1949 with a bachelor of science degree in education.

He comes to the Shocker staff from the University of Kansas, where he served as center coach and chief scout under J. V. Sikes, Kansas football coach, during the past season.

With the recent addition of Alonzo (Pete) Tillman, former center and teammate of Coach Mitchell at Oklahoma, and the retaining of George Bernhardt, line coach here for the past two years, the Shocker staff for the coming season is completed.

Littleton Bids For New Mark

19-Point Average Sets Pace For WU Cagers

Cleo Littleton, carrying a 19-point average continues to set a blistering pace in his bid to set an all-time scoring record for the University of Wichita.

The lanky sophomore, from High School East, has netted 323 points in Wichita's 17 games this season. This total, combined with last year's point production of 555 points, leaving Littleton just 47 points shy of the all time high of any W.U. cager.

The record, 925 points for a University cage career, is held by John Friedersdorf, who had three years of varsity play. Littleton has 878 points with ten games left in his second year of college basketball competition.

Three more Shocker cagers will go into the St. Louis game with scoring averages in the double-digit figures. They are guard Paul Scheer (13.8), Jim McNeerney (12.6), and Gary Thompson (10.6). Merv Carman, W.U.'s big center, is averaging 9.6 points per game.

Everything's Jake

By Jake Wieland
(Sunflower Sports Editor)

We would like to take this opportunity to welcome to the campus Pete Tillman and Dick Monroe, new assistant football coaches who will work under equally new head Coach Jack Mitchell.

Tillman, a former teammate of Mitchell at Oklahoma, arrived Monday. Monroe is a former Kansas player and served as center coach there last season. He is due to arrive in Wichita by the end of this week.

Looks like professional baseball holds more promise for Shocker football quarterbacks than does football. Ron Marston, frosh quarterback last season and considered an outstanding varsity prospect, signed a contract with the St. Louis Cardinal organization Sunday.

He left school at the end of the first semester, and is scheduled to play for St. Joseph in the Western Association. Only last fall, Dick Sanders, varsity quarterback in 1951, signed with the Yankees and was unable to play football for the Shockers.

Everything around the University really would be jake if authorization for the construction of a fieldhouse and community center is given by the board of regents and the necessary law-making passes through the state legislature. The proposed fieldhouse would seat 10,000 persons, solving the problem of seating fans at home basketball games from now till then and then on.

Regarding the new rule abolishing free substitution in football: Head Coach Jack Mitchell does not believe that the rule will act as an equalizer for small schools and the football giants, and that the schools with the most manpower will still turn out the winning teams.

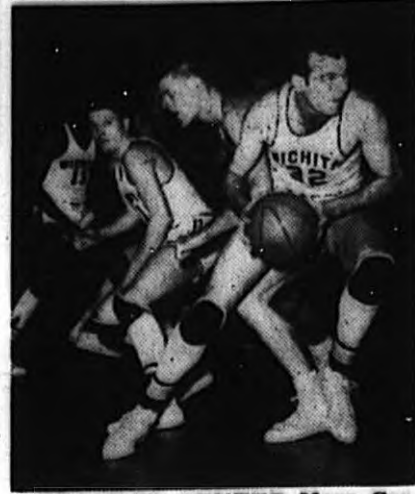

He said he was in favor of the rule 100 per cent if it was a benefit to the game, but it would have to be in force a season before anyone could tell for sure whether or not it was a good rule.

Shocker Cage Fortunes Change From Good To Bad In 9 Games

Creighton, Ft. Hays, OCU, Southwestern Fall Before Munies; Lose 5 To Make Record 11-6

Wichita's Shockers had their ups and downs in basketball during the last three weeks, winning four games and losing five, running their season record to 11 wins and 6 defeats.

Four of the losses were to Missouri Valley opponents, leaving the Munies with a 1-3 conference record. St. Louis and Oklahoma A and M all bested the Munies on their home courts while Tulsa ran roughshod over them at the Forum.

Other losses were to Marquette at the Hutchinson Sports Arena, and Drake at Des Moines.

On the win side, the Munies beat Creighton University, Ft. Hays State, Southwestern College, and City Chiefs. The win over the Chiefs the strong Oklahoma City University took place at the Forum by a count of 66-62. The other three victories took place on their opponents courts.

The Munies began with a three-game road trip, opening in St. Louis where the Billikens set them down 92-76. The loss was the Munies' loss of the season and their first in conference play.

Dick Boushka scored 34 points for St. Louis, season high mark for any individual player against Wichita. Cleo Littleton, sophomore forward and leading scorer for Wichita, hit 25.

Down Bluejays
From St. Louis the Shockers moved to Omaha, Neb., where they downed Creighton University's Bluejays, 77-55. Littleton and Gary Thompson, junior guard, hit 42 of the Munies' 77 points.

Littleton collected 22 to lead the scoring; Thompson was close behind with 20, his highest output of the season.

The Drake Bulldogs were next on the list, taking the Shockers measure 73-60 at Des Moines.

Next the Munies played the Marquette Hilltoppers in a "home" game at Hutchinson. Coach Tex Winter's squad bested the Munies 83-80 in a contest that was a thrill-

Manager Of CBC Meets With Whan

A member of the University faculty was called upon recently to consult with an official of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation regarding radio-television research problems in Canada.

Dr. F. L. Whan, former head of the speech, radio, and drama departments, consulted with E. A. Weir, commercial manager of CBC. Mr. Weir flew here from Toronto.

Canada is the third foreign country to ask Dr. Whan's advice about radio-TV problems. Two years ago Japan sent a representative to consult with him on research problems of that country, and the Australian Radio-Television Control Board has been in continuous correspondence with Dr. Whan for the past three years about research problems there.

Recently the National Broadcasting Company in New York City sent an official from its research department to Wichita to consult for three days with the University professor.

O-Ags Reach Top Seeking MV Title

Oklahoma A and M assumed the drivers seat in its quest for another Valley title, aided by Houston's ability to knock off the Cowpokes' closest rivals, St. Louis, and the Tulsa Hurricane.

Houston dropped Tulsa from the Valley undefeated class last week in a stunning upset, and then proceeded to knock off the defending champion St. Louis Billikens on the Bills' home court 71-70.

In other conference games played around the Valley, Oklahoma A and M whipped Wichita 73-59, and eked out a decision over Tulsa by virtue of a field goal with only eight seconds remaining in the ball game.

3 Reasons To Cut Class

Three main reasons are given for cutting classes, according to a recent poll made by Smith College, Northampton, Mass. Reasons are: studying for exams, dull classes, and (for Saturday classes) out-of-town weekends.

This poll shows that sophomores do more class cutting than other students. Fifty-eight percent of this class cut at least once a week.

The Sophian student newspaper commented, "The reasons or excuses for missing class reveal neither maturity nor responsibility. The most frequent excuse, studying, shows, if not a poor value judgment at least a lack of planning. The dull class routine is even more ridiculous."

er all the way to the final whistle. Hays Falls Next Wichita then travelled to Hays, where they slipped by Ft. Hays State, 86-82, for their second win of the season over the Tigers. Littleton poured in 34 points, his highest total to date, to lead the scoring in the game.

Tulsa University then handed the Munies their third conference loss, 96-82, in a high-scoring contest at the Forum. Tulsa's 96 points were the most any team has garnered from the Munies this season, and set a new scoring record for a single game for the Golden Hurricanes.

Upset Chiefs
Doyle Parrick's O.C.U. Chiefs invaded the Form next and came out on the short end of a 66-62 score. Arnold Short, Chiefs' scoring star, hit 21 points to lead the scoring after being held to only one point in the first half.

Southwestern of Winfield fell to the Munies next as the Munies romped 93-75 at Winfield. The victory was the second of the season over the Moundbuilders for the Shockers, and the 93 points was their second highest output of the season.

The Shockers went from their season high to their season low in the next game as Henry Iba's defensive minded Oklahoma A and M squad teathered them 73-59 at Stillwater. The game was the Munies' fourth conference defeat.

Aggie center Bob Mattick hit 18 points for the winners and Littleton 21 for Wichita.

Colleges Restrict Car Driving

A Smith College survey inquiring into car-driving permissions at other women's colleges in the east reveals a tremendous range in answers, due to the diversity of the colleges polled. Six colleges allow cars spring term of senior year only, while at four driving is never allowed.

Three colleges where some students commute allow cars to day students only, but never to residents. Three colleges, including Wheaton and Pembroke, allow cars all of senior year. Both Sarah Lawrence and Wheaton allow sophomores and juniors to have cars for two weeks of each year. Five colleges, including Bennington, allow cars all four years.

Of the women's colleges that Tim-it cars, Skidmore is definitely the most liberal. Seniors there can drive until Christmas vacation and after spring vacation, while juniors can drive during spring term.

KMUW Airs 2 New Shows

Two new programs highlight the schedule of University radio station KMUW, which resumed full scale operations this week, manager Don Hofmann, station manager, said Monday.

The programs are: Spotlight on Sports, a summary of events in the world of sports, and The Jane Pickens Show, a 15-minute program of popular music.

The station is now operating from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 10:00 a.m. to 4:55 p.m. on Sunday.

Plans for the immediate future include broadcasting of all Shocker basketball games, at home and away; complete coverage of the 1953 Missouri Valley AAU Tournament in March; Victory League and high school baseball games, and all major University convocations, forums and concerts, Hofmann said.

Frosh Named Beauty Queen

Miss Liberal, Kansas, of 1952 is a Liberal Arts freshman at the University.

Blond, big eyed Lorene Hunt, who won her first beauty contest at the age of three, was introduced to the University as a result of her participation in the Miss Kansas contest which was held on the campus last August.

The Liberal Chamber of Commerce, which boasts about its beautiful women, sent Miss Hunt to Wichita to participate in the Miss Kansas contest as a representative of that city.

After Miss Hunt was chosen first alternate to Miss Kansas, she stayed in Wichita the next day, "to look over the University." "I liked it very much so here I am," Miss Hunt said.

When only three years old she toddled off with her first blue ribbon in a baby beauty contest sponsored by a Liberal theater. "All I remember about that one," Miss Hunt said, "is that we all wore sunsuits and some man kissed me, when he presented the loving-cup to me."

After being asked how it felt to be in a beauty contest and what her first thoughts were after being declared the winner, she laughingly replied, "It's the same feeling at the conclusion as it is all through the judging; I'm scared. The only time I haven't been nervous in a contest, was the first one when I was three. Then I was too busy chewing my thumbs to think of anything else."

Although she has done some singing and modeling, the Alpha Tau Sigma pledge says that her plans for the future are indefinite.

2 WU Women Pass Accountant Exams

For the first time in the history of the University two women alumni passed the Kansas Certified Public Accountant Examination held at the University of Kansas. Three University men graduates also finished up.

Miss Flossie Joan Bates graduated from the University with Summa Cum Laude in 1952. She was a president and treasurer of Delta Omega Sorority and a departmental assistant in the Accounting department for two years. She received her B. S. in Business Administration with a major in accounting. She is presently employed in a local firm.

Mrs. Ann W. Tuxbury is employed in Dallas, Texas. She graduated Magna Cum Laude in Liberal Arts with a major in accounting. She was a departmental assistant in accounting for one and a half years. Both she and Miss Bates are working as junior accountants.

The three men who finished their CPA Examination last fall are Tom Oak, 52, Jack V. Roberson, 52, and Martin Johnson, 51. They are all employed in local accounting firms.

These alumni will not be entitled to call themselves CPA's until they have completed two years of experience in a public accounting firm.

The two women who passed are among the first four or five women in the state of Kansas to pass them.

Whan Called To Washington

Dr. F. L. Whan, former head of the speech, radio, and drama department, was subpoenaed to appear in Washington, D. C., recently before a Federal Communications Commission Board of Examiners as a witness at the current hearings of Wichita applicants applying for television channel No. 3.

Dr. Whan identified the types of programs and the times the television shows were wanted by families in the Wichita area from research work accomplished last summer.
