O'Harra Cites Library Changes

Morrison Library has undergone many changes to make room for new publications, according to Prof. Downing P. O'Harra, librarian.

Old publications have been rearranged, new shelves have been added, and many infrequently-read publications have been stored in the basement to make room for new publications.

The current budget for new books is $25,000, which represents a substantial increase over last year.

Professor O'Harra reports an increase in library circulation for the month of November. The total publication circulation for November was 8,569 compared with 5,631 for the same month in 1952.

In announcing the cast for the production, Mrs. Mary Jane Woodward, assistant professor of speech and drama, said the play had deliberately been chosen to revive the sagging spirits of students after examinations, and to brighten the post-holiday lull.

The cast, composed entirely of Community Theater members, is headed by Jo Peters, who appeared as the ingenue in "First Lady", as Gigi, a vibrant, energetic 16-year-old.

Aunt Alicia, the most successful member of the family — to hear her tell it — will be played by Rosemary Carroll, a newcomer to Wichita, who recently returned from a year in Paris.

Correct Hand Care Important In Helping Women Keep Charm

Hands reveal a woman's personality. That's why it's important to take good care of them.

Often in the busy life of a co-ed, if there isn't time for everything, the manicure is omitted.

A definite time should be set aside for a manicure at least twice a week to keep hands looking their charming best.

Beauticians advise filing nails toward the center for more pleasing shape. They also explain it is best to file in one direction, and stay away from corners of the nails in order to keep the nails strong.

A cuticle cream should be applied over the whole nail as well as the cuticle. A few moments after the application of the cream, an oily-base cuticle remover applied with cotton will finish the job of grooming the cuticle.

Two thin coats of nail polish, or a base coat, will make the finished job last longer and prevent chipping. Polish may be bought to match nearly all shades of lipstick. The wardrobe should also be considered in choosing a polish.

The best way to finish nails, most beauticians say, is to apply a soothing hand cream with fragrance that matches your favorite cologne.

Whether it is a home manicure or a beauty shop job a few minutes spent in beautifying hands can help a co-ed maintain her charm.

Dimes Battle Polio

The 1954 March of Dimes Campaign is now underway. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which has conducted campaigns for the past 16 years, is urgently in need of funds to carry on its work of aiding victims of polio, providing therapeutic equipment, and aiding in the search for a cure.

For the past six years, intense epidemics of polio have caused heavy drains on funds collected by the Foundation. In 1953 the national organization provided emergency funds amounting to more than $7,000,000 to local chapters which had emptied their treasuries aiding patients. The 1953 deficit was $6,000,000.

The increased polio prevention program this year will double the amount needed to stockpile gamma globulin, the temporary protective agent which can effectively reduce the number of polio cases.

Cost of polio prevention in 1954 is estimated at $26,500,000 in March of Dimes funds. Meeting this goal will require the cooperation of everyone able to donate. Do your part to make the drive a success.

Wheels Of Knowledge

If knowledge were produced by gigantic wheels that revolved like gears in a machine shop, the wheels would have rasped and whined to a stop during the last two weeks of 1953. The only two available "refineries" that produce lubrication for the wheels of knowledge were closed for the holiday weekends.

In assuming that knowledge is manufactured by gears, the refineries that were closed were the two local libraries—the University Library and the Public Library in downtown Wichita. For a total of six days the city was without access to any library facilities.

The University Library's hours are probably the longest of any educational building on the campus. It is now observing an increasing attendance and a swelling number of volumes are being added each year. Between 5,000 and 6,000 books are being added each year to Morrison Library. This semester a visual aids room was completed and put into use for library patrons. Soon, a second floor browsing room will be opened.

Yet, the institution's usefulness to students could be multiplied many times if the library's hours were lengthened. At the present time the library closes at 5 on Friday afternoons. On Saturdays it opens at 8 a.m. and closes at noon. Sunday it opens at 2 p.m. and closes at 5.

The school should note what type of student inhabits the campus of this university. Here, as in other urban universities, students spend a large proportion of the time at work. Weekends are often the only time students have free to study. But they are faced with locked doors when they attempt to study on the campus.

At this time the library faces an employment problem. Understaffed and with no immediate assurance of more help, the library can not extend its hours and thereby extend its usefulness.

Funds in the year's budget can not allow an increase in the number of library staff members, according to Downing P. O'Harra, head librarian. However, he stated he would support a plan to lengthen library hours if a definite student need is shown.

But even with its increase in books and new services being offered, a library with locked doors has no more usefulness than a library empty of books.

Knox College

Reorganizes General Program

The general education program at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., has been extensively reorganized this year. To provide a more flexible program to meet the divergent needs of the students, many new courses are being offered. The entrance examinations were continued this year but for diagnostic purposes only.

Students are discouraged from thinking in terms of passing or failing the exam. Its purpose is only to indicate in what broad areas of learning the student's background is weak. In planning a student's educational program, all information regarding his educational background, interests, achievements as indicated by the entrance exam, and apparent academic ability are taken into consideration.

All students graduating from Knox must have fulfilled general education requirements in the six areas of English, foreign language, mathematics, humanities, social science, and natural science. The requirements consist of passing three courses in each of the above fields except mathematics in which only two courses are required.

The general education program at Knox has been reorganized to better fulfill the aims of the college and to give the student a liberal education, thus preparing him for life in our western society.

Last Chances Set for GIs

Next semester and the 1954 summer session will be the last time many Korean veterans will be authorized to enroll for training under the Korean GI Bill.

The deadline to begin schooling for veterans separated from service before Aug. 20, 1952, has been set for Aug. 20, 1954. This date is prior to the beginning of the 1954 fall semester.

Veterans must enter school before the deadline to receive benefits offered through the bill, E. J. Wieland, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office, said.

Only Korean veterans will be affected by the deadline, Mr. Wieland said. Cut-off-date rules do not apply to veterans enrolled under the World War GI Bill.

Qualified Students Sought For Key Position On Annual

One of the key positions of the Parnassus, that of business manager, is now open to a qualified student. According to William H. Hice, assistant professor of journalism and Parnassus advisor, "As a yearbook business manager a person has one of the top executive positions of university publications.

To qualify, a student must be registered on a full-time basis, have a grade point average of 1.0, and free time either in the mornings or afternoons to sell advertising work on the year book. First semester freshmen may also apply if they have these previous factors to offer; 1. high school experience in this field, 2. satisfactory standing in courses now being taken.

Responsibilities of business manager include direction of sales in advertising phase of the annual dance, and setting up machinery for distribution of the year books. In short, Prof. Hice said, "The work is such that a person has to be able to supervise the work of others under the staff."

When the Parnassus appears next spring, the individual selected will be listed with Jill Wood, who served as business manager this semester.

In spite of the ice and snow and a plaster cast, Prof. Baird was able to drive the 1,300 miles back home.

The examination will be held from 8:30 a. m. through 5:30 p. m. in Morrison Library.

Dean Hekhus was appointed by the Educational Testing Service of New Jersey to give college entrance examinations to the candidates from this area.

Shocks Return Thursday After All-Victory Tour

Carrying a 10-game winning streak and 12 victories against a single loss for the season, the Shockers return home for the next conference engagement with Houston University Thursday night.

All-victorious in their eastern tour, the Shocks had to come from behind in a wild ball game in Detroit to edge the Titans in an overtime period, 77-75. Cleo Littleton was scoring hero for Wichita with 29 points. The game plaudits remained for sophomore Bob Hodgson, who sank a hook shot with two seconds to go in the game to clinch the victory for the Shocks. After surviving a shaky first half and taking a 61-50 third-quarter lead, the Shocker defense fell apart and permitted the Titans to take the lead. The regular game ended in a 67-67 tie and Hodgson's dramatic shot was the icer.

In Buffalo, N. Y., the Shocks put on a pair of strong finishes to win over St. Bonaventure, 77-71, and Canisius, 88-65. Although walloping Canisius, the Shocks were behind by 10 points several times in the first half. A 27-point surge in the third period, while holding the opponent to six was the clincher.

Cleo Littleton continued to set the pace for the Shocks on the eastern tour with his 31 points tops for the night. His accurate shooting in the third quarter was the main factor in the Wichita victory.

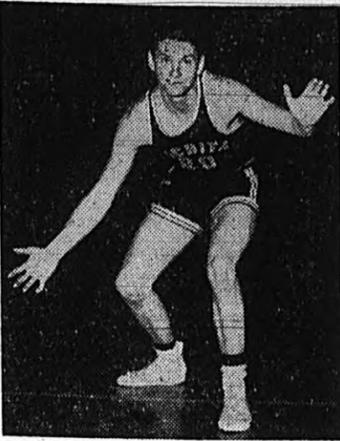

Against St. Bonaventure, the Shocks maintained the lead most of the way to win. Briefly in the third quarter the Bonnies had a margin, and then by one point, 42-41. Cleo Littleton canned a pair of jump shots in the final three minutes to clinch the victory. The Shocks were warm in their field goal attempts hitting a fine 45.7 percentage. Littleton and Paul Scheer led the Wichitans with 15 points each with Jim Mc Nerney and Bob Hodgson tallying 12 each.

In the Hamline University game, the Shockers again had to overcome a first half slump but they warmed up after the intermission and swamped the Pipers, 80-45. With only a 38-34 lead at halftime, the Shocks outscored the Pied Pipers 19-7 in the third period and 23-4 in the fourth to complete the rout. Littleton and Scheer were high for the home team with 19 and 15 points.

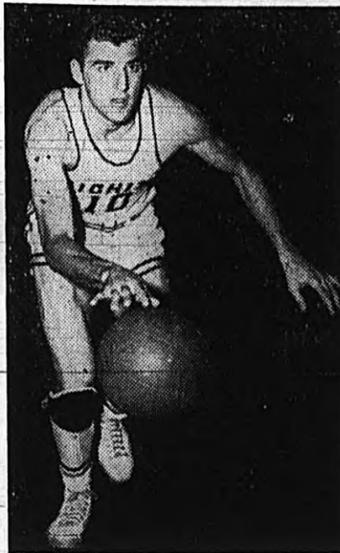

The Shocks open the home Missouri Valley conference schedule tonight then travel to Tulsa for Saturday night engagement with the Golden Hurricane and meet the Detroit Titans in a return appearance on Jan. 16 in the Forum.

Stall-Breaker Helps WU Win

By Don Taylor

With a few minutes to go in the game Wichita University is behind in an important contest. The opposing squad is stalling. Only by getting that ball can the Shockers hope to eke out a win.

Coach Ralph Miller looks at his bench and calls on Verlyn Anderson, a 6-foot, 2-inch forward from McPherson, to go in and break up that stall. Verlyn usually does.

Probably the fastest man on the squad, Anderson has two years varsity experience and the best potential skill on the squad. Anderson's great rebounding ability enables him to go up and grab that ball with the best of the centers. One of Miller's strongest men in reserve, Anderson has seen considerable action this year and might see duty as a starter later on in the season.

Also a great trackman, he has tied Shocker teammate, Cleo Littleton, for W. U.'s high jump record.

One of the brightest prospects on the Shocker squad is Sophomore guard Leo Carney, whose brilliant play for the Munies this far in the 1953-54 season, has enabled the Shockers to post an early 12-1 record.

Carney was a mainstay on last year's University frosh that topped the Missouri Valley AAU tournament in Wichita. He stands 6 feet, 2 inches, 185 pounds and makes his home in Pittsburg, where he starred in basketball in high school.

Probably the man to take over Gary Thompson's position as floor general when the stellar Shocker senior graduates, Carney has been going great and needs only the experience to make him one of the Shocker all-time all-stars.

Ticket Check To Be Made

Because many people have been illegally sitting in the student sections at the basketball games, a closer check will be made on the identity of persons sitting in the student sections, Robert P. Kirkpatrick, chairman of the Stadium Committee, announced.

Starting with tonight's game, students are asked to cooperate with the University and hold their Identification Cards until they are seated. The cards will be rechecked before students are seated.

Student guest tickets are not being sold and only University personnel and students should be sitting in the sections.

Mrs. Ruth Price, commons hostess at the University of Wichita, was a vocalist on radio station KFJ in Wichita for six years after her graduation from the university.

WU Cagers To Meet Houston Here Tonight

University basketballers, back from their three-game eastern tour in which they posted three straight wins, now have a 12 wins, 1 loss record and will play the University of Houston Cougars tonight in the Forum in the second game of four straight conference tilts.

Saturday night the Munies travel to Tulsa to tangle with the Golden Hurricane and then journey back home to host Detroit.

Making their strongest bid for the Missouri Valley crown in years, the Shockers will be the favorites tonight, to cop their thirteenth win and rack-up their second conference win.

Name Texan Lineup

In the lineup tonight for the Texans will be stellar center Gary Shivers, who has been instrumental in the Cougars' success this season. The tall Cougar stands 6 feet, 9 inches, can hook with either hand and shoot accurately from far out. Jack Mosher, who averaged 12 points per game last season, will be on hand at guard along with Jack Bell, co-captain.

James Hatton, the other co-captain, will see action at the forward post along with Dean Kittman. This starting quintet will average 6 feet, 2 inches, compared with the Shockers' 6 feet, 3 inches.

Play Tulsa Saturday

Saturday night the Munies will invade Tulsa where they play the Golden Hurricane in the third straight conference game. All-Missouri Valley guard Dick Nunneley will head the Tulsa squad of five returning lettermen.

Tulsa suffered heavily last year through graduation and is hampered greatly this season by lack of height and experience. Working around the center post will be Dick Courter or Bob Patterson who are 6 feet, 5 inches, 6 feet, 4 inches, respectively. Tulsa may use a double post offense to make up for the lack of tall timber this season.

Tulsa Boasts Reserves

Along with Nunneley at guard will be Ernie Stewart or Jerry Hacker. Forwards will probably be Bill Elliot and Bob Mesec. A host of sophomores will supply Coach Clarence Iba with ample leaders of America's most excitingly different dance band, met in 1939 as struggling young arrangers. Ed had studied trumpet and drum at college, worked up to arranging for "name" bands; Bill had studied in Paris, won a spot with Tommy Dorsey. What's The Score?

By Mike Anderson

The Shockers are on the move. They have 12 wins in their first 13 games and show no signs of slowing the pace. But, for the fans who think the second half of the season will be indicative of the early showing of the Shocks, there are some facts that should be pointed out.

First, the Shockers have played only one Valley game. As everyone knows by now it was a very tough one. Also bear in mind that Detroit is expected to be one of the lower teams in the Missouri Valley.

True, every team has an "off" night, but when playing against a team such as Oklahoma A&M, those nights can turn into nightmares. The latest statistic release from the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau lists the Aggies second in the nation in team defense. Consider their rating of eighth in the nation in field goal percentage shooting and it can readily be seen that the Cowpokes are not going to lose many contests this winter. The Aggies have an identical won-lost record as the Shockers but they have in tall Bob Mattick the top field goal shooter in the United States. The towering pivot man has averaged 22.1 points per game and has hit an amazing 62.5 percent of his tries.

St. Louis, Tulsa, and Houston have already shown that they will be tough to beat anytime, but especially on their home court. It is conceivable that the Shockers could drop all four of its remaining Valley games away from home.

Looking at the brighter side, Ralph Miller's sophomores have fitted rapidly into the Shocker attack. Rod Grubb, who has had trouble hitting his stride, was instrumental in the Canisius victory with his rebounding strength. Jim Strathe, who did not appear to be able to buy a field goal while playing at home, seems to be ready to live up to his potential. Bob Hodgson has shown that he is going to see a lot of action before the campaign is over and he showed the poise of a veteran with his winning field goal over Detroit in the last two seconds. Both Leo Carney and Hodgson have shown poise and experience that is usually associated with junior and senior cagers.

There is an outside chance that WU could snare the Valley crown, but one thing is certain, we had better have our hitting trousers on when we meet the Aggies at Stillwater.

It is interesting to note that Seattle University has also lost one game as well as the Shockers and they have handed each other their lone defeat. Seattle has been given national ranking for their record but Wichita is still comparatively unknown to the dopesters. A win over Oklahoma A&M or St. Louis should put the Shocks in the top 20 in the Nation.

New Courses Offered in Art

Contemporary Art Forms and Philosophy of Art are two new courses offered by the art department to students next semester. Contemporary Art forms, a three-hour credit course, will offer a study of principles of contemporary design, architecture, painting, and expression. David Bernard, assistant professor of art, will teach the course. Dr. Eugene McFarland, head of the art department, will conduct the class in philosophy of art, a course of lecture and discussion about the why of art. Music, English, and drama department faculty members will aid in the discussion, according to Dr. McFarland.
