Voting Plan Receives OK

The new student voting plan, calling for presentation of ID cards at future elections, was approved by the Student Council last Monday night.

The council also passed a motion that candidates in an election must have a 2.0 grade average.

Students, when voting, will sign their names to a list and have their ID cards punched. This is done in order to tabulate the number voting and to prevent any dishonest voting procedures.

Gil Tatman, election commissioner, plans to present the revised election rules to the council for its approval next week.

The Council members will also select a University woman to represent the school at the Kansas University Relays Queen contest.

WU, Friends Host Sinfonia

A joint session Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national professional music fraternity, will be held today and tomorrow at Wichita and Friends Universities. The convention includes schools in the eighth province.

Prof. Frank W. Hill, national editor of Sinfonia, will be the featured speaker at the convention.

Concerts by the University Symphony Orchestra and the Singing Quakers of Friends University will highlight the convention program.

Prof. Walter Duerksen, dean of the University School of Music, will conduct a tour through the new Fine Arts Center.

The convention will close with a banquet tomorrow evening in the Pine Room of the Commons building.

300 Students to Attend Speech Festival at WU

Approximately 300 students from 40 Kansas high schools have entered the District Speech Festival being held at the University, today and tomorrow.

Held on the campus for the second year, the contest will again have original and standard oratory, manuscript reading, extemporaneous speaking, dramatic and humorous reading, and one-act play competitions.

All entrants will be rated according to individual quality rather than competitive events with winners and prizes, Eugene C. Spangler, acting head of the speech department said.

"Today's activities begin at 1 p.m. and last until 6 p.m. Tomorrow's event will continue throughout the day," he added.

Due to the number of one-act plays, we are using Mathewson Intermediate school auditorium for some drama skits, Professor Spangler said.

Faculty, Student Home Buyers Plan Campus Housing Additions

A step toward a new real estate addition to University housing was made Saturday when 10 prospective homebuyers met to discuss such a possibility.

The meeting was termed a "success" by Prof. Robert Winestone, coordinator of the group.

The meeting of student and faculty members was held to see if there was enough interest to warrant an addition which would save buyers as much as 10 per cent on GI and FHA housing.

"However, greater student and faculty interest must be shown before actually contacting a real estate firm," Professor Winestone said.

In regard to future plans, Professor Winestone said that an organization will be formed to decide on suitable building plans, and make the necessary preparations.

He added that it was too early to decide on a location for the development. He also said that another meeting would be announced later.

2 Seniors Are Honored

Last week, two University students were recognized nationally for outstanding ability in the science fields by the National Science Foundation.

Jack H. Hetherington, Liberal Arts senior and student assistant in the physics department, was awarded one of 775, pre-doctoral fellowships given by the Foundation.

John G. Albright, Liberal Arts senior and student assistant in the chemistry department, received honorable mention from the Foundation for outstanding work in physical chemistry.

Approximately 3,000 individuals applied for graduate fellowships this year from all sections of the United States. The Foundation, working with the National Academy of Sciences and the National Research Council, established screening panels composed of leading scientists from many different fields.

Asks English Revision; Cites Speech Courses

By LESLIE WILSON
Sunflower Reporter

The Student Committee on curriculum revision met last week and proposed new changes to be made in the present curriculum requirements of the University.

Janet Noel, chairman of the committee, said the recommendations have been sent to the Faculty Committee.

2 Coeds Vie For Prexy

Two University juniors will vie for Associated Women Students' president in elections scheduled from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., today, in the Rotunda of the Administration Building.

The candidates are Maurita Hurtig, Education, and Jean Dodson, Fine Arts. The runner-up will be named first vice-president.

Candidates for second vice-president are juniors Marian Finke, Liberal Arts, and Doris Miller, Business Administration; for third vice-president, Fine Arts sophomores Maribeth Shellenberger and Beverly Fine.

Secretary candidates are sophomores Jackie Hicks, Fine Arts, and Armida Romero, Education. For the office of treasurer the candidates are sophomores Karen Knight, Liberal Arts, and Shirley Howell, Fine Arts.

Four proportional representatives will be selected from a group of eight candidates. Running for junior unaffiliate representative are Nancy Gilpin and Donna White, both Fine Arts students; for junior affiliate, Donna Jo Rogler, Education, and Bunny Giuliano, Fine Arts.

Vying for the office of sophomore unaffiliate are Joyce Ayers, Education, and Christine Wells; for sophomore affiliate, Joy Snell, Education, and Alice Zinn, Business Administration.

All women students on the campus are eligible to vote and are urged to do so, according to Carolyn Cole, president of AWS.

Politics Is Topic Of TV Program

People, politics, politicians, and complications in the United States will be the topic of discussion by President Harry F. Corbin in his weekly television series, "Ideas in Action," at 10 p.m., Sunday over KARD-TV.

"The factors of politics and politicians in our lives constitute the glory and despair of democracy. An effort to understand the role of the politician is an interesting and worthwhile undertaking," President Corbin said.

Some of the conclusions drawn from the committee's study were that English 111 is needless repetition for many students, that there is a decline in the appreciation of literature in the world, and that political science and economics requirements are designed primarily for majors in these fields.

The Committee further stated that the fine arts requirement does not satisfy any cultural need for a high school music or art student, that the ability to give a speech is becoming increasingly important, and the present mathematics requirement is neither practical nor realistic.

As a result of its studies, the Committee submitted the following recommendations:

1. The requirement of English 111 be waived for students who, through examination, demonstrate outstanding achievement in the fundamentals of grammar and composition. Students who successfully pass this examination would still be required to take English 112 and a three hour course in literature.

2. The number of hours required in English be raised to nine. The requirement should include six hours of composition and three hours of literature, or if English 111 is waived six hours of literature.

3. The course Political Science 201 be made a more practical course. The emphasis should be placed less on the theoretical relationships of political science and more on the rights and duties of citizenship within the structure of national and state government.

A course designed for political science majors should be offered as a substitute for political science 201. This course should include a basic introduction to political theories and the social-economic role of government.

4. The course Economics 221 be made a more practical course. The course should present the economics principles which relate to consumer welfare, standards of living, and family expenditures.

Economics and business majors should be allowed to substitute a course emphasizing national income analysis, employment theories, and public economic policies.

5. The fine arts requirement be waived for students presenting three high school (Continued on Page 2)

By GERRY SCOTT
Sunflower Reporter

Final plans for the annual Photo Field Day and Awards Banquet, including events and competitions for high school editors and photographers, were being completed this week by the department of journalism in cooperation with the University Press Club.

The event, scheduled for April 6, will include news photo competitions for regional high schools and University students, exhibition of mounted prints, luncheon and banquet. All phases of the program will take place in the Commons Building.

Journalists from Wichita and vicinity, faculty guests, University journalism students, and friends and patrons of the department will be invited to attend the sessions.

The day's activities will begin with registration in the Commons Lounge from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. At 1 p.m., a Dutch treat luncheon will be held for high school editors, photographers, and advisors; University student photographers; and several professional newsmen who will act as judges for the two photo competitions.

Judging and display of high school prints will take place from 2 until 3:30 p.m., followed by judging and display of the University students' pictures, from 3:30 to 5 p.m.

Climax of the day will be the Awards Banquet at 6 p.m. in the Pine Room of the Commons Building. At that time, the results of the photo competitions will be announced as will be the winners of several journalism scholarships.

Recipients of various achievement awards will be named at the banquet as will the outstanding journalism senior of the year. The 1956-1957 staffs of the Sunflower and Parnassus also will be revealed at the banquet.

A well-known Kansas journalist will address the group at the evening meal, according to Dale Stewart, Press Club president.

your master key to modern better living

electricity does it ALL in your home

Today there is one key that opens every door to the better living that you and your family can enjoy. It is electric service. For electricity performs every task in the modern home — and does it better than any old-fashioned alternates.

Electricity brings a wholly new standard of cleanliness, healthful comfort and precision control to your home heating — through the amazing heat pump or through radiant electric heat panels or cables easily installed in any room. Electricity keeps you cool in midsummer heat . . . heats water . . . turns night into day wherever you wish.

For every home-making task, electricity supplies safe, automatically controlled power to free you from drudgery. From dishwashing to clothes drying, from food preservation to floor waxing, once tedious tasks yield to its tireless energy. It fills your leisure hours with great entertainment, and even lends an indispensable hand in your home hobby shop. You need only one key to every aspect of better living today — the electric service in your home.

Students' Ideas on Union Building Facilities Sought opinions through the Sunflower questionnaire.

The proposed student union building has not been forgotten. Students haven't heard much about it recently, but plans are being made.

This does not mean that the administration is taking the planning away from the students. The groundwork has been laid, and now the students can express their opinions as to what is needed in the building.

Dr. James K. Sours, director of student services, has prepared the questionnaire that appears in today's Sunflower. Next week he will distribute mimeographed copies to faculty members, student organizations, and 400 students in classes.

He is aware that the questionnaire will reach only about one-tenth of the students. Therefore, students who do not fill out the questionnaires in a classroom have an opportunity to express their

Students who fill out the questions may turn their answers in to the office of Student Services, Rm. 113, Jardine Hall.

Dr. Sours said he hoped to determine which facilities and activities the students desired, and also the feasibility of having the facilities.

The building, which should be completed by the 1958-59 school year, may be located north of Morrison Library or north of the Home Economics Building. Parking facilities will be a big factor in determining the location of the building.

Last semester the Student Council approved the proposed plan of supporting a student union building by adding $5 a semester on tuition. They took this action after holding an open meeting where the majority of students approved paying the extra fee, even if they did not derive any direct gain from it.

The proposed building has not been approved by the Board of Regents. Plans have not been presented to the Regents because of a delay in deciding how to finance the project.

Loan requests have been sent to Washington to apply for the federal aid offered to universities for building dormitories, cafeterias, and student unions.

Another possibility being considered is financing the Union by marketing private bonds. This investment procedure would involve a higher rate of interest, but would allow more flexibility in planning.

The federal government dictates certain limitations on buildings for which it loans funds. Restrictions say that only facilities which have a direct relationship to living on the campus could be included.

After these two possibilities have been fully explored, the plan will go to the Regents for a decision.

'Little Man on Campus'

WU Coed Sister of Cartoonist

"Sometimes I just don't get it." This is a remark you may sometimes hear from Sandy Bibler, sister of Dick Bibler who draws "Little Man on Campus."

Miss Bibler recalls before she came to college the times her brother would come home from Kansas University for the weekend and show her his latest cartoons.

"I liked them, but since I wasn't in college, I sometimes couldn't get the drift, she said.

Miss Bibler, junior in Fine Arts, is president of Grace Wilkie Hall, a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, AWS, and A Cappella choir.

Her brother, Dick Bibler, began his "Little Man on Campus" while he was in college and has been drawing it for over nine years. He now has his own syndicate and sells cartoons to over 300 colleges and universities.

He is at present teaching art at Humboldt State College in Arcata, Calif.

Michigan State Limits Use of Its Facilities

A policy limiting the use of Michigan State University facilities by political parties was recently approved by the State Board of Agriculture, according to a recent East Lansing statement.

The policy stated "It is imperative that a publicly supported university take necessary precautions to avoid charges of favoritism and partisan political activity."

The following five points were emphasized:

1. Facilities as may be desired and available may be used for public appearance of candidates for the Presidency or Vice-presidency; national and state-wide committee meetings; and educational-type conferences of a national or state-wide nature.
2. Such facilities shall not be available for use for other than state-wide or national activities, and shall not be used for political campaign purposes other than those specified in Section 1.
3. The Continuing Education staff of conference coordinators shall be available to assist in the organization and execution of such educational-type conferences as may be developed.
4. University staff members shall be available for conference participation on the same basis as for any other conference, provided they participate in areas of professional competence and not as a partisan activity.
5. The Vice-president shall notify the party chairman of all parties when the facilities of the University are being used by any political party.

Honorary Initiates 11 Poli Sci Students

An initiation of 11 new members was conducted by Pi Sigma Alpha, political science national honorary fraternity, at 7 p.m., Wednesday.

Political Science students who were initiated are Joseph L. Rochford, graduate student; Grover E. McKee, Joseph Culver, Jack J. Reid, seniors; Janet Noel, Sylvia K. Schofer, Edward R. Caffrey, Fred Lewis, David Dillon, James D. Phillips, and Larry Downey, juniors.

Dave Doty, president, and Bob Arnold, secretary-treasurer, were in charge of the initiation, which followed a dinner meeting at the Oriental Restaurant.

"The great hope of mankind is that we can find methods and means of progressing a little bit, even if by little steps, toward a true or real peace, and that we do not go progressively toward war."

KMUW Seeks Student Help

There is still demand for announcers and engineers to work for KMUW, according to Mike Russell, assistant program director.

No experience is necessary to obtain either position. The student needs only an interest and curiosity for radio, he said. The working hours would begin at 3 p.m. or later.

Salaries are not offered, but those students applying wouldn't be expected to work over three hours each week.

For complete details call extension 367, or contact Mike Russell in Rm. 201 of the Communications Building.

To Initiate Nine In Honorary Frat

Pi Mu Epsilon, national honorary mathematics fraternity, will hold an initiation ceremony and banquet today, in the Faculty Dining Room.

Those offered membership in the fraternity include Don V. Jackson, Ted Suffridge, Clarence C. Robinson, and Laddie Kimbrel, all of the graduate school; Sharon C. Bennett, senior; Marjorie G. Wilhite, James A. Evans, and Glen R. Summerville, all juniors; and Arman Seri, sophomore.

Course Is Highly Recommended

It is not often that a course is recommended to other students as highly or as often as Remedial Reading. Since the course opened, 96 per cent of the students said they would recommend it to other students, and only 4 per cent said they were undecided.

The reasoning behind this is probably due to the marked reading improvement and the increase of concentration that students achieve, Miss Evelyn Hinton, reading lab instructor, said.

At the present time, 82 students are enrolled, Miss Hinton said.

The students receive a battery of four tests which determine the degree of ability.

The tests include those of comprehension, vocabulary and speed; vision screen test to demonstrate the functioning of the eye; a test on speed and accuracy of perception; and a memory span test.

Following the tests, Miss Hinton talks to each student to determine his reading weaknesses, and to recommend various tests for corrections. At the end of the semester the four tests are repeated to show the progress made.

Never has a student replied that he has not been helped by the course, Miss Hinton said.

The course is listed under psychology in the catalogue, and is a noncredit course.

Chemistry Offered In Summer Session

Chemistry 111 will be offered during the 6-week summer session if 10 or more students indicate a desire to take the course.

Dr. Lloyd McKinley, head of the chemistry department, said that at present only three or four students have contacted him about the course.

Students who are interested should contact Dr. McKinley in Rm. 321, Science Hall.

'This Is Your Life' Is Conference Theme

"All the Things You Are" will be the topic of a speech given by Dean Margaret Peterson, dean of women at Kansas University, at the Associated Women Students banquet at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, April 4, in the Pine Room of the Commons Building.

The banquet will officially open the AWS conference for all women students on the campus. Tickets for the banquet may be purchased from any council member, and are $1.25, according to Maribeth Shellenberger, co-chairman for the conference.

The theme of the conference will be "This is Your Life" and is aimed at the various facets of a woman's life following graduation, Maurita Hurtig, co-chairman of the conference, said.

"All women students are welcome to attend any or all of the discussions," Miss Hurtig continued.

The program for the conference, which will be held all day Thursday, April 5, is as follows:

8:45 - 9 a.m. Registration
9 - 9:15 a.m. General statement by Dean Peterson
9:15 - 10 a.m. Panel discussion, "Combining Marriage and Career."
