Ex-Red Disillusioned By Communist Party

Embracing Communism in 1932 because it seemed to be the answer to her search for a belief and the party designed for the laboring man during the jobless and strife-ridden 1930's, Dr. Bella V. Dodd, professor at St. John's University, found only disillusionment in the Communist Party.

Speaking in the Fine Arts Center, Friday, Dr. Dodd warned the faculty and students of the danger facing the nation today. The danger, she said, is the obliteration of freedom by the Communist techniques of "irritation and sedition among free nations."

On this subject, she said "The Communists are in back of every

move to sharpen racial, social, and religious differences."

Defines Doctrine

Dr. Dodd, who is also a practicing attorney in New York, said Communism is "not only an economic issue, nor is it a new political or social pattern. Communism," she defined, "is a new religion that attempts to explain the purpose of life itself," and, "a religion that is challenging our religious and basic philosophy."

As an insight into her present philosophy Dr. Dodd referred to the origin of Christianity, from which came the 10 Commandments, as the basis for her newly-formed beliefs, loyalty, and ethical standards.

Cites Communist Tactics

In regard to Communist tactics, she listed three entities of Communism: Communist conspiracy, the Communist Party, and the Communist movement.

The Communist conspiracy, she defined as a world-wide movement, veiled in secrecy, but having one objective in America: to gain control by dividing. "The Communist conspiracy is tightly knit and its motivating center is power," she said.

The Communist Party "is a shield of action by people who want to gain a foothold in government," she said.

The Party is only one of the groups in which the Communist conspiracy operates.

Movement is Organized

The Communist movement itself is, according to Dr. Dodd, "organized under different titles and different labels," and they "sometimes call themselves anti-Communists."

Having a party card in not a criteria as to whether a person is a Communist, she said, for the intricate set-up of the organization is not easily understood.

Because of the Communist's baffling organization, Dr. Dodd said it was sometimes called a "house with a thousand rooms, no one room leading to the other."

Accuses Her Public School

Because Dr. Dodd, in her school years, acquired "an empty sense of American tradition," and an atheistic attitude toward religion, she feels that the public school system which she attended was instrumental in her loss of values.

In 1947, Dr. Dodd made an about-face on her Communist activities

Ticket Change Revealed For Hoop Season

Student Council President, Ron Eeles, announced Saturday that a new system for obtaining student basketball tickets will be used this year.

Eeles said that students may obtain tickets from the Fieldhouse Ticket Office, Rm. 102.

Long Lines Eliminated

"Since there are two and three basketball games scheduled each week, it would be impossible for the single ticket distributor hired by Student Council to distribute them," he said.

The athletic department is equipped to handle several lines, which will eliminate the long lines students endured for football games, he added.

Tickets will be distributed until noon of the day of the game, and may be picked up as early as a week in advance, Eeles said. Students may also pick up tickets for several games at one time.

Additional Tickets Limited

Students who want to sit together may pick up additional tickets for their friends by securing their identification cards. The same ruling as in football tickets, a limit of six ID cards, per student will be used, Eeles said.

Students may start picking up basketball tickets on Monday in the Fieldhouse. The office will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"Money from student fees was used for the distribution of football tickets, and since the Council will not pay for basketball ticket distribution, other uses will be made of the money," Eeles said.

Proposed Club Elects Staff, Sends Petition

The four remaining officers of the proposed advertising fraternity were elected Friday night, according to Fred Menefee, president of the organization.

Those elected include Dave Harlan, Fine Arts senior, first vice-president; Bob Pope, Liberal Arts sophomore, second vice-president; Bob Laughlin, Liberal Arts senior, secretary; and Jack Mattis, Liberal Arts sophomore, treasurer.

The organization will send its petitions to Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising fraternity, this week. If the petition is approved, the advertising fraternity will establish a chapter at the University, Menefee said.

Debate Tourney Success Despite Judge Problem

By CAROL CLAY
Sunflower Staff Reporter

Although an attempt to use outside judges was not entirely successful, the debate tournament, that had more than 23 colleges participating on the University campus, was going well Saturday, according to Assoc. Prof. M. P. Moorhouse, director of forensics.

About 10 judges from the Wichita Junior Bar Association who had been engaged to judge in the final round at 4:45 p.m., Friday, failed to arrive. "I guess no one wanted to work that close to dinner time," Professor Moorhouse observed.

Top Winners Announced

Winners of two of the three events in the tourney, extemporaneous speaking and oratory, were announced Saturday at 11:30 a.m.

First and second place winners in oratory were Wayne Hensley, Oklahoma, and Lee Baird, Kansas University.

Those winning the two places in extemporaneous speaking were John Prather, Southwestern, and Don Herrick, William Jewell. Because judges from Wichita University faculty were used in the contest, the University debaters chose not to enter the tourney.

Debate Labor Law

Debates were scheduled to end at 4 p.m., Saturday. The question being debated this year is, "Resolved: That membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment should be illegal."

Put in layman's language, it deals with the Right to Work Bill, an issue in the coming election.

Visiting universities included Kansas, Northwestern, Oklahoma, Pittsburg, South Dakota State, Tabor, William Jewell, Nebraska, Rockhurst, Creighton, Sioux Falls, and Southern State Teachers.

Others participating were Bethel, Central State, Emporia State, Hutchinson, Juco, McPherson, Ottawa, Park, Pittsburg State, Southwestern, Washburn and Fort Hays State.

University Conducts Debate

Tickets Available Through Tomorrow

Tickets for the last football game of the season, WU-Tulsa, will be available in the Rotunda of Jardine Hall until 2 p.m. tomorrow.

The game is scheduled for Saturday at 8 p.m.

Students may present their ID cards and up to five others for adjoining seats.

'On Campus' Prof to Speak Is New TV Presentation

A new series of television programs, "On Campus," beginning Dec. 8 on KARD-TV, Channel 3, will take viewers on a tour of the University to visit a personality, a department, or an organization according to Lester Rosen, public relations director.

Mr. Rosen will host the 30-minute program; Robert Minser, director of educational television, will direct.

Each program will feature a campus news round-up, a demonstration or interview, and will end with a campus calendar. University faculty and students will be guests on the program.

The first show will introduce Dr. Margaret Habein, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Also featured on this Dec. 8 program will be Miss Joan O'Bryant, of the English department. She will sing some of the ballads from her first recording for Folkways records. This company has recently put out the long-playing record featuring Miss O'Bryant singing a number of American ballads.

The Christian institution, its function in society, and its history from the time of the Romans to the Reformation period, will be the subject of informal discussion tonight by Dr. Kelly Sowards, assistant professor of history, at an 8:30 meeting of the Sociology Club.

Scheduled to speak in the Shockler Room of the Commons Building, Dr. Sowards will also answer questions from the audience. Dr.

The business meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., according to Bill Boone, president of the organization. Future club activities will be discussed.

The lecture is open to anyone interested, Boone said. Refreshments will be served following the discussion by Dr. Sowards.

YW to Meet

Dr. N. H. Pronko, professor and head of the psychology department, will discuss his trip to Russia at the Young Women's Christian Association general meeting, December 5. The meeting will be at 5 p.m. in the Faculty Dining Rm., Commons.

A snack supper will be prepared. Mary Frances Watson, president, said that Parnassus pictures will also be taken.

Schedules Go on Sale

For 15 cents plus a penny tax, students may obtain a schedule of next semester's classes in the Book store beginning Wednesday.

According to Dr. Worth A. Fletcher, registrar, on Monday following Thanksgiving vacation, students currently enrolled may begin pre-registering. The process will continue until after Christmas vacation.

Because of the amount of work the faculty is required to do to prepare for finals, the last date students may meet with their advisers is Dec. 20.

Although students may make their own arrangements as to meeting with their advisers, the schedules will be handled alphabetically, according to Mrs. Irene Feak, of the Registrar's Office.

The schedule is L—M, Dec. 2, 3, and 4; N—R, Dec. 5 and 6; S—T, Dec. 9 and 10; U—Z, Dec. 11, 12, and 13; A—B, Dec. 16, 17, and 18; C—D, Dec. 19 and 20; E—G, Jan. 6 and 7; and H—K, Jan. 8 and 9.

Students who fail to enroll on those dates, or new students, must wait until Christmas vacation to pre-register. Any student may enroll at the Registrar's Office from 9 a.m. to noon or 1 to 4 p.m. on Dec. 19, 20, 23, 26, 27, 30, 31, Jan. 2 and 3.

'Antigone' Opens Dec. 3

The second University Theater production, "Antigone," by Jean Anouilh, will be presented on the Commons stage, Dec. 5 through 7.

In order that the speech department may obtain an accurate count of the number of persons who are admitted free and those who pay admission, students are required to present their ID cards at the ticket window, then give the tickets to a doorman.

To Speed Up Procedure

To speed up the procedure, Dr. Hoak said all tickets would be stamped prior to being picked up. Last time they were stamped as students and employees of the University presented identification.

The play is being directed by Miss Geraldine Staley, a newcomer in the speech department. The play itself is an adaptation of an ancient Greek legend revolving around Antigone's desperate struggle to bury a brother.

Proper Burial Refused

Killed in a rebellion, he has fallen from favor and his uncle, King Creon refuses to allow him a proper burial, which was pretty horrible to the ancient Greek way of thinking.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Carnival No Failure

To the Editor:

We are glad to see YWCA activities on the front page of the Sunflower, but many of us felt that the headline, as well as the general tone of the article of November 19th, was unfair to Cowboy Carnival.

The story seemed to imply that the carnival was not a success, and attempted to give a rationalized explanation for this. For example, the election of Sue and Sam seemed to be much more of a contest this year. In previous years the men's group's have hardly worked at all, while this year there was more active participation by most of the groups. In the women's contest the count of votes was much closer than in the past.

The amount of money which was taken in at the various booths was larger than it was last year. This was true, in spite of the fact that fewer organizations sponsored booths this year.

This brings up the matter of the date of the carnival. Perhaps it was too close to Homecoming. However, this could hardly be counted as a serious handicap since the groups who were most actively concerned with homecoming were the organizations who worked the most energetically. The groups who did not participate actively this year were honorary fraternities and clubs, groups who were not directly concerned with World University Service, was accomplished.

Charlene Taylor
Marilyn Jo Faulkner

All in all, we felt that the Cowboy Carnival was in many ways more successful than before, and certainly not a failure, as the article seemed to imply. We felt that the real purpose of Cowboy Carnival, to collect money to aid students through the auspices of

WHAT TO DO TILL THE PSYCHIATRIST COMES

Once upon a time at the University of Virginia there was a coed named, oddly enough, Virginia University who was handsome and kindly and intelligent and ingeniously constructed and majoring in psychology. Virginia went steady with a young man on campus named, oddly enough, Oddly Enough who was supple and fair and lithe and animated and majoring in phys ed.

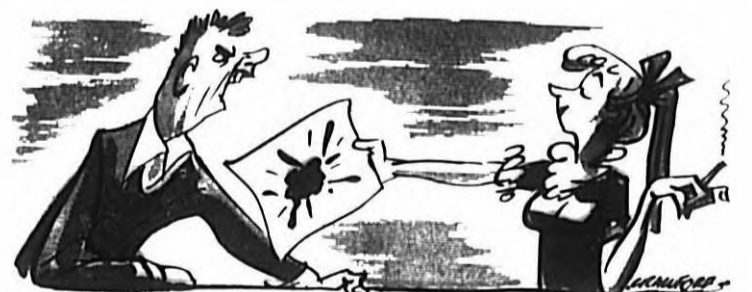

Virginia and Oddly enjoyed a romance that was as idyllic as a summer day, as placid as a millpond. Never did they fight—never, never, never!—because Virginia, who was majoring in psychology, did not believe in fighting. "Fighting," she often said, "settles nothing. The scientific way is to look calmly for the cause of the friction."

So whenever she and Oddly were on the verge of a quarrel, she used to whip out a series of ink blot tests and they would discover the true underlying cause of their dispute and deal with it in an enlightened, dispassionate manner. Then, the irritant removed, their romance would resume its tranquil, serene, unruffled course.

After six months of this sedate liaison, Oddly was so bored he could spit. He loved Virginia well enough, but he also believed that people in love ought to fight now and then. "It opens the pores," he said. "And besides, it's so much fun making up afterwards."

But Virginia would not be provoked into a quarrel. One night Oddly tried very hard. "Hey," he said to her, "your hair looks like a bat's nest and your ears look like last year's turnips and your face looks like a pan of worms and as for your head, I've seen better heads on newel posts."

"My goodness, we're hostile tonight!" said Virginia cheerfully and whipped 120 Rorschach cards out of her reticule. "Come," she said, "let us examine your psychic apparatus."

"Who Makes your Clothes-Bethlehem Steel?"

Oddly tried again. "Who makes your clothes?" he sneered. "Bethlehem Steel?"

"Hmm," said Virginia thoughtfully and lit a cigarette. "This sounds like an anxiety neurosis with totemism, anagogic trauma, and a belt in the back."

"I hate you," said Oddly. "I hate your looks and your clothes and your toenails and your relatives and the cigarettes you smoke."

"Now, hold on, buster!" cried Virginia, her eyes crackling, her color mounting, her nostrils aflame. "Just keep a civil tongue in your stupid head when you talk about Marlboro! Nobody's knocking that filter, that flavor, that flip-top box while there's breath in my body! It's a great cigarette, it's a doozy, it's a dilly, it's a bear—and anybody who says a word against it gets this."

By "this" Virginia meant a series of combinations to the head and liver, which she now delivered to Oddly and turned on her heel and stormed away.

Oddly brought her down with a flying tackle. "I love you," he said.

"And Marlboro?" said she.

"And Marlboro," said he.

And they kissed and plaited love knots in one another's hair and were married at Whitsun and smoked happily ever after.

© 1957, Max Shulman

And you too, gentle readers, will smoke happily ever after, once you try Marlboro, the cigarette that gives you such a lot to like—including, we earnestly hope, this column.

Wyoming Opens WU's 50th Cage Season

Tilt Next Tuesday Marks Shocks' Golden Anniversary

A fortified Shocker basketball team will tip-off its golden anniversary season next Tuesday in the Fieldhouse against a powerful University of Wyoming five.

With seven returning lettermen and some promising sophomores moved up from last year's classy freshman team to bolster this year's squad, the Shocks figure to be a contender for the Missouri Valley Conference laurels this year. Coach Ralph Miller commented, "We have enough experience, height, and depth to win a lot of games but we have our usual problems of ball control and defense to work on."

Miller in 7th Year

Miller, in his seventh season as head coach added, "We are still counting on our sophomores coming through, which is always a gamble. We'll know a lot more about our strength by the end of December and could possibly develop into a contender by the time conference play comes around."

Lettermen returning from last year's squad, which posted a 15-11 record include Don Woodworth

(6-4), Everett Wessel (6-9), Joe Stevens (6-0), Calvin Schwartzkopf (6-1), Al Schwartzkopf (6-3), Don Lock (6-2), and Ron Dwyer (6-2).

Wessel Holds Center

Wessel, big and aggressive, will hold down the pivot position and is expected to be the workhorse on the boards. Wessel will be backed up by sophomore Elbert Urban (6-7½), a versatile competitor capable of hooking with either hand.

Lettermen Don Woodworth and Al Schwartzkopf will start at the forward position with Al Tate (6-4), last year's freshman ace ready to fill in when needed. Woodworth was second in team scoring last year with a 12 point average.

WU Hosts Hurricanes

The University's football team will try to calm a big storm Saturday night at 8 p.m. when Tulsa's Golden Hurricanes blow into Veterans field for the final game of the season for both teams.

Coach Bobby Dodd and his Hurricane charges can ice second place in the Missouri Valley Conference with a win over the Shocks.

Al Schwartzkopf, a deadly long-range shooter pumped in 48.7 per cent of his shots last year and is a scrapper off the boards. Don Lock, a hustling floorman and sturdy rebounder will pair up with

Woodard Completes Season Shocker coach "Woody" Woodard will complete his first season at the Wheatshocker helm in what may be considered the rebuilding year for Wichita.

The Hurricanes whom sports scribes predicted would improve on their 7-2-1 record of last year lost their first five games of the season. After getting their attack rolling, the Tulsa squad came on with a rush and partly recaptured its pre-season expectations.

Tulsa will move into Shockerland

Chilcoat Gives Advice

Jeannine Chilcoat, who was tapped for Mortar Board last spring, participates actively in all the campus organizations of which she is a member.

As a freshman, Miss Chilcoat joined Wheaties, as well as belonging to A. W. S. and WRA. She pledged Delta Omega, which nationally became Alpha Chi Omega.

Her sophomore year she was elected to Kappa Pi, honorary art fraternity. At this time Miss Chilcoat had decided on making fashion design her major, and worked in Kappa Pi.

Jeannine Chilcoat

Parnassus Queen Candidate

Last year was also a busy one. She was elected president of Pan Hellenic, secretary of Kappa Pi, and treasurer of the junior class. She also competed for Parnassus Queen.

This year Miss Chilcoat is serving as president of Pan Hellenic and Kappa Pi. She is engaged to Keith Brown, and plans to be married sometime in the near future. She hopes to work as a fashion illustrator for a department store or newspaper, but has made no definite plans as yet, she said.

Gives Advice to Freshmen

Her duties as regards to Mortar

Board require her to assist the other girls in planning new forms of counseling and guidance for freshmen.

Miss Chilcoat's advice to hopeful Mortar Board aspirants is simply this: "Active participation in a few organizations is more important than 'belonging' to several. Freshmen should make a careful selection of the clubs they wish to attend and be active in those specific organizations. It isn't how many things you do that counts, but how well you perform individual duties."

TILT NEXT

Stevens to give the Shocks a smooth pair of guards.

Miller Optimistic

Miller is optimistic about the MVC race this year. "The Missouri Valley conference will have its finest overall strength and balance in 10 years," he said.

The Shocker mentor figures there won't be another conference any stronger from top to bottom. "Bradley has the inside track, with every key man back from last year's NIT championship team," Miller said, "but I believe that Cincinnati, St. Louis and Wichita have a chance and you can't count Tulsa and Houston out of the race either."

Valley Has Height

He added, "I can't remember seeing so much height on the rosters of Valley teams as this year. "I don't believe there will be an easy night for any team in the league."

"As usual, it will be the team that wins on the road who will take it," he added, "anyone escaping with only three league losses should win it out-right and four losses might get you a first place tie."

The night after the Wyoming tilt Texas Western will invade the Roundhouse, and on Dec. 7 the Shocks will journey to Buffalo, New York to meet St. Bonaventure University.

Gamma's Name Sally Jo Norton '57 Betty Coed

Sally Jo Norton, president of Gamma Phi Beta, was named Betty Coed, Saturday evening, by Alpha Gamma Gamma Fraternity. The annual dinner dance was held at the Prairie Club of the KFJ Building.

To qualify for Betty Coed, a senior woman must be a member of a social sorority, have a higher than average grade index, and date an Alpha Gamma Gamma Fraternity member.

Claudia White Winkler, last year's Betty Coed, crowned Miss Norton and presented her the Betty Coed trophy, with her name engraved on it.

Miss Norton is a member of the Student Forum Board, and an art education major.

Other candidates were Gail Girndt and Bonnie Kemp, of Gamma Phi Beta; Barbara Jo Parker, Delta Gamma; and Cindy Rader, Delta Delta Delta.

Annual Keg Battle Tomorrow

The annual "Battle for the Keg" football game between the Men of Webster and Alpha Gamma Gamma fraternities will be played tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in Old Shocker Stadium.

Colorful ceremonies are scheduled to take place at halftime. The exact nature of these ceremonies is always one of the big mysteries of the game.

This will be the twenty-ninth meeting of these two clubs. The Webster's have won 14 of the matches, the Gamma's nine and there have been five ties. The last nine consecutive games have been won by the Webster's. They are favored to win their tenth in a row.

WU HOSTS

with Ronnie Morris, the team's top rusher and second ranking ball carrier in the Valley, leading the attack.

Coach Woody Woodard will counter the Morris attack with Ted Dean, who does everything well for Wichita and is right behind Morris, ranking third in the MVC for leading ball carriers.

This gridiron hassle may turn into a passing game with two top hurlers throwing for both ball clubs. Shocker Dick Young, who has been alternating at quarterback all season and ranks second among Valley passers, will have tough competition in the air with Barney Davis, also a Valley pass leader, throwing for Tulsa.
