BROWSER'S BOOKLIST PREPARED—Mortar Board members, from left, Judy Rutledge, Sue Newsome, and Coleen Round, look over some of the 165 books included on a special browser's booklist of recommendations prepared for "Egghead Week." The list will be distributed today in the Heimple Room of Morrison Library and the Rotunda.

An entirely new innovation on the University campus, "Operation Egghead," begins its second day with distribution of a "Browsers' Book List" and the second issue of the University literary magazine, "Mikrokosmos."

Sponsored by Mortar Board, honorary senior women's organization, the week officially began last night when campus social organizations, plus the men's and women's dormitories, held "Firesides" at their respective houses in place of weekly meetings.

Faculty Members Speak
A member of the faculty was invited to speak to members of sororities, fraternities, ISA, and the dorms. Diane Copeland, Liberal Arts senior and Mortar Board secretary, was in charge of this phase to "Egghead Week."

Marcene Solomon, Fine Arts senior and general chairman of the program, said the book list was compiled by Mortar Board from books various University department heads had recommended as "outstanding layman's books." About 165 books are included on the list, Miss Solomon added. Sharon McNeil, Liberal Arts senior, is in charge of the "Browsers' Book List."

List To Be Distributed
The list will be distributed, free of charge, from 9 a.m. until noon today, Wednesday, and Thursday, in the Rotunda of Jardine Hall and in the Heimple Browsing Room of Morrison Library. The general chairman added that "Mikrokosmos" would also be distributed at the same time.

In conjunction with "Egghead Week," the library staff has prepared a display of the books included on the browser's list. The University book store, according to Miss Solomon, will order these books for students.

Classes Shortened for Lectures
Tomorrow classes will be shortened to allow students to attend the "Select-a-Lecture" phase of "Operation Egghead," scheduled for 9:30 a.m.

Radio Station Reports Loss of Equipment

Equipment valued at $1,700 was taken from the campus radio station Wednesday when thieves forced entrance by prying the doors from two doors. Production capabilities of the station were hampered by the loss, according to Mike Russell, station manager. The campus station, KUSW, is now operating with a minimum of equipment. Equipment taken included two recorders, an amplifier, a new microphone, and a remote amplifier used to broadcast athletic events.

Insurance Application Deadline Is Extended

The Student Health Service has extended the deadline for applications for the Student Accident and Health Insurance Plan until February 16. The six-month plan, which will be in effect until September, offers students complete accident and health coverage. The student is protected during all vacation periods and also while participating in all athletic events. Claims will be paid even if students are covered by other insurance. When a student requires medical services resulting from an accident, the insuring company will pay the actual cost incurred within 26 weeks from the date of the accident. $500 Coverage Up to $500 may be received for an accident. This includes the cost of medical and surgical treatment by a physician, hospital confinement, nurse's services, miscellaneous hospital expenses, drugs, medicines, ambulance expense, and dental treatment made necessary by injury to the natural teeth. When an insured student re-

Police May Join Search For Money

There is a strong possibility that Wichita Police will enter the investigation of the mysterious disappearance of $2,000 from University funds. University officials said Saturday that entrance of the local police into the case depends upon the outcome of an accountant's report expected to be received sometime Monday. However, the possibility of an error as the cause of the shortage has virtually been eliminated, they indicated. The cash discrepancy was discovered in a recent audit of funds. Glen Gardner, who served as director of finance until he became director of development last fall, requested the cash audit Dec. 15, preparatory to turning over finance office responsibilities to Ralph M. Wulz, who became treasurer-comptroller. President Harry F. Corbin said that the cash loss is fully covered by bonding insurance. The insurance firm was notified promptly of the disappearance when it was discovered by the auditors. A thorough investigation is being conducted by a bonding company investigator and the University. The investigation is scheduled to continue until the cause of the discrepancy is determined.

CAC Books Jazz Group

An on-campus jazz concert sponsored by the Campus Activities Center will feature English jazz musician, Cris Barber. Called England's answer to Louis Armstrong, Barber and his group are touring the United States while Woody Herman and his band perform in England. Barber's recent recording, "Petite Fleur," is presently among the top records on the hit parade. The concert will be held in the Commons Auditorium at 8 p.m., Feb. 27, according to Carole Pierce, CAC board member. Tickets will be available in the near future.

Ticket Sale For KC Trip Ends Today

Today is the final day that reservations may be made for the Campus Activities Center sponsored trip to Kansas City, Mo., to see the Broadway hit, "The Music Man." Reservations may be made in the CAC office in the Commons. A deposit of $3 is required. "The Music Man" stars Forrest Tucker and was written by Meredith Wilson. It was hailed by the New Yorker magazine as "an agreeable excursion into rural Iowa as it was 45 years ago."

Mag Sale Opens Today

Mikrokosmos, the annual student literary publication, will go on sale today. Distribution points will be in the Rotunda of Jardine Hall and in the Heimple Room of Morrison Library, from 9 a.m. to noon. A special feature of this year's Mikrokosmos, will be the presentation of $5 awards for the best poetry and prose selections in the issue. Staff members of the English Department will serve as judges. A token fee of 25 cents will be charged this year, on a trial basis, to support the cost of production.

Justice Meted Out In Two Cases Friday

The Student-Faculty Court, which handed down two verdicts Friday, proved that it exists in reality as well as in the SGA constitution.

Three cases appeared on the docket Wednesday. One was dismissed because it failed to come under the jurisdiction of the court. The first case involved the misuse of student identification cards. One student allegedly let another student use his ID card to gain admission to a basketball game. Both were full time students and possessed ID cards. However, one student had misplaced his and borrowed the other.

Both students were found guilty and were forced to relinquish their ID cards for a period of 25 days. The court also recommended that the appropriate University officials consider placing on the ID cards the regulation on non-transferability.

The second case, in which the Cheerleaders were charged with holding a dance on campus without chaperons, was more involved because there was some doubt as to whether the Cheerleaders were authorized to hold such a function. The group was found guilty and was ordered by the court to turn over to the treasurer of SGA half of the amount raised, which was originally intended for the purchase of sweaters. The court also ordered that the Pep Coordinator be sent a letter of reprimand for loose control of the Pep Council. The Cheerleaders come under the jurisdiction of Pep Council.

CAC Books Jazz Group

Mary Joan Hiner, head Cheerleader, said she feels the decision was fair and the Cheerleaders would abide by the decision of the court. She explained that they did not clear enough money from the dance to pay for the sweaters and the balance was paid by each Cheerleader. She said the amount they were required by the court to pay would also be a personal expense to each Cheerleader. Pep Coordinator Alan Johnston said that he also felt that the decision of the court was fair because they passed judgment only on the charges that were filed. Johnston explained that the dance, from which the court hearing arose, came as the result of a misunderstanding between Pep Council and the Cheerleaders. The cases heard before the first session of the court are important not only because they have no precedents and will serve as a basis for future decision in similar cases, but it also serves as an intermediary between the student body and the administration in the interpretation and formulation of administrative policy.

CANCER RESEARCH—Dr. Val Woodward, head of the biology department, was recently awarded two cancer research grants totaling $38,915. The three-year program, providing $12,305 each year, was established by the National Institutes of Health, Cancer Section. A $2,000 grant of the American Cancer Society to Dr. Woodward will help buy additional equipment for the experimental work in the area of biochemical genetics.

Editorials . . .

Sunflower Policy

With the first issue for the semester of the college newspaper comes the traditional editorial on staff policy. We could probably summarize the whole thing with, "Under new management, but we're still basically the same."

However, the staff has changed. So, some changes will be made in the paper.

This semester the Sunflower has an experienced editorial staff. Among them, we can list an ex-editor. We each have our own ideas on what a student newspaper should be, and, fortunately, we're in a position where we can convey these ideas.

With a shortage of reporters and the usual space limitations, we have no desire to be simply a large publicity release.

Therefore, and pay special attention publicity chairmen, we will run a calendar of the meetings and campus events for the following week each Friday. If you desire to have your club meeting publicized, it will be necessary for you to have the information in to the news editor by 3 p.m. of the Tuesday prior to publication.

Another change is—all University students are welcome to write feature stories which would be of interest to the campus. You need simply to turn them in to the Sunflower office and we'll read them to decide which are worthy or fit for publication.

In keeping with our policy of "Let's Name 100 Queens each year," we will sponsor the annual Press Queen contest in the spring.

But we've added another contest too.

A "Favorite Prof of the Week" contest has been planned. After several weeks, we will select the "Favorite Prof on the Campus." So pay more attention in class to that stale lecturer!

You may see one of our staff sitting quietly in corners at various meetings on the campus—but don't be frightened. We simply are attempting to get the news some students make for the other students to read.

With "Letters to the Editor" we hope to keep the student body informed as to what's happening and where. These letters are more than welcomed at any time and on any phase of campus life. Letters must be signed, but we will withhold the writer's name for good reason. We also reserve the right to delete and edit what we may receive.

You may find in this corner editorials on campus affairs or national holidays. We may lash away, we may playfully "poke fun," and we may congratulate.

But, all in all, the Sunflower staff hopes to publish a paper for you to read. If you don't like our comments, or the way we treat a news story, your letter will be appreciated.

Rude's Ramblings

By DON RUDE
Sunflower News Editor

The final act of "The Tip-Off Caper," a modern revision of the old Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "Trial by Jury," was played on campus last week.

The first act, subtitled "sweaters" was played in a Pep Council meeting some time ago. The second act, subtitled "royalty" was set in Henrion Gymnasium in January.

The third act, that's the riot act, was staged in Student-Faculty Court Wednesday. Principal players were the Shocker Cheerleaders.

Mrs. Josephine Fugate, dean of students, brought charges against the cheerleaders for failing to have registered chaperones at the recent "Tip-Off" dance.

According to the cheerleaders, no one "tipped off," (if you'll excuse the expression,) the dance chairman, Mary Cloutier, that chaperones had to be registered with student services.

That the "tip-off" affair ended up in student court is a fitting ending to one of the most disorganized activities even to unfold on campus.

It began, you'll recall, when the cheerleaders decided school pep was poor because the students just couldn't stand the uniforms the cheerleaders were wearing. They "tipped off" the Student Government Assn. and the Pep Council about the uniform apathy, but money for new uniforms was not granted.

Being thinking students, the cheerleaders did what all thinking students do when in need of funds. Rob a bank? Have a rummage sale? Of course not. They sponsored a queen contest, under the pretext of having a dance, and charged Greeks 50 cents a ballot. (We wonder if this is what you call a free election.) And Greeks are always anxious to purchase another crown.

There was a considerable amount of confusion about the dance from its onset. Some "untipped-off" students even expressed the opinion that it was being sponsored by a cigarette company to pick a "flip top" king and queen.

Something happened. The dance was not an overwhelming success. Hundreds of thousands of students did not batter down the doors in Henrion Gymnasium to purchase ballots. In fact, there was not enough money left to purchase the sweaters after dance expenses were paid, according to Mary Joan Hiner, head Cheerleader.

After the court hearing, the Cheerleaders were fined half the profits of the dance. Where the money will come is a moot question. Miss Hiner points out the Cheerleaders are not an organized group and have no standing treasury.

We'd like to "tip-off" the Cheerleaders about a possible solution to this financial quandry.

Why not hold another dance, and elect another king and queen. (There are actually some sorority girls who have never been queen of anything.) Funds from the dance could be used to pay the fine.

We want to caution the Cheerleaders on one point. If our suggestion is followed, make sure everyone is "tipped-off."

Women's Logopedics Group To Conduct Annual Tour

The Women's Advisory Council of the Institute of Logopedics will host their annual inter-campus coffee from 7:30 p.m. until 9 p.m., Feb. 9.

Sigma Alpha Eta, honorary logopedics fraternity, will assist the Advisory Council by conducting tours through the Institute in the evening, according to Suzanne Evans, president of the student group.

Designed primarily to acquaint University students with the work and facilities of the Institute, the Advisory Council thus gives the student an opportunity to find out more about the Institute, Miss Evans said. The program will include demonstrations with the children by the Institute staff, the tour, followed by coffee in the cafeteria of the Institute.

Miss Evans said that invitations have been issued to the campus social groups and the dormitories, but added that any interested student or faculty member is invited to attend.

No 'Dumb Blondes'

Gay Tresses Match Dresses

There need be no such thing today as a "dumb blonde," for she can be fashionably smart wearing colored tresses to suit her whims.

If she uses her head, a femme fatale may sport such delicious colors as Golden Apricot, Sparkling Sherry, Champagne Beige, and Fire Silver to top off matching outfits. With the atomic age has come a trend toward tinted hair that is enough to make the male population do a double take.

Gone are the days when milady dyed her locks in the seclusion of her boudoir and kept the whole operation strictly on the hush-hush.

But beauticians warn prospective rainbow-tressed gals that if the hair is allergic to the particular type of dye used, it may begin to break off at the ends or turn out with various shades of the desired color.

The up-keep on these top-knotch dints may be overwhelming and may discourage any "prospective." A touch-up job is needed every four weeks costing from $6 to $72 per week.

If a color-mad femme prefers not to take the big and costly step of dyeing her own hair, here is a "tip of the wig." Rainbow-hued wigs are made in chic hair styles that would put George Washington to shame. These wigs cost about $50 and are comparatively less expensive than dyed hair considering there is no up-keep on them. The "well-fixed" gal can have several of these colored wigs and readily change colors from day to day.

At any rate the up-to-the-gal "with all the dates" will frame her face with hair colored in artist-palette hues.

Any Soc News?

If any person or organization has news that is of value to the campus they should bring it to the society desk in the Sunflower newsroom, Communications Bldg., no later than the Friday noon preceding publication.

The news must be signed and should include where the person could be reached if necessary.

It is a standing Sunflower policy not to print date lists because of space limitation.

Deanna Walker passed chocolates to announce her engagement to Tommy Vanderhoover from K. U.

Art Show, Piano Concert To Be Presented in FAC

The opening of a one-man art show and a duo-piano concert will highlight a program to be held in the Fine Arts Center tonight.

David E. Bernard, associate professor of art, will present a retrospective exhibition of his painting, graphics, and sculpture in the Foyer Gallery from 7 to 10 p.m. This will be Professor Bernard's first one-man show in Wichita, and will display representative work of his past 10 year's teaching and experience in Kansas.

He has previously exhibited in New York City, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, the Northwestern Printmaker's Show of Seattle, and the National Exhibition of Prints of the Library of Congress.

He is represented in the permanent collections of the Mid-American Annual Collection in Kansas City, the Joslin Museum of Omaha, the Hall Collection of the University of Nebraska, and the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C.

Gordon B. Terwilliger and Wallace M. Dunn, respective heads of the piano and organ departments of the School of Music, will present a duo-piano concert in the Concert Hall of FAC at 8 p.m.

Played Throughout Midwest

Dr. Terwilliger and Mr. Dunn have performed together for the past seven years, and have presented concerts in Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Colorado, Illinois, and throughout the Mid-west.

All periods will be represented by their selections, from early to contemporary. Their program will also feature the first Wichita performance of Poulenc's "Embarquement pour Cythere," and an especially adapted version of Bach's "Trio Sonata No. 5, in C Major."

Sonata Transcribed to Piano

The latter number was recently transcribed from organ to piano by Victor Babin, of the piano duo, Vransky-Babin.

The exhibit will open at 7 p.m. and continue throughout the evening. It will remain in the gallery through Feb. 20. The concert will begin at 8 p.m. and be followed by a coffee hour in the Foyer. Members of Kappa Pi, national art honorary, will serve the refreshments. Admission is free.

AKP Seeks Applicants For Directory

Applications are now being taken from graduating Business Administration seniors, or business majors in Liberal Arts, who wish to have their names listed in Alpha Kappa Phi's directory of business graduates.

Larry Gaston, publicity chairman for the professional business fraternity, said that the students must be graduating in May or August of 1959, or January, 1960. The cost is $4 per student.

The booklet, known as the "Directory of Graduates of the College of Business Administration and Industry," lists information and pictures of all the graduating business seniors. The directory is sent to 1,200 businessmen in Wichita and Kansas, as well as those in surrounding states.

Application blanks are available in the office of Fran Jabara, Rm. 204s, Neff Hall. These applications will be accepted until Feb. 13.

Deadlines Met By Parnassus

Three of the five Parnassus deadlines have been met and sections sent to the publishers.

These include classes, faculty and administration, plus portions of the fine arts, campus activities, and sports sections.

The fourth deadline will include Greek organizations, and more of the Fine Arts section. The last deadline will go to the publishers in March.

The Parnassus Queen will be chosen in the middle of February by the Parnassus staff.

A different and unusual cover for the yearbook has been chosen, according to Ed Thompson, editor. There has never been one of this color and type. It will be "simple and dignified," he said. Parnassus distribution is planned for May 15.
