May Queen Hopefuls Campus Discrimination Investigation Proposed

Six senior women are vying for the title of 1962 May Queen. Students will select one of the six at an election from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. today.

Students can vote in any of three voting places, according to election commissioner, Bob Hunt. There will be voting booths in the FAC, CAC, and Neff Hall.

Coeds vying for the title and their sponsoring organizations are, Joyce Cole, Gamma Phi Beta; Anne Emrich, Alpha Chi Omega; Marilyn Martin, Grace Wilkie Hall; Shirley Reed, Delta Gamma; Joan Stichen, Delta Delta Delta; and Milly Wolcott, Alpha Phi.

Miss Emrich is corresponding secretary for her sorority Alpha Chi Omega, a member of AWS, SNEA, YWCA, and WRA.

KMUW Radio Returns With 'New Power'

After being off the air for over a month, the University's non-commercial, educational radio station KMUW-FM began broadcasting again Monday.

Operating on the assigned educational frequency of 89.1 megacycles, the station has resumed broadcasting with an output power 25 times as great as it had in past years.

In addition to presenting high fidelity music from 4 p.m. till midnight, in the future KMUW will attempt to broadcast live music concerts originating on the University campus and all home sporting events.

A special feature of KMUW's new look will be the regular programming of campus groups such as folk singers, jazz combos, vocalists, and comedy acts.

Recently five students representing the University's radio-TV division traveled to the Oklahoma University campus and brought back eight awards for performance in various phases of television and radio work.

Mike Sheets, Liberal Arts sophomore, won first place honors for radio announcing, Jim Farrington, Engineering freshman, Charles Frodsham, Liberal Arts freshman, and Bob Sallee, Liberal Arts junior all won awards of merit in either announcing or writing.

Senior Orders Due

Today is the last day for placing orders for Senior announcements. A booth is set up in the Main Hall of the CAC for receiving orders from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., according to Gil Graham, senior class president.

Chi Omega, a member of AWS, SNEA, YWCA, and WRA.

Miss Martin, sponsored by Grace Wilkie Hall, is the senior representative to MENC, and a member of the University Singers.

Miss Reed, sponsored by Delta Gamma, is a member of Mortar Board, YWCA vice president, president of the honorary political science organization, and president of Student Forum Board.

Miss Cole, president of her sorority Gamma Phi Beta, is a member of Mortar Board, YWCA, and AWS Council.

Miss Stichen, Delta Delta Delta, is recording secretary for Panhellenic Council, commander of Army Blues, and member of Newman Club and WRA.

Miss Wolcott, Alpha Phi, is editor of Mortar Board, past treasurer of the Senior class, an officer of Mu Phi Epsilon, honorary music organization, and past pep council coordinator.

The selected coed will reign over the Hippodrome festivities.

Election Filing Begins Today

Filing for the SGA election will begin today and last through March 19 according to Bob Hunt, election commissioner.

Anyone that has a 2.25 or better grade average is eligible to file for congressman. Those filing for officers must be either a junior or senior by the beginning of the next fall term and have a 2.5 or better grade average.

Any party that wishes to appear on the ballot must fill out a formal application.

Filing forms may be picked up at the SGA office from 1 to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Cesar Appearing Here Sunday With Wichita Symphony

James Cesar, head of the University's violin department, will be the featured soloist at the Wichita Symphony concert at 3 p.m. this Sunday and 8:30 p.m. Monday in the East High auditorium.

The Symphony will present Brahms' "Academic Festival Overture, Op. 80" and "Symphony No. 5" by Schostakovich. Mozart's "Concerto No. 4 in D Major" will feature the guest violinist.

Students may obtain free tickets by presenting their ID cards at the CAC information booth or at the School of Music Office.

"Is the SGA going to perform or is it a rubber stamp?" This question was raised during the hour long discussion emanating from the student government members Tuesday night.

The query arose after Merle Gates, Liberal Arts representative, proposed that the Fact Finding and Investigating Committee investigate discriminatory practices on campus concerning race, creed, religion, and national origin.

Directly related to this proposal was the request for all organizations on campus to turn in a copy of their constitution to the SGA. Gates stated that the aims and purposes of the groups, especially the Greeks, should be examined for discriminatory clauses.

Discrimination Practiced
He further charged that there is discrimination practiced on this campus. "If we can prove empirically and with evidence that there is discrimination, I feel the University should no longer recognize the offending groups," Gates added.

Check System Questioned
Dell Godbold, proportional representative, posed the question that if the SGA can't check on the organizations, what has the administration set up to do this?"

College Prof, Poetry Editor Scheduled for Student Forum

The final two speakers on the University of Wichita Student Forum series this spring promise to be the center of considerable interest.

Dr. Frederick L. Schuman, a professor of government at Williams College, has been called a Soviet apologist because of his public record of affiliation with organizations listed as subversive by the Attorney General of the United States, The Subversive Activities Control Board and the Committees of U.S. House of Representatives and Senate.

Labeled As Subversive
According to public documentary records, he has served as a speaker or writer for more than a dozen organizations classed by officials of the government agencies as subversive. He will speak in April on "The Challenge of Totalitarianism."

John Ciardi, poetry editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, will speak March 22 on poetry. He is a poet of national repute. According to public records, Ciardi, in 1949, was a speaker at a testimonial dinner for Gerhard Eisler and other Communist leaders. Eisler fled the U.S. and is now minister of information for the East Germany Communist government.

Hits Congressional Investigations
Ciardi has assumed a position of objecting to congressional investigations of subversive activities, indicated by the listing of his name on the 1957 letterhead of the "Emergency Civil Liberties Committee," which has the avowed objective of abolishing such communist investigations.

In 1950, according to records, Ciardi signed a statement in behalf of unions expelled from the CIO, because of alleged Communist control.

University officials expressed the hope than an "airing of the beliefs and activities of these two speakers will enable our audience to judge the validity of statements they may make."

"Although Ciardi is being brought as a poet and not a politician, it is the university's role to provide an atmosphere of discussion and inquiry, but it is also a university's duty to provide background information which may be important to a full understanding of such discussion and inquiry."

WU Debaters Gain Trophy At Winfield

University debaters won four first-places last weekend in capturing the Sweepstakes trophy in the 30th annual Forensic Tournament at St. Johns College of Winfield.

The debaters won the trophy with a point total of 126, nosing out Hutchinson Junior College, the defending champion, who had 120 points.

The four firsts were garnered by Glenda Gray, Meredithann Dougherty, Larry Bradshaw, and Dennis Smith.

Dennis Smith captured a first in book review, a second in extemporaneous speaking, and a third in original oratory.

Larry Bradshaw took first in Bible reading and Glenda Gray placed first in oratorical declamation. Miss Gray reached the finals of extemporaneous speaking, but did not place.

Poetry reading was also won by a University debater, Meredithann Dougherty. In addition she placed third in oratorical declamation, and reached the finals of book review.

In the team debate event all three of the University teams entered reached the quarterfinals before being eliminated. They compiled a collective record of eleven wins and four losses.

The St. Johns tournament was attended by over 200 students from 21 schools and five different states, according to Bob Patton, assistant debate coach.

Today and tomorrow three University debate teams are entered in the Freshmen-Sophomore Debate Tournament at Bethel College in Newton.

Duo-Playbill in 'Pit' Tonight At 8

A satire on the English language and a Negro folk comedy are being presented on a duo-playbill by Experimental Theatre in the "Pit" theatre of the Commons at 8 p.m. tonight and tomorrow.

Eugene Ionesco's "The Bald Soprano" satirizes two facets: the middle class and the lack of communication in the English language, according to Marilee Long, director.

"This play is very unconventional and Ionesco has not been too popular with the public because of it. For instance, this play does not have a rising and falling action leading into a climax but rather a constant static action. Ionesco feels that this static action with no height or depth of emotion is representative of the middle class itself," said Miss Long.

"The Bald Soprano" cast includes Mr. Smith played by Ralph Frakes, Liberal Arts sophomore; Mrs. Smith by Dalene Barry, Liberal Arts sophomore.

'Out of Bounds' - No!

Last semester the SGA Organizations Committee, in an attempt to bring their list up to date, requested all organizations on campus to turn in a copy of their constitution, along with other information, to the SGA.

For approximately six months this request was ignored or forgotten by several organizations. Yet, no controversy or dissension was brought to the surface.

Suddenly, when an SGA member requested an investigation of campus discriminatory practices, the former request became unconstitutional. SGA was accused of being "out of bounds."

The fusing of these two events have erupted into two basic questions. (1) Does the SGA have the power to enforce a constitution that was approved by the administrative council and sanctioned by the student body? (2) Does the University ideally oppose discrimination, yet refuse to recognize that it may exist in University organizations?

The power of the SGA concerning campus organizations is stated in Article 1, Section 4, b and c of their constitution. This was approved in 1958 by the University Administration Council and it was ratified by the WU student body. An "advisory opinion" on its validity is now being discussed by the Student Court judges.

Yet, if the "advisory opinion" backs up the power of the SGA, will action result? The group has not been considered a "student force" this year, but then they have avoided or defeated major issues of controversy.

The discrimination inference is not in the realm of "ordinary" SGA business. This is a national as well as a local problem, and the SGA should have no choice but to take a stand against discrimination... whether in Greek organizations, faculty appointments, or campus housing.

Ideally we feel the University is against such practices. But we also feel that if the SGA is denied the power to investigate discrimination, the SGA will be failing as an organization representing and acting as spokesman for the student body.

The Fact Finding Committee will be investigating discriminatory practices at the University. If the group finds conclusive or documented evidence, the SGA should bring it to the attention of the administration and it should be its moral obligation to check on and seek a solution to the situation.

Problems of discrimination will not be entirely—or perhaps even noticeably—removed from this campus by issuing a statement against it. But, this is a big step forward.

In closing we would like to ask why certain organizations are so afraid of turning in their constitutions to the University and the SGA?

Dear Mother:

Well, you would be proud of your son. Wichita University is nothing like what you said it would be. I am awfully glad that I came off the farm. I think that I am learning things that I would have never learned before. For instance, we had a thing here called "Egghead Week" which was a lot of fun. We all got out of classes to go hear the speakers so it was too crowded to get a cup of coffee. I went to hear a history professor so I didn't get to hear the English professor.

It seems like this professor is some kind of atheist or something. I didn't understand what he talked about (since I didn't hear it) but a lot of people have been writing in who didn't hear it either, so I thought you might like to hear about it too.

There is some lady in Junction City who you ought to meet. She doesn't think that college students should be corrupted. She thinks that the teachers who tell students things that disagree with what their parents have told them are harmful.

I don't know what to say. I used to think that everything that you said was true, but then I started learning that you don't know everything. I guess that she just wants her children to go to a school that agrees with what she thinks.

I like to sit in class and try to figure out what my classmates are thinking (if they are) and I have decided that if the things they think and the things they do are representative of the "ideals" that their parents have taught them, we all deserve to be blown up.

But back to the professor. You know that I sometimes wanted to be a teacher when I grew up. Well, I don't think that I do now. I don't think that I could ever want to make so many people that mad. Oh well.

There are some funny things going on at the Sunflower. One funny man, Art Lawson, is trying to get some kind of magazine up but no one will start giving him material. There is another writer on the paper who also thinks he would like to be funny, but he is only funny when he tries to be serious.

May Queen election is this week and I think that I'll vote for the prettiest one. All us football players are going to vote for one girl that we all like, but I don't know who it is.

Most of my classes is very hard.

I study a whole lot, and in my English theme I have to write "Why I am in College." Since Mrs. Gordon says that parents try to teach their children things that the school tears down, why don't you write me a list of reasons why I am in college.

Well, I have to close now. One of the new boys who is on scholarship is going to see how many beers he can drink in an hour. It will be fun. I can't stay out too late becauz I want to be in good shape for practice.

Oh, we had a history test Friday. You lied. Queen Elizabeth was not a virgin. (I think that's what he said.)

Spotlight on Campus

Discrimination Policies

A spark of controversy was ignited Tuesday night at the SGA meeting involving discrimination practices on the University campus and the authority of student government to take action against said practices.

In an attempt to define and clarify the issues, the Sunflower interviewed Dr. George Comstock, director of counseling; Josephine Fugate, dean of women and director of student personnel services; and Merle Gates, Liberal Arts representative who introduced the investigation proposal.

Gates, proposing the investigation of discriminatory practices on campus, suggested that the SGA could reasonably prove that certain organizations, specifically the Greeks, discriminated with respect to race, religion, creed, and national origin.

He said, "These groups, as private organizations, have a right to discriminate against whomever they choose, but I am assuming the University is pursuing a policy of non-discrimination.

"If this is true, then the University is schizophrenic in condoning these practices in extra-curricular organizations which it recognizes.

"I am personally convinced that the administration, the student body, and the Greeks themselves are aware of the practices of discrimination, but for some reason no one is dealing with these problems."

Dr. Comstock, agreeing with Gates, said that the University is against discriminatory practices. He cited an example to substantiate this fact.

But he went on to say that he felt the SGA was asking bigger questions than they had the right or the authority to ask.

In further comment about the SGA authority, Comstock said, "To me there are some doubts about the clearness of the SGA constitution. I don't know that the constitution as it is worded, does really empower the SGA to demand the constitutions of Greek organizations."

"I think the Greeks have some justification in thinking they were established on this campus and had established their 'clean bill of health.'"

Dean Fugate, agreeing with Dr. Comstock, said; "When the nationals came on campus, we had written assurance that they weren't discriminating and frankly, we are satisfied they were telling us the truth."

"We haven't asked for anything (meaning constitutions and/or by-laws) and been flatly refused. We didn't pursue it because it was not necessary. I am not sure we could force them (to submit national constitutions) if they do refuse."

When questioned about the power of SGA to ask for the constitutions, she said, "I believe they have the power to ask, but to follow through in case it's denied.... I doubt it. They should think seriously of the alternatives before they get involved."

In closing Dean Fugate said, "You can not legislate a Christian attitude, it comes from inside the individual."

The Readers Speak

Reader Advocates Religious Absolutes

To The Editor:

Being one who accepts absolutes in religion as well as in other fields, I should like to offer several suggestions.

First: Not considering man to be God, I do not believe in absolutes in the area of human knowledge and experience.

Second: When a single apple falls off a tree against gravity, or when we discover a means to change the freezing point of water under standard conditions, I shall not believe in absolutes in reality itself.

Third: For man to impose his limited and truly relativistic knowledge upon a reality whose constants are the bases of our empirical sciences is to me an act of the greatest presumption.

It seems reasonable to accept that all being is caused rather than to accept that all being is uncaused. The choice is whether an uncaused first being preceded and caused all other being, or whether the uncaused being is substantially identified with all being.

For those who believe in and who want to retain personal existence and responsibility, the belief in a distinct creative God is a means to this end.

For those who are impatient in their desires and efforts to shed their own personal existence and responsibility for whatever reasons in religion, politics, etc., the denial of a God in favor of a cosmic being, evolving with the rest of its parts is a means to this end.

But an honest choice can only be made after an honest evaluation of the pertinent alternatives. Absolute atheism is, in my judgement, a contradiction in terms. Do we have a choice of relativistic atheism?

Fisher, Hartshorn Win Top Trophies in Bowling Tourney

Bruce Fischer, sophomore and Lena Hartshorn, junior, won the Marlboro handicap bowling tournament. The annual event is held each year on the CAC bowling lanes.

Fischer barely edged out Del Daniels for the championship, scoring 1,835 pins in nine games to 1,831 pins in nine games.

Miss Hartshorn compiled a total of 1,691 total pins for her title. Her nearest competitor was Betty Mayes who rolled for a total of 1,593 pins.

Forty-two persons entered this year's tournament; an increase over last year's entries. This tourney determines the school champion for both men and women.

During the tournament, which ran the last three weeks in February, a total of 50,000 pins were knocked down.

Marlboro cigarettes furnished the prizes awards to the winners. Each winner received two trophies, one he can keep and another which rotates with each winner of the tournament.

Ralph LaFever, director of recreation in the CAC, said: "this is the best tournament we ever had and I would like to give special thanks to Graig Archer for his help in this year's tournament."

The third annual tournament will be held next year during February and March, he added.

On Campus with Max Shulman

UNITED WE STAND

The entire academic world is agog over the success of the Associated Colleges Plan—ACP, for short. I mean, you go to any campus in the country these days and you will see students and faculty dancing on the green, blowing penny whistles, grabbing each other by the elbows and yelling, "About that ACP, Charley—like wow!"

And who can blame them? The ACP is a plan not only simply brilliant, but also brilliantly simple. All it is, is a loose regional federation of small colleges. Let's say, for example, that in a given region we have a group of small colleges, each with its own academic specialty. Small College No. 1, let's say, has a fine language department; Small College No. 2, let's say, has a fine science department; No. 3 has a fine music department; etc., etc.

Well sir, under the ACP these various colleges federate. A student in any one of the colleges can take courses in the specialty of any of the other colleges and—here's the beauty part!—he will receive credit for the course at his home college. Thus he enjoys all the advantages of a big university without losing the comfy coziness of a small college!

Well sir, you can see what a good idea the ACP is. I respectfully submit, however, that just because a thing is good is no reason not to try to make it better. Like, for instance, Marlboro Cigarettes. Marlboros were good from the very beginning, and people found out quickly and sales zoomed. But did the makers of Marlboro say, "Okay, we've got it made. Let's relax"? Well sir, if that's what you think, you don't know the makers! They did not relax. They took their good Marlboros and kept improving them. They improved the filter, improved the blend, improved the pack. They researched and developed tirelessly, until today-Marlboro is just about the most admirable cigarette you can put a match to. There are, in fact, some people who find Marlboros so admirable they can't bear to put a match to them. They just sit with a single Marlboro in hand and admire it for ten, twelve years on end. The makers of Marlboro are of course deeply touched by this—except for E. Rennie Sigafos, the sales manager.

But I digress. The ACP, I say, is good but it can be better. Why should the plan be confined to small colleges? Why should it be confined to a limited region? Why not include all colleges and universities, big and small, wherever they are?

Let's start such a federation. Let's call it the "Bigger Associated Colleges To Encourage Richer Intellectual Activity"—BACTERIA, for short!

There are still a few bugs in BACTERIA

What a bright new world BACTERIA opens up. Take, for example, a typical college student—Hunrath Sigafos (son, incidentally, of the Marlboro sales manager). Hunrath, a bright lad, is currently majoring in burley at the University of Kentucky. Under the BACTERIA plan, Hunrath could stay at Kentucky, where he has made many friends, but at the same time broaden his vistas by taking a course in constitutional law at Harvard, a course in physics at Caltech, a course in frostbite at Minnesota and a course in poi at Hawaii!

I admit there are still a few bugs in BACTERIA. How, for instance, could Hunrath attend a 9 o'clock class at Harvard, a 10 o'clock class at Hawaii, an 11 o'clock class at Minnesota, and still keep his lunch date at Kentucky? It would be idle to deny that this is a tricky problem, but I have no doubt American ingenuity will carry the day. Always remember how they laughed at Edison and Fulton—and particularly at Walter Clavicle who invented the collarbone.

© 1962 Max Shulman

Three cheers for American ingenuity, which gave us the ACP, the collarbone and MGM... that's the Mighty Good Makin's you get in Marlboro, the filter cigarette with the un-filtered taste. Settle back and enjoy one. You get a lot to like.

At the risk of bringing down the wrath of the athletic department upon us may we say that the Shockers played junior high-type basketball in their final home outing of the season.

This year's team has played well enough at times to beat any team in the nation and we do mean any team. Unfortunately, they have also had nights when they played like a bunch of individuals who were only there to get through a ball game and get back to something more to their liking.

Even though the team's consistency for playing a fine ball game was definitely lacking, it must be said that this is probably the finest team in the school's history. Why, then, did they play so badly in so many games?

It appears that somewhere, something was lacking. We will not conjecture as to what the trouble was or with whom the fault lies. This is the concern of Coach Ralph Miller and the team members.

However, the several thousand fans who lent their support to the Shocker basketball program this year would be most interested in some sort of explanation. With this thought in mind, we would invite any team member or Coach Ralph Miller to use this column to explain the situation to us.

We had a very short chat with both Ted Dean and Roland Lakes a few nights ago. Like any non-playing sports enthusiast we had the stock questions about the reaction to the professional football game. Lakes, who is playing with the San Francisco Forty-niners, said that he enjoyed playing a great deal.

Dean, star fullback-halfback for the Philadelphia Eagles, was also happy with his lot in pro football. He is in hopes that the Eagles will set him in a permanent position.

Lakes and Dean have played against each other only once. That was in the all-star game last year. They are both looking for another chance to oppose each other. "I hope to get a better crack at him (Lakes) next time out" quipped Dean.

Construction Assistance Needed for 'Interfest'

"Work sessions on the International Festival 1962 will begin this weekend in the Motor Equipment Building at 218 W. Douglas," according to Woody Thompson, SGA president. "Construction on the various countries' booths will require only a few hours time either Saturday or Sunday if we have plenty of people willing to help in this project," said Thompson.

This year Friends University is also joining in the festival and Sacred Heart Academy will participate again. Since this University is in charge of the American booth, the art exhibit and the variety show, "I hope to see a large group of university students participating," Thompson commented.

Anyone wishing to help with booth construction should leave their name in Marshall Williams' office in the CAC. Also anyone with access to traditional, classic art pieces should contact Sara Jane Pearman at Ext. 370.

Dave Davidson, chairman of the variety show, indicated that there

CAMPUS DISCRIMINATION

It reads: "Extend recognition to groups of students seeking the privileges of an official student organization (hereafter referred to as organizations); establish criteria and conduct a review for the granting and removal of said recognition."

Constitution Validity?
Although President Woody Thompson explained that the administration council approved the SGA constitution, there was still dissension concerning its validity. It was moved by Sharon Richardson, SGA secretary, to refer the question to the Student Court judges for an "advisory opinion" on Section 4, b and c, and to accept their opinion. This motion passed 12 to 6.

The court's opinion should be made public at the next meeting on March 20, according to Thompson.

DUO-PLAYBILL

Arts freshman; Mr. Martin by Bob Salee, Liberal Arts senior; Mary, the maid, by Delanie Morris, Liberal Arts sophomore, and the fire chief by Tom Plemones, Liberal Arts senior.

Second on the playbill is a Negro folk comedy by Paul Green, a well-known regional dramatist, according to director Jean Ann Stevens.

"This is a wistful and tender story of a young 'No 'Count Boy' who almost talks Pheelie, the girl, into leaving her fiance with tales of his wonderful adventures. But the boy's mother steps in and comically disproves his adventurous yarns," commented Miss Stevens. "The No 'Count Boy" will be played by Sylvester Tomlin, music education sophomore. Liberal Arts sophomore, Alfred Jones has the part of Enos. Pheelie is portrayed by Katherine Stewart, Continuing Education. And Connie McAlpine speech sophomore, has the role of the boy's mother.

Student admission will be 50 cents and general public is 75 cents.

UT Casts Shaw's 'Arms and the Man'

University Theatre's final production for this season, George B. Shaw's "Arms and the Man," has been cast and rehearsals are now underway according to director Dick Welsbacher.

Jacque Blaine, speech sophomore, has been cast in the role of Raina, the daughter of a major in the Bulgarian army. Catherine, Raina's mother, will be portrayed by Marilee Long, speech senior. James Schaper, University College freshman, will be seen in the role of the father, Major Petkoff, who proves to be a rather ineffectual administrative officer said Welsbacher.

Phyllis Barnum, speech junior, has the part of Louka, the family maid, and Dennis Miller, speech sophomore, will play opposite her as Nicola, the family manservant. Ralph Frakes, Liberal Arts sophomore, has been cast as the officer.

Raina's suitors will be played by Wilbur Love, speech sophomore, as Sergius, her betrothed, and Dennis Smith, psychology sophomore, as Bluntschli, an unidealistic professional soldier who creates a comical love triangle, Welsbacher commented.

This production will be given "in the round" in the CAC Ballroom April 12-14.

Alumni Fund Drive for '62 In Progress

Through volunteer efforts $1,800 had been pledged by Tuesday evening to the annual University Alumni Fund campaign which began Monday and will close March 30, according to Colonel George Harvey, director of the Alumni Fund Drive for 1962.

University graduates Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gott are heading this year's campaign said Dale Gard, campaign chairman.

In an effort to contact all alumni and former students of the University, 11 former WU students are serving as telephone captains in the campaign. They are Don Brinton, Harry Crow, William Bonwell, Mrs. Dale Loyd, Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith, Betty Richter, Mrs. Robert Aylward, Kay Peer, Mrs. Robert Bayouth, and Mrs. Jack D. Weber. More than 5,000 former students at Wichita will be included in the telephone drive.

According to Col. Harvey, the 1961 pledge to the fund totaled $19,767.80.

DOING IT THE HARD WAY by hoff (GETTING RID OF DANDRUFF, THAT IS!)

easier 3-minute way for men: FITCH

Men, get rid of embarrassing dandruff easy as 1-2-3 with FITCH! In just 3 minutes (one rubbing, one lathering, one rinsing), every trace of dandruff, grime, gummy old hair tonic goes right down the drain! Your hair looks handsomer, healthier. Your scalp tingles, feels so refreshed. Use FITCH Dandruff Remover SHAMPOO every week for positive dandruff control. Keep your hair and scalp really clean, dandruff-free!

It's what's up front that counts

FILTER-BLEND is yours in Winston and only Winston. Up front you get rich golden tobaccos specially selected and specially processed for filter smoking. Smoke Winston.
