The annual Hippodrome celebration will be held on May 1, for the first time in a number of years, according to Fred Funk, general Hippodrome chairman.

Eight campus organizations will present skits for the student body which will be excused from classes for the festivities. All four fraternities will present skits. Only two sororities, Delta Delta Delta and Gamma Phi Beta, will participate. Two independent organizations, Fiasco and "Better Read Than Dead," will also present skits.

Hippodrome activities will begin Friday morning and end Saturday night. Skits will be presented from 8:20 a.m. until 2 p.m. Friday with time out for lunch. Masters of ceremonies this year will be George Priceman and Don Preston.

Friday night's activities will begin at 7:30 p.m. with the crowning of the May Queen and the presentation of trophies for the best skits in the three divisions. Later in the evening there will be a dance at the Cotillion Ballroom.

The Review will be on Saturday night May 2. At that time the best skit from each of the three divisions will be presented for a second time.

JFK Scholarship To Be Awarded

The first annual John Fitzgerald Kennedy Memorial Scholarship will be awarded to a promising Negro Wichita High School graduate this spring, according to Nancy Anderson, chairman of the campus scholarship fund.

The scholarship fund, instigated immediately following the assassination of the President, will provide tuition, books, and fees for a high school graduate who would not otherwise be able to attend school, and who is not eligible for other scholarships, according to Miss Anderson.

The original goal of the scholarship was $24,000, a sum which, when invested, would provide enough to finance four scholarships to deserving Negro students. The scholarship program has since been expanded to include any student of a socially deprived minority group, according to Miss Anderson.

Michelangelo To be Subject Of Art Meet

The 400th anniversary of the death of Michelangelo will be observed on campus Friday during a meeting of the Southwestern College Art Conference.

The Southwestern College Art Conference, representing professors and directors of art, will gather in Wichita April 23, 24 and 25. Members represent universities, colleges and museums in Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Wyoming, Colorado, and Utah.

Programs for the three day period are scheduled at the Wichita Art Museum, and the University Fine Arts Center. Conference headquarters will be the Lassen Motor Hotel.

Panel discussions, guest speakers, films released under the auspices of the Italian government, and an art exhibit will be featured events.

Dr. P. A. Baldocci, University of Rome scholar on Michelangelo and Italian Consul for this district, will open the Friday meeting in the FAC concert auditorium at 9 a.m. He will speak on "The Poetry of Michelangelo."

The Friday meeting will be open to students, faculty and guests. Walter Duerksen, dean of Fine Arts, will welcome the Conference to the campus. Mid-morning coffee will be served by Kappa Pi, honorary art fraternity.

Dr. John P. Simoni, professor of art, is the president and coordinator of the Conference.

The City Commission will vote today on a proclamation to declare April 24 "Michelangelo Day."

Opera Theatre to Close Annual Arts Festival

The Opera Theatre will close the annual Fine Arts Festival tonight with a performance at 8:15 p.m. in the FAC Auditorium.

The group, under the direction of J. Robert Minser, director of the Opera Theater, will present excerpts from two operas and a third in its complete form.

The first part of the program will consist of excerpts from Mozart's "Cosi Fan Tutte" (roughly translated "That's the Way Women Are"). This opera, which is in English, is light highly sophisticated comedy.

An old gentleman bets two young men that their young ladies cannot be faithful even for 24 hours if they are away. The men pretend to join the army, and then come back disguised as Bulgarian officers. They prove the old man right and themselves wrong.

"The Card Trio," from "Carmen" by Bizet, is the second opera excerpt that will be presented. Three gypsy girls camped in a mountain pass are telling each others fortunes to pass the time. It is at this time that Carmen learns that she and Don Jose will die.

The third part of the program will be the presentation of the opera "Savitri" by Gustav Holst. This opera has never been done before in this area.

The voice of Death is heard calling to Savitri. He has come to take her husband, Satyavan, a woodcutter. Death takes Satyavan, and Savitri finds that she isn't afraid as she was before. Because she is no longer afraid of him, Death offers her a wish, on the condition that it not be Satyavan's life she asks for. She manages to trick Death and get her husband back.

Faculty, staff, students, and guests are invited to attend these performances. There is an admission charge.

The exhibition of paintings, prints, drawings, sculpture, ceramics, enameling, and silversmithing on display in the FAC Concert Hall Lobby are the works of faculty members of the art department.

A Reminder

"We, the students of the University, believe that having certain collective authority, we are charged with the accompanying inescapable responsibility to further a democratic community marked by mature citizenship habits, attitudes, and skills; and recognizing that the degree of student development is likely to parallel closely the extent of student responsibility in the campus community; and recognizing that this degree of responsibility will be manifested in the total community when we, as individuals, take our places there; do herein define and organize this collective authority into a student association and, by this constitution, guarantee that our use of it will always be in harmony with our trust."

Preamble—Student Government Association Constitution

It is indeed to be hoped that the newly elected officers and congressmen of the Student Government are familiar with the constitution they are to support. It seems proper, however, to remind all members of the Association at this time of their obligations under this constitution.

With a dedicated leadership, a determined student government can be a dynamic force for the continual improvement of the school. These are positions not to be held lightly.

Our congratulations to the newly elected officers and representatives. We are confident they will not abuse their "trust."

The film, entitled "Two Daughters," was written by Satyajit Ray and was made in India. It is based on two short stories entitled "Postmaster" and "Samapati" which were written by the Russian poet Tagore.

In Mr. Ray's words, the "Postmaster" is a story about a wistful little waif, grown beyond her years, holding her grief with a stubbornness befitting an adult four times her age.

"Samapati" is a story about a rustic tomboy whose marriage with a young scholar from the city gives rise to hectic developments.

The film was given excellent reviews by the New York Times, the Herald Tribune, Newsweek and others. Judith Crist of the Herald Tribune said, "Perfect. A masterpiece." Archer Winsten of the New York Times said, "A cinematic gem. It generates such simple but profound emotion that it pierces the heart."

The stars in both of the short stories are newcomers discovered by the author of the film. Chandana Bannerji, the star of the "Postmaster," was discovered in a dancing school.

Aparna Das Gupta is the star in "Samapati." She is the daughter of a film critic and was doing her last term at school when she was discovered.

Since this is the last film of the series, season ticket holders can finish out their tickets by bringing one guest for each film that they have not attended and has not been marked out on their ticket.

Franking Privilege Granted To Widows of Presidents

By NANCY HARRIS, Managing Editor

Ten days after the death of President Kennedy, the House initiated and immediately passed a Bill providing Mrs. Kennedy with secret service protection for one year, an office and secretarial staff for the same period, and free mailing privileges for life.

The senate, making only minor amendments to the Bill, passed it the following day and returned it to the House for immediate final action.

The measure concerning mail privileges is known as the "franking privilege," and is not unprecedented.

Members of the House of Commons, first claimed the privilege in 1660 in a Bill passed for the erection and establishment of a post office. They believed that as government officials they should have the right to free mailing, thus the word "frank," Middle English derived from the Old French word "franc," meaning free.

The privilege was first granted in the United States in January 1776, to soldiers of the American Revolution. Franking was gradually extended over the years to include practically all members of public service. But its use and abuse became so widespread that franking was abolished in 1873.

Since 1875, various Acts have been passed to grant frankage to congressmen and ex-congressmen (for nine months after the close of their term), congressmen-elect, and government officials.

There are currently two distinct laws governing the transmission of official matter through the mail free of postage.

One, known as the franking privilege, is used by the members of the legislative branch of government. The other is the penalty privilege used by the executive and judicial branches of government. Under the penalty privilege, the envelope or wrapper must bear the words, "official business," an endorsement by the sender, and a statement of the penalty for misuse.

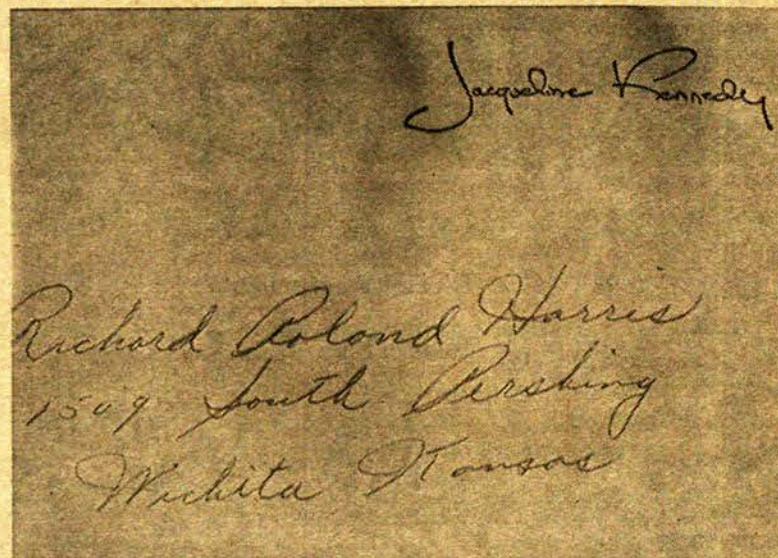

Mrs. Kennedy is the eighth widow of a United States President to be extended the franking privilege. By special Acts, the privilege was also granted to the widows of Presidents Garfield, Grant, McKinley, Cleveland, Roosevelt, Harding, and Wilson.

Club to Participate In Archery Tourney

The Archery Club and Dr. Gladys Taggard, chairman of the woman's physical education department, will sponsor a University team in a National Mail Archery Tournament April 24 through May 8.

All interested students, either male or female, should meet at the girls gym at 1 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays between those dates, according to Dr. Taggard.

The participants in the tournament may shoot any number of times with the top scores being selected for national judging. Only officially scored entries will be eligible.

JACQUELINE KENNEDY'S signature appears in place of the postage stamp on an envelope which contained a message of appreciation received recently by Richard Harris, 8 year old son of Nancy Harris, managing editor. Richard wrote a letter of condolence to Mrs. Kennedy the day of the President's death.

Collegiate Young Democrats Hold Election of Officers

Fred Blanchard, Liberal Arts junior, was elected president of the Collegiate Young Democrats at the Association's annual election held Thursday night in Area 9 of the CAC.

Other officers elected were Andrew Hicks, first vice president; Cathy Stein, second vice president; Jon Powell, third vice president; David Brewer, recording secretary; Ellen Sinclair, corresponding secretary; and Cris Borger, treasurer.

Ten executive Board members at large were also elected. They were Kay Madden, Henry Phipps, Oniel Davis, Ginger Dover, Debby Berkowitz, Shirley Forbes, Gary Jackson, Ray Reiss, Ed Meyer, and Mike Snyder.

A plaque was given to the previous president, Ed Meyer, honoring him for his outstanding leadership in the past year.

One of the main objectives of the Association for the ensuing year is to participate more actively in the election campaigns. A Civil Rights Committee is being organized so that the organization will be better equipped to support the movement for equality. This committee includes both a study of the civil rights issues and actions cooperating with other groups on and off campus.

A Campaign Committee is also being formulated to strengthen the ties of the Young Democrats with the Senior Party. Included in this are precinct polling, first voter programs and participation in the general election campaigns.

Ed Meyers, former president, was elected head of the delegation to attend the State Young Democrats Convention in Topeka. The Convention starts May 16 and all members are urged to attend. Any member can be a delegate.

Memberships in Young Democrats may be purchased from any member of the Association for $1.

Cutler Poem Wins Prize In Kansas City Star Contest

Bruce Cutler, assistant professor of English, has been awarded the Kansas City Star Award in open competition with more than 2,000 poem entries.

Judges were William Stafford, poet; and Alan Swallow, poet and winner of the 1963 Book Award; poetry publisher. The winning Winfield Townley Scott, American poem follows (italics omitted):

At Kents' Grave

A floss of incense reels across these green and waxy laurel leaves, darkening an air already dark. How the cypresses, the lean Imperial pines, surround and overbear this alien island, uncatholic and impure, where a gray meridian of cenotaphs stakes out its condominium through lots for Europe's millionaires, and the epitaphs of princes, pederasts, caricature their passions, ironies, and afterthoughts.

You lie between two worlds, where the urns will not shatter into anonymity, with names never consumed by the love that burns in the euthanasia of memory.
Three o'clock. The prime of day — when a dry finger of light distends the daisies' rays and Rome falls drowsy in October air.
I lighten, and the rays intensify to leaves, those other greens, the maidenhair, the pipes and timbrels and the blood ablaze.

What waking forms? What island idleness?
What hands, reaching through chambers of the air?
And faces, now so nubbed and featureless,
and musk rose and its murmurs everywhere?
The light lingers. The cypress arms extend their shadows, and the single belling beat of hammer on an anvil leaps across the Caian walls. The light seems to transcend its lingering, warms without the bones of heat, stitching the air with motes and dusty dross.

The hammer rests. The inward-climbing sun, the eve that framed such images, is dark.
You said you would die easy, with the dun rosettes of ceiling swatched like the flood mark of daisy, violet, anemone, the cold cornelian, of your final dreams.
The maiden chamber of your grave is staked with stone. The groves are silent, and your plea for one whose name was writ in water reams the granite — mottled, moss-grwon, and flaked.

The cemetery gate clangs open, and the spire of Calus' pyramid slips under shade.
Outside, a trolley bus torments its wire.
Sense was what you said you lived for, what you made.
For faith in flesh, you gave us power to feel:
to love, beyond the lips where passions stove.
Your words — despite a hundred years of skin grown over sound and sense — are what reveal the secret ciphers of this darkening grove, the cypress and the citadel within.

Baseball Team Prepares For Washburn Icabods

By BILL MINGLE, Sports Editor

The Shocker baseball team, improving with experience, is preparing this week for another double-header. The next opponent will be the Washburn University's Icabods, of Topeka, in a twin-bill set for Friday night at Lawrence Stadium. The first game will begin at 6 o'clock.

Lanny Van Eman's squad turned in some good performance this last week-end, winning one game and losing two to Parsons College of Iowa. The week-end series left the Shockers with a 3 wins 6 losses record for the yet young season.

Highlight of the three games was Saturday afternoon, when Tim Bishop threw a two-hitter at Parsons in the first game of the twin-bill, and came up with a two to nothing victory. Backed by the two runs scored by second baseman Don Harmison in the first and third innings, Bishop hurled hitless ball until the seventh inning, when he gave up both safeties.

The tide turned against the victors in the second game, however, as Parsons pounded Shocker pitchers for seven runs and eleven hits, while the Shockers could get only two men across the plate, and collected only five hits.

Van Eman sent two pitchers into the effort to stem the tide of Parsons' runs and hits. Tom Seigle started and was tagged with the loss. Gary Logan came on in relief in the sixth. The two Shocker hurlers fanned three, walked six, and were troubled by the five errors committed by their teammates.

The winning Parsons' pitchers struck out 10 Shocker batters, and walked only four, in giving up the two runs, one of them unearned.

Bishop, in winning his second start, whiffed nine and walked four men. The Shocker defense had one of its best efforts of the year, in playing seven innings of errorless ball.

Now 3-5 for the year, the Shockers will meet a rugged opponent in the CIC representative Washburn. Although hampered by inexperience, the Shockers are developing nicely as a team, and have an excellent chance of coming up with a winning season. The pitching corps is jelling, and it remains now for the hitting and fielding to catch on.

Tennis Team Takes Tulsa; WU's 9th Win

The University's tennis team continues to roll along undefeated, winning their ninth match in a row over the weekend. The Shockers beat the Tulsa Golden Hurricane on the Wichita courts, 5-2. The victory was by the same margin, as when the Shockers downed the Hurricane in Tulsa earlier in the season.

Senior letterman Chester Anderson continued his winning string by whipping TU's Wendell Clark 8-6, 5-7 and 6-2. Anderson now has won nine straight singles matches and is yet to be defeated in singles play.

Ben Anzola, the Shockers' star sophomore playing in the number one spot, easily disposed of Tulsa's Curtis Parks 6-0 and 6-0.

Van Thompson, the Shockers' number two man, also won his match, defeating Ron Pitman 6-0 and 6-3. Lin Harris was also victorious, downing Ben Abney 6-8, 6-1 and 7-5.

Team Captain Phil Adrian sustained the squads only singles defeat, losing to John Wymore 6-2, 1-6, and 7-5. The Adrian-Thompson doubles team lost to the Golden Hurricane's Clark and Parks, 4-6, 7-5 and 7-5.
