Omen, Good or Bad?
A raven perched upon the chamber door of Edgar Allen Poe caused him much annoyance, and an albatross hung around his neck was an ill omen for the Ancient Mariner, according to Samuel Colledge; but as far as our information goes, never has a bird full grown and with feathers and a nest completely furnished and three eggs brightly speckled parked behind a radiator been the omen of anything in particular.

and quick-stop artists are being rapidly developed at the University of Wichita this season. A. B. degrees will be given next year and several new courses in stepping on the gas, the art of dodging pedestrians and the approved musical scale for squeaking brakes will be offered.

This information is what Ye Ed gleaned by standing on the bookstore corner at noon as the thundering hordes came from their classes in their Henrys and Fierce Sparrows.

One crosses the street at the entrance to the campus at the risk of his life. After anking cautiously from the curb he dashes half way across the street, leans at a 45-degree angle to let a car pass, and if lucky, reaches the other side in a somewhat recognizable condition.

It seems to us that it would be worth while to waste two minutes of our time every day driving a little slower coming off and on the campus. Some day it might—who knows—save a life.

is a mild way of expressing our conduct in convocation these last few times. Of course, we'll admit some programs are not the most interesting in the world, but an impolite and disgusting attitude on the part of the students will not make those in charge of convocation programs any more anxious to improve our weekly gatherings.

Although bored to the point of distraction at times, we sit through our classes in silence. Why can't we do the same in convocation? Even though we are not interested in the speaker or the program, we should not rob those who are interested of the right to listen by our loud talking and disturbing movements.

And then, there is our reputation to consider. We who are becoming known over the United States for our orators, debaters, athletes, et cetera, should not fall down on one point which can be so easily won by such small effort on the part of all of us—courtesy.

lives should be insured before entering a track meet. It seems criminal the way javelins and shot puts are thrown around with the utmost abandon. Oh, well, the spectators must be entertained in some manner, and it is always exciting to see whether someone is going to be hit or missed.

For Your Entertainment
Next week will bring entertainment to suit every taste. Western ultra-modern comedy and musical romance will be represented at Wichita theaters.

At the Palace will be shown "Hiss Society Blues," musical romance starring Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, delightful sweetheart of the screen. The young stars will be supported by a cast of many famous screen favorites—Hedda Hopper, Joyce Compton, William Collier, Sr., Louise Fazenda, Lucretia Littlefield and Brandon Hurst.

The Orpheum presents "The Light of Western Stars," a new western romance with Mary Brian and Richard Arlen playing the romantic leads. Harry Green puts across his usual dialect comedy in fine form, while Fred Kottler furnishes the 'menace.

Norma Shearer shines at the Miller the first half of the week. "The Divorcee" sound interesting to us, especially with such gorgeous men as Chester Morris, Robert Montgomery, and Conrad Nabel furnishing background for Miss Shearer. Others in the cast will be Tyler Brooks, Florence Eldridge, Mary Doran—all well-known to theater audiences.

"Lovin' the Ladies" occupies the last half of the week at the Miller. Richard Dix is the young man who will do the "lovin'." Lois Wilson is featured opposite Mr. Dix. A notable cast of supporting players includes Allen Kearns, Rita La Roy, and Renee Macready. If the advance news on the picture means anything, this will be an outstanding comedy hit.

MISS JOYNER HAS SMALLPOX
Miss Pauline Joyner, freshman at the University of Wichita and member of Sorosis society, is quarantined at her home in Anthony with smallpox. Miss Joyner had been ill at the Sorosis house the week before Easter vacation, but the fact that she was taking smallpox was not known until she went home for Easter vacation.

All Sorosis girls were required to be vaccinated for smallpox immediately as a precaution.

PROJECT METHOD OF EDUCATION TAUGHT IN W. U. CLASSES

Mrs. Mahin Is Firm Believer in Project—One of Six Every Six Weeks

NATURE PROJECTS BEST

Education has donned seven-league boots and is striding on to some distant point called Perfect Method. In his hand he holds a staff and that staff is labeled Project.

The project method of teaching has been adopted by leading educators everywhere, and others are joining the ranks regularly, as they realize the value of this method in interest gained, work accomplished, and material retained.

Mrs. Amy Mahin, professor of education and English at the University of Wichita, is a firm believer in the project method of teaching. She conducts her classes after the principles of that method and encourages these young men and women who are being trained in her department to teach to their own schools and classes.

Each six-week period Mrs. Mahin's classes prepare from one to six projects, each of which is planned to illustrate the principles of the education course and the core of the study which Mrs. Mahin calls "pupil participation."

Nearly all of the students who are preparing to teach have selected the subject of subjects, grade or grades that they want to teach. Their projects are planned with a definite plan in view; and probably the most noticeable thing about the projects prepared, Mrs. Mahin says, is the fact that the material gathered and arranged by the students is designed, not to please the teacher, but to be of some definite and practical use to the student in his future work.

Exceptionally good pieces of work have been prepared in many fields. Among the most prominent are music and the common school subjects. Many of the students in the educational department are enrolled in the school of fine arts and plan to teach music in their own schools. They are preparing to teach in many fields. AMATEUR MOVIES AS THRILLING AS TURKEY DAY FOOTBALL GAME

Jack Lewis, Well Known Amateur Producer, Declares the Filming of Pictures Soon Will Be Commonplace Among Students

"Let's make another movie!" "O. K. You get the gang together and I'll get the camera and the props."

Such a conversation might take place between any two students at the University of Wichita before long. Jack Lewis, senior at the university, said. And then the fun would begin—and such fun—as many of the students now on the campus will tell you.

You'll find amateur movies as thrilling as a Turkey-day football game if you'll give them a chance—and in a more lasting way. Jack Lewis started many moons ago "shooting" and producing his pictures, many of which are familiar here. Who is there who has not heard of "Campus Capers" even if he has not seen it? It has been shown a number of times on the campus and over the city. The cast was composed entirely of the university students with Mildred Kelly, Earl Haines and Wayne Pipkin in the leading roles. It was the story of a green country boy (Earl Haines) who came to college with a lot of ideas and considerable ability to play football. The pictureization of his trials and tribulations in the loss of a notebook in a fire in one of the school buildings (in this scene the burning of Fairmount was used in a striking manner), the compiling of a new one with the heroine's (Mildred Kelly) aid, and his ultimate return to the big game of the year makes a story and a picture that is not to be sneezed at.

When asked who wrote the plot for this picture, Lewis said, "Oh, it just grew. We would plan something and then, due to circumstances, we would make a story and a picture that is not to be sneezed at."

"Hot Shots," another picture produced by him, has attracted a great deal of attention to its plot and its production. It is a 900 ft. film which was made in connection with the company he works for, the Kansas Gas and Electric Co., and it portrays the motives and the actions of a "scoundrel" in the organization of safety of the downtown insurance block—his is her uncle.

She said she had not escaped the Sorosis "joke" (vaccination) epidemic. She says that she feels okay, though. She claims that she has discovered some personal faults of her's recently. They are, Big feet and an indifference to student politics. I asked her if she wasn't occasionally indifferent to class assignments and she said: "S-h-h-h-h, not so loud."

In this section I write again to inform you that last week's "Books, People, Etc." was written by Hugh Samson. My object in writing this is to remind Mr. Samson to please take his "by-line" as I do not want credit for his excellent work. As J. D. D. says—that's all.

ADDRESS SOCIAL FORUM
Helen Thornton and Oystre Dear-smith, students at the University of Wichita, will address the Wichita Social forum at its meeting at noon Thursday, April 24, at the Y. W. C. A. building on North Topeka. Miss Thornton's subject will be "Knowledge of Facts" and Miss Dear-smith will speak on "Definite Kind of Skill." The general topic for discussion at the meeting will be "Family Case Work."

ARTIST SPEAKS TO CLASS
Gundell Goldansky, staff artist for the Wichita Beacon, talked to the beginning reporting class of the school of journalism at the Big on Wednesday, April 23. Mr. Goldansky spoke on the subject of "Newspaper Art." He illustrated his subject by showing the original, the negative, the cast, the mat, and the proof of the magazine cover appearing in the April 27 issue of the Sunday Beacon. Clifford Kendall was the student teacher of the class.

ANOTHER W. U. PROF IS FORMER MINISTER

Freshmen Add Name of Dr. Gracey to List in Sunflower Last Week

A feature about four ministers who now teach in the University of Wichita was printed in the last Sunflower, but the freshmen editing the paper this week have unearthed another in the person of Frank M. Gracey, pastor of the school of fine arts and applied arts.

Mr. Gracey was a Congregationalist until he was 25 years old, when he became a Methodist. He had accepted a teaching position with the Michigan Agricultural college, at East Lansing. There for some time he was assistant pastor and director of religious education of the school of fine arts and applied arts.

Howlings

We're getting right popular around here. We got another fan letter yesterday. This one was anonymous, and we don't care to quote from it. Anyway, the writer can just go and catch himself a minnow.

Archie isn't here today. He's taking a vacation along with the rest of the regular staff while we poor little freshmen labor.

Dear Cash (Short for Casius Hemphill): Went over to the "Brig" a few minutes ago. Feel like suing the Sunflower for damages and costs. Why don't you clean up occasionally? Sweet Nell.

Sweet? Well, never mind. It's just another one of those things. We can only afford maid-service once a week. If you're so upset, why don't you come over and dig us up?

Dear Cash: Do you know of a nice, eligible, young college man who wants to get married soon? Please don't misunderstand me—I don't ask for myself but for my maiden sister who has just turned twenty-four. She can bake a wonderful pot-pie, a mystery and a dream. She would like a good-looking, good-looking young man who is comfortably well-off.

Lon Chaney's Twin Sister. The answer to a poor reporter's prayer! Would I do? I'm good-looking, good-looking, and I'm perfectly willing to get pot-pie. I'm not even slightly well-off, but I wouldn't refuse to let you support me.

Dear Cash: I've heard so much about your wisdom and discernment that I'd like to ask the solution of a momentous problem. Why do the deans have to send out their notices of failures to wayward students by the classroom route? If you could see the way the poor worms squirm when they're handed the little pink slips, I think your heart would melt.

Not Among Those Caught—as yet. Thanks for the compliments. We always had a sneaking idea there was something unusual about us. Nevertheless, you dear, thoughtful child, we confess our heart could melt all over the campus and not one stony-eyed dean would relent.

Wonder why they put the old eyeglass back on the "Brig." Maybe they thought the Freshman staff would make a run for safety after convocation, Wednesday.

Dear Cash: Some joke on Sorosis, no? Well, maybe you think so. But I'll bet you wouldn't if your best girl was a Sorosis, and it looked as though she wouldn't be able to dance for a month.

The Rounder. This green grass, balmy breeze, tu-tips and sunshine can mean just one thing—spring finals. And does the opening of the Elk's Pool bring joy to our hearts or nay... Pug seen trying to attract a K. U. beauty visiting on the campus and getting no house. Hal Hal... Rumor hath it that classes will be held in the new administration building next week. Such mushroom-like growth!... Mark our words and mark them well. There are going to be a few dead Kappa Rho's littering the pavement.

Drink Coca-Cola
Delicious and Refreshing

Tune in tonight!

Coca-Cola goes on the air again—Delightful—Different—Sparkling music by the Coca-Cola thirty-one piece, all-string Dance Orchestra—Grandstand Rites, leading sports feature writer, interviews another famous sports champion.

Refreshing, of course, for that's the true inward meaning of Coca-Cola. Ice-cold, sparkling, delicious—the drink that brings that refreshing pause into every day and broadcasts greater enjoyment to the evening's relaxation in your big, easy chair at home. For millions of people, Coca-Cola is the first thought and the last word in wholesome refreshment.

W. U. ART TEACHER SEES OLDEST HOUSE IN UNITED STATES

Miss Sprague Is Impressed by Santa Fe as Art Center After Visit There

"I saw the oldest church and the oldest house in the United States," said Miss Elizabeth Sprague, associate professor of fine arts of the University of Wichita, Monday morning. The feature of the exhibit was a midge book half an inch long and half an inch thick containing Lincoln's entire Gettysburg address.

Mr. Atchison, whose subject was "Incunabula or Beauty in Printing," dwelt on the origin of printing. He stated the first printing company in America was established at Manhattan in 1831.

H. G. Overend of Schmidt, Boucher & Modern Trends in Architecture" next Monday at 10 a. m. in Room 306, Science Hall. The lecture will be open to the public.

Certified Heating Installation

Insist on a Certified Heating Installation

EVERY time The Wichita Gas Company installs a certified gas heating installation the Certified Heating Installation Certificate, reproduced above, is issued.

This certificate automatically protects you from:

- 1. Poor heating due to small piping or small furnace.
2. Insufficient reserve heat for extreme cold.
3. Inefficient use of gas and resultant excessive fuel bills.

When you build or remodel arrange with your builder to secure the advantages of a Certified Heating Installation. It will save you money and insure a satisfactory heating plant.
