Young Republicans Host Boyd Tonight

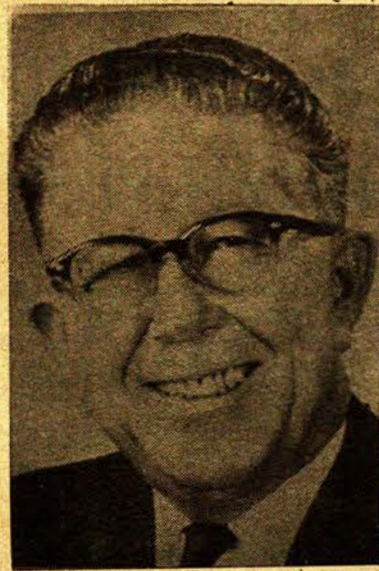

Featured speaker at the monthly Young Republicans meeting tonight is McDill "Huck" Boyd, one of the Republican candidates for governor this year, according to Dan Tontz, publicity chairman.

All interested students, faculty, and staff are invited to the meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Rm. 209 of the CAC.

Boyd, a publisher from Phillipsburg, Kans., has been involved in the field of higher education in Kansas for many years and is well known in state politics. At a Collegian Republican meeting in Manhattan recently he unveiled a plan to tap the brainpower among students in Kansas colleges for state government purposes.

Boyd is the first of a series of Republican gubernatorial candidates to speak before the University Young Republicans group.

Mortar Board Scholarship Given to Coed

Jacqueline Hull, Liberal Arts sophomore, was presented the Mortar Board Alumna Scholarship at the Scholarship Breakfast held this morning in the Delta Delta Delta sorority house.

The breakfast, culminating Egghead Week, is given each year for students with an over-all average of 3.75.

The $150 scholarship is awarded to the sophomore coed with the highest grade point average during her freshman year by the Wichita Mortar Board Alumna group.

Miss Hull, a French major, has completed 52 hours and has maintained a 4-point grade average, according to Josephine Fugate, dean of women and Mortar Board advisor.

This morning's breakfast was attended by some 50 students who heard a talk entitled "Marks of Identification" given by the guest speaker, Dr. Emory Lindquist, University President.

Also attending the breakfast were the six guest lecturers in Wednesday's "Select-a-Lecture" program. The invocation for the breakfast was given by Dr. George Comstock, University director of counseling, according to Ann Kaenig, Mortar Board chairman of events.

WU Soloists To Sing In 'Carmen' Concert

Nearly 150 musicians will combine talents under the direction of James P. Robertson when the Wichita Symphony presents a concert of Bizet's opera "Carmen" this Sunday and Monday for their sixth subscription concert of the season.

Janice Stinson, Fine Arts senior, and Arthur Newman, assistant professor of voice, will share the soloist's spotlight with Beverly Wolff and David Lloyd. Miss Wolff made her debut with the New York City Opera last fall. Lloyd has made numerous appearances with the NBC-TV Opera Company, the Boston Symphony, the New York Philharmonic, and the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Miss Stinson, winner of the 1962 and 1963 Naftzer Vocal Awards, recently placed first in the District Metropolitan Opera Auditions. She is to compete today in Tulsa with three other district winners. National finalists will compete in New York City.

Newman, a veteran of 15 years with the New York City Opera, has appeared in numerous productions since coming to Wichita. His previous appearances with the Symphony include roles in "Aida," "Fledermaus," and last season's "Roger and Hammerstein Dollar Concert."

First and second leads will star Miss Wolff as Carmen and Lloyd as Don Jose. Miss Stinson will sing Micaela; Escamillo will be portrayed by Newman.

Robert Minser, director of the University's Opera Workshop, is preparing production and will act as narrator. Choruses will be provided by the University Singers, under the direction of Robert Hines, and The Boys Chorus from the Rea Woodman Elementary School, prepared by Kay Reboul, teacher of music.

Members of the Opera Workshop singing supporting roles will be Sam Ramey as Zuniga; David Williams, Morales; Chris Karlowky, Mercedes; Roland Sawatsky, Dancairo; Don Junod, Remendado; and Barbara Brummett, Frasquita.

Some 400 tickets were made available to students without charge on a first-come, first-served basis upon presentation of their ID cards. A few tickets are still available and may be picked up today in the FAC office.

Concerts are scheduled for 3 p.m. Sunday and 8:30 p.m. Monday, in East High Auditorium.

Lecturer from Germany To Speak Here Feb. 28

Special lecturer Aloys Wehr from Berlin will give a talk entitled "Berlin, the Tale of Two Cities," at 8 p.m. Feb. 28, in the Morrison Hall lecture room, Melvin P. Moorhouse, assistant to the dean of University College, has announced.

Mr. Wehr is a lecturer at the Catholic Welfare School of Berlin and engages in extensive writing on education and sociology. He has lectured in France, Belgium, Holland, Great Britain and was very well received during his United States tour in 1962.

Since becoming a Youth Counselor in Berlin in 1955, Wehr has been Youth Counselor of the Municipal Welfare Department of the District Berlin-Tempelhof and since May, 1961, has been heading the Municipal Department of Family Service, being the supervisor of personnel of 160 social workers.

Due to the initiative of Mr. Wehr the Welfare Department of Berlin-Tempelhof established a School of Parents which found recognition in Germany as well as abroad. The project was extensively reported in the United States.

The lecture is open to the pub-

Liberal Arts Position Open On Congress

The Student Government Association met at its regular meeting Tuesday evening and accepted the resignation of Betty Dixon, Liberal Arts representative.

Any person wishing to apply for this post may pick up an application in the SGA Office, second floor of the CAC, or for further information contact Mary Ann Hopper, SGA secretary, Ext. 409.

The qualifications of this post are as follows: the person must be enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts; be a fulltime student; and have an over-all average of 2.25.

John Morton, chairman of the Building and Grounds committee reported a discrepancy between the architect's blue-prints and the now standing fountain located in front of the Ablah Library.

Dan Tontz, elections commissioner, announced that the May Queen election date is set for Friday, March 6.

John Gaddis, director of building and grounds, spoke to the Congress members on parking on the University campus, and told of the future plans the University has for trying to eliminate this problem. He further stated that the fountain in front of the Ablah Library will be rebuilt as soon as the weather permits its usage.

The tentative date set for the Leadership Breakfast has been set for April 18, according to Dave Leach, SGA president.

Two-Bit Flick Set For FAC Tonight

"High Society" starring Bing Crosby, Grace Kelly, Frank Sinatra, Celeste Holm, John Lund and Louis Armstrong will be the Two-Bit Flick at 8 p.m. tonight in the FAC auditorium.

The film depicts the story of a reporter and a photographer from a fashion magazine who cover a fashionable Philadelphia wedding.

The presence of the journalists in the high society household starts a chain of events that make the prim, prospective bride, who is divorced from a happy-go-lucky sportsman, question the rightness of taking a stuffed shirt for a husband.

AWS Chili Supper

Tickets for the AWS Chili Supper are now available from any AWS Council member for 75 cents, according to Nancy Flagg, AWS publicity chairman.

The supper will be held at the University Methodist Church (Yale and 21st) from 4:30 to 7 p.m. tomorrow.

'Select-A-Lecture' Evokes Variety of Ideas, Impressions

A Professor Lectures

Hundreds of students took advantage of the entertaining and informative programs scheduled this past week by Mortar Board.

"Egghead week," Mortar Board's annual effort to promote and recognize academic achievement, opened last Sunday as some forty junior girls with an overall grade index of 3 point or above attended a Pizza party in the home of Dr. James Ruoff. The 1964 Mortar Board will be selected from among these candidates.

"Joan of the Angels," a Polish movie, was shown Monday evening, followed on Tuesday by a discussion of the film. The University Symphonic Band performed in concert on Tuesday evening. The largest attendance by students was for the increasingly popular Select-A-Lecture programs on Wednesday. A panel discussion on "Campus Morals" concluded the general activities.

Jackie Hull, Liberal Arts sophomore, was awarded the Egghead's scholarship at the superior students invitational breakfast Friday morning.

Students Go to Listen

Editorial Views...

Fountain to Go

It is with great pleasure that we acknowledge the fact that the fountain in front of the Ablah Library will in the near future undergo a few changes.

The money for the construction of the fountain was donated by the Student Government Association last year. An architect drew plans which the SGA accepted. The plans, though not ignored by the constructors, were altered somewhat.

John Strange, associate professor of art, kindly donated time, effort, and ingenuity in the construction of the artistic metal structure of the fountain.

Though the aesthetic value of the fountain is not questioned by most, it is well recognized that the fountain is dwarfed by the size of the Library Building.

The prevailing winds of Kansas have presented problems apparently overlooked in the fountain's construction.

Plans are now being formulated to remove the fountain and replace it with one which will have an adjustable spray and to add colored lights which will enhance the building immensely.

Now, if students will refrain from adding detergents to the water, perhaps the University will have a respectable fountain to grace the campus.

University Theater Workshop Reconstructs Globe Theater

The largest set project ever undertaken by the University Theater workshop is now being constructed according to David Fleming's direction.

Replicas of furniture of the Elizabethan period are also being designed by Fleming for construction. Robbie Rude, Liberal Arts senior, is designing costumes.

Cast in the leading roles are Mike Osterhout, MacBeth; Phyllis Barnum, Lady MacBeth; Dee Mast-Richard Welsbacher, March 5, 6, and 7. The production will commemorate the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth.

The theater is a full scale, two-story building, 42 feet wide and 16 feet deep. It is being constructed in sections to allow dismantling for moving or storing. After the performance, the set will become a permanent part of the theater set inventory. Work is being done by students and staff under Fleming's direction.

THE READERS SPEAK

To the Editor:

Perhaps the most repulsive of all fees to some is the friendly auto registration fee. The student politely explains that he has neither car nor drivers license and promises not to use the parking lot. They politely explain that that's too bad, the parking lot is there and he will pay for it, regardless. From this initial encounter the intelligent freshman can determine the basic nature of the auto registration department.

To some, adequate parking is plentiful, but to others it still is an unrealized dream. Consider those of us who inhabit Math-Physics, Engineering, Neff, Library, Armory, and surrounding structures.

After 8 a.m. parking in either of the two "spacious" lots in the neighborhood is unimaginable. However, a few of us discovered that even as late as 8:10 a.m. one could often find a single parking space in a lot just east of the armory, which has been held a closely guarded secret for several years.

As a part of this facility, a mud plot just east of the main wind tunnel has been used by students and faculty alike, as a standard overflow. In the past few weeks, however, unbeknownst to anyone, the campus cops have swept down upon the area and labeled it grass, despite the six inch mud ruts. Several dozen unsuspecting students have already been found guilty of parking here, although there is no indication that it was now off limits.

Some students were fortunate enough to get away with three dollar fines for parking on the grass, which brought the comment, "If you call it grass, why don't you paint the ground green."

The more unfortunate students were fined five dollars for parking on a sidewalk and were told that a sidewalk was being "planned" for this area. When these actions were protested the students were told how fortunate they were that they did not attend a school where parking situations were "bad."

No mention was made of the parking meters or the chapel being built on a former parking lot. The protesting student was assured that only the aesthetic quality of the grass is being considered and

Dialectica To Present Lecturer

Dr. Raymond J. Nogar, noted author and lecturer, will speak on "Human Evolution: Limitations and Applications," at 8 tonight in the East Ballroom of CAC.

Extemporaneous comments will be given by Professor Alvin Sarachek, chairman of the biology department.

Dialectica, the University philosophy club, invites all students, faculty members, and other interested persons to attend this free lecture. There will be a discussion and refreshments following the lecture.

Doctor Nogar, a native of Monroe, Mich., received a bachelors degree in biology from the University of Michigan. He has a doctorate of philosophy in science from the Aquinas Institute of Philosophy in River Forest, Ill. In 1956 he toured Europe and taught philosophy at the Angelicum University in Rome.

Dr. Nogar has contributed numerous articles to various journals of philosophy and science. Recently he completed a book on evolution entitled "The Wisdom of Evolution" and is presently engaged in writing a book on evolution and human nature.

"The Other Side of the Jordan" by Harry S. Ashmore (New York: N. W. Norton and Company, 1960)

Harry S. Ashmore, a southern newspaperman, became conscious of Negro problems as a boy in the 1920's. Working in cotton fields during the summers and delivering newspapers in a Negro neighborhood provided him with experiences that shaped his theories.

Though he had written for southern newspapers and was executive editor for the Arkansas Gazette in Little Rock while Governor Orval Faubus was trying to fight civil rights progress, Ashmore's convictions were unsympathetic toward the south's external course.

Being a student of the Negro, Ashmore went north to study the Negro migration to the large northern cities such as New York, Detroit, Chicago, San Francisco, and other urban complexes. The findings he put to print in "The Other Side of Jordan" harden on the new found ideas which Americans hold. Some of his findings are common place in the minds of the white people, but many are eye opening and enlightening.

Through his researches, Mr. Ashmore derived that the Negro migration to the north began around the time of World War I, slowed down during the depression years, and resumed with a great new drive during World War II. An example of this great drive north can be seen in New York where an increase in the Negro population of 42.5 percent was recorded from the years 1950 to 1957.

The 1960 census shows that more than half the Negro population lives outside the confederate states.

What caused their great migration? According to Ashmore it was the search for jobs in the factories of the Northern cities. Secondly, it was a thirst for freedom from the class minded South.

Mr. Ashmore explains what the Negro found after arriving in the new land and how he is accustoming himself to it. He points to extremists groups in the Negro population which believe in segregation and a separate state as much as any Ku Klux Klan chapter. He then goes on the other side of the fence to show how the NAACP, the urban League, and other groups feel and compares them.

Shocks Set to Meet Billikens

Tomorrow shapes up as another one of those important days in Missouri Valley conference basketball. The University of Wichita hosts the St. Louis University Billikens, and league-leading Drake travels to Cincinnati.

The Shocks-Bills contest is one of the first afternoon contests in the Field House in some time. The Shockers return home for the first time since Feb. 4th, after an excruciating Valley road trip. They hold down second place in the conference with a 7-2 league mark; St. Louis is 5-3 in MVC play, good enough for third place in the standings. Last month, the Shockers beat the Bills in St. Louis 69-56.

For Drake, the game tomorrow will be a good indicator as to whether or not they are really deserving of the place in the standings they now occupy. If Drake emerges victorious tomorrow night, only a bona fide miracle will keep them from winning the crown. The Shockers, meanwhile, must win all their remaining home games to stay in contention. St. Louis never has been an easy opponent for a Wichita team, and tomorrow's sell-out crowd shows the interest in the contest is running at a high peak.

St. Louis has an 11-8 win-loss record on the season. They have averaged 77.5 points per game, while holding opponents to 71.0 points per contest. Normally a hot-shooting ball-club, the Bills this season have fallen off a bit. They are connecting on 39.5 percent of their field goal attempts, while their opponents have hit 41.2 percent of their fielders.

Coach John Bennington's top scorer is Rich Naes, who is averaging 12.8 points per game; Gil Beckemeier is close behind, with a 12.7 point per game output.

Tomorrow's game at the Field House will be televised over the Missouri Valley Network, but will be blacked out in the Wichita viewing area in accordance with school and conference policy.

Ron Bonham's 29 point performance last week against the Shockers widened his lead in the Missouri Valley Conference. The Cincinnati senior is averaging 24.9 points per MVC contest.

Dave (The Rave) Stallworth his 14 points, including the winning basket, in the Cincy game, and held on to second place in conference scoring. Dave is averaging 22.3 points per MVC game, but leads conference players in all games scoring with an average of 25.8 points in the Shocks 23 contests.

In the Spotlight

By BILL MINGLE, Sports Editor

Missouri Valley Commissioner Norvall Neve has informed conference basketball coaches and officials this week of two rule changes that go in effect immediately for the remainder of the season.

Neve ordered that: (1) No referee in the future shall be authorized to give permission to a scorekeeper to make any change in the official book once an entry has been made; (2) The final gun shall end every Missouri Valley conference basketball game henceforth, and the gun shall be fired simultaneously by the time-keeper with the sounding of the automatic buzzer attached to the clock.

May we offer a vote of thanks to the commissioner, who has seen on obvious need for change and has done something about it. Let us hope that disasters and near-disasters may be further avoided in playing the fine game of basketball in the Missouri Valley Conference.

There was an informal gathering the other day at the MVC cafe. Participants were Mr. WU-Shock, Mr. Bearcat, and Mr. Bulldog. The latter sat off to the side because, well after all, he is in first place in the conference.

Mr. WU-Shock and Mr. Bearcat had their heads together, and Mr. Bearcat was nodding intently. Mr. WU-Shock was talking seriously, like he was telling the fellow from Cincinnati how to whip a Bulldog in one last ditch effort.

The fella from Des Moines was mumbling to himself. Seems he just found out about that ruling on the scorebook and the final gun. "Smart guy, that Bearcat," the Bulldog mused.

"That trick with the slow draw on the final gun wasn't bad. But blast that commissioner, just when we thought we had developed the perfect eraser for our scorebook, he had to, oh well, win a few, lose a— no, no, can't think like that," Mr. Bulldog reminded himself. "And what's the matter with that WU-Shock, giving all that information to old Bearcat," bulldog went on, "he doesn't even play fair."

Newman Club Slate Lecture for Sunday

Father Raymond Nogar will speak to Newman Club members and interested students, faculty and staff at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The topic of Father Nogar's talk will be "The Wisdom of Evolution." The meeting will be held in Area 9 of the CAC.

Tickets for tomorrow's St. Louis game can be picked up from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. today in the Field House ticket office.

A student may pick up four tickets with ID cards as has been the procedure on the past games.

Shocks Play In Billiard Tournament

The University's entries in the recent Region 8 College Union Association's billiards and bowling tournaments fared quite well.

Competitors from many colleges and Universities in the four state area of Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and Iowa joined in the competition last week, at the State University of Iowa.

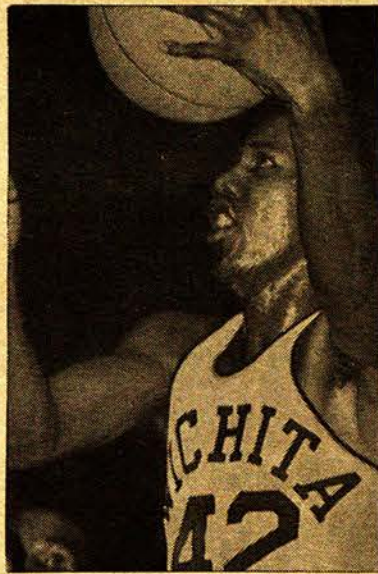

Junior Herb Krumsick, who is an end on the varsity football team, tackled a sport requiring a softer touch, billiards; and emerged champion in Region 8 competition. He will represent the Region in national competition at Tucson, Ariz., later this spring.

The University's men's and women's bowling teams met tough competition, but placed high in the final standings. The men's team finished 5th in team competition in a field of 16 entries. The University of Nebraska captured the team title. Members of the University's men's bowling team are: Jim Morrison, Charles Kopetzky, Bruce Fischer, Albert West, and Tom Bartley.

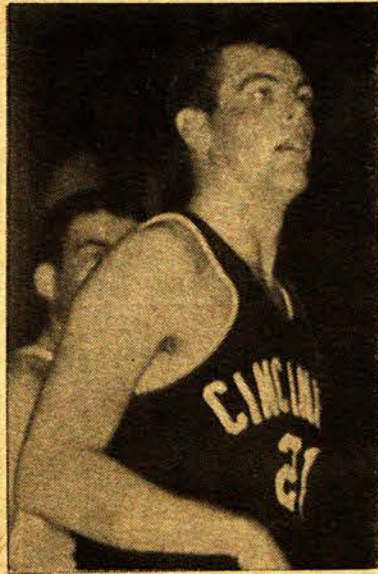

The University's women's bowling team finished fifth, also, in team competition. Iowa State won first place in the field of eight.

Members of the women's team are: Susan Loudenslager, Marcia Lawrence, JoAnn Randels, Ronnie Shelly, and Karen Duncan. Miss Randel's performance during the regional competition earned her the position of 1st alternate on the regional team that will compete in the national play-offs later this year. The WU coed will receive an all-expense paid trip to Minneapolis for the finals.

Ralph Lafever, CAC recreation director accompanied the Wichita competitors to the regional meet.

Shocker Baseball to Resume Following 2 Years Inactivity

The University's first varsity baseball team in three years will begin work-outs on March 16, coach Lanny Van Eman said this week. The first game on the 17 game spring schedule is slated for March 26 at Lawrence Stadium when the baseball Shockers will meet Kearny State Teachers, of Kearny, Nebr.

Van Eman emphasized that anyone wanting to play baseball should contact him at the basketball office as soon as possible. At a meeting called earlier this month, 29 students indicated a definite interest in playing baseball this spring. There will be no scholarships offered in baseball this year, but it is hoped that the program can begin to form and grow in size and popularity.

Games have been scheduled with college teams from the four state area of Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, and Iowa. A home and home series with the University of Tulsa will provide one of the highlights of the season, as that ancient rivalry on the diamond will again be renewed.

A trip to Louisville and competition in the Missouri Valley tournament will culminate the season for the Shockers. The winner of that tournament will represent this conference in the NCAA baseball regionals. The Louisville tourney, May 7, 8, and 9, will bring together teams from all of the conference schools, except North Texas State, which has no baseball program.

Coach Van Eman has literally been taking the school's baseball equipment out of moth-balls. He reports that some of the uniforms are in less than good condition, but that enough flannel will be found to outfit the 16-17 man squad that he plans to suit-up for games.

A number of athletes who are on football and basketball scholarships are reported interested in playing baseball. Van Eman says that three of the positions on his pitching staff likely will be filled by basketballer Vern Smith, and football players Tim Bishop and Jim Vining.

Jim Sickler, the football punting specialist, will try-out at catcher, and Pete DiDinato and Sam Lafaso, football back-field men, will try their hand at playing baseball in the infield.

Although freshmen are not eligible for varsity baseball competition, Van Eman notes that there are several talented yearlings on campus that could be counted on for active duty next year.

Physical examinations for those trying out for baseball will be given beginning at 7:45 a.m., Feb. 29 at the Fieldhouse.

Student Tells of School in Persia

By WILLIS C. JACKSON, Desk Editor

"The emphasis is put on scholastic endeavors rather than social ones in my country," stated Al Raisdana, Engineering senior, from Persia.

"In Persia the school year is not based on the semester system, but on a yearly one. In junior and senior high school, every student is required to take 21 different subjects during the regular school year, which consists of 9 months," he explained.

"The students have to study because each student has to pass all these courses before he can go to the next grade.

"The grading system in Persia is based on a 20-point system: 20-17 points, is equal to an 'A'; 16-14 points, a 'B'; 13-10 points, a 'C'; 10-7 points, a 'D'; and below 7 points, is equal to an 'F'.

"Even failure of one course prohibits the student from going to the next grade," Raisdana further stated. For instance, if a student's overall average for a year is 10 points (C), but he failed one or more courses during that year. He may study the course or courses failed that year during the summer, and at the beginning of the next school year take a test to make-up for the grade.

If the student does not get at least a "D" on the test, he cannot go to the next grade, he continued.

"I was anticipating going into the medical profession, and studied extensively for the college entrance examination. Upon taking the test, I found out afterwards that I did not pass it, so therefore I decided to come to the U.S. to go to school instead of taking the severe entrance test in my country again," he expounded.

"The government of Persia pays full tuition and college expenses except books, but one must pass this severe entrance test before entering a university," Raisdana injected.

"Conflict among the various races in the U.S. struck me as the most peculiar situation when I first arrived. Because everyone in Iran is the same color, there is no such thing as race prejudice, and I never thought of such a thing before coming here," he stated.

After coming to the United States from Tehran, Iran, four and one half years ago, Raisdana attended Berkeley University in California, and Coffeyville College in Coffeyville, Kans., before coming to the University.

Raisdana is working towards a bachelor degree in engineering. He is also president of the University International Club. He enjoys sports such as soccer, ping pong, and volley ball, plus ice skating and skiing.

Mr. Landon, a tenor, will sing a number of pieces including "Corazon, Porque Pasais?" and "Del Cabello Mas Sutil" by Fernando Obrados, "Blumengruss" by Hugo Wolf, and the arias "De Miei Ballenti Spiriti" from "La Traviata" by Giuseppe Verdi.

The Educational Television series "Ideas in Action" will appear at noon Sunday with a program "Lantern from the Past," over KARD-TV. Host Charles Pearson, editorial writer for the Wichita Eagle and Beacon, will feature special guest John Ripley, president of the Kansas State Historical Society.

Ripley and Pearson, who own the largest collection of illustrated song slides in the world, will explore the society which gave rise to the nickelodeon, the Edison talking machine, and illustrated song slides. The program will delve into what these things were, how they were used, and what happened to the illustrated song slide.

Panhellenic Council To Hold Open Rush

The spring sorority open rush is now in progress, according to Virginia Schoonover, Panhellenic Council president.

Any coed who is enrolled in 12 or more hours at the University with a 2.2 overall grade point is eligible.

Registration for open rush is being taken in the Student Service Office, Morrison Hall. Sororities are entertaining unaffiliated women at informal gatherings in order to select second semester pledge classes.

"Registering for open rush in no way obligates a coed to pledge if asked nor does it insure that she will be asked. However, she can enjoy meeting new people and sororities want to know who is interested in Greek life," Miss Schoonover said.

WU Debators Win 1st Place At McPherson

Bill Balthrop and Bob Glenn placed first in debate at the McPherson College Forensic Tournament last weekend in McPherson, Kans., according to Bobby Patton, head debate coach.

Twenty-nine colleges competed in the tournament, including schools from Kans., Nebr., and Mo.

Balthrop and Glenn defeated Washburn in the final round, making them the only undefeated team in the tournament. This is the third consecutive weekend these two team members have won trophies.

The other two tournaments were the Baylor University Debate Tournament in Waco, Texas, and in the Rocky Mountain Forensic Tournament, Denver, Colorado.

Bob Smith and Keith Williamson won three rounds and lost two, and Pam McMasters and Sandy Swanson won two rounds and lost three.

This weekend two teams will compete at the University of Nebraska, Omaha, Nebr. The teams will consist of Bill Balthrop and Bob Glenn, and Pam McMasters and Sandy Swanson.

"Christian Science shows that the divine Mind gives each of us the intelligence first to obtain and retain, and then to express clearly whatever knowledge we need in our careers. In this respect, a spiritual understanding of God is unquestionably the intellect's best friend.

"This understanding keeps the intellect original and enterprising; it also keeps it wise and balanced; even more important, it protects the brain from the pressures of a personal sense of intelligence, and the nervous system from the pressures of animality," Blimmer has said.

A discussion period will follow the lecture. All students are invited to attend.
