Renowned Scientist To Speak at Convo

Dr. Pronko, head of the psychology department, refers to Dr. Harlow Shapley, one of the foremost astronomers in the world, as the "Geographer of the Universe."

Dr. Shapley, who will speak at a convocation to be held from 10:30-11:30 a.m. Thursday in the Fieldhouse, is the scientist who established our position on the edge of the Milky Way. He measured the diameter (100,000 light years) of the Milky Way as a galaxy, through determination of the distances of outlying globular star clusters and cluster-type variables.

Other contributions which Dr. Shapley has made toward furthering man's knowledge of the universe include the discovery of a galaxy, the Sculptor type, hitherto unknown. He also discovered that the center of the galaxy is some 25,000 light years distant from the earth in the direction of Sagittarius, thus showing the eccentric position of the earth and sun in the stellar universe. These are only a few of his many contributions to science.

Dr. Shapley, an author of many books and articles, has speculated on the possibility of life elsewhere. According to his theory, it is actually more probable that there is other life, rather than there being no life on other planets. This possibility raises many interesting theological and philosophical questions which are often disputed.

Dr. Shapley, who was educated at Carthage Academy, the University of Missouri (degrees of A.B. and A.M.) and Princeton University (A.M. and Ph. D.), has been awarded honorary degrees by seventeen universities, some of which are: Delhi, Honolulu, Toronto, Copenhagen, Princeton and Harvard. He has also been made Honorary Foreign Member of the academies of ten foreign countries and has been awarded medals by the Vatican, India, Mexico, England, and France.

Dr. Shapley, "Geographer of the Universe," is a very lively, enthusiastic speaker who makes astronomy interesting to the layman.

Symphony Tickets Available Tomorrow in Music Office

Tickets to the Wichita Symphony concerts Nov. 1 and 2 featuring renowned pianist, Byron Janis, will be available to University students upon presentation of ID cards beginning tomorrow at the Fine Arts Center Office.

Janis gave his first public recital at the age of fifteen, he appeared with the NBC Symphony under the baton of Frank Black. The following year Vladimir Horowitz undertook to guide him. Horowitz was of the opinion that "talented people must be guided rather than taught." It has often been commented that Janis' technique is peculiarly his own.

Students are urged to obtain their tickets to the Sunday and Monday concerts as early as possible. The number available is limited, and there is no additional charge.

Film Society To Present Third Movie

The third film in a series of movies presented by the Wichita Film Society will be seen at 8 p.m. tomorrow, in the Duerksen Fine Arts Center Auditorium.

Only 2,156 Tickets?

It's taxation without representation at least. The football season is bound to close soon, and when it does the basketball ticket season will begin. The athletic department has allotted students, 9,000 of us, a whopping 2,156 tickets. With odds like these getting a ticket turns out to be as big a sport as basketball.

The athletic department has many fold excuses for this gross injustice to students. They point to statistics that point out, rather stupidly, that last year students did not utilize all the tickets allotted them for any game. In the first place we have grown just a bit in number and in the second place most students don't want to run the gauntlet of the three-line system to get tickets. Waiting in line for a basketball ticket can get pretty rough when it takes you two hours to go from 90th in line to 120th.

It is obvious that distribution procedures are one of the major drawbacks to the present student ticket system. There are all kinds of solutions. One is to have alternating games so that every student would have a chance to see half the games. Tickets would be given to all those with ID numbers ending in an even number one time and the next time the odds would get to see the Shockers play. This might work, but then students would be guaranteed that when they paid their activity fee at registration they would be getting clipped for half their athletic money.

Another suggestion is to dispense tickets alphabetically. However, if your name is Allen and your date's name is Zinola, it's going to be a lonely basketball game.

SGA, in a resolution passed last Tuesday night, seemed to feel that a partial solution would be to utilize the block system for student seating. This catches the independent students from both sides. The Greeks can get tickets in their blocks, but if they miss out they can still go down on their own and compete with the independents. This is assuming that only the Greeks would be eligible for block seating. However, if all 86 campus organizations were made eligible, it might spell doom for their effectiveness.

As Keith Thompson, SGA election commissioner accurately pointed out, students would be joining organizations just to get basketball tickets and when the season came to an end the memberships would evaporate leaving the groups helpless to carry out many of their plans.

The one really plausible suggestion was made at the SGA meeting by Fred Funk, who simply thought the best plan would be to press for more student seats. This is of course countered by the athletic department's statement that season tickets have already been sold. And not only sold, season tickets are purchased with an option to buy next year.

The biggest evil of the entire procedure is that students are being taxed without there even being a chance for them to use the tickets they pay for. This University is an institution of higher education. Only a few students participate in the big business of varsity athletics, but everybody pays, including those who will reap no benefit.

Inside SGA Model 'U.N.' Development

By WILLIS C. JACKSON, News Editor

Wichita State University will represent Costa Rica at the Mid-West Model United Nations annual convention to be held this spring in St. Louis.

WSU, through the Student Government Association, is a member of the Mid-West Model United Nations, which is affiliated with the Collegiate Council for the United Nations.

CCUN is a national student organization open to all students in which they can express their support and belief in the United Nations. CCUN is devoted to building student support for the United Nations. The Collegiate Council is organized on a nation-wide basis of individual college affiliates with regional and state divisions. CCUN members are formed into local affiliates on the various campuses.

WSU has, in the past two years, participated in the CCUN program of the Mid-West Model United Nations. This year the University will represent Costa Rica. Expenses will be incurred by the Student Government Association.

The University will send five delegates to represent WSU. This is a convenient way to divide it up because of the five committees organized within the Council. In each committee, a delegate will present a draft resolution which is thought to be in the alignment of the views of Costa Rica. Each delegate will present and ask that some action be taken toward this view.

Applications are now available for students interested in representing WSU at the Mid-West Convention.

Applicants will be screened and delegates will be announced at the Student Government Association meeting Tuesday evening, Nov. 4. Five alternates will be chosen in case one of the first five is not able to attend.

Students Needed For Sunflower

The Sunflower needs you! All University students are invited to work on the Sunflower doing filing and reporting. No applications are necessary.

Those people who are interested should come to Rm. 005, Wilner Auditorium between 1 and 5 p.m. today, Wednesday and Friday.

The Readers Speak

To the Editor:

I read with interest the editorial in the October 6, 1964 issue concerning library hours. I think the subject should be extended a little further.

Not only the policy of closing the library 10-20 minutes before the stated closing time and the 10 p.m. closing hour need revising, but a close look should be given to the "days" the library is open or perhaps more correctly said, "not open."

A considerable number of students attending the University live in Wichita and hold regular jobs. Most of the students categorized are married and have families. It is possible for some of these students to live as much as 10-12 miles from the campus and still be in the city limits, to say nothing of those that live in neighboring cities.

Now these people regularly drive to the University two or three times per week to attend class. To get to the library after work on the other nights available to them and accomplish anything before the early closing hour of 10 p.m. is almost impossible, to say nothing of the traveling expense in both time and money.

Therefore, the library time for these students must come on weekends and holidays. However, if he finds the door locked or it is a holiday like Thanksgiving or Christmas, it is not open at all or if it is, it is during the hours he has to work, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

I suggest that both the days and hours during which the library is open need a very serious revision. If not, then change the name from "Ablah Library" to "Alibi for a Library."

"Any guy who spends as much time outdoors as I do really needs 'Chap Stick,'" says the Chicago Bears' star center. "For me, it's a necessity. What with the real raw Sundays on the field, hot summer practice, and winter skiing off-season, my lips used to get weatherbeaten twelve months a year. But a couple of swipes with 'Chap Stick' and my lips feel great—it helps heal them fast!"

Army and Air Force Units Combine to Paint Armory

The old becomes the new as the Army and Air Force ROTC units combined their efforts in the joint project of painting the Armory.

Both ROTC departments have Derrell Dowdy, respectively, and been revitalized by being part of the switching of departmental systems the state system; new professors came, the Army from the "battle" of Military Science and Air Science, to the "brigade" and the Air Force Lt. Col. Donald Seem and Maj. from the "group" to the "Wing."

There are 350 men in the Army Brigade and a total of 660 men in the Air Force Wing.

"This is the central agency from which over 1000 male students receive their Reserve Officers Training and this total is approximately one third of all the 3,034 male full-time students," according to Maj. Dowdy.

It's not quite as simple as borrowing a cup of sugar from the neighbor, but just as effective. KG&E is working with its good neighbors, the other investor-owned electric utilities, to provide dependable service and hold rates down. Electric demand comes in peaks and valleys for all utility companies, but they occur at different times. KG&E has ample generating equipment to satisfy these peak loads. Through interconnections with other electric companies we can also call on our neighbors for additional electricity when and if necessary. The map below shows how interconnecting, transmission lines allow KG&E to buy and sell power. The operating economies effected, have helped keep electrical rates down...and the pool guarantees power in an emergency. ## ROTO-ROOTER

Times and Tides Goldwater: What Manner of Man?

Issues of Today

Editor's Note: The expressions in this column are those of the writer, and the interpretations and opinions therein are not necessarily those of the Sunflower or of the University.

By ROGER ROOT, L. A. Senior

President Johnson has described his opponent in this campaign as "a raving, ranting demagogue." Is that an accurate description of the man?

In West Virginia Barry Goldwater told third generation relief recipients that the current "war on poverty," consisting of a billion dollars spread around Appalachia, will do practically nothing toward eliminating poverty. This he told to those who would receive the great "dole."

In Tennessee, where it is supposed to be political suicide to attack the T. V. A., he reaffirmed his proposal to sell certain T. V. A. appendages, such as fertilizer plants, to private owners.

In Texas, he spoke at Fort Worth where General Dynamics is building the TFX fighter aircraft with a $6 billion government contract. What did he tell the citizens of Fort Worth? He told them that the TFX contract was "politically oriented," and that it should have gone to Boeing in Seattle, a company which, Sen. Goldwater and Rep. Shriver believed to be in a position to make a better plane.

What manner of man is this candidate for the presidency who has appointed a man by the name of "Burch" to the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee? Wouldn't a man named "Jones" have been politically safer?

Noel Coward's words are appropriate: "It is discouraging to think how many people are shocked by honesty and how few by deceit." Yes, the man Goldwater seems extreme, because he happens to be extremely honest.

John Chamberlain has written: "Senator Goldwater's honesty, which transcends the call of duty, recalls that of John Stuart Mill in Victorian times. When he was campaigning for the English Parliament in 1865, Mill was confronted by a group of workingmen who asked him if he had authored a quote that said 'the lower classes, though mostly habitual liars, are ashamed of lying.' Mill looked the workingmen in the eye and said, 'I did.' Whereupon they cheered him and voted for him—and he won his seat in Commons."

Wichita State Shockers Bow To Arkansas U Razorbacks

The Wichita State Shockers bowed to the University of Arkansas Razorbacks Saturday in a 0-17 decision.

Coach for the Shockers, Chelo Huerta, analyzed the loss to be due to Arkansas having a well drilled ball club, and the fact that Wichita players made too many offensive mistakes by missing their assignments.

Although Coach Huerta said he didn't hand out any compliments after the game, he did say that "I'm real proud that the boys hit for 60 good minutes."

The Arkansas defense with Ronny Caveness and Ronny Mac Smith leading the Porkers seemed to know everything the Shockers were going to do. The Hog's offense was contained very well by Wichita, except for a long run by AU's quarterback Fred Marshal.

Wichita's punt specialist Jim Sickler did a fine job for us by having none of his kicks returned, which was very desirable since Ken Hatfield is one of the best punt return specialists in college football. Jim kicked one punt out of bounds on the Arkansas five yard line. Sickler now has had only 18 yards gained by the opposition after kicking 31 punts this year.

Shocks that did well on defense were Herb Krumsick, who had four tackles and 6 assists, Pete Mills tackled four times and assisted five. Tony Penelton hit real good and snagged eight tackles and one assist.

Gerald Moernor did an outstanding job replacing injured Chuck Sirianni at the guard spot. Moernor, making his first appearance for the season, made six tackles and helped out on two more.

Our linebackers also did their best to contain the Hogs. In on many tackles were Waskiewicz, Horvath, and Koslich.

In the leading ball carriers department of WSU were Pete Di-Danoto who ran 13 times for 41 yards, and Ray Patterson who ran 9 times for 26 yards.

The Razorbacks gained on total offense 293 yards, while Wichita achieved only 121 yards.

There was a lot of talk in the Wichita camp about the officiating, which looked to be a little one sided. Coach Huerta referred to one of the gentlemen as "a joke."

Huerta sighted two instances when the officials were off course. One was a piling on after the whistle penalty, which was questionable since our boy held up and just barely touched the ball carrier.

The other incident was an un-sportsmen like conduct penalty called on Howard Starks. Starks asked the official to "please watch for clipping." The official made the decision and marked the ball, which saw Arkansas get half the distance to the goal, and set up the second Razorback score.

Mr. Huerta asked the referee what language Howard had used. He replied that no foul language was used but he "Just didn't like the tone of voice" Starks had said it in.

Geneticists Deny 'Pure Races' Exist

By TERRY BURNS, Staff Reporter

Modern geneticists maintain that the evidence is against the existence of distinctly differentiated "pure races" of man, either now or at any time in the past.

According to a text on differential psychology by Anne Anastasi, professor of psychology at Fordham University, "Genetic differences between human races are not absolute but relative."

Human races are populations that differ only in relative frequency of certain genes." The author continues, "As a result any racial group will exhibit variations in hereditary physical characteristics but will also overlap with other populations in these same characteristics."

Thus, there is some support in the literature which backs up a recent report by an international group of scientists who assert that there is no justification for claiming racial superiority of one group over another.

The scientists' report further stated, "It has never been proved that interbreeding has necessary biological disadvantages for mankind as a whole. The biological consequences of a marriage depend only on the individual genetic makeup of the couple and not on their race. Therefore, no biological justification exists for prohibiting intermarriage between persons of different races or for advising against it on racial grounds."

In connection with this, Professor Anastasi writes, "An assertion that hybrids tend to be inferior to either parent stock and that race mixture in itself is detrimental is contrary to the findings of both biology and psychology.

Cross-breeding experiments with animals, for example, have generally provided evidence for what biologists call "hybrid vigor." Far from being inferior, hybrids tend to manifest greater biological strength. Both historical and anthropological studies of human populations likewise lend no support to the belief that race mixture leads to deterioration."
