advice he would not give if he had had more experience. That is not the thought of. Parson's offer is the strong point in all my appeals this year & has been of vast good before the public. Gradually the public are getting the idea that we have something of value at P.C. & Parson's offer is the chief evidence. For 4 yrs. Washburn has opposed & tried us down, aided by the Chief Cong'l journal in New England. Kansas is dissatisfied & it is hard work to interest people in her. But slowly indeed, but surely I am gaining a constituency that will stick.

Cordially,

Worship
